WEST-CENTRAL PLAY TIE GAME

On a muddy, slippery field Saturday forenoon West High school and Central High played to a scoreless tie at the West Side A. C. gridiron. Each team had a chance to score, but failed to put the ball over the goal.

Central's chance came in the third quarter when the ball was on West's 10-yard line, but West held until the fourth down. Dud Stock, Central star, then tried a drop-kick from the 20-yard line, but failed.

In the fourth quarter a pass from Florio to Chinn was ruled complete when a Central man interfered with Chinn as he was about to receive the ball. This gave the ball to West on Central's 15-yard line. Florio, on the next play, took the ball through center to the two-yard line, but in her four attempts West failed ot put the ball over.

In the last quarter, Carey, West's fullback was forced out of the game with a sprained wrist. Nelson, Central halfback, sustained an injury to his right shoulder which put him out of play.

The day of small home building is here!

HOW long have you been paying rent? Let's take as an example a man who pays $50 a month rent, for say, eighteen years. In that time he will have paid out $10,800 in rent. The interest on this amount comes to $5,832. At the end of eighteen years he has paid in rent and interest $16 632 and doesn't own a blade of grass or a nail. The same man could have bought a home for $5,000, financed it, paid it out in eighteen years, for over $3,000 less than what he paid on the rental basis—and would have the home to show for his efforts.

After you have a home of your own, you find as the years go by that you have a lot more in it than just the building materials. You have comfort and convenience; you have memories and happiness. Your children have something real to look back to, and to inspire them, after they grow up.

Your dealer can help you. He knows the building material business; he knows conditions, and he can advise you all along the line—and help you save money. Get his advice.

You'll do better at Seiller's after all.

It is not what the world calls success that brings happiness but a contented heart that does not connote egotism and self-satisfaction nor a divorce from ambition. It means developing the habit of rejoicing that you are alive, and have friends to serve, and work to do, and the conviction that what you are becoming makes a difference to God and His world.

Keep climbing up the ladder; but drink deep of the joys that are to be found from day to day amid the routine of life, instead of living in the fatuous expectation that you will know real happiness only when you arrive at the top—Frederick G. Budlong.

CHARCOAL

Charcoal is the form of amphorous carbon obtained by strongly heating wood. If required for fuel it can be obtained by the partial combustion of wood in heaps. The wood, cut into convenient and uniform lengths, is systematically piled in a mound-shaped heap with provision made for draft. The mound is covered with earth, except a small opening at the top. This is a charcoal kiln. When completed it is fired, and by means of slow combustion the wood is converted into charcoal, which is usually almost dead black in color and much lighter in weight than wood. That is the old way of producing charcoal.

ALASKAN "DOG CAR"

Almost every conceivable type of transportation is used to move the mails—railroads, steamboats, automobiles, airplanes, motor boats, wagons, horses, pneumatic tubes, belt conveyors, motorcycles, bicycles, the sled of the arctic and even the "dog car," the Detroit News says.

The "dog car" is an Alaskan invention. An abandoned railroad runs out of Nome to a mining camp. The enterprising arctic circle mail man hitches his dog team to a hand-car and scoots up the mountain side with the post.

The Makwa Dam of the Nile in the British Sudan, the greatest water barrel in the world, was completed seven weeks before schedule time. The dam will provide watering a large area which will be utilized in cotton production. This will cause the American cotton producer to look to their laurels for their supremacy in cotton-producing. Last year's trade report showed America in the lead in this industry, with India second and Egypt third.

2184 Land Transfers in County Last Month

There were 2184 parcels of land transferred in Franklin county last month, as compared with 2188 for the same month last year. County Auditor Thatched reported Saturday. Fees for the transfers showed a slight decrease from $208.80 to $198.45.

Among last month's business Auditor Thatcher reported eight new subdivisions, with a total of 1108 parcels while there were also eight new additions in October, 1924, but with only 796 parcels.

The biggest day's business last month was 377 parcels, as against 158 a year ago. The smallest was 26, as against 35.

A TRUE STORY

Recently while passing through Burlington, Ohio, a nicely located little town a few miles above Ironton, on the Ohio river, I was interested in seeing now and then among the pretty homes an old, old, weather beaten house occupied by colored people.

Upon inquiry I gathered this bit of history. At the close of the Civil war a wealthy slave owner of West Virginia crossed the river at this point, purchased a tract of land, subdivided it, built a home for each family of his freed slaves, gave them a deed to it, a cow and horse, a well filled purse and implements with which to till the soil. He personally superintended bringing them to their future home, and when on the way his favorite slave, Hannah, gave birth to a baby boy, he named him "Traveler." He started with 37 slave-born, "Traveler" making a proud addition to the colony as he was just one, but free-born.

I was told that only "Traveler" and two others of the original company are now living.

Later I met an old lady who vouched for the story, and said her own uncle, William Bay, was the noble, kind-hearted slave owner.

M. M. Marshall.

OLD PIONEER DAYS
Stories of the Early Days of the Pioneers of This Section. Lucas Sullivant and Party.

In 1822 there was a very remarkable exodus of the gray and black squirrels, their number was legion, traveling southward, impelled by some unknown instinct; but why south, who can tell? But out of the many thousands that were killed, there was scarcely one or more large grubs, or "worbles," as they were then called, burrowing under the skin, which must have been both troublesome and painful, and was probably the moving cause of their migration. These grubs were undoubtedly the larvae of some gadfly which had attacked them in their forest homes. Whatever was the cause, they continued for many days, and even weeks to advance in vast numbers, and nothing stayed them in their course until the arrived at the Ohio river, and countless numbers were drowned in attempting to swim that stream. In their advance they invaded even the houses, and made such havoc in the corn fields that it was deemed a public necessity to put a stop to it, if possible, and, as a curiosity, as well as a confirmation of the above, the following is taken from the Columbus Gazette of Aug. 29, 1822:

"GRAND SQUIRREL HUNT"

"The squirrels are becoming so numerous in the county as to threaten serious injury, if not total destruction to the crops of the farmer during the ensuing fall. Much good might be done by a general turnout of all citizens whose convenience will permit for three days, in order to prevent the ravages of these mischevious neighbors. It is therefore respectfully submitted to the different townships, each to meet and choose two or three of their citizens to meet in a hunting caucus, at the home of Christian Heil, on Saturday, the 31st, at 2 p. m. Should the time above stated prove too short for the townships to hold meetings, as above recommended, the following persons are respectfully nominated and invited to attend the meeting at Columbus." Then follows a list of names of men to represent each township in the county.

"In case any township should be unrepresented in the meeting, those present will take the liberty of nominating suitable persons for said absent townships. Lucas Sullivant, Samuel G. Flenniken, John A. McDowell, Ralph Osborne, Gustav Swan, Christian Heil."

This meeting was well attended and instructions issued for a two and a half days' hunt, the result to be determined at 3 p. m. of the third day. The place of meeting was to be at the mouth of the Whetstone (Olentangy), eastern side. The hunters on the west side of the Scioto river and Whetstone are pitted against those on the east side, and the stake was a barrel of whisky, to be paid for by the losing side.

At the time appointed the squirrel scalps were brought in, judges, or umpires, appointed, of which Mr. Sullivant was one, and the count commenced, when it was found that, although many hunters failed to come to time, 10,066 scalps were produced.

The contest was decided in favor of the Franklinton side by some five or six thousand scalps, and, amid the cheers of the victors in this novel contest, the head of the barrel was knocked in, and 40 gallons of whisky found its way down the throats of the thirsty crowd in a marvelously short time.

PLINY'S DOVES

Flat bowls of white marble or alabaster with carved doves perched upon the rim are familiar to many, who known them by the name of "Pliny's doves." But why the bowls are made like this and how they got their name is not so well known.

Pliny wrote, a bout two thousand years ago, describing a beautiful mosaic, "At Pergamos is a wonderful specimen of a dove drinking, and darkling the water with the shadow of his head; on the lips of the vessel are other doves pluming themselves." In 1737 a mosaic answering to this description was found in Hadrian's villa near Trivoli. It may not be that which Pliny admired at Pergamos, for the Romans, when they corld not get a work of art which they admired, often had it copied, but it certainly resembles that described by the Roman author so long ago, and is called "Pliny's doves." This mosaic, says Lorinda Bryant, in "Famous Pictures of Real Animals," is made of pieces of natural stone so tiny that it take a hundred and sixty to cover a square inch.

The idea of the drinking birds took a firm hold on the fancy of many stone workers, and has resulted in large numbers of carved bowls and doves, although the bowl of marble and alabaster are usually more shallow than that in the mosaic.

OHIO A STATE OF HOME OWNERS

Columbus Ranks Fourth Among Seven Larger Cities of Ohio in Home Ownership.

Ohio's prosperity is attributable to the ceaseless thrift and industry of her early citizens. The sons of these same hardy pioneers today are performing more mighty tasks of production, for their efforts are now multiplied by steam, electricity, high speed machinery and every known labor saving device.

The magic of their intelligently directed endeavors applied to the land and its resources has given to Ohio a total wealth that exceeds that of the entire United States of 75 years ago.

No state in the union surpasses Ohio in the feeling of co-operation and mutual benefit which has grown up in recent years between labor and capital.

This is due in great measure to the act that Ohio is becoming a state of home owners. The realtor is working with the employer in providing homes for workers, 52.4 per cent of Ohio families owning their own homes.

The percentage of home owners in the seven Ohio cities of over 100,000 are: Akron, 44.7; Cincinnati, 28.7; Cleveland, 35.1; Columbus, 36.6; Dayton, 41.9; Toledo, 49.4; Youngstown, 47.8.

Toledo and Youngstown are among the five cities which showed the greatest growth in home ownership between the years 1900 and 1920.

The city with the lowest rate of home owners is Manhattan Borough where, according to the department of commerce, 95.6 per cent of the families are tenants.

Bob left the farm and got a job in the city. He wrote a letter to his brother bill, who elected to stick to the farm. In this letter he told of the joys of the city life: "Thursday we autoed out to the Country Club, where we golfed until dark. Then we motored to the beach for the week end."

The brother on the farm wrote back: "Yesterday we buggied to town and baseballed all the afternoon. Today we muled out to the cornfield and ge-hawed until sundown. After that we supperred. After that we staircased up to our room and bed-steaded until the clock fived."—Pittsburgh Christian Advocate.

A proposed airplane service for passengers, mail and express, linking Northern and South America and Key West, Florida, has been projected. Passengers, mail, and merchandise will be transported across Guatemala by rail to the Caribbean port of Puerto Barrios, from which point airplane service will be continued to Havana and Key West.

There are about 1400 orphan asylums on the United States. They house 150,000 children. Their institutions represent an investment of about $200,000,000 and expend annually from $50,000,000 to $60,000,000. Dr. R. R. Reeder, who is a recognized leader in institutional care of children, says that the number of asylums should be reduced and more orphan children placed in homes.

The first typewriter was built by William Austin Burt in 1829, and the patent given to him by the United States patent office bears the names of Andrew Jackson and Martin Van Buren. The typewriter was William Burt's most notable invention, but it, was not a financial success and was never put on the market. It failed not because of any real fault, but merely because it was half a century ahead of its time.

The marriage of Miss Edith Ellen Gray and Mr. George Le Cras of Cleveland was solemnized Monday in the chapel of Trinity Episcopal church, Third and Broad streets, Rev. H. F. Chauncey officiating. TWO INTERESTING POTATO DISHES

There are many good dishes to be made from the Irish potato. While new potatoes are generally served with butter and parsley sauce, the old ones may be used in some of the following dishes:

Potato Roll

Pare and boil two pounds of potatoes, and when tender mash them smooth. Add a generous lump of butter, salt, the beaten yolks of three eggs, a teaspoonful of sugar, a little mace and grating of nutmeg, and a wineglass of home made wine or grape juice. Turn onto a floured board, dust thickly with fine bread crumbs, form into a roll, place in a buttered baking platter, and cook in the oven 15 minutes. Serve in the dish it is baked in with a cream sauce. Garnish with meat cakes or chicken croquettes.

Potato Curls

Pare as many potatoes as are needed and let them stand an hour in cold water. Take a sharp knife and cut the potatoes as you would pare an apple, in spiral fashion around and around, not too thin. Dust the curls with salt after frying them in hot fat. These curls make an attractive garnish for meat dishes.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my full appreciation of all kindnesses shown my husband during his continued illness and death; also to thank all friends and neighbors who contributed so liberally and thoughtfully to our comfort.

METHODS OF CARING FOR HOSIERY

Hosiery is an important feature in the wardrobe of the well dressed woman. The number of pairs of stockings that she has to have is surprisingly large. There must be pairs to match shoes and others to match dresses. There must also be hosiery that contrasts with shoes and that will harmonize pleasingly with costumes.

It is fortunate that the cost of having many pairs of stockings does not actually increase the expense of the footwear during a season, though it certainly does mean a larger sum spent at first. When a woman has numerous stockings the wear on any one pair is not very great and the expense is distributed. This is a satisfying thought, for what woman is there who does not delight in dainty footwear? To find it is not an extravagance is delightful.

If the cost is not increased the care of the hosiery is, however. It is something of a problem to know just what to do with the many pairs of stockings. A special compartment built in a closet that solves the difficulty. If you have neither of these desirable arrangements here are some suggestions that have been found excellent.

To avoid hunting for just the correct shade of stocking to go with any special pair of shoes, roll the right shoes up carefully and slip one stocking on the toe of each shoe. This will help keep the shoe in shape and facilitate quick dressing. This is an idea well worth using when packing for a trip. If you have to dress en route, or hastily after arriving at a destination, you will be glad of using this hint.

Stockings that have been worn once or twice one rather hesitates to lay away in a drawer or even to tuck in shoes unless the hosiery has been aired. A stocking rack is suggested. Use a small towel rod for the purpose. Screw it into the inside of the closet door. When you take off your stockings hang them over the rod, where they will soon air sufficiently to put away.

Fold stockings smoothly in the same way that they are kept in shops if you keep the hosiery in a bureau drawer. The foot should be turned back, making the line of the stocking straight, and then the length should be folded three times, starting with the foot portion. Stockings so folded will make neat piles.

Follow the crowd to Seiller's, the best place to shop after all.

Pageant to Be Given At Hoge Memorial

"Go Ye Therefore," a pageant, will be presented at the evening service of Hoge Memorial church at 7:30 Sunday evening, under the direction of Miss Ruth Merriman. W. H. Jones will direct the chorus throughout the pageant, with Miss Ethel Greiser at the organ and Mrs. H. G. Deems at the piano. The cast consists of 60 members. The program follows:

1. The Despairing Church.
2. The Freed Church.
3. The Church Triumphant.

Mrs. R. E. Shields, Miss Helen Hastings, George Matson, jr., Margaret Michel and Mrs. W. K. Merriman have the leading characters, with members of both the Sunday school and C. E. assisting.

LET CONTRACT FOR FOR W. HI ADDITION

Condemnations Proceedings to Appropriate Two Lots Approved.

The general contract for an addition to West High school was granted Monday by the board of education to Waugh-Hill Co., at $59,900. S. A. Erwin Co. received the heating, plumbing and vacuum cleaner contract for $21,280; Johnson Service Co., temperature regulation, $1558; C. W. Wing, electric work, $2416.36.

Proceedings to appropriate by condemnation two lots in the Camp Chase Heights addition were authorized by the board to complete the site of 10¾ acres for the new West High school. The lots are the property of Ella Tarpy and Hiram Daugherty, who refuse to sell. The remainder of the site was purchased from Frank E. Powell.

The appointment of H. L. Doughty, janitor, at John Burroughs school was approved by the board Monday.

The legislative committee of the Retail Grocers' association, which had asked the board for a conference concerning the closed luncheon periods in the senior high schools, asked for postponement of the meeting until 3:30 p. m. next Monday because of the illness of the secretary, Everett Williams.

EDUCATION WEEK AT WEST BROAD

For American Education Week the following program has been arranged at West Broad Street school.

Monday—Health Day. Fresh air, sleep and wholesome food make healthy children.

Tuesday—Thrift Day. Wise spending, as well as wise saving.

Wednesday—Our Country. What my flag means to me.

Thursday—Our Part in Our Country's Life. Am I a good citizen?

Friday—Parent's Day. The mother, the child's first teacher. Children, obey your parents.

At 2:30 Friday afternoon the Parent-Teacher Association meeting will be held, the teachers of the school giving the program.

WILL BEAUTIFY BANKS OF SCIOTO

Monday night city council decided to beautify the banks of the Scioto river owned by the City of Columbus by the planting of 3000 Japanese cherry trees.

Mayor Thomas was authorized to accept the offer of the mayor of Tokio to send the trees free of charge except for the transportation charges. Freight on them will amount to about $1000 for three carloads.

George Halliwill, aged 14, a patient at the Institution for Feeble-Minded, last Friday took "French leave" from the grounds of the institution and stole a coupe parked near by.

He drove west in Broad street, and, when a mile west of Alton, collided with a truck, badly damaging the coupe. Halliwell was cut and bruised and was brought to police station by Al Haft. He was later returned to the institution.

Highland P.-T. A.

The program of the Highland P.-T A. Tuesday evening was exceptionally interesting. Eileen Langstav spoke to the pupils, Miss Edna Smith for the teachers and Mrs. Cannon for the parents on the subject, "Literature for Our Youth." In her subject Miss Langstaff said that a pupil should be taught to enjoy good literature. She thought it a waste of time to read such magazines as True Stories, Snappy Stories, etc. Miss Smith emphasized the need of good book friends as well as good playmates.

The first seven years of a child's life are the most impressionable and it is during those years that right reading should be begun.

Mrs. Cannon gave a splendid list of books for children of different ages. She mentioned John Martin's book as an especially good magazine for family reading.

Reports of the Cincinnati convention were given by Mrs. Johnston and Mrs. Alspach.

Mrs. Ira Bradley and family, 40 S. Hague Ave., were called to the home of Mrs. Bradley's parents in Seaman, Ohio, last week on account of the death of her mother, Mrs. Ellis Washburn, who died suddenly of apoplexy, Sunday, Nov. 1.

Rev. W. L. Sanders of Shanghai, China, will speak at Glenwood M. E. church Sunday evening(Nov. 15, on the relation og United States to China. Western Christianity has been startled into a new interest in the whole matter of our presence in the Orient by recent development in China. Mr. Sanders is in great demand for his knowledge of this situation.

National Missions

At Hoge Memorial church today they are observing National Missions with an all-day meeting. At 2:30 the women held their meeting, at which a special program was given; at 6:15 a supper meeting with a special program, and at 7:30 T. A. Jones will preside as chairman and will present Dr. Joseph Owens of the "Far Northwest," a lumber jack, as the speaker, and W. H. Deems will show picture slides of National Mission work.

AUTO TAG SALE TO START DEC. 1

Price Less, But Formalities to Secure Tags Is Much Greater.

The sale of automobile licence tags for 1926 in Columbus will begin Dec. 1. While the cost of the tags will be about half of the prices charged in former years, the effort to obtain them will be much greater.

The Lipps automobile registration law, cut the price of the tags and imposed new formalities in securing them.

New prices for passenger cars are: $4 for cars of 25 horsepower or under; $6 for cars between 25 and 35 horsepower; and $10 for cars over 35 horsepower.

Licenses for trucks are priced in accordance with weight. Price is 70 cents per 100 pounds for the first 2500 pounds of weight; 90 cents per 100 pounds from 2500 to 6000 pounds, and $1 per 100 pounds for all weight above 6000 pounds.

Tags will probably be obtainable at the county auditor's office in the courthouse and at the Automobile club.

The Lipp law authorizes collection of a 15-cent fee by those who sell the tags. The county auditor must collect this fee and others may collect it.

In addition the Lipp law imposes other restrictions which may make the tags cost from 25 to 50 cents more and are expected to cause confusion.

The automobile owner must present with his application for tags "Proper bills of sale or sworn statement of ownership, the originals of which have been duly filed with the clerk of courts, or a certificate of the clerk of courts certifying that such bills of sale or sworn statements of ownership have been duly filed."

If motorists have lost these papers they can obtain the necessary certificates from the clerk of courts by paying a 25-cent fee.

The institution is a workingman's institution, primarily, which makes loans to workingmen without tangible security, and the 75 years record of industrial banks over the country have proven the plan to be a safe one.

The treasurer reported an increase of over 50 per cent in new business for October over any previous month, of which the Hilltop produced a large part.

All the directors of the institution are Columbus men.

Soldier Chaplain at Hillcrest Church

Rev. J. A. Cooper, the soldier chaplain in the World war, who during the greatest engagements was constantly under fire, will speak at Hillcrest Baptist church on Nov. 10, at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Cooper at the present time occupies an important pulpit in the middle west. Although a minister of the gospel, Cooper the Chaplain, recognized the fact that the first duty of the soldier was to fight, and he never showed fear in any conflict. He was not afraid to fight in the war, nor in peace does he fear to defend the principles in which he lives. He is on the platform for no other purpose except to say the things which he believes should be said. He is accurate in his observations and sure of his facts. All are invited. There will be no admission charge.

Library Notes

Celebrating the begining of the seventh Annual Children's Book Week, Nov. 8-16, library patrons on Monday took 345 books from the shelves. The majority of these were children's books. It is true that we need more juvenile stories, the kind that will be enjoyed, and that fit into child life. Sometimes a child will linger in the library an hour, hoping that the book which he long to read will come in. We have good books—many of the best that are printed, but those are never on the shelves, they are always out. The supply is not great enough. The Hilltop children are readers and demand good books.

The old books are popular as well as the new. Little Women and Little Men are juvenile immortals among books, although they were written not long after the Civil war. It has been well said that to attract children, a story must be full of color and event, or of real personal interest because it deals with characters that seem to live, or it must be full of mysterious rythm and jingle which holds the child's wide eyed attention.

Mothers, borrow from the Clean Hands Shelf at the library "Hollow Tree Stories" and read to your child about Mr. Turtle's flying adventure. Any little boy or girl would also like to hear about Giddy and the eagle in "The Handman's Mountain" by Dodge. That would be one way to observe Children's Book Week which is being celebrated by schools, churches, libraries and book houses all over the country.

Juvenile books as follows have been added:

De Musset—Mr. Wind and Madam Rain.
Seaman—Bluebonnet Bend.
Lofting—Doctor Dolittle's Zoo.
Baum—The Patchwork Girl of Oz.
Austin—The Basket Woman.
Roosevelt—Stories of the Great West.
Crump—The Boys' Book of Mounted Police.

The following adult fiction books have recently been added.

Babcock—The Soul of Ann Rutledge.
Fletcher—False Scent.
Harvey—The Mystery of the Hidden Room.
Abbott—The Sick-A-Bed Lady.

On the pay shelf has been placed:

Lea—The Dream Maker—man.
Burnham—The Lavarons.
Drago—The Snow Patrol.
Seltzer—Channing Comes Through.
Wren—Beau Geste.

Dr. L. D. Wolfe, H. B. Slater and W. G. Davis returned Tuesday night from a three weeks hunting trip near Sudberry, Ontorio, Canada. The result of some of their catch was on display in front of Slater's drug store Wednesday. They shot three deer—one buck and two does—and a bull moose weighting about 900 pounds. They report a foot of snow on the ground in that locality.

A LITTLE STORY THAT'S TRUE

During a recent visit to Huntington, W. Va., I had the sad, sweet privilege of kneeling by the grave of a half brother I loved so well when a child.

Captain Claudius Shaw, with his company of cavalry, was captured, taken first to Libby, and later to Andersonville prison, where he endured its horrors for 14 months. Through some strategy an influential friend in the North, with a well-filled purse of Confederate scrip, succeeded in bribing an official on guard—I don't recall which—and he and two of his men made their escape. The first night they made rapid strides in the direction of the Union army. They hid in the woods the next day and traveled a bit slower the following night. They were weak, emaciated and half starved when they started, and as they crept from their hiding place on the third night, stiff and hungry and with bleeding feet, and in a cold rain, they spied a barn at no great distance and a hay mow and decided to risk a night's shelter and rest.

They said to each other: If we are recaptured and die in prison our friends will learn of our fate, but if we die in these woods only the buzzards will know where our bones rot.

The next morning, the Confederate farmer coming out to feed his stock, found them there. He listened to their story and without saying a word went back to his house and returned with a pot of steaming coffee and a basket of eats. When he went away he locked the barn door. They very naturally thought he was holding them for the enemy in pursuit. For two days and nights he kept them locked in, but well supplied with food and drink. On the eve of the third night he unlocked the door and invited them to his house, saying "My wife and daughter want to see you Yankees."

The wife and daughter greeted them cordially and the young daughter became so much interested in the captain and his uniform that she asked him for a brass button for her memento box. He cut it off and gave it to her.

Then the sad-faced old Confederate said: "Boys, the reason why we have treated you as we have, and now turn you loose to join your own army, is that at Camp Chase, Columbus, my boy is a prisoner, and should he escape I'm praying that some one will do for him what we have done for you."

M. M. Marshall.

BUCKEYE STATE OWNS MUCH LAND

The state of Ohio owns 16,224 acres of land valued at 55 millions of dollars.

Six state universities and normal schools take up 4163 acres of land while the balance is used by penal, correctional and other state buildings, institutions and parks.

Ohio is the owner of many beautiful parks and properties of scenic or historical interest. Motorists will find pleasure in visiting the following places:

Buckeye Lake Park—Located in Licking, Fairfield and Perry counties.

St. Mary's Lake—Located in Mercer county

Indian Lake Park—Located in the northwestern part of Logan county.

Portage Lake Park—Located in Summit county, near Akron.

Loramie Lake Park—Located in the northwestern part of Shelby county.

Camp Perry—A state military park and rifle range in Ottowa county near Lake Erie.

The Wellington Game Farm—Located near Wellington, Lorain county.

The Roosevelt Game Preserve of 15,000 acres in Scioto county. The state fish and game department is stocking this preserve with large and small game. Elk, deer and wild turkeys have already been placed there.

Spiegel Grove State Park—The homestead of former President Rutherford B. Hays, is located at Fremont, Ohio. This park contains a beautiful grove of primeval forest trees, a number of them named after distinguished men who have visited the park on various state occasions. It contains the residence of President Hayes, his library of Americana, all his relics, souvenirs and mementos; also a memorial building erected jointly by the state and Colonel Webb C. Hayes at an expense of over $100,000. The estimated value of this property and all the appurtenances thereto belonging is about $500,000.

Logan Elm Park is a small tract of land surrounding the famous Logan Elm under which Logan is said to have delivered his famous speech or message which was sent to Lord Dunmore and read at the Indian council at Camp Charlotte, seven miles distant, at the conclusion of the treaty with the Indians at the close of the Dunmore war in October, 1774. This park is about seven miles from Circleville near the highway leading from the city of Chillicothe. It is visited by over 10,000 people annually.

Fort Ancient, near the village by that name in Warren county, has been called the masterpiece of the work of the mound builders in the Ohio valley. The walls of this famous fortification enclose about 100 acres and the entire park about 300 acres. It is a defensive mound located in a commanding position flanked by deep ravines and valleys and must have been used by the builders as a defense against their enemies. Over 20,000 visit this famous fortification annually.

Serpent Mound State Park is located in the northern part of Adams county, Ohio. It is in the form of a huge serpent about to swallow an eggshaped figure. Archaeologists from all over the world have visited this famous mound and there has been much speculation in regard to its purpose. It is believed by many writers to have been built for religious or ceremonial purposes and to indicate that the builders were serpent worshippers. An observation tower in this park enables visitors to view the entire length of the serpent effigy, the head of which is on a high bluff overlooking the valley below. In this park are about 100 acres of land. The serpent effigy is 1254 feet in length.

Big Bottom Park—This is a small park on the banks of the Muskingum river near Stockport, Morgan county, Ohio. It was here that 14 persons were killed on Jan. 2, 1791, in a surprise attack by the Indians. In a letter dated Marietta, Jan. 6, 1791, Gen. Rufus Putnam gives an account of this massacre and names the persons killed. Among them was a man and his wife and two children. The park was presented to the state by Enfield Brokaw.

The site is marked by a monument.

Fort Lawrence is the site of the fort started in the northern part of Tuscarawas county near Bolivar in the revolutionary war in 1778. It was the only fortification erected within the present limits of Ohio in that war. It was purchased by the state and has recently been improved by the erection of a small dwelling house for the caretaker of the park which is a beautiful tract of land bordering on the Muskingum river.

Schoenbrun Park is a tract of land including the site of the village of Schoenbrun, founded by the Moravian missionaries. Here in 1772 were built the first church and the first schoolhouse erected in the Ohio country. Plans are in process of completion for the rebuilding of the church and the schoolhouse. The historical society of Tuscarawas county is raising money by subscription for this purpose. The site has been purchased by the state through an appropriation made at the last regular session of the general assembly.

Fort St. Clark Park is a tract of land about one mile from Eaton, Ohio, which includes the site of old Fort St. Clair and the battlefield of the fight here with the Indians which occurred Nov. 6, 1792. This site has been purchased by the state and money has been provided for its improvement. It is marked by a monument presented by Major William H. Ortt.

The site of Fort Amanda is located in the northern part of Auglaize county. This fort was built in the War of 1812 and near it an engagement was fought. It includes a cemetery where some of the American soldiers are buried. It has been purchased by the state and a monument has been erected on the site.

Miamisburg Mound is located near the city of Miamisburg, Montgomery county, Ohio. It is the largest prehistoric mound in the state and was purchased and presented to the society by Charles F. Kettering. With the mound is a park which is soon to be improved.

The Site of the Battle of Fallen Timbers in Lucas county, Ohio, has been transferred by deed conditionally to the state. Here in 1794 General Wayne defeated the Indians and prepared the way for the treaty of Greenville in the year following.

Campus Meritus is not a park but is the site of that famous fortification erected by the first settlers of Marietta, within the wooden walls of which was instituted under Governor Arthur S. Clair the government of the northwest territory in 1788. Here was the first permanent white settlement in Ohio. The Rufus Putnam House is still standing on this site and opposite it is the old land office of the Ohio Company.

Felix Renick Monument—In the autumn of 1922 the breeders of short horn cattle subscribed money and erected a monument to Felix Renick who imported and sold at public auction the first short horn cattle thus distributed in America. The monument was present by the organization that erected it to the state of Ohio in custody of the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society.

Tecumseh State Park—The site of the Battle of Piqua and the birthplace of the Indian Chief Tecumseh, in Clark county, has been acquired by the state. An appropriation of $10,000 was made for the erection of a monument thereon by the Clark County Historical Society. After the completion of the monument the property passed into possession of the state and the custody of the Ohio Archaeological and Historical Society. George Rogers Clark led the troops against the Indians in the Battle of Piqua, Aug. 8, 1780. Clark county was named in honor of him. This monument stands near the National Road about five miles west of Springfield.

WEST HIGH EL ESPANOLISMO

In honor of the 60 new members of the El Espanolismo, the Spanish club of West High, a reception was held Thursday, Nov. 5, at the school. A speech of welcome was given by the president, Zoe Butler, followed by a program consisting of a solo dance, readings and musical numbers, both vocal and instrumental. A most interesting talk, "The Independence of the Philippines," was given by Pedro Weisl, one of the foreign-born students of West High. The program was followed by refreshments and dancing.

The officers for this year are: Zoe Butler, president; Geraldine Elliott, vice president; Helen Cunningham, secretary, and Louis Lanzstaff, treasurer.

A great tunnel, 44 feet in diameter is to be built under the Mersey river, linking the city of Liverpool with Birkenhead on the south bank of the river. The tunnel will be the longest in existence.

A memorial monument is to be erected at Vancouver, Canada, to celebrate the fact that peace between the United States and Canada has lasted for more than one hundred years.

HEALTH HINTS.

By DR. O. E. McFADON

I have a little preachment in my mind on "acidosis" that I had hoped to perpetrate this week, but I haven't had time to write it.

But, by the way, good breathing is a good preventive of acidosis. Do extra good breathing this week and the "acidosis" can wait.

Rythmic breathing gets the best results—I'm a "Onward Christian Soldier" type. Even if you push while you're pushin and pull while you're pullin', and "git a plenty while you're a gittin," you are all right. Do it when you walk; when you work; when you sit; when you sleep—always. Get the habit and stick to it. Note your breath rate, then double the length of each breath. Get more oxygen. It costs nothing.

WEST DEFEATS NORTH HIGH

West High football team defeated North High at Neil park Monday afternoon, and when the game was ended North had lost by the score of 13 to 0.

West accomplished the unusual in the first five minutes of play. Taking the North kickoff, West made three first downs in quick succession, the third being a 30 yard pass from Florio to Kline, who went over the goal for a touchdown. Mason's pass to Redden for the extra point was grounded.

The result of the game forced North from the top of the percentage column to share first-place honors with Aquinas.

East, South and West trail the two leaders, each with a record of one victory and the same number of losses. West also has a tie game with Central, which has failed to win a league contest, losing to East and North.

West has lost to South and tied with Central, while beating North. North has defeated Aquinas and Central and lost to West. East has won from Central and lost to Aquinas. South has lost to Aquinas and has defeated West. The lineup:

West			North
Redden	l.	e	Harrison
Banks	l.	t	Richards
Blumer	l.	g	Ferguson

Score by quarters:

TO THE HILLTOP BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION.

At last the Hilltop, as a community has truly come forth with activity. It has been several years since we have enjoyed such an halloween celebration as sponsored by the Hilltop Business Men's Association this year. The free cider and weiner sandwiches were enjoyed by all. And say, we like the spirit of it being free. We liked the idea of the red and green lights along the streets also; but we have one objection, which is, that the lights did not last long enough.

As to the dancing, it was all right, but there was so much dancing other places.

Your prizes were fine and well worth while. And say, how about that music by the band?; It was fine. Let's have more of it in the future.

Taking it all in all it shows that our Hilltop business men are a fine group of merchants and that they are interested in the community welfare.

I hear that they are planning other activities in the future. If they do, let's endeavor to show our appreciation. If they are made to feel that we enjoy their community activities I am sure that as they progress we will have larger and better celebrations and thereby our community will be the most prominent part of Columbus. Thank you for the halloween party.

WEST HIGH FRENCH CLUB

Donald Wirtz was elected president at the first meeting of the West High French club held Wednesday, Oct. 28. Other officers chosen were: Pauline Miller, vice president; Helen Toole, secretary; Margaret Bricker, treasurer.

The "Circle Francais" was decided upon for the name and the pin was discussed. A committee of four composed of Brunson Sloan, Leroy Zimmer, Catherine Southworth and Margaret Tucker was appointed to take care of each month's program. When the roll is called each member must answer with a newspaper clipping concerning something about France.

The fourth Wednesday in each month was chosen as the day of meeting for the circle. Correspondence will be carried on with French school children.

Seein' and Hearin' Things

—At rainy times like last Saturday, the streets are covered and gutters half filled with dirty, muddy waters. Folks are waiting at corners to board street cars. Automobiles come shooting by splashing that dirty water in all directions, and unless those standing by rush away back from the curbing they generally get a good sousing. Maybe it's a good coat or dress, but it's all the same. Now, a person has a right to stand at the curb or in a safety zone and wait for a car, and an automobile has a right to pass by so long as the driver is obeying the traffic rules, but we've often thought if some of the drivers would just be considerate and drive a little slower on such occasions it would go a long way to make rainy day street car riding more pleasant.

—A little three-year-old Sullivant avenue girl was taken to a barber shop a few months ago to have her hair bobbed and the barber promised her an all-day sucker when she was through if she would be good and hold still. And when through he gave it to her. The other day she was taken to the same place again, but nothing was said about a sucker. When the barber was through and she was helped out of the chair she turned to the barber and said: "Now I want my sucker." And she got one.

—A freight conductor on a railroad told us the other day that he brought on his train a car load (25 tons) of Epsom salts, consigned to Columbus. Gosh, at one teaspoon doses, just think of all the shivers and twisted-up faces we've got coming.

—A gentleman giving us a want ad the other day, on being asked what his phone number was, said: "Well—its—its—you'll have to call my wife and find out." O, yes, we called.

OLD PIONEER DAYS

Stories of the Early Days of the Pioneers of This Section. Lucas Sullivant and Party.

In 1822-3 Lucas Sullivant was engaged in a heavy work for those days, the erection of a mill dam, with slope and lock, across the Scioto and a Grist mill, all out of heavy hewed timbers. The mill was a large and heavy structure, requiring the combined efforts of many men to raise the frame.

Accordingly, when it was ready, notice was given, and the men of the county came from all parts to raise the mill, in the same generous spirit of assistance that characterised the huskings and house raisings of the early settlers. It was a three days' work, but each day found a sufficient number of men on the ground, who were fed by Mr. Sullivant, ample provision having been made for that purpose.

On the last day of the raising, when the last bent was going up, Enoch Domigan uncautiously stepped upon a board, which tilted and precipitated him to the bottom on a pile of stone. This raised a panic among the men on the building, which had nearly proved fatal to many others. Domigan, although terribly cut and bruised, and with broken bones, survived his injuries for several days.

Joseph Sullivant, the writer, says: I shall never forget the walk I took with my father on his way to inspect the work at the mill. Both of us had been restless and sleepless the night before, and neither was well. The symptoms of the fever was manifesting themselves, and both were soon after prostrated. He took me around on the brow of the ridge in the west end of Franklinton, where he halted. On the west all the broad bottom for two miles out, and, with a few insignificant clearings, the country, even to Darby creek, was covered with a heavy forest; so also was all across the river in the fork of Whetstone (Olentangy), and, on the eastern side of the Whetstone, across the bottoms where are now the waterworks, the iron furnace, Goodale park, the penitentiary, the railroad depot and so on out to Alum creek.

From the point where we stood, the spire of the old state house and the scattered houses of the new town of Columbus were visible. I never could determine whether my father was addressing me, or only involuntarily speaking out his thoughts, for he said in a low tone of voice, as he turned himself around looking westward: "I would like to come back in 50 years and stand on this spot. I would not be surprised to see steam wagons running across these bottoms." In far less than the 50 years I have again stood on the same spot, and seen the steam wagons, with their huge trains, rushing along over "these bottoms" at a rate of more than 25 miles an hour.

In person, Lucas Sullivant was of medium height, muscular and well proportioned, quick and active in his movements, with an erect carriage and a good walk, a well-balanced head, finished off with a cue, which he always wore; a broad and high forehead, an aquiline nose, and a blue-gray eye, a firm mouth and square chin. He was firm and positive in his own opinions, but courteous in manners and expression, prompt and decisive to act upon his own convictions, and altogether a man of forcible character, exercising an influence over those with whom he came in contact.

Lucas Sullivant died Aug. 8, 1823, in the fifty-eighth year of his age.

Opportunity for Salesmanship Class

The members of the salesmanship class in West High school have been placed in different stores in preparation for the Christmas holiday season. The students in this way will be enabled to put into practical use that which they have learned.

There are 30 members in the class and all are interested, very much, in the opportunity to learn salesmanship through actual experience.

The managers of the stores in which pupils will be placed, have shown in almost every instance that they were well pleased with the idea, and willing to co-operate in every way. Many of the leading stores downtown and two of our leading Hilltop merchants have readily found places for the young salesmen.

Two-Day Vacation at Thanksgiving Time

A two-day vacation is scheduled for the pupils of Columbus schools at Thanksgiving time, Thursday and Friday, Nov. 26 and 27.

Following the Thanksgiving vacation will be four weeks of school attendance and then the Christmas vacation of 11 days—Thursday, Dec. 24 until Monday, Jan. 4. Only seven actual school days are included in this period, but with Saturdays and Sundays, the vacation period runs to almost two weeks. The semester closes Jan. 20, and the new one starts Feb. 1.

Washington's birthday gives a one day vacation in February and after that only extenuating circumstances will prevent the pupils from attending school five days a week until the Easter vacation, April 1, 2 and 3. Scholars will probably be dismissed April 9 to permit teachers to attend the Ohio State Educational conference at Ohio State University.

As Memorial days falls on Sunday, the school board will offer one-half day, May 28, to provide an additional relaxation period before the commencement exercises on June 16.

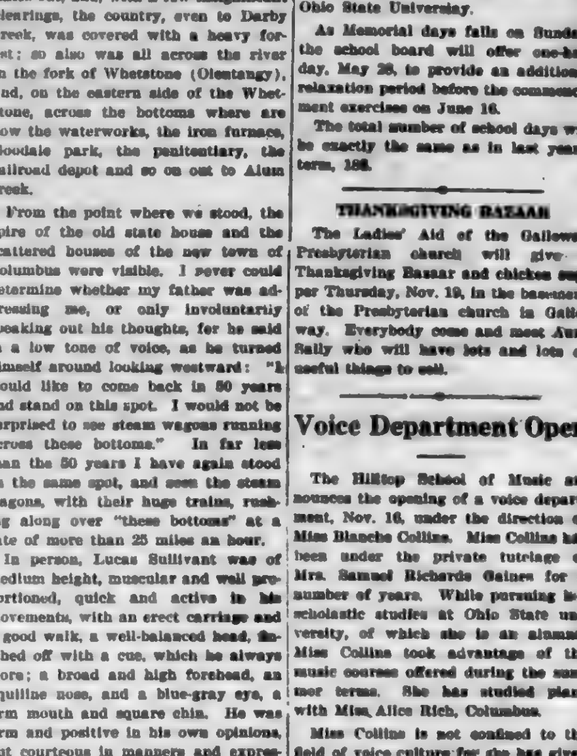
The total number of school days will be exactly the same as in last year's term, 188.

THANKSGIVING BAZAAR

The Ladies' Aid of the Galloway Presbyterian church will give a Thanksgiving Bazaar and chicken supper Thursday, Nov. 19, in the basement of the Presbyterian church in Galloway. Everybody come and meet Aunt Sally who will have lots and lots of useful things to sell.

Voice Department Open

The Hilltop School of Music announces the opening of a voice department, Nov. 16, under the direction of Miss Blanche Collins. Miss Collins has been under the private tutelage of Mrs. Samuel Richards Gaines for a number of years. While pursuing her scholastic studies at Ohio State university, of which she is an alumna, Miss Collins took advantage of the music courses offered during the summer terms. She has studied piano with Miss Alice Rich, Columbus.



Miss Collins is not confined to the field of voice culture for she has given much study and interest to dramatic production and has had personal instruction from Prof. W. H. Mikesell, late of the Curry School of Expression, Boston, and the Harvard Workshop.

Any information regarding private or class work, or scholarships offered will be gladly given by applying to the Hilltop School of Music, 67 Midland Avenue.

Charles Dickens was fond of gay colors. Whenever possible, the two beds at the front of his Gad's Hill house were filled with scarlet geraniums, which were his favorite flowers.

"Oh How I Envy You!"

by O. Lawrence Hawthorne

Lying there in all your splendor
Like a prince of other days,
Greeting with a smile so tender
Everyone's adoring gaze—
How contented with your station
Is your happy little heart!
Fretfulness and lamentation
In your program have small part.

Just to lie and kick and wriggle
And to stretch and squirm and roll,
While you grunt and coo and giggle—
Bless your joyous baby soul,
All you ask is rest and quiet
And a mother's loving care;
Yours is such a simple diet:
Water, milk and good fresh air.

How I envy you the pleasures
Of your artless baby ways,
And the many priceless treasures
That enrich your baby days!
I wish I could have them haul me
In a baby cab again—
And could hear sweet voices call me
Things they seldom say to men!

BROILED HAMBURG STEAK

Two pounds chopped beef ground, ½ pound suet, flour, butter, onion juice, salt and pepper. Have the butcher chop the beef and suet together very fine. Press it into a flat steak about three-fourths of an inch thick, sprinkle with salt, pepper, a little onion juice, and flour. Broil on a fine wire broiler. Spread with butter and serve on a hot dish.

GRAHAM CRACKER CAKE

Cream one-half cup of butter, add three-fourths cup of sugar, beat together, and add the beaten yolks of two eggs. Have ready three-fourths pound of graham crackers, first dried in the oven, then cooled and rolled as fine as possible. Mix these with three teaspoonful of baking powder and one-fourth of a grated nutmeg, and add to the creamed mixture alternately, with cup of milk. Beat all together vigorously. Add to the mixture one-half cup of white sultana raisins. Beat the whites of the eggs with one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, and beat these into the cake batter. Bake in square pans, greased and floured, for half an hour or until well done, in a moderate oven.

SCANDINAVIAN BREAD

Boil and mash six large potatoes. Add a teaspoonful of salt and enough flour to make a stiff dough. Roll as thin as possible and cut in large squares. Bake on a thin baking sheet, or on top of the stove. When done fold the four corners to the center, butter lightly and sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar.

APPLES AND HAM

Two pounds ham cut in one thick slice. Brown sugar. Whole cloves. Four to six tart apples. Boil the ham until nearly done. Then place in casserole, insert cloves in it and sprinkle with brown sugar. On top of this or around it, place the quartered apples and sprinkle them with sugar. Add a very little water, cover and bake.

BAKED HAMBURG STEAK

One and a half pounds beef round, two cups bread soaked in milk, one small onion, one tablespoon butter, two eggs, one cup tomatoes, half cup sliced onion, salt, pepper, ginger. Have the meat ground finely. Add the bread, one minced onion, seasoning to taste and the two eggs well beaten. Roll the meat and place it in a baking pan, pour over it a sauce composed of the tomatoes, sliced onions, butter and water, and bake, basting frequently with sauce. On serving, slice the roll crosswise. Four hard boiled eggs may be placed in the center of the roll if desired.

DANISH BLACK BREAD

Dissolve a quarter of a yeastcake in a little luke warm water. Add a tablespoonful of sugar and a quart of sour milk. Mix in enough rye meal to make a stiff batter, then work in enough flour to make the batter soft and let rise overnight in a warm place. Knead 20 minutes in the morning, then place in a large buttered bread pan and bake for two hours.

You'll do better at Seiller's after all.

The greatest station for generating electric power is being built by the New York Edison Company at Fourteenth street and East River. The station will have a capacity of approximately one million horsepower, considerably more than the entire projected development of Muscle Shoals. This one station can supply current enough to light three million houses. With this addition the generating stations of New York City can produce as much lighting and power as is used in all France.

About 20 years ago, the sculptor, George Grey Bernard, started to build up a Gothic museum representing European sculpture from the twelfth century through the fifteenth. He was not rich enough to buy from dealers, so he went to Europe and made his own collection from farms, ruined shrines, and peasant huts. The collection numbers from 600 to 700 examples of sculpture, painting and other forms of art, mainly French in origin. Mr. Bernard has sold the entire collection to the Metropolitan Museum, New York city. It now stands, a quiet spot of medievalism, near the heart of the most modern city in the world.

Forty species of birds have been found on the Hawaiian Islands. Many of the species are rare or confined to limited localities on one or another of the islands. Honolulu, however, has only two species, the English sparrow, and the mynah birds. The mynah was brought to Honolulu many years ago when cutworms menaced the agriculture of the island. These birds are practically harmless, and they have the one supreme virtue of having taught the English sparrow its place. Honolulu sparrows are modest and deserve in manner.

Healthy Children Mean Better Students

1. Slight subluxations at this point will cause so-called headaches, eye diseases, deafness, epilepsy, vertigo, insomnia, wry neck, facial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, etc.

2. A slight subluxation of a vertebra in this part of the spine is the cause of so-called throat trouble, neuralgia, pain in the shoulders and arms, goitre, nervous prostration, la grippe, dizziness, bleeding from nose, disorder of gums, catarrh, etc.

Some of the things that have been accomplished by our office the past few weeks

Young girl kept out of public schools last year by school authorities and sent to open air school. Girl said to be tubercular. At present in public school, gained weight and feeling fine, due to Chiropractic.

Young boy lost whole year of school. Malnutrition, lung trouble and was 20 pounds under weight; boy had been doctoring for a long time. Under Chiropractic adjustments he is rapidly gaining weight and is in school and feeling good.

Young boy suddenly taken sick. Four specialists diagnosed the case. Their opinions varied. Boy suddenly paralized in arms and legs. Little hope was given parents that the boy would recover. Under Chiropractic adjustments, he runs, plays and has practically recovered.

NEW LOCATION FOR MYKRANTZ

Move Into New Quarters in the Melvin Building—Formal Opening Saturday.

Mykrants's Hilltop drug store, which has been located at the corner of S. Oakley Ave. and W. Broad St., for the past nine years, this week moved into their new quarters in the Melvin building, just completed at the corner of S. Clark Ave. and W. Broad St.

The new room gives them more commodious quarters and provides for better arrangement of their stocks.

As for several years past the Hilltop branch postoffice will be located in the Mykrants room.

Saturday will be the formal opening of the new store, at which time souvenirs will be given to all who visit the store on that day.

AUTO LICENSES ON SALE DEC. 1

Tags Obtainable at County Auditor's Office and Columbus Automobile Club.

Announcement was made Tuesday by County Auditor Thatcher that the automobile license bureau in his office would be open for business Dec. 1. No licenses will be issued before that date and the auditor has requested that automobile owners "do their shopping early" to avoid the rush.

Simultaneously with the announcement of Auditor Thatcher was the statement of Manager W. A. Bird of the Columbus Auto club that the club would sell licenses to non-members.

Recent decision of the club was to the effect that only licenses for members of the club would be sold on account of room for handling the licenses, but arrangements have been made whereby the storeroom at 22 E. Main St. has been rented, just across the street from the auto club, where the licenses will be handled.

Owners of automobiles of less than 25 horsepower will pay a license fee of $4; between 25 and 35 horsepower, $6, and 35 horsepower and over, $10. For truck licenses, owners pay according to the weight of their cars. An additional 15 cents is collected on each license by those issuing the same, under the state law.

TAXICAB STRIKES TWO PEDESTRIANS

Harry Reynolds Killed by Auto While Waiting to Board Street Car.

Harry Reynolds, aged 21, 67 McDowell St., met his death Monday morning at 6:30 o'clock while attempting to board a street car at West Broad and McDowell streets, and Lamison Jaycox, same address, was injured, although not seriously, when a taxicab struck them.

Alfred Norton, 136 S. Champion Ave., driver of a taxicab, struck Reynolds and Jaycox as they were about to board a street car which had slowed down preparatory to taking on passengers.

The force with which the machine struck the pedestrians threw Jaycox beneath the car and knocked Reynolds under the taxicab, causing a fracture of the skull.

Wesley Dealey, another taxi driver, took the injured men to St. Carmel hospital, Reynolds being pronounced dead upon arrival there.

Norton was placed under arrest when he voluntarily visited police headquarters to make a report of the accident.

Has Narrow Escape

Many stories and odd situations while on hunting trips this week, are going the rounds this week and among them were some narrow escapes the hunters had.

While hunting Monday near Dublin, Gene Worrel had perhaps one of the narrowest. Jean was out to get rabbits and pheasants and of course his nerves were at high tension most of the time and most anything that had four feet looked like a rabbit to him.

Worrell happened to take a look into a brush pile and thought he saw something move, he looked again and did see it move, but, he also saw a bunch of nice black fur with a white stripe about the center and running the full length of the animal.

Jean didn't shoot—he ran.

"THREE KNOCKS IN THE NIGHT"

Sunday evening at Glenwood church a medical missionary pageant of unusual value will be presented under the direction of Mrs. Louis Kline.

Irene Preest, as a brilliant, young college graduate, Barbara Lane, visits India, where her parents are missionaries. India is a land of few physicians, of little knowledge of sanitation or medicine, where the deadliest diseases are rampant. So pathetic is the life of the people of her father's parish that clever Barbara decides to take medical training and spend her life in their service.

The later scenes depict vividly typical every day experiences of her life as a missionary physician.

Following is the caste of characters:

Barbara Lane	Irene Preest
Helen	Geraldine Elliott
Jane	Thelma Allen
Frances	Martha Myers
Dr. Lane	J. E. Allison
Mrs. Lane	Mrs. M. L. Stevenson
Hindu Man 1	Ernest Martindale
Hindu Man 2	Howard Williams

First Patient	Bonnibel Simmons
Second Patient	Bernola Woodyard
Third Patient	Helen King
Fourth Patient	Truth Daniel
Fifth Patient	Zoe Butler
Sixth Patient	Martha Donivant
Seventh Patient	Alice King
Eighth Patient	Helen Myers
Ninth Patient	Frieda Schafer
Tenth Patient	Hattie Campbell
Eleventh Patient	Annis Turner
Bible Woman	Helen Stahl
Outcast Woman	Nelle Orbaugh

Miss Edith Eberle of the Philippine Islands will address the Womans Home and Foreign Missionary society of the Hilltop Church of Christ on the evening of Dec. 6.

Lecture at Baptist Church This Evening

Rev. J. A. Cooper, the soldier chaplain, the preacher, the fighter and the orator will lecture at Hillcrest Baptist church Thursday evening, Nov. 19. Mr. Cooper was a chaplain during the World war, and to this might be added the testimony of hundreds of men and officers who know that, while he was a chaplain, he never neglected his duty, no matter how dangerous the situation. During the greatest engagements he was constantly under fire. At the present time he occupies an important pulpit in the middle west, and comes to Hillcrest church with a message that will delight all who attend his lecture. There will be no admission charge.

Seein' and Hearin' Things

—A Dodge truck spoiled two wheels and an axle of a Chevrolet touring car when it turned off S. Richardson Ave. onto Sullivant Ave., last Monday night. No one was reported as being injured. The occupants of the Chevrolet were returning from a hunting trip.

—A little three-year-old girl not far from Central avenue was marking up the window, and when told not to do that, turned to her playmate and said, "I dot bawled out, didn't I?"

—The scampering of great multitudes of leaves to and fro during the gusts of wind last Sunday reminded one of the spasmodic rushing of folks from both sides of the streets when the green traffic light goes on over town.

King and Rice—that sounds like a firm name, but 'twas just the names of two men that got mixed up with their machines last Saturday at Rodgers Ave. and W. Broad St., while both did a turn act at the same time. Guess a couple of "plunks" would repair the damage, though.

—Say, don't a fellow feel foolish when he unthinkingly starts walking across High streets and when half way over gazes up and sees a red light against him? A lady the other day was observed to get nearly to the opposite curbing and on seeing a red light, she turned around and hustled clear back, then on reaching the curb she originally started from, whirled again and went right over again the third time, against a red light. Whether she was walking in her sleep or trying to get in bad, no one knows.

Council Monday night referred to the city planning commission the petition to have West Broad St. from Chase Ave. to Huron Ave., changed from a residential section to a business section.

Rabbits Experiencing Much Excitement

Bro'r Rabbit has led quite a strenuous life this week, being disturbed continually from the peaceful life he has led for almost a year, by the booming of guns and the tramp of feet in his hitherto quiet domain.

In fact the past few days have been so strenuous for him that many of the furry animals have never reached their former happy homes, and rabbit suppers were numerous on the Hilltop the past few days and many more are scheduled for later date.

However, rabbits are not the only ones leading a strenuous life, for pheasants are plentiful and are coming in for their share of the excitement.

Mrs. Hardnock disagrees with her husband and determines to marry her daughter to Archibald Winterfield, a society man. She, learning of the side line Bob and Jack are conducting, takes her two daughters to the mountains, where she hires Jack to bring about an engagement between Ruth and Archibald.

John Hardnock becomes suspicious, follows his wife and secretly hires Bob to break up the match. Jack and Bob both proceed to complicate matters by falling in love with the girls themselves.

HEALTH HINTS.

By DR. O. B. McFADON

I am trusting the readers of these Hints to keep on breathing, not carelessly, but rythmically—so as to get the most possible for the cost—which is nothing more than a very little attention and effort. Get the habit of rythmic, deeper breathing and avoid

ACIDOSIS

Every housewife knows what happens when baking soda (alkaline) and Cream of Tartar, or other acid, come together. They are expected to fight, and it is well if the proportion is such that each will neutralize the other.

Our bodies are normally 80% alkaline and 20% acid. For health's sake, it is important that this alkali-acid balance be maintained—one fights the other—it is but highly improbable that any of us maintain it. The universal tendency is toward too much acidity, which must be constantly curbed. Our faulty habits of life are the principal causes. Any increase of acidity above the normal, creates what is called "acidosis"—not a disease, but a condition highly favorable to many diseases. Of all deficiency and degenerative diseases, diebetes shows the highest acidity and a correspondingly low alkaline reserve. As one of the evidences of "acidosis" in diebetes, Dr. E. V. McCollum (John-Hopkins) says he "always expects the presence of pyorrhea." He adds that "the alkaline (anti-acid) diet used in diebetes almost uniformly shows a decline and disappearance of the pyorrhea, even in fatal biebetic cases."

Herein is hope for anyone who has pyorrhea. He has simply to learn and use alkali (often called "base-forming") foods; also, to learn and avoid acid-forming foods. Lists of these foods have often been given in these columns, but, briefly, they are, fruits and vegetables (base-formers) against the more nourishing foods, such as bread, meat, eggs, cheese, etc. (acid-formers).

The reader must struggle here with the apparent anomaly of the facts, that such sour fruits, as lemons, became alkaline, when oxidized in the body; and that sugar, eggs, and all breads, (which are not sour to the taste), are acid-formers. A reasonable inference here, is, that with a diet in which fruits and vegetables prevail, there would be no pyorrhea, diseased tonsils or adenoids.

It is quite the fashion, in these days, to have adenoids, tonsils, teeth and appendices removed, and, quite naturally, much of the unreasoning public come to think of their removal as a matter of course,—as if the Creator had made a mistake in creating them. We hear people say they are glad their tonsils are out, for now their trouble is over. True, the rheumatism or other infection, which is traced to the tooth or tonsil, may cease, but, if the cause of the diseased tooth or tonsil be not removed, trouble will appear elsewhere in another form. The acidosis is the real infection and should be eradicated to avoid other manifestations.

The dentist or surgeon who removes the organs, is praised for his skillful operation, and is paid for the same.

He cannot ask more, but what more can he do? Has he no further responsibility? Reformatory advice as to the habits of the patient, may not be expected of him, but is his silence justified if it tends to confirm the patients belief that the organs removed were supernumerary, if not worse than useless? The congratulations of friends are in all kindness, but in reality amount to the promotion of similar popular belief.

If locating the immediate cause of trouble and removing it satisfies the patient and friends to the point of eulogy for the surgeon, why should he concern himself about the origin of the infection? He may not know such origin, and, moreover, he may not care to know; and if he should know, is it wise (!) for him to undermine his business by any such humane procedure?

As time goes on the public is expecting more prophylactic (preventive) advice from doctors; advice that seeks to lead the patient to such improved ways of living as will prevent a recurrence of his trouble. For instance: the dentist who treats pyorrhea and the surgeon who removes tonsils and adenoids will fall into disrepute who does not also give wholesome dietetic advice. His duties is not done until he has warned the patient that continuation of his present dietary habits will again cause similar results, for it cannot be denied that, physically, we are the result of what we eat.

W. H. Hay, D. D. S., in a recent article in The Motive Magazine, quotes a surgeon, as follows: "I am a surgeon and it is my business to excrete adenoids and excise tonsils, and why should I argue with the patient as to its causes?" This sentiment is too common among surgeons and doctors, and the medical colleges, and it is because it is tollerated by the people. When we—the U. S. A.—shall have been a nation as long as China has been, perhaps our "civilization" will have advanced to the point where we can, will pay doctors for keeping us well, rather than for being mere robbers.

Dr. O. B. McFadon, osteopath, 100 W. 10th Ave. Un. 7904-W. Residence calls on the Hilltop Wednesday and Saturday mornings.

WEST DEFEATED BY EAST HIGH

Although West High put up a good fight and played a good game of football, East High school proved the better team and the Cowboys were defeated last Friday afternoon at Nell park by a score of 12 to 0.

The first East touchdown came in the first quarter. Several exchanges of punts worked the ball to midfield from where East unleached an attacked that carried the ball to the West 20-yard line. On the first play, Hyatt smote the West line and went the whole 20 yards for a touchdown. George Simpson kicked low and the try for the added point was missed.

East's second score came in the third quarter. Mason, one of the west four horsemen, fumbled in a run around his own left end, and George Simpson scooped up the ball and scampered across the goal for a touchdown. It again failed in an attempt to kick goal.

The backfield performance of Earl was the outstanding feature of the game. Untried under real fire since the disastrous combat between Enand Aquinas, the East backfield ran through their formations with a precision that bespoke long, hard practice.

Mason played his usual good game against East. But for the first time this year, he was handicapped by injuries, and late in the third quarter had to be led from the field with a badly sprained wrist. Captain Ritzman of West was knocked out time and again, but each time remained in the game fighting futilly against the avalanche of East players posted against him. The lineup:

West.		East.
Redden	l. e.	Lindenburg
Banks	l. t.	Lisle
Weler	l. g.	Hughes
Ritzman (C)	c.	Alden
Busick	r. g.	Dobrenz
Wilson	r. t.	Moore
Trabue	r. e.	Evans
Chinn	q. b.	B. Simpson
Mason	l. h.	Hyatt
Florio	r. h.	G. Simpson
Kline	f. b.	Armstrong

Score by quarters:

East	6	0	6	0	—12

Touchdowns: East—Hyatt. G. Simpson. Substitutions—West: Casey for Kline, Kline for Trabue, Blumer for Weler, Cole for Mason, Weler for Blumer. East: Kramer for Hyatt. Brickling for Dohlens. Officials: Referee—Katherman, Ohio Northern. Umpire—Jones, Rio Grande. Head Linesman—Smith, Ohio State.

A youthful bandit held up Clarence A. Williams, 273 N. Ogden Ave., in his own residence last Saturday evening shortly after 6 o'clock, the bandit and his companion who acted as a lookout, escaping through the back yard.

When Williams returned home from a trip to the grocery he heard a noise in the rear of his house and went to investigate. CLEAN-UP DRIVE ON THIS WEEK

A clean-up drive of the streets of Columbus was started Monday morning by the city service department, and will continue through the week, when the department will take away all leaves that have been raked into the gutters.

"The entire city will be included in this clean-up drive on leaves," Service Director Duffy said, "and not knowing what sections of the city will be clean on certain days residents should rake all their leave into the gutters and be ready for the department wagons when they come around, as only one trip will be made."

A deal has just been closed by Chas Rockhold and S. B. Holder, representing the interested parties, whereby P. J. Johnson exchanges a farm of 20 acres near Johnstown to E. A woman went to the bank and asked for a new check book.

"I've lost the one you gave me yesterday," she said. "But it doesn't matter. I took the precaution of signing all the checks as soon as I got it—so, of course, it won't be any use to anyone else."—Efficiency Magazine.

"Ha! ha!" laughed the feminine guest of a well known hotel. "This is a good joke."

"What is?" asked her husband.

"Why this little placard on the inside of the door, saying 'Stop! Have You Left Anything?' I have packed up the soap, towels, stationery, pillow slips and sheets. I don't suppose we could take the mattresses, so I have left them."—Kansas City Star.

"It has already done me good," he replied tersely, "I have just prescribed for three of the guests."

OLD PIONEER DAYS

Stories of the Early Days of the Pioneers of This Section. Lucas Sullivant and Party.

On Feb. 3, 1815, the Ohio state legislature enacted a law authorizing Lucas Sullivant and his associates to erect a toll bridge across the Scioto river at the place where "Broad street in the town of Columbus crosses the river, leading into the main street into the town of Franklinton."

Mr. Sulivant and his associates were authorized to ask, demand and receive from passengers crossing said bridge the following rates:

For each foot passenger	3 c
Horse and rider	12½c
Each chaise, riding chair, gig, cart or other two-wheeled carriage with two horses or two oxen and driver	37½c
Same as above with one horse and driver	25 c
Sleigh or sled drawn by two oxen or horses	25 c
Same by one horse and oxen	18c & 24c
Each coach, chariot or pleasurable car with four wheels and driver, drawn by four horses	75 c
Same, drawn by two horses	50 c
Each wagon with two horses or oxen and driver	37½c
Each horse or oxen additional	6¼c
Each head of cattle six months' old or upwards	2 c
Each head of cattle younger than six months and for each and every head of sheep or hogs	½c

All public mails and express, all troops of the United States and this state, with their artillery, baggage and stores, and all persons who are exempted by the laws of the state from the payment of ferriages, may pass over said bridge free from the toll aforesaid.

Lucas Sullivant was also instructed to keep exposed to public view a board on which the above rates of toll were established.

The bridge was to have a hand railing and cartaway or cart ways and in other respects of sufficient strength to admit of the safe passage of the passengers, carriages and cattle as aforesaid.

It was also to be so constructed as to in no way obstruct navigation on the river or prevent the fording thereof.

With noise rapidly becoming one of the serious problems of city life and the increasing desire of employers to reduce the nerve strain of employees, the advantage of silent rubber street paving is obvious.

The great advantage resulting from doubling the width of the main highways leading into Chicago, as is now proposed, is that it will afford better facilities for people to get away from the place.

[illegible] from one red clover flower to another. Therefore these bees are necessary in order to raise a clover crop. They do the fertilizing. In the Philippine Islands there were no bumblebees, so the Government undertook to send some over, says a writer in The Dearborn Independent. To do this an odd trick was played on them. Colonies of them were put into refrigerators and thus led to believe that it was winter time. They went into hibernation, and set their alarm clocks for waking them when springtime should come. So they traveled halfway around the world, were allowed to thaw out, started thrifty generations of bumblebees, and gave a brand-new crop to this corner of the world.

It required 2,631,600 freight cars to haul all the motor vehicles, supplies, equipment and road material produced in the United States last year. Automobiles alone occupied 740,000 freight cars, while gasoline and lubricating oil were transhipped in 692,000 tank cars.

Although the exact state of road improvement in the United States at the present time is not known, it is estimated by the Department of Agriculture that the total mileage of surfaced roads at the end of 1924 was between 450,000 and 475,000 miles.

Willie—"No, I don't. I want to see the stork."

Old Friends

by O. Lawrence Hawthorne

So many of us soon forget
The friends we leave behind.
With earnest vows we part, and yet
They seldom come to mind;
With newfound interests each day
Is fully occupied;
We go serenely on our way
And seem quite satisfied.

In search of greater happiness
We bid old friends good-by—
A parting word, a last caress,
A deep regretful sigh—
Then all too soon, in lands afar,
The welcome that we find
Bids us forget how fond we are
Of those we leave behind.

But sometime in the lives of all,
No matter where we roam,
We'll hear again the faithful call
Of those old friends at home.
And then it is that memory
With tender touch will play
Some old familiar melody—
A song of yesterday.

And with that song to guide our feet
To haunts we used to know
We'll yet find time—perhaps—to greet
Those friends of long ago.
Their cordial smiles will show how well
Their hearts have stood the test
Of our neglect. Then can we tell
Why old-time friends are best!

DENNY HANKS

Abraham Lincoln always remembered his friends back home, and the friends never overlooked their claims on him. Old friends and relatives were always dropping in to see him. And never once did he fail in the warmth of his welcome to them. Some of his friends were out after favors of course, but a good many more of them came to see the man, not the president of the United States. Except that he was busier and busier as the burdens increased and grew heavier, he was always just the same old Abe at heart.

Once, when Denny Hanks went down to Washington, the first thing he noticed about his exalted relative was, to quote Denny, "a big watch an' chain spread over his waistcoat. I plagued him about being so fine, an' he sez, 'Denny, I bet you'd carry a watch if you had one, you old coon.' He went out an' bought this fur me, an' I've carried it ever sence."

And Denny proudly dragged from an inner pocket a bulky coin-silver watch on a steel chain.

Ne ada boasts with truth that it has a highway paved with gold. An analysis of the gravel being used in paveing the highway between Ruth and Ely shows flour and flake gold but not in commercial quantities.

Peat, internationally known as "Private Peat," a young Canadian World war soldier, will bring a stirring appeal for understanding, peace and harmony among the nations in his remarkable lecture, "The Inexcusable Lie." Private Peat has toured the world. He has lectured in Australia, New Zealand, the British West Indies, has visited South America, England, France, Germany and other European countries, and has now returned to the United States to resume his place on the lecture platform.

There are still five numbers left on the lecture course. Get your season tickets from Epworth Leaguers. Adult tickets, $1.00; children, 50c.

Sunday morning at 10:30 will be observed as family pew day in Glenwood Methodist church. Every family of the church is asked to have each of its members in the family pew. The pastor will use as his sermon topic, "A Drink From the Old Well." The Sunday school will be the special guests of honor. "One Thousand in the Church Service" is the slogan for this Sunday.

THANKSGIVING DAY SERVICES

The Christian people of the Hilltop, we hope, are looking forward to the annual Thanksgiving Day services. It is the writer's opinion that these services should be full as well attended as our Sunday services. He thinks it should be the earnest purpose of every one to fill to the door on that day all of the 10 churches of our vicinity, and not be satisfied by an effort to fill but one of the ten. G. W. L.

HESSENAUER SERVICE

Gus Hessenauer and son Earl, served the membership faithfully for 30 years as clerk of Cedar Camp No. 1, W. O. W. when the membership was over 2000. It is very necessary at this time to put Earl Hessenaur back in as clerk. Sovereigns be there election night, Wednesday evening, Dec. 2, 1925, and do your bit to put the membership back to the 2000 mark. Nuf-Zed

PLANS SUBMITTED FOR NEW SCHOOL

All Practicable Features of Recently Constructed School Buildings Incorporated.

All special features tried and found to be practicable in the recently constructed new North, East, South and Central High schools will be incorporated in the new West High school to be erected on Powell avenue, south of Broad street, according to plans submitted by Howard D. Smith, school architect, at a special meeting of the board of education Monday. The estimated cost of the structure is placed at $850,000.

Separation of the auditorium from the other part of the building will be one of the outstanding features, since there have been many occasions in the last year that school officials have regretted use of the auditorium necessitated opening of other rooms in North, East, South and Central.

Arrangement of the building surrounding a court 75 feet wide and 120 feet long will provide for establishment of classrooms away from noises of the street, and additional quiet will be assured by placing the manual training rooms in a wing at the upper left corner of the building and the home economics rooms in a similar wing on the opposite corner. The cafeteria will be so equipped that it may be used as a study hall except at luncheon time.

Former West High Star to Play Here

Paul Redden, former West High football star will add much interest to the game to be played Thanksgiving morning, when two elevens from Institute and Wilberforce, two of the strongest colored college elevens in the country will meet. Following as this does on the address before the church recently by Mr. Higginbottom himself, this will surely be a wonderful opportunity to hear of this work and see it actually.

Fifty million 10-cent passengers must becarried by the motor bus companies of the country each year just to pay federal taxes. The keeping of obligatory tax receipts also is responsible, it is said, for the high costs of tires and parts.

Ohio motor bus owners, the state association says, are paying about a dozen kinds of taxes, federal, state and local.

The efficiency and economy of the motor bus have been recognized by the United States army. It has been found cheaper to transport soldiers by motor bus when the time element will permit. Reports show that there was a large saving when troops were transported in buses last summer from Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., to Camp Perry, Ohio.

For discussing ways and means of securing car line extension, street lighting, better gas service, alleys cindered, school extension and many other necessities to residents west of Hague avenue, a mass meeting of residents of this section is called for Friday evening, Nov. 27 at 8 o'clock at the West Broad street school.

These problems confronting the residents west of Hague avenue can be handled through co-operation of all the residents and you are urged to be present to lend your bit in securing these things. The call has been signed by a committee of taxpayers.

Mrs. L. D. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Coben Bray of Winter Garden, Fla., left Columbus last week after a visit with Mrs. M. E. Jones, 119 North Eureka Ave., and other relatives in this city.

A LITTLE STORY THAT'S TRUE

In the early months of 1913 there lived a family on South Princeton Ave., near State St., connected with which were two little boys, for whom a pony had been purchased. The pony was housed in a comfortable stable across the alley from their home lot in the rear of a West Park residence. The two litle boys took great pride in their pony and enjoyed their many daily rides it gave them about the West Side.

In March the great flood came on and the above family, like their neighbors, had to make a quick get away from their home, but they did not get to take the pony, and great was the lamenting of the boys at the loss of their pony friend.

After the flood had subsided and the family returned to their home to restore such things as they could to their proper place, they looked all over for the remains of the pony, but found no trace of it, and came to the conclusion that it had been swept down the river never to be seen again.

Not long after, while the family were in the house, a familiar "neighing" was heard at the back gate and on going out, there stood the pony. Words cannot express the great joy shown by the parents and boys as the little fellows ran and threw their arms around the pony's neck and caressed him, and he seemed to be just a glad in his way to meet his little companions.

Upon investigation it was found that the pony, which was lose in the stable when the water rolled in, seamed possessed with super-intelligence and climbed up a sort of "stairway" that was located at one side of the room and took refuge on some hay on the second floor.

HEALTH HINTS.

By DR. O. E. McFADON

As I sat down to a banquet last week a Hilltop friend said to me:

"Now, look out, doctor, you know what you've been preaching." Later on, he said: "Now I have the evidence: I saw you eat," I said: "All right then, I'll make a full confession, next week, in the Record." And here we are:

I did eat of meat and white bread and mashed potatoes, and next Thursday I expect to do it again, notwithstanding all I've said against them. And I repeat right here, in defense of white bread, the usual argument, that it contains as much protein and more starch than whole wheat bread. And mashed potatoes contain as much starch (which is necessarily about 40 per cent of our food) as if they had been cooked in their jackets. This nutriment we need, and must have. But you ask, "How are we to get it if we don't eat it?" And thereby hangs a tale:

Please read again where I say "White bread contains as much, etc." and "Mashed potatoes contain as much." It is not a question of containing, but is more a question of retaining, for in the digestion of white bread less of the nutriment is retained than when we eat whole wheat bread. It is present in white bread, but we can't get it all out. It is present in whole wheat bread, and we come nearer getting and appropriating it than in white bread. This is because wheat is rich in minerals, and when the bran and other dark parts are removed, the minerals go with it. And the minerals, though not nutrients, are a necessary part of the flour, to make the nutrients available to us.

White bread is not poison—it is good food; but it overworks the digestive organs, and the constant use of it leads to, and promotes, constipation. It is not the absence of the bran we eat that causes this result, so much as it is the absence of the mineral element that goes with the bran. So the white bread should be avoided, not for what it contains so much as for what it does not contain.

Now you begin to ask, why I eat white bread at all? How can I deliberately say that I expect to eat it on Thanksgiving day? etc.

I suppose it is for the same reason that you, and many who read this, eat it every day, namely: We would think ourselves most ungracious not to eat the palatable, attractive creations which are set before us, even though we are aware of a better, more healthful way. That is the "politeness" side of it, which is easy to admit, but the element of appetite and taste are the great deciding factors; they are strong and our wills are weak.

If one who eats white flour productions every day, and one who does not, should indulge in the same Thanksgiving (or other) orgy, the one who behaves himself between banquets would be injured less than the other, for he gets the full benefit of his food without overworking his digestion, and he develops correspondingly more resistance daily. The result of his occasional intemperance is "less worse" than in the case of the other.

In this, we are conceding that both will partake of the same food on a given occasion, and that their behavior will be identical, but the one who has practical knowledge from actual, cultural experience will instinctively modify his intake by his superior judgment. It is like expecting two people of widely different character to act alike.

Their behavior may be the same—or seem to be—upon one occasion, but how was it yesterday, and how will it be tomorrow; how was it a month ago, and how will it be in the weeks to come? And so let our gastronomic behavior be such in our everyday life that vitality results may be satisfactory, and that one occasion of modified gluttony may not result disastrously. If your environment be not conducive, then change it; if you are now dependent upon your club or resturant whose boast is their whitest bread and other denatured food, then get a kitchenette, for instance, and be "master of your fate and captain of your soul." Selah.

A TRAGIC TRUE STORY.

In the misty twilight of a cold, bleak December day in 1899 in the city of Columbus a cab hurriedly driven, stopped in front of Hope Hall, the excited driver leaped from his seat, ran up the steps and rang the bell with such vigor that the startled matron dropped her ledger and pale-faced hurriedly opened the door.

Madam, the man cried out in a harsh voice, "I've a girl out there in my cab that I've been hauling from one so-called charity institution to another since 3 o'clock—all for 50 cents, all the money she has—and I will haul her no longer. Either take her in or I'll dump her on your pavement." From the cab door a quivering voice was pleading, "Oh, lady, please, please take me in. I'm so tired, so cold, and the man is so cross. I'm afraid. Oh, please."

Hope Hall was a local charity—a refuge for erring, homeless girls, for Franklin county. No others eligible unless they had money to pay for room and board. Fortunately there was a rule admitting an emergency case for a night, and so the distracted cabman was relieved of his burden and the shivering, sobbing waif found warmth, shelter and tender sympathy.

This true story is stranger than fiction. The girl's mother was an actress herself but a child in years—and when the dainty little blue-eyed silken-haired bit of humanity was born out of wedlock in a New York hotel she was abandoned by the frenzied girl-mother, and left to the mercy of the cold, selfish world.

When found, the maid notified the proprietor, he the police, and forthwith nude and nameless, wrapped in a blanket, she was taken to a nearby foundling asylum, and later transferred to a children's home. In the home, where all must be treated alike, she was fed and clothed, but her smiles and tears, her sweet innocent prattle, her wistful pleas for love and attention, met with little or no response.

Oh the heart-breaking, utterly indiscribble pathos, of a loveless childhood and a neglected old age.

Surely nothing can ever compensate for the loss of the one, or heal the heart wounds of the other.

When little Bertha (for so she had been named—meaning bright, beautiful) was six years of age Mrs. Randal of Cleveland, Ohio, visited in the Home, was attracted by the beauty and winsomeness of the little girl and notwithstanding the story of her parentage, adopted her.

Mrs. Randal was a weak, worldly, ambitious woman, the mother of two boys, and thought a pretty girl would give a new charm to her palatial home and have a refining influence on her own offspring. And so in Judge Randal's castle by the lake, Bertha grew into girlhood, fastidiously dressed, petted and praised or rebuked, and punished according to the moods and whims of the hysterical foster mother.

Yes, beautiful, but frivolous—a trouble maker—was the comment of Mrs. Randal's friends concerning her protege.

Bertha had some noble traits of character, was industrious, grateful and generous to a fault; but a passion for admiration, for things beautiful, especially for dress and surroundings, dominated—outweighed all else. She seemed utterly devoid of all sense of moral rectitude, or pure womanly instincts. With her the end—her own gratification—justified the means and any conscientious scruples seemed wholly foreign to her nature. To me she was an enigma, a puzzle, a problem.

Did heredity, prenatal influence, environment or all three combined make her what she was in spite of herself? We leave this question and other growing out of it, for the reader to ponder and go back to the story.

At last floating bits of gossip concerning their adopted daughter reached the ears of Judge Randal and wife, and they determined to rid themselves of their assumed responsibility and so Bertha was pronounced incorrigible and committed to the industrial school at Delaware. Soon the age limit was reached here, and she was forced to go out and face the temptations and unknown pitfalls of the world without guardian, friend, kith or kin. The only open door, the kitchen of farmer Brown, who had applied for a "maid of all work. And so, weeping and reluctant, but helpless as a child, she accepted the position.

Soon the beauty of Brown's new maid attracted the attention and captured the fancy of Earl Eaton, a nearby farmer's son, and for a time there was long rides in the evening, frequent lingering calls, marked attention and by and by a wedding day announced. Bertha was joyful and jubilant, drew her wage, packed her trunk with all the dainty things her slim purse could purchase.

The appointed hour arrived, the minister engaged to officiate arrived, but the prospective bridegroom failed to appear. After an anxious waiting a messenger was dispatched to the Eaton home and returned with the startling information that Earl, with all his belongings, had been gone since the night before, leaving no trace behind him. In a forced interview with Mrs. Brown, and between paroxysms of bitter weeping the poor, weak, forsaken girl admitted that in a few months she would become a mother. The Browns now faced a difficult problem. How could they dispose of the unfortunate maid?

After consulting a legal advisor they decided to send her to the "Sisters of Good Shepherd" in Columbus, and so at once, without waiting to hear from the "Sisters", Bertha was taken to the station, given a ticket and 50 cents for cab fare, and placed aboard the train.

The cab driver's story that you have already read, tells of her bitter experience in finding a place of refuge.

We go back to Hope Hall.

The matron placed a cot for the distracted girl in her own room, hoping to comfort her, but for hours her sobs continued and over and over she would cry out, "O, lady, don't, don't let them turn me out. I've no place to go."

It was too pathetic for description. The president of the trustees was consulted by the matron and permission given to kepe the girl until a meeting of the board and she was finally admitted.

Four months later she gave birth to a baby boy, whose cry was a sobb, these continuing until the little faint heart beats ceased. For months Bertha's life hung in the balance, and for nearly two years Hope Hall gave her shelter and protection.

Again she went out as a domestic. This time in a city home. One Sunday afternoon, while walking in High street, a fine looking young man accosted her, said he thought he recognized her, as an acquaintance, said his car was parked near by and invited her for a ride. Again she was the prey of a deceiver. He told her that he was wealthy, he and his mother were staying at a hotel and that if she would come there and register under another name, he would secure for her a nice remunerative position and life would be easy and pleasant.

After a few weeks of butterfly life at the hotel, as she waited for him one night to take her to the theater, a messenger boy handed her this heartless note.

"Goodbye little sweetheart, when you read this, mother and I will be on our way to California—perhaps never to return. Your room rent is paid until Saturday. Get another lover and forgive and forget Jack."

Again tossed among the billows without plank, chart or compass, she sat bewildered, her eyes full of unshed tears and tearing into shreds the stinging note, when there was a knock at her door and Jim Grason, uninvited, entered and took a seat near her.

Grason was an old man—old enough to be Bertha's grandfather, a roustabout around the hotel, and a confident of Jack's, and was posted as to conditions, wanted a housekeeper and with a somewhat unsavory reputation himself, was not choice as to whom, and so he proceeded at once to express sympathy and offered to marry Bertha and take her to his country home. Bertha had seen Grason now and then with Jack. He seemed a kind of fatherly old man, and in sheer desperation she accepted the offer. A license was secured and the ceremony performed.

If I was writing a fictitious story I would speak of happiness, rewards, compensation, etc. But fidelity to facts forbids. Prematurely aged, beauty gone, dispirited and nothing to make life worth the living—a mere slave for food and shelter—this bit of wrecked humanity still answers to the beck and call of Grason. Only an all-seeing, all wise God can untangle the threads of life, fix responsibility, or pass judgment on one so sinned against and so morally weak.—M. M. Marshall.

The garet in Heathfield Hall, Handsworth, in which James Watt conducted the experiments which led to the development of the steam engine, is to me removed to London, where it will be placed in the South Kensington Museum. After his death, Watt's room was locked and remained just as he left it for many years. His tools, benches and leather apron are still there.

The pulp of young cocanuts contains practically all the nourishing qualities to be found in milk.

Mother—"Billy, why are you making your little brother cry?"

Billy—"I'm not. He's dug a hole and fallen on the icy sidewalk. A deacon came along and remarked quite solemnly, "The wicked standeth in a slippery place."

"I see that they do, but I can't," replied the fallen man.

Manager (about to give clerk a lecture)—Mr. Jones, of late your work has been very perfunctory.

Clerk—I've been working here for three months now, sir, and though I've tried my best, that's the first bit of praise I have received since I came. Thank you, sir.—Tit-Bits.

CYCLE HITS AUTO; MOTOR COP HURT

Motorcycle Officer Dan R. McAllister, 452 S. Ogden Ave., suffered a twisted knee last Friday when his motorcycle collided at Oak St. and Grant Ave. with the auto of R. L. Offield, 725 Leonard Ave., parked at the curb.

McAllister was riding south in Grant Ave., when a group of children ran into the path of his motorcycle. He chose of crash into the parked auto rather than to hit the children. The radiator on the car was crushed in and the motorcycle was damaged. McAllister was attended by Police Surgeon Pickering and then taken to his home.

A new tree filler has been tried which has proved to be more successful than cement. It is cork which has been baked under heavy pressure. This new filler is lighter than wood, thoroughly flexible, and antiseptic. All parts being repaired are firmly cemented to the walls of the filler. It has the unusual feautre of coming in a number of shades harmonizing with the bark of the tree. It is less expensive than cement.

A new kind of veet has been invented which seems, in the light of many exacting tests, to be absolutely bullet-proof. This means of protection will probably be adopted by police officers, watchmen, bank messengers, guards, and all others who need to protect themselves from the bullets of lawless people.

The motor-transportation industry in the United States is now larger than the railroad business. The value of the more than 17,000,000 motor vehicles and automobile roads is equal to the value of the railroads. There are 2,750,000 persons employed in the motor car industry, about 1,100,000 more than by the railroads.

The Chinese farmers buy their silkworms' eggs by the card. Each sheet of stiff paper contains over 200,000 eggs. The newly hatched worms are so tiny that the Chinese call them "ants." For the first two or three days they must be fed every two hours, night and day. In 18 days they attain their full growth.

Sweaters for the whole family, $1.95 to $9.50, all sizes.—Seiler's.

Probably the oldest drug store in China is the Tung Jen Tang, which has been in existence since A. D. 1500. The present proprietor is directly descended from the founder of the business.

A parallel of the little Dutch boy who stopped a leak in the dykes with his coat, is found in Elk Lake, Ore., which has been plugged in order to stop its overflowing into the surrounding country.

An immense new reservoir, which is to supply London with water, was completed a short time ago at Littleton, Eng. It has a capacity of over six billion gallons and cost more than $2,000,000 to construct.

The desert along the west coast of South America has recently blossomed "as the rose." A warm ocean current sweeping southward along the coast of South America brought heavy rains to this area which had not known rain since 1551.

OLD PIONEER DAYS

Stories of the Early Days of the Pioneers of This Section. Lucas Sullivant and Party.

In the year 1804 a log cabin stood near the east bank of the Scioto river not far south of where Mound street now crosses. In that cabin lived a man by the name of Keziah Hamlin, and his wife.

Indians of the Wyandot tribe were also living scattered around with white settlers, and as they went back and forth in their hunting trips and paddled their canoes on the Scioto river they many times would make friendly calls at the Hamlin cottage and many times would help themselves to Mrs. Hamlin's cornbread and other edibles of which they were very fond. But they would nearly always leave Mrs. Hamlin the fresh cuts of venison (deer meat), so if she was short on bread, she was very long on meat. And the Hamlins never had reason to complain of being cheated.

On Oct. 16, 1804, there was born in that cabin a baby, who it is said, bore the distinction of being the first white girl born on the east side of the Scioto in what was not long after the town of Columbus proper. She was named "Keziah Hamlin."

When little Keziah came, the Wyandot Indians took a great interest in the little pale face, and never lost an opportunity to admire her in a sort of ecstacy of silence, punctured with grunts of satisfaction. As she grew older and began to toddle about on the dirt floor of the cabin their admiration knew no bounds and then and there the Trilby inspiration took shape and form.

One busy day when Father Hamlin was on a journey to the mill and Mother Hamlin was busy with her household cares and Baby Hamlin was sleeping in her sugar trough cradle, a delegation of Wyandot Indians in gala attire invaded the cabin and instead of depleating the larder, marched Indian file, the chief leading, with Keziah in his arms, and disappeared in the direction of the Indian village in the dense forest at the bend of the Scioto near the old Harrisburg bridge.

It would be impossible to depict the feeling of the mother. She simply endured the terrors of the situation for hours, which passed like slow-paced months, buoyed up only by the faint hope that the children of the forest were merely playing some good natured prank on her. Realizing the uselessness of pursuit, nothing was left her for to hope and endure and long for the return of hre husband.

Hours before his return (far past nightfall) the Indians returned with the tiny captive smiling and cooing in the arms of the bronzed chieftain, and she too was resplendent in gala attire. In addition to the gay outfitting, her feet were encased in a pair of dainty and artistically beaded buckskin moccasins.

Mix to a stiff batter. Bake in a square loaf pan for one and one-half hours. (No eggs or milk used in this recipe and only 2 tablespoons of butter.)

DRIED APPLE CAKE

Two cups of dried apples, chopped fine and soaked in water over night. Then cook in 1 cup of molasses until soft. Add 1 cup each of butter, sugar and sour milk, 2 teaspoons of soda, 1 teaspoonful each of cinnamon, cloves and lemon extract, 1 nutmeg, and enough flour to make stiff. A cupful of raisins may be added. Mix all together and bake in a slow oven one hour.

RAISIN CAKE WITH MAPLE FILLING

Haly cup shortening, 1½ cups sugar, 2 eggs well beaten, 1 cup chopped raisins, ½ cup chopped walnuts, 2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon cinnaman, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, ¼ teaspoon cloves, 1 cup hot apple sauce (strained).

Sift flour, spices and soda. Cream the shortening, beat in the sugar, beaten eggs, raisins and nuts. Add flour alternately with the apple sauce. Bake in greased layer cake pans about 20 minutes in a moderate oven. Fill and ice will maple icing.

A statue representing Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn had been presented to the city of Hannibal, Mo., where Mark Twain lived for many years. The boy heroes are shown as seeking adventure in the woods, and seem to have stepped out of one of the stories.

ASK FOR STREET CAR EXTENSION

Residents West of Hague Avenue Ask That West Broad Cars Run to Big 4 R. R.

A large delegation of people residing west of Hague avenue attended council meeting Monday night and presented a petition urging extension of street car service west in Broad street from Hague avenue to the Big Four crossing, and in Sullivant avenue to Tyler road. This action was the result of a mass meeting of residents of this section in West Broad school last Friday night.

All members of council expressed themselves as heartily in favor of the petition, but as the new franchise of the railway company will soon be before council, it was their opinion that nothing could be done in the matter at present.

However, it was intimated that the Camp Chase cars may be running to the Big Four crossing in the very near future, instead of turning at Broad street as is done at present.

In the last two years the development in this section has been very rapid and it is estimated there are approximately 1500 persons living west of Hague avenue, who are without car service.

A Thought

We stood the other day on the Dublin avenue bridge that goes right over the dam in the Olentangy river. Heavy rains had raised the water so that it was pouring over the dam exceedingly strong. Two logs caught in the current had gone over the dam. We watched the struggle of the logs as they seemed to try again and again to get away and continue their journey southward. But it seemed an impossibility, as they would just get so far away from the force of the falling water when it would draw them back again and above both of them under the foaming waters with a roar that appeared as a mocking laughter when they would bob up again a few feet away and just get a "breathing spell" when the stunt was repeated.

Well, we couldn't help it, but here's what we thought: "How those logs do resemble the situation these days of scores and scores of working men's families, who are unheedingly and thoughtlessly plunging themselves into debt, trying on limited earnings to keep pace with the ways of the world, going way beyond their means in dress, pleasure and household expenses; thus allowing themselves to be caught in the flood tide of debt and carried over the "dam" of despair and as they try to extricate themselves, only draw them back and plunge them under time and time again, till, discouragement brings on discord and love goes out and a divorce suit is often the result. Credit is a "friend indeed" when judiciously used; but, oh boy, "he's a bad actor when abused."

AQUINAS FALLS BEFORE WEEST

Victory came to the West football team Thanksgiving morning in its annual contest with Aquinas, when they defeated that team 18 to 0 on the Neil park grounds. The result of the contest ruined Aquinas' chances of winning the undisputed city scholastic championship.

The defensive work of the West line was noticeable. Captain Ritzman, center, playing his last game, turned in one that will be remembered a long time by West students. The lineup:

West		Aquinas
Kline	l. e.	Loder
Rauka	l. t.	J. Cannon (c)
Trabue	l. g.	Leonard
Ritzman (c)	c.	Corcoran
Rusler	r. g.	Osborne
Wilson	r.	Hodapp
Hedden	r. e.	O'Shaughnessy
China	q. b.	Holtzinger
Mason	l. h.	McCauley
Florio	r. h.	Jennings
Casey	f. b.	Stolzbery

Score by periods:

West	0	7	0	0	18
Aquinas	0	0	0	0	0

Touchdowns—Wilson, 2. Goal following touchdowns—Mason (drop kick). Referee—Graf, Ohio State. Umpire—Jones, Rio Grande. Head linesman—Smith, Ohio State. Time of quarters—12½ minutes.

POWER OF SUGGESTION

Did you ever notice how little confidence the average person places in his or her next door neighbor?

Aren't we too apt to believe that we can and will get a whole lot better service from [illegible] down on ... street than we will from Dr. Jones who is our next door neighbor?

Isn't this simply because Dr. ——— is a stranger to us, and has his office in Medical row, where rents are high and his office hours are 10 to 12 and 2 to 4, and we remember that some one told us that he did so much for their grandmother? and he certainly is just grand.

The thought we want to bring out is that we perhaps unintentionally ignore our neighbor, and we don't stop to think that Dr. ——— is just someone else's neighbor and not a whit better doctor than Dr. Jones who is our neighbor.

On the Hilltop we have just as good merchants and merchandise, just as good doctors, just as good dentists, just as good people in every line, as they have down street.

You cannot drive to High street and home for less than 50c, and most of the time you are unable to park within five or six blocks of where you want to shop. You cannot ride the street cars for less than 10c and it takes from two to three hours time to make the trip.

Then why not patronize the Hilltop? "We cannot live without each other." But the Hilltop can live without High street. "Letshowem."

Announcement of the engagement of Miss Erma Barnhart to Mr. Carlisle O. Dollings was made at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Metzger, 566 Kimball Place Ave., at a dinner party on Thanksgiving day. The wedding will take place in the early spring. Miss Barnhart is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Barnhart, 77 N. Wheatland Ave., and her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Dollings, 1712 E. Main St.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Omar Smith, 490 S. Wheatland Ave., died Wednesday, Nov. 25, at the home of his parents. Burial was made in Green Lawn cemetery Friday.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Irene Preest, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Preest, 70 N. Burgess Ave., to Mr. Ray A. Hoyt, 32 East Frambes Ave. The wedding will be an event of Dec. 16, and will be solemnized at Glenwood M. E. church, Rev. George F. Barber officiating. Both are former students of Ohio State university, where Miss Preest was a member of Phi Omega Pi and Sigma Delta Phi sororities and Mr. Hoyt of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Mathers of Milwaukee and C. S. Hull of Richwood, Ohio, were recent visitors at the home of Mrs. Mather's brother, F. F. Hoskins, 315 Whitethorne Ave.

Nutrition in Foods

While a study of the entire food problem is necessary to satisfaction, but it is well to keep in mind that more comprehensive and far-reaching results lie in the proper balancing of (1) the more nutritious foods (bread, meat, eggs, cheese, etc.) against (2) fruits and vegetables, than can be expected from any other one reform move. For instance: Anybody with chronic constipation, who averages eating 2 parts staple foods (1), to 1 part of fruits and vegetables (2), will always be constipated. Medicines cannot cure constipation while the ratio exists. But, if the ration be changed to 2 parts of fruits and vegetables to 1 part of staple food and is persisted in, the trouble will, most likely vanish, gradually and permanently, without the aid of medicines. Right living cures, or rather gives Nature a chance to cure: cathartic medicines can only give immediate relief, and they rarely add to the difficulty of a permanent cure, later.

Next in importance is Balanced Meals

A balanced ration does not mean that there should be a balance of protein, fats and carbohydrates in each meal. That would be a cause of overeating and is not necessary. A better way would be to balance the meals each day. In this it is well to know how to make up a "fruit meal," a "starch meal," a "protein meal," and have one of each every day. For instance: A fruit breakfast, a starch dinner and a protein supper.

Bread, potatoes, beans, nuts, egg yolk and bananas are considered the starch foods, but most of them carry some protein and fat. Likewise, the protein foods are lean meat, white of egg, cheese, milk, peas and beans, and they also carry fats.

If bread and potatoes are included in any meal, no other meal should contain them on that day, and other starch food should be avoided. Further helpings should be from fruits and non-starchy vegetables.

A meal containing meat, milk and beans is a heavy protein meal and should include nothing else but fruit and vegetables (not potatoes).

Nuts, peas or beans may be the leader in a meal, but should not be repeated the same day. Nuts are too nutritious for dessert.

Meals may be thought of as units, or as component parts of the day's unit. Every meal should be made up with due regard to the meals immediately preceding and following.

Any person, not engaged in hard work should not eat more than one full meal each day; three light meals are better.

Light meals are made up largely of non-starchy vegetables and fruits. No meal is a light meal which contains much of starch or protein.

Meat meals should not occur oftener than twice a week. Butter is the best fat and may be used freely, but fried foods should be avoided.

Sweets should be avoided, or used in moderation. "Milkshakes" and "malted milks" are nutritious food and should be taken as a part of, but not in addition to a full meal.

Finally, the so-called nutritious foods (bread, meat, potatoes, eggs, cheese) should be used in moderation; second helpings and "filling up" should be from light, non-starchy vegetables and fruits.

Dr. O. E. McFadon, osteopath, 106 W. 10th Ave. Un. 7904-W. Residence calls on the Hilltop Wednesday and Saturday mornings.

Vol. 9 — The Hilltop, Columbus, Ohio, December 10, 1925 — No. 33

W. BROAD STREET IN HOLIDAY DRESS

Telephone Poles Decorated with Christmas Trees from Clarendon to Chase Ave.

Hilltop residents were greeted Monday morning with Yuletide decoration on West Broad street in the form of Christmas trees on each telephone pole from Clarendon avenue to Chase avenue. Beneath the trees are cards bearing the slogan, "Trade on the Hilltop."

The Hilltop Business Men's Association is responsible for the unique display and stood all expense in connection with the decorating.

Many favorable comments have been heard and words of commendation given to members of the association in their effort to make the Hilltop a better and brighter community.

It is understood that several business firms will decorate the trees in front of their establishments by placing electric lights in the trees, which will be lighted in the evening, greatly adding to the attractiveness of the decorations.

"CAROLYN'S CHRISTMAS"

Presented By Boy Scout Troop 45 at Highland Avenue P.-T. A. Meeting.

Troop 45 Boy Scouts, sponsored by Highland Avenue Junior High school, helped the P.-T. A. put on their annual Dad and Son meeting at the school Tuesday night, Dec. 8. The play, entitled "Carolyn's Christmas," was a take off on one of Stephen Leacock's Nonsense novels. The main actors were John Wolfe as John Enderby; James Matheny, his wife, Anna; Robert Wolfe their son, who had gone away as a youth to make a million dollars; Phil Koontz, as Henry, their other son who had been in Sing Sing; his wife, Carolyn, Ralph Harper; and Frank Howard as the village lawyer. The play was well ordered and enthusiastically received by the parents and children.

Although the boys in Troop 45 have been organized less than one year they have made marked advancement from the standpoint of permanency. The turn over has been large, due mostly to parental disinterest or objection and lack of initiative on the part of the boy, which of course is usually traced back to the home influence.

The active program consists of one weekly indoor meeting where they are instructed in the various Scout tests, first aid, signaling, mop making, etc., and an outdoor program where cooking, fire building, tracking, camping, etc., are taught. It takes a real red-blooded youth to compete as a regular scout. One boy commenting on why he joined said, "It makes you hard without making you tough."

The active personnel is: Frank Howard, John Wolfe, Robert Wolfe, Ralph Harper, Clyde Eckard, Charles Thurston, Fred Marsh, Harry Latham, Frank Hibbs, James Matheny, Harvard Hobbs, Virgil Brooks, Gerald Tallman, Charles Sims, Delmar Schenck, Cyril Foster and Paul Brooks.

Petition for Car Service

A petition asking that West Broad street car service be extended from Hague avenue to the Big Four railroad was presented to council Monday night by C. J. Kohn and 565 other members of Westgate Masonic lodge.

Christmas Tree at Hilltop Library

For the pleasure of the children patrons of the Holmes Hilltop Library a Christmas tree will greet them next week, Dec. 17, 18 and 19, at the library.

The library is greatly in need of children's books and as a plan to attain this end, envelopes will be distributed to the children for an offering for this purpose.

It is planned to have the children return the envelopes containing their offering on the three days and the money received from this source will be used for the purchase of children's books.

Central-Sullivant Civic Association

The residents of Central and Sullivant avenue district held a meeting last Monday evening for the purpose of organizing a civic association for the benefit of that vicinity.

A temporary organization was effected by those present and arrangements were made to meet again next Monday evening, Dec. 14, at Anderson's garage on Sullivant avenue, a few doors east of Central. An invitation is extended to all persons living in that locality to be present and help in forming a permanent organization. The meeting is called for 8 o'clock.

Read the Record ads—then shop on the Hilltop.

Social Notes

Mrs. William Hughes, 20 Eldon Ave., will be hostess to the Robert Morris Social club Friday, Dec. 18, at 2 o'clock. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. E. E. Hooper, Mrs. J. M. Hoover, Mrs. L. F. Heid, Mrs. Cone Hill, Mrs. Don Latham and Mrs. Russell P. Gregg. Since this is the Christmas meeting, the president, Mrs. James J. Dunlap, would like as many members of the club to attend as possible.

Robert Morris Social club will entertain with a card party at Lafayette room Friday Dec. 11 at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Daniel Jerman, Mrs. O. L. Melvin, Mrs. Thomas McGlinchey and Mrs. William Hughes are in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Denny Wells of Crescent Drive was hostess to the members of the Hilltop Embroidery club at their last regular meeting Wednesday, Dec. 2. The charity work of the club was arranged at this time and the Christmas party planned, which will be held at the home of Mrs. H. H. Shaffer, 38 Belmont Ave., Monday evening, Dec. 21.

MANY PUPILS ON HONOR ROLL

One Hundred and Fourteen Pupils on Highland Avenue List.

Highland Avenue school principals and teachers are feeling unusually well pleased over the list of pupils on the honor roll this month. The number—114 in all—represents an unusually high standard of work done on the part of these pupils as well as an effective quality of teaching. The standard of Highland's honor list is unusually high, too, for a junior high, requiring one-half of the grades to be B's and one-half G's, thus getting on the honor roll is a genuine and worthwhile achievement.

The list in its entirety appears below and especial commendation is to be given the 7B's, as their number is unusually high—30 in all. The 7A's ranked next, having 28 on the list.

A Correction

Through an oversight on our part an error was allowed to get by in the advertisement of the Hilltop Building & Loan on the third page of this issue. That association is having a guessing contest among the boys and girls on the Hilltop as to the number of Christmas Savings accounts taken at the association by Dec. 24, 1925. The two paragraphs in which the errors occur should read:

"To the girl that guesses the nearest number of Christmas Savings Accounts in the Hilltop Building & Loan by Dec. 24, 1925, we will give a Large Baby Doll.

"To the boy that guesses the nearest number of Christmas Savings accounts in the Hilltop Building & Loan by Dec. 24, 1925, we will give a regulation Football."

Read the above two paragraphs carefully, then turn to the ad and you will see the rest of the offer.

Seein' and Hearin' Things

—The Bobb Chevrolet Co. on Parsons avenue had a "Talking Chevrolet" parked in their salesroom for several days. Last week, John Perry, an "inmate" of No. 10 Engine House, who had never seen a "talking auto," dolled up with his new driving gloves and other things and went over to see that mysterious thing.

No sooner had he entered the room where the T. C. was sojourning than said T. C., casting his eyes and seeing his big driving gloves, exclaimed: "Hello, Ralph De Palma." John, not knowing whether to doff his hat or bow his knee, "grinningly" shied up to T. C. Its keeper, seeing the brass buttons on John's coat, asked T. C. how many there were, and received a correct answer. He then covered John's watch with his hands and asked it the time of day by that watch and again received the correct answer. Whereupon John's face assumed a picture of surprise and he commenced to hunt around among its "slats and shinbones" to see if he could locate its pulse or gizzard. But after many more demonstrations of its "intelligence" John departed for home filled with wonderment.

Next morning, hurrying over to the engine house, he related his experience to his companions, but said they couldn't fool him, as he bet there was a man or something mixed up under the hood of the machine.

The postoffice department of the United States government reports that first-class mail pays a handsome profit. But that the delivery of newspapers and magazines is attended by a deficit of $60,000,000. The favoritism in the second and third-class mail schedules is based on the assumption that such matter is educational.

VARIED PROGRAM AT P.-T. A. MEETING

Father and Son Banquet, Singing, Plays and Speeches Are Included.

Not only fathers and sons, but mothers and daughters were present at Highland Avenue school when a most enjoyable evening was spent under the auspices of the P.-T. A. Elliott, scoutmaster, gave an interesting and humorous play, "Carolyne's Christmas."

The city civil service board has announced that examination for batallion chief and captain in the fire department will be held within a short time.

BUY USEFUL XMAS GIFTS

The giver of useful Christmas gifts is long remembered by the recipient and many times during the year is he or she thought of as the gifts more and more find a place in the daily life of those who are using them.

ELECTRICAL GOODS

Electrical goods are especially appropriate and useful. An Electric Iron to make the work easier for the housewife, an Electric Toaster or Grill eliminates many steps, and Electric Floor, Bridge and Boudoir Lamps add much to the beauty and comfort of the home.

Sleds for the Kiddies

When the ground is all covered with snow, have a Sled ready for the youngsters and they will enjoy every minute they are using it. Get them one of our sleds that they can guide as they coast.

Holiday Decorations

To give the home the holidady spirit, decorations are a necessity. We have all the decorations one can wish for to beautify the home. Use our decorations and know that you have bought the best.

Good Tools

Every man enoys working with good tools, no matter how small the job may be. Dad or Big Brother will appreciate a selection from our list of standard make tools.

Coaster Wagons

Every child should have a wagon. There is no more appropriate time to buy one than for a Xmas gift. Our line is complete with all sizes.

A TRUE STORY

Noticing the "Smart Dog" contest in the Citizen reminds me of the clever trick of a Hilltop log some time ago.

Dr. Turner left his watchdog "Jerry" in his machine and went into a drug store.

Some little boys, out looking for some fun, began teasing the dog and finally began poking a stick at him. At first he merely barked a playful bark, but they kept it up until he grew impatient and growled and showed his teeth. At this the boys ran, but soon returned. Seeing them returning, Jerry promptly jumped out and lay down by the curb, keeping his eyes upon the boys. By and by one of them, a bit more venturesome than his companions, again approached him, stick in hand. At once "Jerry" bounded up and when the boy turned and ran, Jerry ran after him, snatched the cap from the boy's head, then returned to the machine and lay down with the cap by his side. The boy cried and begged his companions to help him get his cap, but all kept their distance.

When the doctor came out, Jerry looked at him knowingly, and leaving the cap, jumped into the machine.

The doctor restored the cap and admonished the boys not to trouble dogs that were not troubling them.

We are not particularly fond of dogs, but such sagacity demands our notice and admiration. M. M. Marshall.

ENVELOPES FOR XMAS OFFERING

Distributed to Library Patrons for Purchase of Children's Books.

Patrons of the Holmes Hilltop Library are being greeted by a beautifully decorated Christmas tree in keeping with the spirit of the holiday season, and a vote of thanks is due the girls of the Junior Hesperian club, who so generously donated their time to decorate the tree.

During the past week Christmas offering envelopes have been passed out to the patrons as they visited the library, in which to place an offering for the purchase of new juvenile books.

The library is badly in need of juvenile books as a great many children use these books continually, and the books of this class are badly in need of replenishing. The trustees have adopted the plan of asking the patrons for a Christmas offering for this purpose and it is hoped the patrons, both children and grown-ups, will respond to this appeal and present their offering on one of the three days set aside for this purpose—Dec. 17, 18 and 19.

Mail boxes are attached to trolley cars in Barkingside, England. Passengers are thus save the trouble of seeking a letter box on their way to the car line.

The invention of the harp was due to an accident, we read. On the other hand, the inventor of the bag-pipes was a Highland cottager who got the idea through stepping on a cat.—The American Boy.

A LITTLE STORY THAT'S TRUE

We were told this one during the past week.

Back in the sixties Columbus was one town and Franklinton (the region of Sandusky and Broad streets) was another. A young man by the name of Charles Deets, who worked in the Columbus postoffice, had an attraction in Franklinton in the person of a young lady who lived on the main road (now Broad street) near the north end of Glit street.

It is said that affections at the time between boys on the west side of the Scioto and those on the east side were at a very low ebb and when east side youngsters happened to cross over to the west side there was often something doing.

Well, one Sunday night, after Charles had visited his Franklinton "sweetie," he went out and untied his horse he had hitched in front of her home, jumped into his buggy and started on tward toward home. He had not gone far until all four wheels came off his buggy and he was landed flat in the road. On investigation he learned some of the "rowdies" had removed the burrs that held the wheels on.

The next Sunday night he came again with his horse and buggy and after the usual "prolongers" then likewise untied his horse, jumped into his buggy, started the horse, but to his surprise and dismay the horse started, but the buggy didn't. This time they had cut the harness. By the use of ropes and string he got home, however.

Not to be outdone, the next Sunday night he left his horse and buggy home and walked over to see his "sweetie."

When he started to return home he was met outside by a crowd of youngsters, who started after him and stoned him all the way to and through the covered bridge to the east side of the river.

This ended his visits and he had to seek a sweetie elsewhere.

New Stock Room

Voss Bros., Hilltop auto dealers, are erecting a ten-foot addition to the east side of their building, which will be used as a stock room for auto parts.

Why Is It?

Recently a woman was walking across the West Broad school lawn, instead of using the walk. (By the way, this is the common practice of a few people.) One of the traffic officers of the school asked her, very politely, to please use the sidewalk.

Note her reply: "I pay taxes. I can walk on this lawn if I want to."

How can adults expect something better than this from the children, when adults set such an example?

Continuous Sessions for High Schools

Upon recommendation of Superintendent Collicott the board of education decided Monday that Columbus senior and junior high schools will hereafter have a continuous session from 8:15 a. m. until 3:15 p. m. daily. Assistant City Attorney Davis has approved the regulation.

A period of not less than one-half hour will be granted at noon for relaxation and luncheon and, for purposes of supervision, pupils must remain on the school premises unless excused by the principal.

Last Sunday afternoon Frank Milke of Clarendon Ave. and Forncraft St., while driving east on Sullivant Ave., (we do not know how fast) hit an obstruction at Central Ave., and when the mixup was untangled he found it was the Ford coupe of Frank Jones of Urbancrest. Jones' machine was rolled completely over and its driver received a good-sized cut above the right ear from the flying broken glass. Milke's Ford was somewhat disfigured in the regions of the radiator and front axle.

St. John's Luther League meets this (Thursday) evening at 7:30. The topic for debate is: "Which Is Most Destructive to Life and Property, Water or Wind?" There will also be a program of reading and music.

The young people of Glenwood church will hold an old-fashioned Santa Claus party in the social rooms of the church Tuesday, Dec. 23 at 8 o'clock.

Seein' and Hearin' Things

—A lady, whose name we did not ascertain, alighted from a westbound Camp Chase car at Sullivant and Larcomb last Sunday evening, was hit and about run over by a young fellow in too big a hurry to stop, but who turned his machine into the cub just in time to avoid what would surely have been a bad accident and probably fatal for the lady. When will some of those "hurry up" fellows learn to obey the laws?

—A West Side merchant had on display last Sunday in his front window a nice lot of fresh fruits in the center of which was a fine box of figs, just opened, upon which was parked the store cat. 'Twas probably all right for the cat. Nevertheless———.

—We'll bet one of our community's four-year-old boys was "called on the carpet" the other day after his stunts of sliding down a dirt hill several times in his new Sunday clothes and sailor hat. If not, he ought to have been.

The foundation for the east wing addition to West High school is all in and the brick work has been started. When completed there will be eight new class rooms, a drawing room and restaurant.

—Seen on Broad street. "Used Tires" changed to "Abused Tires."

ABSOLUTE SECURITY IN INVESTMENT

All want absolute security for their money.

If high yield is desired, the investor must forego absolute safety and allow the rule of finance to prevail: "The higher the interest yield the greater the risk."

There is no risk, or chance of loss, in THE BUCKEYE'S 5% interest from date Certificates of Deposit, because all funds are loaned exclusively on first mortgage real estate—Homes—at the low rate of 6½%, which attracts securities that meet with THE BUCKEYE'S policy of proper safety.

If it's in THE BUCKEYE, it is safe.

Pioneer Days

We wonder how many persons who pass over the old canal bed southwest of the city realize what an important part it played in the early history of Columbus.

On April 30, 1827, between 800 and 900 citizens of the new town of Columbus and surrounding territory assembled at the old statehouse at the northeast corner of High and State streets and at 2 o'clock formed a procession headed by Colonels McDowell and McElvain and preceded by General Warner and a part of a company of the Columbus Dragoons and Captain Foos' company of riflemen, Columbus Artillery and state officials, marched to the place of the beginning of this part of the Ohio canal. After short addresses Nathaniel McLean, the keeper of the penitentiary (a small building) proceeded to remove the first earth in the excavation of the canal.

After that a feast that was prepared on the "brow of the hill north of the penitentiary square" was partaken of, followed by toasts—"The Ohio Canal"—"the great artery which will carry vitality to the extremities of the union." Also "The citizens of Columbus. Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity. Who envies this day, let him slink back to his cavern and growl."

This branch of the canal was over four years in process of construction. The heaviest jobs were the canal dam across the Scioto and the Columbus locks and the Four-mile locks at Lockbourne. The first mile was excavated by penitentiary convicts.

September 28, 1831, the first boat arrived at Columbus by way of the canal. About 8 o'clock in the evening the firing of cannon announced the approach of the "Governor Brown," a canal boat launched at Circleville a few days previous and fitted up for a pleasure excursion to this place. Many Pickaway county citizens were aboard. On the afternoon of the second day the "Cincinnati" and the "Red Rover" from the lake by way of Newark entered the lock at the mouth of the Columbus feeder. These boats were all received with joy and celebration by the citizens.

The boats were pulled along the canal by teams of horses or mules hitched to the boat by a long rope, and walking along a tow path on the bank of the canal. The populace who traveled by way of the canal boats were highly delighted with their ride at the rate of three or four miles an hour.

MRS. J. M. DOLLISON DIES SUDDENLY

Mrs. Mary Dollison, aged 86 years, wife of J. M. Dollison, 128 Clarendon Ave., died suddenly at her home Saturday morning from heart disease.

Mr. Dollison did not learn of his wife's death until he returned home from work at 4:30 Saturday afternoon. He is a piano tuner and collector for the Wurlitzer company and left home early Saturday morning, leaving Mrs. Dollison as well as usual, although she had been in failing health for some time. Efforts to locate Mr. Dollison early in the day were unavailing as he was working over the south end of the city.

Besides her husband she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Helen Wharton; a son, H. E. Schenck, and a sister, Mrs. Katherine Millington.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning. Interment was made in Green Lawn cemetery.

Right Quick

How big is a cord of wood? Well, a cord of wood is 8 feet long, 4 feet wide and 4 feet high, and contains 128 cubic feet. Taking the average stick of cord wood, a 4-inch diameter would make 288 sticks to the cord, cut at both ends would mean 576 cuts of 4 inches each or 2304 inches equal to a log 19 feet, 2 inches in diameter.

In the days of real wood choppers, 50 years ago, it was not uncommon for a good one to cut from 2 to 5 cords of wood a day. How would the average young man of today get along if he were to attempt to cut a log 19 feet, 2 inches in diameter, in two with an ax?

But what's the different, we don't need to cut wood like we used to 50 years ago, and if we did it wouldn't be much more of a job than to endure day after day the eye strain that thousands of people are enduring because of defective vision without properly fitted glasses. Mr. Linville at No. 12 South Park Ave., optician and optometrist, says that as a wood chopper he never made much progress, but with his many years of experience in the optical business he knows he can give you service when it comes to making glasses. His telephone number is Ra. 2407.

GREEN DOMINO CLUB ENTERTAIN

Present "Three Pills in a Bottle" at West High School as Christmas Offering.

"Three Pills in a Bottle" was delightfully given Wednesday afternoon in West High school auditorium as the Christmas offering of the Green Domino club.

The leading roll of Annie Sims as presnt to greater endeavors. The pufful and heartbreaking as the well-known "Tiny Tim," while the Christmas touch was added by Helen Parrett as the Spirit of Christmas. A solo dance and a song given by Sylvia Dyer were much appreciated. The ending was most impressive, all kneeling as the Spirit of Christmas blessed them and the high school quartet sang "Silent Night."

PROGRAM FOR STATE PATIENTS

A special Christmas program was given in the chapel at the Columbus state hospital Sunday afternoon when a sermon was delivered by Rev. R. E Shields. Music for the program was furnished by a special double quartet with Miss Ethel Greiser presiding at the organ.

Tuesday a special moving picture show was given for the patients of the institution and on Thursday evening another picture show will be given. Friday the big Christmas entertainment will start with the lighting of the trees in the cottages at 8 a. m. Distribution of packages and presents will start at 9 o'clock and a special Christmas dinner will be served at 12:30. In the evening there will be a dance for patients and employes. Next Sunday the chapel services will be conducted by Rev. George F. Barber.

Fire caused by an electric iron at the residence of B. H. Schwarsel, 390 S. Harris Ave., Wednesday afternoon caused a loss of $100.

A fire loss of $10 was sustained at the Dispatch sub station on North Oakley Ave., Wednesday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock.

Some beautiful expressions of Christmas have been written by students of West High school as the result of an announcement in the last edition of the Occident. Two by a senior are unusually good:

To My Father

Here's a greeting to my Dad,
The finest pal one ever had.
Here it is from beginning to end,
The heartiest wishes I can send—
"A Merry Christmas."

To My Mother

From the bottom of my heart,
Where most good things have their start,
Comes a greeting for no other
Than the one I call my Mother.
"A Happy Christmas."

Mrs. F. M. Robbins, 67 Midland Ave., will leave this week to spend Christmas with her son and his family at Signal Mountain, Tennessee.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wyman, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wyman and Professor and Mrs. John H. Gill were entertained Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Scothorn of Ashville, Ohio.

Excelsior Society

By Carrie Fleming

The Excelsior society, which is the honorary society of Highland Junior High school, held their annual initiation program Friday, Dec. 18, at Glenwood church. Numbers were played by the school orchestra and the Boy's Glee club also sang. Mr. Reighley, the principal, spoke to the pupils and introduced Mr. Littleton, vice principal, who explained the meaning of the Excelsior society.

"Excelsior" means higher, loftier, he said. The society is composed of pupils who are striving to go higher. The requirements are a large proportion of grades in E's and G's and a high character standing as well.

The Excelsior pins were then presented by Mr. Littleton to the following people: Blanche Bond, Charlotte Bostwick, Grace Cassidy, Helen Daniels, Ruth Dell, Dorothy Fuller, Ralph Hill, Dorothy King, Faye King and Martha Shoenberger.

Mr. Littleton spoke appropriate words of congratulation to these new members and Grace Cassidy responded on behalf of the Excelsior society.

Mr. Reighley then presented Superintendent J. C. Collicott, who told what he thought an honorary society should mean as an ideal to pupils.

He held everyone's attention by a fine speech which inspired every pupil present ot greater endeavors. The pupils will not soon forget this talk.

The Boys' Glee club then sang "Silent Night" and the pupils were dismissed.

OBITUARY

The body of Mrs. Mamie Williams, 30, wife of Eugene Williams, 283 Highland Ave., who died Monday at Phoenix, Aris., where she went in September for her health, was brought to Columbus for burial. She is also survived by a son, Eugene; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Davidson; a sister, Mrs. Grace Garnes, and a brother, Ernest Davidson.

Blood poison, which is thought to have developed from an infected tooth, caused the death at Mt. Carmel hospital, Sunday, of William H. Harrison, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Harrison, of North Hague Ave.

The little boy was a pupil at Skidmore school and is survived by the parents, two brothers and three sisters.

A LITTLE STORY THAT'S TRUE

After we heard the little story of last week about the pranks played against the Columbus lover who had a sweetie over in Franklinton a good many years ago, this one was told about a happening in those days near the same place:

A tavern was located on the north side of the National Road (Broad street) near the present Grub street. One day an alarm of fire was sent in from there to the Columbus fire department. Hook and ladder Company No. 4 responded. All fire apparatus was pulled by men catching hold of a long rope attached to it and running as hard as they could to the fire.

After reaching the above place they found that it was a false alarm and started to return to the east side of the river, when a bunch of young fellows from Franklinton surrounded the "crew" and drove them away, stoning them across the bridge. Then they took the hook and ladder wagon and ran it into the saloon adjoining the tavern, and celebrated the occasion in a hilarious way.

It is said some of the fellows present on that occasion are still living on the West Side.

The U-Go-I-Go Embroidery club entertained with a Christmas party on the evening of Thursday, Dec. 17, at the home of Mrs. E. B. Bieber, 116 Eldon Ave. The house was very beautifully decorated with Christmas decorations. The time was spent with the exchange of gifts and a contest which Mrs. F. W. Patton and Mrs. C. W. Evans winning prizes. A very delightful lunch was served by the hostess, after which everyone parted wishing the hostess a Merry Christmas and a Happy Ney Year. Members present were: Mrs. W. H. Borland, Mrs. C. W. Evans, Mrs. C. F. Gillivan, Mrs. B. G. Planck, Mrs. F. W. Patton, Mrs. George Snow and Mrs. C. W. Speckman and son Carl. The invited guests were: Miss Belle Evans, Mrs. Harry Kinnamon and Mrs. S. L. Rising. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. W. H. Borland, 50 S. Burgess Ave.

Christmas Party for Prospect Children

The Young Ladies' Missionary society of Hoge Memorial Presbyterian church entertained at a Christmas party for children of the Prospect addition in the church-house Monday evening from 7 to 9. About 45 children were brought to the church by members of the congregation in automobiles, and take into their homes after the party.

Games of various kinds were provided and refreshments were served. After this, Santa Claus brought a gift for each one present, also a treat of candy and oranges.

A miscellaneous shower was given Thursday evening, Dec. 17, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Thompson, 364 Midland Ave., in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cox (Janet Sims). The bride was the recipient of many useful and beautiful gifts. The spirit of the holidays was carried out in Christmas decorations. The guests included: Misses Irma Williams, Alberta Williams, Dorothy Williams, Dolores Springer, Gladys Page, Florence Leon, Grace Wilcox, Florence Thompson, Clara Elliott, Helen Fosmark, Messrs. Kenneth Romosier, Edward Trott, Otto Riebel, Joe Hagerty, Ralph Elliott, David Elliott, Johnny Albanese, Mrs. Fosmark, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Bels, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Amon, Mr. and Mrs. William Seeds, Mrs. Cecil Cox and Mr. and Mrs. Thompson.

Mrs. G. W. Matson, 87 N. Warren Ave., and Mrs. P. G. Gants, 167 N. Warren Ave., returned Sunday from a two weeks' visit in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Churton and sons, and Jabes Churton of Huntington, W. Va., are spending the holidays at the home of Mrs. Churton's mother, Mrs. Isabella Burnside, 92 N. Powell Ave.

The corner of Broad and Oakley now has the resemblance of a minature pine forest, because of the multitude of Christmas trees on display by different parties near there. The large flower garden Jim Young usually has on the west side of his grocery has been changed to a "Christmas tree garden."—It is too bad that the residents on North Park Ave. were put to such a disadvantage so long by the temporary parking of that large house on that street just off of Broad. It does seem that this inconvenience could have been avoided—especially at this time of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Loomis and son Erwin, 155 N. Park Ave., are spending the holiday season with Mrs. Loomis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Paine, Ashtabula, Ohio.

When Is the Ice Safe for Skating

Skating is one of the keenest of all sports and deserves to be encouraged. Accidents are not frequent; but when they occur, they are usually due to ignorance of ice conditions and are often given as reasons for keeping the boy from doing the healthy, outdoor thing he loves.

A boy who understands ice and its dangers of air holes, cracks, soft spots, and anchor ice will not deliberately thrust himself into danger or permit others to do so. The following questions and answers may help to understand ice conditions.

Q. What is safe thickness of ice for skating?

A. From four to six inches of Black Ice is considered thick enough for safe skating. The smaller the pond the safer.

Q. What is the difference between Black Ice and any other kind of ice?

A. Black Ice indicates that the ice is clear of air and snow and is much stronger than white ice, if it is of the required thickness. White spots in the ice may indicate air holes.

Q. What is an air hole? (B) Snow ice?

A. An air hole is an opening in the ice caused by bubbles arising from springs, rapidly running currents, or eddies, which seldom permit the ice to form. If it does form, it is very brittle for some distance. Cracks sometimes appear around such a hole. (B) Snow ice is formed by snow falling as the ice forms or by snow falling on top of the ice, then melting and refreezing. Such ice frequently disguises air holes and is therefore more dangerous than black ice.

Q. What causes cracks? What is anchor ice? Slush ice?

A. Cracks are caused by a great weight being placed on ice too thin to bear it, or are caused by expansion. Anchor ice is ice that forms so thick that it anchors itself to the shore or bottom. Slush ice is snow ice just forming or melting—misleading and very dangerous.

He who goes through the ice is truly in the most desperate straits. The paralyzing cold of the icy water that numbs body and brain, a handhold almost impossible to maintain, the ceaseless drag of the current—all these rapidly reduce the chances of getting out. If a rescue is made, correct action must be instantaneous. Many fall in, but few are rescued. Observation and good judgment will eliminate many such accidents.

In attempting a rescue, if possible proceed in this manner: Yell for help. Make a slip noose in the end of a rope and holding one end, throw the other to the person in the water and yell—"Quick, put your hand through that loop!" Pull up and you have him. He cannot go down; and with such help as you give him by pulling, should enable him to break the thin ice and climb out. If you have help, form a human chain and drag him out.

Do not venture to the edge of the hole unless there is a rope around you and in the hands of rescuers. In that case, lie down and spread your weight by stretching out as much as possible.

A board, ladder or pole may often serve as a means of rescue when pushed out, but get that rope around his wrist first of all if you can.

After such an accident—heat, thorough exercise and fires. Get him home as soon as possible.—F. C. Mills, Swimming and Water Safety, Department of Camping, Boy Scouts.

TWO VIEWS

We often see mother and daughter together—perhaps on a car. They may be strangers to us but the resemblance is often unmistakable. The likeness may be in features or actions or both, but either may be convincing evidence of close relationship. If the mother be modest and quiet, so is the daughter. If the mother be dominant, talkative, nervous, similar actions will no doubt show in the daughter. These resemblances may be from heredity or environment or both, but in any case the responsibility of the parent is very great.

Children have a right to a good birth, with a background of good ancestry, but that is only the beginning. Environment involves not only such surroundings as we can see, but also various contacts through the other special senses. And of still more importance is the character and mentality of the people we meet, which is rightfully a part of the environment.

The success of pupils in school will depend more upon what the teachers really are than upon what they know or say. As citizens, we do not come in contact with children so closely as do their teachers, but we are all teachers of others, whether we will or not, and more than we imagine. We do not realize to what extent every act of our lives, as well as our words, influence others for better or worse. Most people underrate and undervalue their personal influence. Herein is a great responsibility.

The opportunities for impress of the father upon the children can never be as great as that of the mother; and as is the opportunity, so is the responsibility; "as is the mother, so is the daughter."

Going back, in imagination, we visualize the mother and grandmother of the self possessed mother and daughter, in which we see rational causes for daughter's personality. The ancestors were, most likely, of the thoroughgoing, reliable sort, dependable, but not easily influenced—a lineage from which a posterity of desirable It should be so, for therein is the only

Possibly the grandmother was hysterical. If so, we might divide the honors between heredity and environment as to the causes of similar traits in the present generation, and carry the analogy on down through posterity.

Or, shall we hope for improvement in the present and future generations? It should be so for therein is the only hope of the race. We humans, who are inclined to demand improvement in the other fellow, can easily see how the mother whom we now have on the stand, should excel her mother in every way, for the benefit of her own daughter and her descendants—a fitting program for all of us.

It is just possible that generations of bad cooking is an outstanding cause. It has been truly said that "As a man thinketh so is he," and is equally true, as has been said, that "As a man eateth, so is he," for what we eat today is responsible, in a good measure, for our acts and thoughts tomorrow. The housewife chooses, perhaps and serves the family's food. This vitally interesting, three-times-a-day contact with the family throughout the family history makes her responsible, in a great measure, for their successes and failures. The selection of food for the family depends upon her judgment, and it is not enough that she follow the lines of least resistance and rely upon the nourishing foods, or "as mother used to do," but, on the other hand it requires constant study. The "nourishing foods" fallacy is the easiest mistake to make, for, important as the nourishing foods are, their over-use is the cause of many serious diseases. As the hushing of the strings is important in harp or piano music, so are the dont's important in foodology.

In the December number of Correct Eating is a comparison of the health and food of two families. Family No. 1, with a grandmother at 70 as agile as if she were but 50 and all other members in good health. Their staple foods for years were fruits, fresh vegetables, fresh meats in moderation, very little bread, no coffee, tea or other hot drinks, very little sugar and no condiments.

Family No. 2—Salty ham, string beans from a can; nut and white bread, usually hot; pickles, sweet preserves, pie, coffee; with much of condiments, such as salt, pepper, worcester sauce, catsup, mustard, etc. (The condiments perverts the taste and appetite.) In this family we find heart and kidney trouble, paralysis, tuberculosis, goitre and prolapsed stomach.

Neither family (because of their habit) would be satisfied with the dietary of the other, but habits in foods, like other habits, can be changed and should go in the direction of the best results. In this the fruit and vegetable diet always wins against the diet of "nourishing foods."

It is well here, to take a comprehensive view. Imagine the difference in the dietaries of the two great-great-grandmothers, and the traditional results up to the present time. Then, with a forward look, what are the possibilities in the following generations? When shall the reform commence? Let the one who starts the reform feel that she is not only benefitting herself and family but all posterity. Verily the responsibility is great. We should find much hope in the home economics as taught now in the schools. Let us not be too ready to condemn "new fangled notions." They are, of course, intended for betterment and should be encouraged.

Dr. O. B. McFadon, osteopath, 106 W. 10th Ave. Un. 7904-W. Residence calls on the Hilltop Wednesday and Saturday mornings.

Birthday of Hope

By Rev. P. W. Drumm

"What is hope? The beauteous sun,
Which colors all it shines upon!
The beacon of life's dreary sea;
The star of immortality."

Christmas belongs to the world and is rightly its time of jubilee. It brought forth Him, who is the king of life, with song of angelic minstrelsy to humble shepherds, and starry messenger to distant Magi, who came to worship Him. We no longer date from scenes of Eden but from the Nativity of Jesus Christ. This should be the most happy season of the year. How we welcome this dear old festival!

Old age and middle life together will renew their youth, while those of more tender years will revel in its enjoyments. Old and young, rich and poor, are brought together on a common footing, on this glad Advent Day of the world's redeemer.

Many hearts will be made glad by the tokens of regard received from friends. God gave His Son to us on the first Christmas day. O precious gift! The divine side of the Christmas feast was the giving and the human side is the receiving. We must learn how to receive before we can know how to give. The divine logic is: "Freely ye have received, freely give."

What glorious opportunities we have for portraying that spirit which was in Christ Jesus! O, that the inspiration of the season may widen the philanthropy and deepen the love of human souls until every one shall have been brought into touch with the sublime lessons of Christmastide.

The poor we have always with us and the should not be forgotten.

"Vainly we offer each ample oblation,
Vainly with gold would His favor secure;
Richer by far is the heart's adoration:
Dearer to God are the gifts of the poor."

While the yulelog burns on our pleasant hearthstones, and the merry peals of laughter go round, let us not forget that we are celebrating the day when the angelic throng proclaimed the "tidings of great joy which shall be to all people" even "peace on earth good will to men." Happy are we if we lend a voice in the spread of these glorious tidings.

"Amid the freezing sleet and snow,
In pity drive him not away,
But scatter out your crumbs."
The timid robin comes:

We wish to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors, for the kindness shown us on the death of our sister, Elizabeth J. Michael, and for the beautiful floral offerings; R. E. Jones & Son Co. for the efficient services, Rev. Matheny for his consoling words and the ladies for the vocal selection.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael.

Recipes

TOASTED BROWN BETTY

Three medium sized apples, 1 cup toast crumbs, ¼ cup butter, ¼ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, juice and rind of one lemon, ¼ cup boiling water.

Pare, quarter, core and slice apples. Melt butter and mix with toast crumbs (toast put through food chopper). Mix cinnamon, grated lemon rind and sugar together. Put alternate layers of crumbs and apples into a buttered baking dish, sprinkling each layer of apples with sugar mixture. Before adding the last layer, which should be crumbs, pour on boiling water, to which lemon juice has been added. Bake covered for three-quarters of an hour or until the apples are soft, then uncover and brown. Serve with hard sauce.

TOAST FRUIT PUDDING

One cup toast crumbs, 1 cup flour, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup mixed fruit, 3 tablespoons butter, ½ cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 3 teaspoons baking powder.

Combine toast crumbs (toast put through food chopper), flour, sugar, salt and baking powder. Rub in the butter. Beat egg until light, add milk and stir into the dry ingredients. Sprinkle in a little flour on fruit and add to mixture. Bake about 30 minutes. Serve hot with a pudding sauce.

CHOCOLATE TOAST PUDDING

Two cups milk, 2 squares chocolate, 2 tablespoons butter, ½ cup granulated sugar, 2 eggs, 1½ cups toast crumbs, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar 1½ teaspoons vanilla.

Scald milk in double boiler; melt chocolate over hot water; add melted chocolate, butter and granulated sugar to milk. Stir well and pour over toast crumbs, softened in ¾ cup of milk. Add beaten yolks of eggs and 1 teaspoon of vanilla to mixture. Pour into buttered baking dish, and bake 30 minutes. Make a meringue of egg whites beaten until stiff, and powdered sugar and remaining half teaspoon vanilla. Pile meringue on pudding, return to oven to brown. Serve either hot or cold.

APPLE COFFEE CAKE

One cup of yeast, one egg, two tablespoons brown sugar, salt, flour to make thin batter. Let raise until light. Arrange apples on top sliced, sprinkle with powdered sugar and cinnamon and bake half an hour.

Balloons Popular

"More and more people are riding this winter on balloon tires," declares C. C. Henery, proprietor of Henery's Garage, Goodyear tire servicee station, at 20 South Park avenue.

"And there's a very good reason for this. Winter driving on balloons is a pleasure. In the first place, because the balloons have a larger cross sectional area they naturally have a broader contact with the road, and therefore they don't skid as much as the ordinary high-pressure casing might.

Another thing," conitnued Mr. Henery, "because eballoons carry less air pressure than other tires they ride the snow easier and they don't form ruts like the high pressures because the balloon usually is able to bridge a depression in the road that might soon become a rut.

But balloons must be kept at the proper pressure, Mr. Henery pointed out, and said that he would be glad to make recommendations to anyone who wanted correct inflation data for any kind of car or equipment.

A feature of the service extended by the Henery Garage is the free inspection of tires in winter so that customers may get the maximum mileage built into the tires.

CITY FIREMEN ARE KEPT BUSY

Departments Make Many Runs During Cold Spell of Past Week.

George Hale Burned to Death in Wheatland Avenue Fire Sunday.

The severe cold weather during the past week kept the city firemen humping themselves night and day in responding to the numerous calls from all over the city—especially during Sunday and Monday, when the wind was blowing so fiercely. And the departments on the West Side and Hilltop were not excepted.

Shortly after noon Sunday George Hale, 65, 410 Highland Ave., was burned to death in a fire which destroyed the home of John Anthony, 341 S. Wheatland Ave. Hale had gone to the Anthony home for a visit and, going upstairs, had attempted to light a heater. His clothing was ignited, and in rolling on the floor to extinguish them, he set fire to the house.

The Anthony family downstairs were unaware of the blaze until smoke began rolling down the stairway.

Their efforts to rescue the aged man upstairs were blocked by flames, and Hale was dead and the house nearly demolished before firemen arrived. Loss was estimated at $1600 on the building, and $150 on furniture.

Smoke from the burning house so filled the street in that vicinity that the firemen could hardly see where the fire was. And the intensity of the cold and high wind caused the water to freeze wherever it fell, making the work very difficult and severe on the firemen.

While Departments No. 17 and 10 were busy at the Wheatland Ave. fire, another alarm was sent in, calling Department No. 6 from West Broad and Department No. 1 from North Front street to 753 N. Eureka Ave, the home of E. E. Shimp, where a collection of burning matter in the furnace pipe had caused smoke to such an extent that an alarm was turned in. No damage was done.

On Sunday evening the department was called to the residence of Dan Thomas on Chicago avenue, by the burning of an automobile. The loss is reported as being $35.

Shortly after 12 o'clock Monday morning Departments No. 10 and 17 were called to 187 Avondale Ave, where a garage fire had gained such headway as to cause a loss of $200 before it could be extinguished.

While Department No. 17, from the Hilltop, was running to the Avondale fire, they passed Department No. 6, which together with Department No. 1, were again called to the Hilltop. This time to 21 N. Burgess Ave., the home of Albert Tracey, where a small fire had started to burn off the end of a joist. No material loss was caused.

The fire department was called to the home of J. V. Von Schriltz, 222 N. Ogden Ave., Tuesday afternoon to extinguish a small blaze caused by a burning window drape. Damage was nominal.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Woerner and daughter Louise, 56 N. Oakley Ave., entertained the following at dinner Christmas day: Mr. and Mrs. McCabee and children Louring, Nina, John and Junior of Circleville, and Mrs. Marie Gordroe and children Marvin and Leota, and Herman Woerner of Columbus.

Miss Hazel Atkins of North Chase Ave. is entertaining her sister over the holidays.

Adam Koerner was the Sunday guest of his sister Mrs. Andrew Boge and family of Hilliards.

Mrs. Adam Koerner, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Geyer and familyy and Mr. Henry Kuhn of Columbus were the Sunday dinner guests of Miss Sarah Kuhn of Hilliard.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Fellers, 47 N. Eureka Ave., a 6½-pound daughter, Marilyn Florence, Saturday, December 26

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Saul Wharton, 151 N. Park Ave., a 7-pound son, Paul William, Monday, Dec. 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hawbecker and daughter Lena and Mr. and Mrs. Loren Hawbecker of Etna, Ohio, spent Christmas with G. H. Ford and family, 187 N. Harris Ave

Mrs. Louisa Wilkins, 76 S. Warren Ave., is spending the winter with relatives at Houston, Texas.

Tunis Peters of Danville, Ill., visited the first of the week with his sister, Mrs. Ella Smith, and family, 240 N. Harris Ave.

Story Hour

The regular Saturday story hour at the Holmes Hilltop library, W. Broad St. and S. Park Ave., Saturday from 1 to 3 o'clock, will have Mrs. F. L. Annual Christmas Party

A Christmas party for the children of the Methodist Children's home at Worthington was held by the Columbus District Epworth Leaguers on Wednesday evening before Christmas. The Leaguers gave their usual Christmas tree, treat and a gift to each child. This year they added to the rest by putting on a program, which consisted of vocal and instrumental solos, readings and Christmas story, with a few games, and then Santa himself arrived, which gave the children a pleasant surprise. Miss Ruth Merriman, who is district fourth vice president, was in charge of the program, assisted by the Third Department of the league, and Margaret Fletcher, Dorothy Seiller and Frances Spring, helped to carry the Christmas cheer to these friends. Several Hilltop children are now in the home and receiving excellent care.

Sing Carols to Shut-ins

The Christmas spirit in song was taken into the homes of 25 shut-ins on Christmas eve by a carol party consisting of 35 young people from Glenwood church. Each shut-in was also presented with an artistic Christmas basket filled with home made candy. Hot chocolate was served at the church for the carolers on their return. At a late hour the group returned to their homes to enjoy their own Christmas just a little better after having taken the Christmas message to those less fortunate than they.

HILLTOP BUSINESS MEN'S ASSOCIATION

To Meet Thursday Evening, Jan. 7—Charter to Close at This Time.

The next regular meeting of the Hilltop Business Men's Association will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday evening, Jan. 7, in the Hillcrest Church building.

The association has now been in operation several months and has a program outlined working toward the betterment of the Hilltop as a community and business center, and is one that should merit the support of every business man on the Hilltop.

The association stands for and will work for the repairing of West Broad street, cluster lights, continuation of street car service to the Big Four railroad, and in fact anything that will benefit the Hilltop as a community.

The association charter will close at this meeting and all those who have signed up for membership in the organization are requested to be present and secure their membership certificates. All business men of the Hilltop are urged to join the association and help put across the program which the association has outlined, and are asked to be present at the meeting next Thursday evening.

Although the association has been in operation only a few months, it has to its credit the Halloween celebration and the holiday decoration of West Broad street, which has given the Hilltop much favorable publicity, and the program for the future will accomplish much more, so it behooves all business men to affiliate themselves with the association and help boost the Hilltop.

HILLTOP FOLKS

No. 1

FRANK L. BISHOP

"Name the baby 'Westwood.'" That's what F. L. Bishop said when they were debating on a name for the new Knights of Pythias lodge that was instituted on the Hilltop several years ago. And they decided on the above name, hence it is known as Westwood Lodge, No. 770, K. of P.

F. L. Bishop came to Columbus in 1884 from the place of his birth, "Bishop Hill," near Chillicothe, Ohio. Soon after coming here he joined Columbus Lodge, No. 3, K. of P., where he continued a member until Westwood lodge was instituted—he being one of the charter members of the new lodge. With his family he moved to the Hilltop in 1913 and to their present residence, 490 S. Terrace St., five years ago. Besides himself and his wife, three children constitute the family circle.

Mr. Bishop is night watchman at the plant of the Union Fork and Hoe Co., 500 Dublin Ave. He is a member of Glenwood church and always has a jolly word and smile for everybody.

Miss Odetta Spitler, 211 N. Warren Ave., spent Christmas and the week-end with her mother, Mrs. William Hedges, at Findlay, Ohio.

Miss Ella Kreisheimer of Chillicothe visited over the week-end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard O'Harra, 151 S. Richardson Ave.

Miss Helen Snider, a student at Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, is visiting at the home of her parents, 434 S. Powell Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Cavan, 211 N. Warren Ave., spent Christmas and the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cavan, Elwood, Ind., and Mrs. George Smith, Frankfort, Ind.

Miss Elizabeth Ridenour, 196 N. Warren Ave., is the guest of relatives at Ironton, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Freeman and sons Leonard and Bernard of Lima, Ohio, spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. F. W. McCormick, 1919 West Broad street.

Mrs. Tiena Gorman of Lakeview, O., is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. J. Thirtyacre, 2001 Sullivant Ave.

Members of the Hilltop Embroidery club will entertain their husbands with a 6:30 dinner and watch party New Year's eve at the home of Mrs. T. S. Fox, 2646 W. Broad St.

Mrs. R. C. Millikin will be hostess at a luncheon for the members of the Hilltop Embroidery club at her home, 77 Eldon Ave., at one o'clock, Wednesday, Jan. 6.

Boy Scout Troop No. 21 in Winter Camp

Boy Scout Troop No. 21, with headquarters at Hoge Memorial church, will spend the week-end, Dec. 31 to Jan. 3, at their cabin near Flint.

This will be the sixth annual winter camp taken at this season of the year. In other words each year since the troop has been organized, they have been in camp over New Year's eve. R. C. Kadel is scoutmaster of the troop.

Evening of Sacred Song

St. John's vested choir will give an evening of melody in St. John's Lutheran church, Broad St. and Hague Ave., Sunday evening at 7:30, presenting Hayden's "Creation," "Gloria in Excelsis" from "Mozart's Twelfth Mass," and other selections. L. O. Pearch is director, Miss Elizabeth Raether, organist, and Miss Ruth Pearch, pianist. The public is invited.

Seein' and Hearin' Things

—The pretty Christmas trees all lighted up in the windows in scores and scores of homes the past week seemed to make a fellow kind o' wish the Christmas season lasted 'bout all winter.

—What an excellent opportunity the kiddies had to try out their new sleds and skates after Christmas was over. And we saw several of 'em scootin' along on their new scooters, too.

—Ice wagons and the ice man with his iron hooks bearing a big cake of ice on his shoulder last Monday—sure. Gosh.

—Plumbers taking their turn at "jumping through the hoop" when "S. O. S." calls are broadcasted from frozen pipe districts. But wait, 'bout the first of next month there'll be s'mother ones doing their turn when the mail man delivers. Oh, boy!

—The city used 27,310,000 gallons of water last Sunday, or 5,810,000 gallons more water than the average, due to people leaving faucets running to avoid freezing up.

—The Scioto river is reported as being frozen to the depth of several inches above both storage dams. But what's the use—we can't skate on it.

—A good supply of coal on hand is reported by our local dealers. And the price remains the same—from $:.50 for Hocking to $10 for Pocohontas.

—Cold weather, making the shipment of potatoes difficult, may cause a rise in the price of that "animal," so 'tis said.

—If you're one of the forty thousand or more from this neck-of-the-woods who has not got their auto tag yet, you'd better be trotting along over there, as the lid goes on the old ones next Wednesday.

—Now, tomorrow morning don't go and ball-up that letter by dating it 1925. Just think how easy you got rid of those "fives" during the past year—especially while Christmas shopping. Then stick your tongue out to one side and slowly make a real scrumptuous 1-9-2-6.

—Included in the remodeling which Voss Bros. have just recently completed at their garage and salesroom on West Broad street is the installation in the building of an elevator which will be used to transfer cars to the repair shop on the second floor. Incidentally, this is the first elevator to be installed on the Hilltop.

TO BEAUTIFY RIVER ROAD

City Will Plant 3000 Japanese Cherry Trees Along River Road.

The first consignment of Japanese cherry trees, which it is planned to plant along the river road in Columbus, were received Monday by J. Lawrence Porter.

According to Mr. Porter the shipment will be turned over to Mayor Thomas and the city will have direct charge of the planting. During the coming summer months it is planned to plant some 3000 of these trees along the river road.

WINS TWO PRIZES —RETURNS ONE

Lightning may not strike twice in the same place, but that isn't saying that one person cannot draw two prizes in one contest, for that is just what happened when the drawing for the $50 in gold given away by Fred Sulzberger and the Sites Electric Co., took place Dec. 28.

J. W. Worrell was the lucky person to draw both $25 prizes. However, Mr. Worrell refused to accept both prizes, which necessitated further drawing, the prize then being awarded to a lady who had purchased a $1 thimble of Mr. Sulzberger.

These two firms will again give away $50 in gold on Feb. 27, 1926.

The members of the Junior Linden Heights Chautauqua club, following a yearly custom to carry out some social service work held a party this year at the Friends' Rescue Home on N. Hague Ave. Wednesday evening, at which 16 club members presented a program of musical numbers, several one-act plays and readings for the entertainment of the girls. Following the program a basket of fruit, candy and nuts were given to each girl at the home.

Miss Mildred Davis, Miss Helen Wells and Mrs. A. B. Benson made up the committee on arrangements.

Start Serial Story

With this week we begin publishing a serial story "Love vs. Wealth," written by Mrs. Marcella Carleton, a Hilltop resident, living at 53 N. Park Ave. It is well plotted and will be found interesting to all who read it. Be sure and start in with this issue and watch for the Record each week. It will cover a period of about three months.

A LITTLE STORY THAT'S TRUE

A good many years ago when a large portion of the country hereabouts was yet in native forest, and wolves, panthers, etc. abounded, it is said a man by the name of Rutledge and his wife and little baby boy lived in a log cabin he had erected for their home.

About a half or three-quarters of a mile from there Mr. Rutledge had opened up a sugar camp and built a little hut where he could stay while boiling down the sugar water.

Once, after he and his wife had spent the day at the camp and tarried till long after nightfall and were making preparations to start back home, a panther put in its appearance and prowled around the camp with its weird cries (like unto a baby crying). Mr. Rutledge had no gun with him, so he cut a bundle of long fagots and bound them together so as to make a huge torch, which he lighted; then his wife wrapped the baby in her arms and he took an axe in one hand and the torch in the other and they started out. No sooner had they started than the panther followed after, working itself over to the side of the wife and baby. Then Mr. Rutledge stepped over and got between them and the panther, which then worked over to the opposite side. This method of alternating by both animal and husband was kept up all the way home through the woods, the panther all the time keeping up its weird cries, but it being fearful of the burning torch saved them from an attack and probably the death of the child, which seemed to be the object of its attraction.

New Year's Service

WARNS AGAINST POISONOUS GAS

Health Officer Suggests Lowering Windows From Top When Flueless Stoves in Use.

With the coming of extremely cold weather, Dr. James E. Beer of the city board of health, has issued a warning to residents of the dangers of carbon monodixe gas, and states that people who use gas or oil stoves having no flues may expect the presence of poisonous gas. To prevent asphyxiation by the fumes, which are practically odorless, the only safe way to use the flueless stoves is to lower the windows of the rooms several inches from the top to allow the fumes to escape.

THE NEW YEAR—WITH NEW OPPORTUNITIES

Opportunity remonstrates thus:

"They do me wrong, who say, I come no more
When once I knock, and fail to find you in,
For every day I stand outside your door
And bid you wake, and rise, and fight to win—
Master of human destinies am I,
Fame, love and fortune on my footsteps wait."

The great New Year—the largest in opportunity in the history of the world lies before us. A suffering needy world is within our reach.

Millions of sin-sick souls are reaching out appealing hands for the knowledge of our God, and of Christ the comforter. Weary discouraged shutins in hospitals, camps and prisons, are longing for a touch of human sympathy, a word of cheer. Tens of thousands of motherless little ones are yearning for a real home, and somebody to love them.

Everywhere—yes, everywhere, all about us, on every hand, the opportunity—yes the privilege is waiting for us.

What contribution will we make to God and humanity in 1926?

What will the new white pages record?

Lincoln said, as he studied by the light of a pine knot, in the little log cabin: "I'll get ready, some day my chance may come." Ours is here, let us grasp it, put on the whole armor, whet our swords for the war of right against wrong, and when 1926 shall come to a close may we be able to say:

"I have no regrets—the past is all clear
With its labor of love, for my Savior so dear.
On His errands so sweet, I have sped with delight
All my pleasure by day, and my song in the night."

We are wishing for a gladsome, satisfying year of service, to our Hilltop friends.—M. M. M.

F. J. Guyer and daughter Esther, 222 N. Terrace St., spent several days this week in Middletown, Ohio.

Mrs. John Burkett, 2527 W. Broad street, will be hostess to Group 1 of the Glenwood Ladies' Aid society, Tuesday, Jan. 5, at 2 o'clock.

DESIRES FOR THE NEW YEAR

In reviewing the year 1866, David Livingstone wrote: "We now end 1866. It has not been so fruitful or useful as I intended. Will try to do better in 1867, and be better—more gentle and loving; and may the Almighty, to whom I commit my way, bring my desires to pass, and prosper me! Let all the sins of '66 be blotted out, for Jesus' sake. May he who was full of grace and truth impress his character on mine; grace—earnestness to show favor; truth—truthfulness, sincerity, honor—for his mercy's sake."

If Livingstone, the great pathfinder in Africa, found in reviewing a year that it was less productive of results than he had hoped, how about our review of achievements in God's name? Why not make his confession and prayer an expression of our innermost thoughts and desires?—Forward.

Winter Care of Automobile Tires

There are seven mileage points to be carefully watched by tire users who run their cars in winter, according to L. C. Henery, proprietor of Henery's garage on S. Park avenue.

Inflation comes first on the list. He points out that correct inflation is only maintained by checking air pressures every 10 days at the least.

Then come wheel irregularities such as misalignment, pronounced wobble or any similar condition that prevents the tire from tracking properly. This is especially important to watch in connection with the use of balloon tires, according to Mr. Henery, because, he says, balloon tires are more sensitive to wheel irregularities than high pressures are.

Cuts and bruisons caused by jagged ice scraping the tread rubber should be repaired so that dirt and moisture will not get in at the under layers of fabric and rot them.

Brakes should be in first-class condition. If they are not evenly adjusted one of the rear tires will suffer the grinding off of its tread rubber at a rapid pace due to the generally rough and uneven wear of winter roads.

Running a tire or spinning it in ruts, scraping it against curbs or driving over rough, frozen roads is apt to tear the sidewall rubber and expose the cord cans to the elements.

Be careful of anti-skid device that they are properly applied. Steel chains should be applied loosely so there will not be extra pressure at the point of road contact which will cause the cross links to cut into the tread.

Mr. Henery points out that the new Goodyear rubber non-skid chains with their rubber cross links are ideal so far as minimum wear on the tire and maximum road gripping surface are concerned.

WEST SIDE CARS

Anent the rerouting of West Side street cars, the patrons of these lines undoubtedly have a legitimate complaint, and as one writer has already stated, the residents west of the river undoubtedly have been handed another "lemon" by city council, in the manner in which they handled the rerouting problem, by "resolution," instead of an ordinance, whoch would have taken 30 days before it could go into effect.

Just why the West Side people should be inconvenienced in preference to any other section has not been satisfactorily answered, and we doubt if it can be.

However, the "resolution" plan of council may be a good thing for the West Side after all, for if council has the power to reroute by "resolution" one time, why not at another? A good strong delegation of West Side citizens before council with a protest may give them courage enough to "resolute" West Side cars in a manner that will not "inconvenience West Side residents. PERSONIFYING RIVERS

A pleasing conceit is that which describes the Nile as a great, black serpent which winds down through the valley of northern Egypt, leaving a trail of green grass and fertile fields on both sides. The Indus of India is a magician who can weave curious spells, as it turns and twists in slow contortions within its banks. The Mississippi is like a great burden bearer, who goes up and down our land carrying the produce of a nation upon his broad, strong back. The Thames of England is an old man, gray-haired, and stoop-shouldered from much poring over musty volumes. The St. Lawrence is a sturdy French-Canadian trader, brisk and businesslike, but with a bit of the romance hidden away in his nature, which makes him sing an old folk song as he hurries about his endless tasks. The Ob and the Lena are fierce gray wolves which creep north across frozen fields to the icy seas of the Arctic. And the Congo of Central Africa is a black man stumbling along through the jungle with a load which almost breaks his back, but which he bears unceasingly because he does not know how to get rid of it—Forward.

COOLIE LABOR NOT CHEAP

A Chinese coolie who works for 10 cents a day is paid according to standards of this country, 20 times what he is worth because he can only move one ton one mile in a day. American railroads move one ton one mile at a cost of only one-half cent. The great contrast illustrates the difference between man strength and mechanical power.

Radon, a gas-like emanation of radium, has been discovered. It is predicted that its use will make the treatment of cancer cheaper, because it is one hundred and sixty times as active as radium. The substance is put up in tiny glass "seeds," the thickness of a human hair. The supply is inexhaustible.

He's not the same today!

by O. Lawrence Hawthorne

Yes sir, my gran'pa used t' be
The bestest kind of friend—
Why, he was always givin' me
A dime 'at I could spend!
He took us boys out for a walk
Or to a movie show,
Or else we'd sit an' talk an' talk
Till mother made us go.

My gran'pa used t' be our friend
An' liked to have us play
Where he was at. He didn't send Us home, or even say
That we was makin' too much noise.
But now you bet we know
What he likes better than us boys,
An' that's his radio!

He growls jus' like a big ol' bear
While he is tunin' in—
Why, he gets mad enough t' swear
An' looks as mean as sin!
An' all the folks 're scared to say
A word to anyone—
I wonder how he gets that way,
An' if he's havin' fun!

GROCERS TO GIVE MINSTREL SHOW

January 12 Date Set for Third Annual Presentation by Retail Grocers.

The third annual Minstrel Follies of the Columbus Retail Grocers' Association will be held at Memorial Hall, Jan. 12. Carl Turney heads the committee which will present the show; Jack Clifford, local minstrel show producer, will be in charge of the general production, and Russell E. Rockstroh will again act as musical director.

Largely due to the exceptional male chorus that has been built up from year to year the grocers' minstrel has won a reputation of being hardly distinguishable from the professional.

LOVE vs. WEALTH

A STORY

Written for the Record By Mrs. Marcella Carleton, 53 North Park Ave. (Hilltop), Columbus, Ohio.

Chapter I.

In the pretty living room of a dwelling in the outskirts of Franklinton sat Mrs. Ralph Harrison, apparently reading, but one could hardly be expected to know much about the contents of a book, without turning a few pages ahead of the author's picture in the front of the book. But the author of this popular piece of fiction interested Mrs. Harrison much more than the story itself.

This writer was a young man of perhaps twenty-five, unusually handsome—being the possessor of a pair of dark brown eyes, dark hair, clear cut features and a kindly expression, which however, could be changed to anything but kindly, with sufficient provocation. What appealed to Mrs. Harrison most of all was the fact that this young writer had come into possession of a good-sized fortune, left him by his dying father, who had been Mr. Harrison's best boyhood friend, some years before, which made the writing of stories a pleasant pastime rather than a necessity.

During Mrs. Harrison's childhood and girlhood, she had been surrounded with every luxury. Then her father's business affairs had taken a sudden turn, and they were forced to leave the comforts of their beautiful estate for a smaller house in a less aristocratic location. At the age of 20, she had met Ralph Harrison; and when she was 21, they had married.

At that time, though he was a poor man, his prospects were bright, and it looked as though some day he would be a rich man, which was her only reason for marrying him.

At the beginning of their married life, he had loved her as much as any young husband ever loved his wife, but after two years of a display of feminine temper and irritability, his affections had cooled, and after four years, they had become completely frozen. Life with his wife was almost unbearable; but for their daughter's sake, he managed to keep up appearances before the public.

Amy Harrison, their only child, was now in the last year of her teens, which was the cause of Mrs. Harrison's interest in the author of the book she was pretending to read. Her greatest desire was for her daughter to marry into a wealthy family, regardless of love, or anything necessary in the making of a happy home.

"I want my daughter to have what I missed," she murmured half aloud, not noticing that she was no longer alone in the room.

"And I hope her husband misses what I have gone through," spoke up Mr. Harrison, who had entered the room several minutes before, in search of writing materials. "Talk about what you have missed. You haven't missed as much by marrying as I have. You married for money, and I may get that yet; I married for love, and never will get that, except from my daughter. And, by the way, I advise you not to try any of your schemes on Edward Wheeler, as he has already had enough of match-making mammas. So far as Amy is concerned, she has a head of her own, and I think what she has seen of our domestic life is enough to keep her from marrying for money."

But Mrs. Harrison, also having a head of her own, mentally decided to handle the matter as she pleased.

Sometime during the next few weeks, Edward was expected to arrive from the East, where his boyhood days and college days had been spent, in search of local color, which might give him some ideas for the novel he was writing.

Although he had never seen Mr. Harrison, Edward had already begun to like him very much. After his father's death, Mr. Harrison had written a sympathetic letter of condolence, which had greatly helped him to bear the second burden of his life—the first being the death of his mother. This letter was followed by others, and the pages of fatherly counsel, which he received every week, had done their work. His character was one to be proud of.

Mr. Harrison had cordially invited Edward to spend most of his time in Franklinton at the Harrison home, but Edward had only promised him a very short visit, as he had business matters, which would require a great deal of his time while in Franklinton.

In after years, he often thought about just how much time was spent on business during that visit.

Chapter II.

The advanced dictation class at the Training School was making its usual noise in the typewriter room, rapidly transcribing the letters written in shorthand, into a more legible form.

"Click, click," went the typewriters; then part of the clicking ceased as the swiftest typist in the room took her last letter out of the machine. The door of the room opened and the school secretary called:

"Is Miss Harrison in the room?"

The girl who had just completed her work arose from her seat and walked toward the door.

"The Starke Publishing Company wants a stenographer—somebody that is quick and accurate. I believe you can handle it. You had better go over right away for an interview, as they want you to start to work this afternoon."

So fifteen minutes later found Amy Harrison on her way to the office of the Starke Publishing Co. She was not timid by nature, but this was the first time she had ever applied for a position; and she had to acknowledge to herself that she was just a little nervous. But she hurried on, anxious to learn the outcome of her interview with Mr. Payne, the president of the firm. As she opened the door of the office she h[illegible] trembled a little, but she made an effort to control her nervousness, got herself in hand, and then asked one of the office employes if Mr. Payne were in.

She was directed to a private office at the rear of the large room, and introduced to Mr. Payne.

Amy was asked to be seated; then:

"Have you had any experience, Miss Harrison?"

"None but some work for the president of the Training School. I have had some of that every day for the last few weeks, as their secretary is very busy at this time of the year," Amy replied.

"How old are you?"

"Nineteen."

"Can you take dictation rapidly and accurately?"

"Yes, sir."

"Can you transcribe it quickly, accurately and neatly?"

"Yes."

"What salary do you expect?"

"I would rather not state that myself. What do you expect to pay me?" Amy asked.

"We have been paying our stenographer $25 per week. You will receive the same salary as soon as you prove yourself as valuable as she was. To start with, if you are as good as you were recommended to be, by the school, I will pay you $22 per week. Will you please take a trial letter;" and he gave her a notebook and pencil. Then he began:

"Mr. Edward Earl, 216 South Kensington avenue, Carrolton, Massachusetts. Dear Sir: Your letter of recent date received, acknowledging check we sent you for your story, 'The Trail of Love.' This story has gone to press, and will be ready for sale by this time of next week. As we understand you want to be your own salesman and will soon arrive in Franklinton, we will have the books ready as soon as possible. We think this is remarkable work for a first attempt, and we hope to have the privilege of publishing more than one story for you. With best wishes for your future success, we remain Yours very truly,"

Amy was then given one of the company's letterheads, an extra sheet for the carbon copy, and an envelope; and was asked to transcribe what she had written, which she did without an error.

"Miss Harrison," said Mr. Payne, after reading and signing the letter, "I believe you and I will get along fine. You may come in this afternoon prepared to take charge of your position. Please mail the letter you have written when you go to lunch." And a gesture of his hand showed the interview at an end.

That afternoon Amy made the acquaintance of the other office employes, who all seemed to like her except one. Miss Elinor Davis, a bookkeeper for the firm, was very much in love with the head bookkeeper, Arthur Seymour; and as soon as Amy Harrison appeared on the scene, he gave one look at his ledger, and three in Amy's direction, which, of course, aroused Miss Davis' jealousy.

Chapter III.

It was 4:30, lacking one-half hour of being quitting time. Amy took the last 48 letters, which had been dictated to her the first thing after lunch hour, out of her typewriter, and carried them to the private office of Mr. Payne for his approval and signature.

"Very good, Miss Harrison," was his comment. "You will find a sealing and stamping machine in the next room. Then you may tabulate this report," handing her a sheet of paper covered with figures.

By the time this work was completed, the hands of the clock indicated that it was time to go home. Amy closed her typewriter desk, donned her hat and coat, and was preparing to leave the office, when Mr. Payne called her back.

"Miss Harrison," he said, "Will you please take another letter? I have just received a special delivery which requires an immediate reply. Then the letter was dictated and transcribed.

All the other employes had left the office—that is, except one. As Amy opened the outside door, Arthur Seymour seemed to spring up from under the sidewalk.

"Miss Harrison," he said, "I happen to live about a mile the other side of your home, on the same road, and pass your house every night. Will you ride home with me?" He pointed to his Buick roadster standing by the curb directly in front of the office door.

Elinor Davis, standing on the opposite side of the street, partly hidden from view by a telephone pole, felt a keen pang of disappointment, as she watched the two ride away in Arthur's car.

"Here I have been waiting half an hour for an invitation to ride home, and that new stenographer gets to ride home without waiting," she thought. "Still, I could like her very much if I weren't so jealous of her."

So Amy Harrison, not knowing the worry she had caused another by accepting Arthur's offer, rode home in his machine, while the girl who loved him walked home to her lonely room in a cheap boarding house.

Chapter IV.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison were ready to sit down to the table for their evening meal, but Amy had not arrived yet. They waited a while longer; still she did not come. An hour went by. Then an automobile stopped in front of the house; and a minute later Amy entered the house.

"My gracious, girlie, what has kept you so long?" questioned her father. "I was beginning to worry about you."

"Oh, daddy," cried Amy, "I'm the new stenographer for the Starke Publishing Co. Like my work just fine." And she gave him a detailed account of the proceedings of the day.

Mrs. Harrison listened in sullen silence. To think that her daughter should be working for a living!

"What will come next?" she thought; but was not left much time to wonder.

"By the way, daughter, who did you ride home with tonight?" questioned Mr. Harrison.

"Oh, that's the head bookkeeper at the office. He happens to live on this road about half a mile from here. He is going to stop for me in the morning. I think it's nice of him; don't you?"

Mr. Harrison's eyes twinkled, as he thought of what must be passing through his wife's mind.

"Sure it's nice of him. It must be an awful trial to have to ride home in the moonlight, with a pretty girl by your side. I don't see how he stands it," he remarked sarcastically—at which Amy laughed. But Mrs. Harrison could not see the comical side of anything in her present mood; so:

"I don't see anything to laugh about. If we get one more pauper in the family, it will about be the death of me." The hired girl in the kitchen, who overheard the remark, couldn't help but think: "Small loss to the rest of the world if it would."

Amy's mother laid her hand on Amy's arm. "If you're ever foolish enough to marry into a poor family, when you have had the chance to do as well as any girl could wish, I'll find it hard to forgive you—if I ever do."

Amy had heard speeches like this ever since she was 16 years old, but had let them in one ear and out the other; and sometimes not even in one ear. Now she felt it was time to have a little voice in the matter, herself.

"Well, to be plain about it," she remarked, "The man I marry must have something more to brag about than a bank account. His character, personality, business ability and disposition, will be the chief considerations with me. I don't want to marry a rich man for fear he would think I just wanted his money. To come down to facts, I would just be playing the role of beggar in disguise."

With that she arose to leave the room, but Mrs. Harrison stopped her.

"Sit down, Amy, I want to tell you something. Edward Wheeler, the son of your father's old friend, is coming some day next week. For your father's sake, if not for mine, treat him nice, and accept any attention you may receive from him."

"Oh, sure!" laughed Amy, "Why don't you advise me to buy a gun and the minute he crosses the threshold say, 'Hands up; your money or your life.' It would be easier for me to do that than to make 'goo-goo eyes' at him every time he chances to turn his head in my direction."

"But, Amy," said the match-making mother, "You won't need to go out of your way to be nice to him. Don't you know, you are the object of his visit here," which was, of course, far from the truth.

"He must be hard up, indeed, for friends, if he has to come all this distance in search of a girl to play with for a while."

Then Mr. Harrison, who had left the room sometime before, in order to avoid another domestic "fracas," which this subject of conversation always brought about, re-entered the room, picked up the evening paper, and started reading aloud, in order to stop further discussion of an always disagreeable subject.

A substitute may have to be found for the white horsehair which has been so commonly used in the past in the making of bows for violins, violas and cellos. Metal wire is a suggested substitute, but it is not so satisfactory as horsehair.

Travelers sailing to Europe on the large ocean liners may now take their automobiles without the worry and work of having them crated. They are simply classed as excess baggage, and are take care of in the ship's garage.

Avondale School's Xmas Donation

The folks connected with the Avondale school made anumber of hearts glad for Christmas by supplying well filled baskets to needy families in that locality. The baskets contained good homemade things to eat and canned goods. The parents of the pupils gladly responded in the donations and were big factors in the success of the affair. A lot of choice fruits and home made cookies were also sent to a sick boy in the hospital.

The teachers and pupils worked hard and deserve all the credit that can be given them.

An air lighthouse, probably the largest in the world, has been established near Dijon, in the heart of France. The beams from this have the power of a billion candles. Many air lighthouses have been erected in Europe for the guidance of aviators, but none of them are so powerful as this light at Dijon.

Man Is Scalded

Oakey Donahue, 1078 Bellows Ave., an employe of the New Champion Garage, Champion Ave. and Oak St., was severely scalded on the hands and face last Sunday when the radiator cap blew off of an auto of which the radiator was frozen, and he was showered with the boiling contents. He was unable to resume work after receiving first aid.

Fourteen nations sent delegates to a radio conference in Geneva, at the Palais des Nations, where they discussed international questions pertaining to wireless telegraphy, and established an international radio bureau to oversee radio matters that affect broadcasters and listeners of more than one country. The bureau intends to relay concerts from one country to another and have interchange of programs and entertainers.

In the laboratories of some of the great world powers, scientists have evolved combinations of chemicals which, when dropped from a speeding airplane, will hang a white smoke screen in the sky. These curtains of smoke last for at least thirty minutes. The formulas have been kept secret and each country has one a little different from the others. The hope is that there will be no future war in which these screens will be used.

A marble head of Augustus Caesar was dug up by a dredge from the bottom of the Hudson River. The statue must have been there a long time, as it was down ten feet in the river mud. To explain the mystery of how it came there, since America was yet undiscovered at the time of great art and sculpture in Rome, the suggestion has been made that an early trader carried the statue as ballast and, attaching no great value to it, threw it over into the river.

Six years ago the first regular aerial passenger service was inaugurated between London and Paris. To-day all the European capitals are linked by air with London. Soon there is to be an additional mail service between Port Said and India, which eventually will be extended by way of Singapore to Port Darwin. In this way Australia will be brought within about one hundred hours of London. Thirty days is now required by the fastest mail liners.

WEST SIDERS DISSATISFIED

Will Petition City Council to Restore West Side Cars to Former Routes.

The rerouting of the west side cars by city council via resolution several weeks ago, taking the West Broad street and Cemeteries cars off of High street, and carrying passengers three squares north of Broad street to a point of transfer to cars on High street, has been the cause of much comment and dissatisfaction among residents west of the river.

During the past week a petition protesting against this discrimination and asking that west side cars be restored to their old routes until such a time as a general scheme of rerouting cars for the whole city can be worked out, has been circulated on the West Side for signatures, this petition to be presented to council next Monday evening.

Along with the presentation of this petition should be a delegation of several hundred West Side citizens before council to lend support to the proposition and show that the West Side resident will not only put his name to a petition, but that he will appear in person to ask that council rescind an unjust discrimination.

Here is an opportunity for every civic organization west of the river to get together and use their united efforts to get a square deal for the West Side residents in this matter, and the heads of the various organizations are asked to get in touch with their membership and have as many as possible appear before council next Monday night.

Hilltop Fires

The home of W. R. Welch, 188 S. Warren Ave., was damaged by fire to the extent of $900 last Saturday afternoon. The family being absent at the time the fire was discovered, firemen were compelled to break windows to gain entrance to the house.

An overheated hotplate caused the fire department to make a run to the home of C. W. Vance, 1930 Floral Ave., last Monday. The damage is reported as amounting to $5.

The King's Heralds and Home Guards of Glenwood M. E. church will meet Friday, Jan. 8, at 4 o'clock for a spread in the church basement. Each member is requested to bring sandwiches and a covered dish.

The new officers of the lodge installed Monday night, are: Phil Cunningham, chancellor commander; George Good, vice chancellor; A. D. Miller, prelate; C. A. Birle, master of work; Ralph Rieber, master at arms; George Barnhart, inner guard; Gay Brown, outer guard; D. G. Lear, master of exchequer; I. E. Sebring, master of finance; C. W. Ruffing, keeper of records and seal; J. F. Smith, trustee, and Claude Moss, captain of drill team.

SCOUT TROOP IN WINTER CAMP

Troop No. 9, Boy Scouts, held its annual winter camp at Ladder Lodge, below Lancaster, Ohio, from Dec. 31 to Jan. 3.

Seven boys and the scoutmaster made the trip. The days were spent in skating and hiking and the night around the camp fire.

Several hikes to different points of interest were held during the camp. New Year's morning a number of the boys attended a service held at St. Mary's church in Lancaster. This church has passed the century mark, having been founded in 1820. The winter camp was probably the most successful troop camp held since the organization of the camp.

Troop No. 9 wishes its neighbor troops of the Hilltop a most successful and happy New Year.

Father and Son Meeting

The John Burroughs Parent-Teacher association will hold their annual father and son meeting Friday evening, Jan. 8, at 7:30 o'clock. All the boys of the school are urged to bring their fathers, as a fine program is in store for all. Rev. H. S. Chauncey of Trinity Episcopal church is to be the speaker for the evening. Dr. J. G. Jolicott, s uperintendent of schools, will be ap honor guest. Refreshments will be served after the program.

On Jan. 14 at 8 o'clock in Glenwood church you will have the privilege of hearing Miss Helen Waggoner, former resident of the Hilltop, who will give the third number on the Hilltop Lecture course. Miss Waggoner is a gifted dramatic interpreter and an entertainer of wholly individual charm.

She is exceptionally skillful in character interpretation. They stand out with startling vividness. "Aunt Charlotte," an amusing Southern negress; an Italian street vender; a crafty Jewish merchant; each of these and many other types, recreated by her art, become clear cut impersonation portraits.

During the month of January in Glenwood church the pastor, Dr. George F. Barber, will preach a series of morning sermons on the general theme "The Veil Drawn Aside." The subjects will be as follows: Jan. 10, "An Appeal to the Future"; Jan. 17, "The Judgment—Do We Want It?"; Jan. 24, "Hell—Can We Believe in It?"; Jan. 31, "Heaven—How Shall We Think of It?"

About 200 people were in attendance at the annual meeting of the Columbus Retail Grocers' Association Monday evening at their hall, 837 West Broad street, and enjoyed a fine banquet, installation ceremonies and a program of speaking, music and specialty dances.

Ray G. Hauntz of the Hilltop was installed as president of the organization for the coming year, and in his address made note of the many things the association had accomplished not only for the merchant, but for the public as well. He did not forget that there is still much good work to be accomplished and only asked that the members bring their problems to the association and its officers would do their best to solve them.

Following the installation of the new officers a program of speaking and singing was enjoyed.

Hilltop Folks

No. 6

J. E. Pool, carpenter, 870 Wrexham Ave., has been confined to his home for several months on account of paralysis on the right side. We understand this is the second time he has been stricken. Since his affliction a large part of the home expenses fell upon Mary, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pool. Mary labored hard and faithfully at a shoe factory until a weakened condition caused by an attack of flu developed into lung trouble and she was compelled to take to her bed.

The bread winners of the home both being laid up, and expenses going on, Mrs. Pool has taken up the battle bravely and in addition to caring for the sick husband and daughter, has gone in debt for an electric washing machine with which she hopes to do washings enough to help take care of the family expenses.

Therefore we publish this story in order that some of our readers who hire their washings done may come to the assistance of this afflicted but worthy family and help Mrs. Pool in her brave effort to keep things going.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Earl Buehler (Iris Clover), 26 South Powell Ave., announce the birth of a son at Mt. Carmel hospital, New Year's day.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Seiller and children 29 Eldon Ave., were New Year's and week-end guests of Mrs. Seiller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hartman, at Wadsworth, Ohio.

The regular Saturday story hour at the Holmes Hilltop Library will be held Saturday afternoon from 1 to 2 o'clock with Mrs. Pohl Kings in charge.

Milton W. Westlake, 2499 W. Broad St., was elected president of the board of county commissioners, Monday, succeeding Fred W. Atcherson. This election automatically makes Mr. Westlake a member of the board of revision.

Mrs. Susan Koons, 128 N. Warren Ave., left today for Grand Rapids, Mich., where she was called by the illness of her sister.

HILLCREST HAS ANNUAL MEETING

Closes Year With Fellowship Supper—$20,000 Handled by Church Officers.

The Hillcrest Baptist church closed 1925 and started 1926 with a fellowship supper last Wednesday night. After the fine supper, the officers for the coming year were installed with a very beautiful service.

The annual business meeting followed with splendid reports from all departments, it was indeed very gratifying to hear these fine reports. There has been about $20,000 handled by the church during 1925, which is alone a fine record for a small membership.

Of course, the past year brought its disappointments and discouragements, but nevertheless we have been wonderfully blessed in more ways than one, perhaps more ways than we have realized, and we are going forward to accomplish greater things during 1926.

Dr. Kramer has been extended a call to hold another evangelistic campaign the coming fall. Everyone knowing of his wonderful success during the past meetings, there was no hesitancy in extending him another call. During these meetings about 100 new members were added to the church and quite a few to other churches.

With the united co-operation of the fine young people's society, women's society, Sunday school and every other department, the leadership of the good pastor and wife, the splendid corps of church officials and the wonderful spirit of sacrifice and co-operation which exists among the members they expect to achieve greater things during 1926 for the Master than during 1925.

Seein' and Hearin' Things

—The other day the city dog catcher was meandering along a west side street when he spied a large woolly dog lying comfortably in a vacant lot, which he forthwith started to capture, but as cold chills began circumventing his pedal extremeties, he resolved to try and persuade said canine to come on and ride with him. Whereupon said dog leisurely got up and mauntered over into his own yard and laid down with a defiant look at the D. C., who, slowly drove away. The dog then quietly got up and went to the vacant lot and lay down again.

—Our merchants are busy with the figures these days—invoicing.

—New Year resolutions—stale Christmas trees—new auto tags—tax bills—dwindling coal piles, etc.—that's the mean for the month.

—A west side lady had occasion to go to High street one of the cold days last week. When she was ready to return home, from force of habit she waited at Broad and High streets for a West Broad street car. After a half hour of waiting she remembered that the West Side cars are exclusive and do not mingle with those traversing High street.

Social Notes

On the evening of Dec. 31, 1925, the members of the Occident Embroidery club, accompanied by their husbands, gathered at the home of Mrs. Lena Elliott for their Christmas-New Years' party. After singing Christmas carols the ladies exchanged their Christmas gifts. Each gentleman received a toy musical instrument so they formed a very successful orchestra and furnished much pleasure with their weird music until they were forced to cease by the arrival of the New Year. The hostess then served very dainty refreshments, after which the guests departed for their various homes in the early morning hours of the first day of the new year. The following were present to enjoy Mrs. Elliott's hospitality: Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Benton, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Burkett, Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Drye, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Refreshments were served to 150 guests. At 10 o'clock the musicians arrived and the old fashioned waltz and quadrille were in order. HEALTH HINTS.

By DR. O. H. McFADON

IMMUNITY

Children who have recovered from measles, mumps, whooping cough, etc., are said to be immune (free) from further attacks. So, one who has had smallpox is safer in its presence than if he had not already served in it. Some doctors seem to be immune to all diseases, for they are seldom "caught." This depends upon two things—their vitality up to date and precautionary measures.

Their health depends more upon the hygienic care they give themselves than upon the medicine they take. As time goes on physicians, more and more, believe in and practice prophylaxis (prevention) for themselves and their patients. The people are coming to feel more and more responsibility in the matter of their own health which means that right living is regarded as a valuable personal asset.

Aside from its economic value, we can never know how much our vitality has served us in the way of making us immune. Diseases are like many people who are our competitors—they look us over, with invasion in mind, and pass on if we are too strong for them. All business people know the value of a bold front and a strong background of credit, and the feeling of safety and security they give. In like manner all people should cultivate and conserve vitality for its value in general success and enjoyment, as well as defensive measure, "Preparedness" is the word.

In the soldier camps during the war the great mortality was not from "flu," but rather from pneumonia. The flu was epidemic and reduced the patient's vitality till there was but little left to fight the pneumonia germs, and the battle, in each case, was a weakened, wearied, wornout army of corpuscles against a strong, fresh enemy of germs.

The later year scientific findings are helping us to know our dangers and it is up to us, individually, to cooperate with Mother Nature in our constant struggle. We must have physical strength, nerve-energy, vitality, if we would be what we should be mentally and morally as well as physically.

Dr. O. H. McFadon, osteopath, 106 W. 10th Ave. Un. 7904-W. Residence calls on the Hilltop Wednesday and Saturday mornings.

MANY MORTGAGES AND DEEDS FILED

County Recorder's Office Filed More Papers in 1925 Than in Any Other Year.

The report of County Auditor Williams shows last year to have been the greatest in the history of the office.

Receipts of the office were $62,063.90, compared with $56,105.31 in 1923, the previous high mark.

Last year there were 17,358 deeds, 19,262 real estate mortgages, 53,862 chattel mortgages, 15,693 cancellations of real estate mortgages, and 811 leases filed. The previous high record for deeds and mortgages was established in 1923 when 17,192 deeds, 16670 real estate mortgages and 48,963 chattel mortgages were filed.

Leases in 1925 were fewer than in 1924 and 1923, which were the banner years for such legal instruments. Liens also decreased this year.

After completion of his work Recorder Williams had on $872 of the fund allowed his office by the county commissioners for maintainance. This balance will be returned to the treasury.

A STORY

Written for the Record by Mrs. Marcella Carleton, 86 North Park Ave. (Hilltop) Columbus, Ohio.

Chapter V.

The next morning brought Arthur Seymour and his roadster down the road, toward the Harrison home. Amy was ready for her day's work, and after a few words exchanged between she and her mother, she stepped into the machine, and after a ride of about 20 minutes, they were nearing the office of the Starke Publishing Co. Within a block of the office Arthur stopped his car.

"Miss Harrison," he said apologetically, "I don't believe it would be a good idea for us to be seen coming to work together. Any friendship between the young men and girls in the office is prohibited. Guess old Payne is afraid we wouldn't have our minds on our work—though he tries to get intimate with every pretty girl that works for him, especially his stenographers. This is just a friendly warning, and I hope you will take no offense. It is better to just be distantly polite to Mr. Payne. Sorry you have to walk a block, but it may save a lot of trouble if you will. If I don't have to work tonight, will meet you where you would get the car, if you were going home that way;" and tipping his cap to her as she started away, he started off in his car toward the office.

Amy stopped at the Office Supply Co. to buy some office supplies, and as she came out, Elinor Davis was just passing the building.

"Good morning Miss Davis," said Amy, pleasantly.

"Oh, good morning, Miss Harrison," with particular emphasis on the word "Miss." "I supposed you were in that automobile," pointing to the car stopping in front of the Starke Publishing Co. And Amy, thinking of what Arthur had told her about the rules of the company in this matter, decided to let the girl think she had come in on the car.

Amy could not quite "make out" this girl. Elinor must have been watching her movements the night before, instead of being on her way home, as all the other girls were who quit work on time.

"Maybe she likes him herself, and is jealous of me," was Amy's thought. "If I continue to ride with him, she will be the worst enemy I ever had; I. I take the street car, mother will think I have at last fallen in with her schemes. But I must fix the matter up some way."

By this time they had reached the door of the office, and greetings were exchanged between them and the other employes entering the building at the same time, which prohibited further conversation between them.

The forenoon went by without any unusual happening—just the regular office routine. That afternoon Amy had all her work done by 4:30, which wanted half an hour of being time to go home.

After Mr. Payne had signed the letters she had written, he asked "What else have you to do this afternoon, Miss Harrison?"

"Nothing urgent," she replied.

Then you may help Mr. Seymour with his work. The board of directors meeting will be held tomorrow, and his books must be closed tonight. Can you operate an adding machine?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then he can use you to good advantage." "Mr. Seymour," he called, 'Miss Harrison will do that adding machine work for you; and you get busy with your pen and ink."

They worked hard till 6 o'clock; still it would require another hour to complete the work.

Mr. Payne walked over to Arthur's desk. "Are you through yet?" he asked gruffly.

"No," was Arthur's reply. "It will take me about an hour to finish, if I do it without Miss Harrison's help."

"Well, you will finish it without her help. She is a stenographer, and I do not expect her to work overtime for a bookkeeper. If you had spent some of your time at figures, these last two days, instead of watching a certain person's every movement you could go home now, too." And he walked away without giving Arthur time to reply.

So Amy went home on the street car, and Arthur was left in the office at his desk. Two hours rolled by before he was ready to go home.

He cleared his desk, locked the safe, donned his hat and overcoat, put out the lights, and left the office. On each side of the office was a vacant lot, and next to the vacant lot on the west side, there was a drug store. He went into the drug store to buy a box of cigars, hastened out, and jumped into his machine only to discover that he was out of gasoline.

"Well, this is a pretty 'Howdeedoo'", he growled, "just when I was in the biggest kind of a hurry, and the nearest filling station four blocks away. Guess I'll go back in the office and call a garage."

By this time it was quite dark, and this particular part of the street, being on the outskirts of the business district, was almost deserted. Now and then an automobile passed and occasionally someone on foot, but nobody stopped; they all hurried on.

Just as Arthur stepped inside the door of the office, and was about to advance further, he saw the glare of a flashlight, which was immediately turned upon the safe.

"Must be burglars," he thought to himself, "and whoever it is seems to know the place pretty well. They threw the light on exactly the right spot, the lock of the safe, without having to search for it."

Then he saw a hand working the combination—a hand unusually large, with long, fat fingers, and the middle finger missing. Only one person of his acquaintance had a hand like that, and that person was a member of the board of directors. Arthur had often noticed it, when this man became excited about some dispute at the directors' monthly meeting. He had used his hands to express his opinions even more than his mouth, if that were possible. Yes, Arthur was sure this was the man; but how to catch him in the act? Arthur, of course, had no weapons; but the other party undoubtedly had.

He turned to look out the glass in the door to see if he could see a policeman, but as usual, at such times, policemen are pretty scarce.

By this time, the robber had the safe open, and the hand was reaching for certain papers. He must act quickly!

"How many are there," Arthur wondered. He could tackle one with a chair or something; but there might possibly be more. He decided to take the risk.

Advancing cautiously in the direction of the safe, Arthur passed his desk, which was about four feet from the safe, picked up a double ink container, and threw it point-blank in the direction of the owner of the hand.

The victim let out a cry of pain, then seemed to fall senseless to the floor. Arthur turned on the light, and found his conjecture had been correct. It was Mr. H. F. Rowe, a member of the board of directors.

Arthur stepped to the telephone to call the police department. Just as he picked up the receiver, the man on the floor suddenly sprang up.

"Not so fast, young man," and his fiendish eyes twinkled. "Caught you in the act. Step aside while I call a policeman," which was for the benefit of the night watchman, whom he heard coming into the room.

"All right, you call the police," fired Arthur. "They may ask you to explain what you were doing here this time of night. I have my reason, but you haven't."

"Sure you have your reason, and I have mine. I came to Franklinton to be here for the meeting tomorrow, but my train was late. When I get to Franklinton, I knew the office might be closed, but knowing that Mr. Payne often stays here late, I thought I would run over and see if I could find him. I didn't find him, but I found you." He laughed wickedly.

Arthur's face was white with rage. They were both trusted by Mr. Payne, and all the company's officials. Either story might be believed. Things looked dark.

Arthur wished he had let the man get away with his scheme, and reported what he had seen, without taking a hand in the matter in this way. But it was too late now.

How could he get out of this dreadful plight? The excuse Mr. Rowe had made sounded as plausible as his. Arthur had not given Mr. Rowe time to take anything from the safe. The paper had only been touched—not picked up.

Mr. Rowe stepped to the telephone again to call the police department. Then something unexpected happened. Mr. Payne entered the front door. Chancing to pass the office in his pleasure car, with his family, he noticed the lights burning in the office and wondered if Arthur were still working with his books.

"Oh, hello, Payne!" sang out Mr. Rowe. "Allow me to present your trusted bookkeeper, Mr. Seymour, whom I caught opening the safe by the light of this flashlight, just a few minutes ago."

"How do you happen to be here, yourself? You don't usually arrive in Franklinton until the day of the directors' meeting," said Mr. Payne, suspiciously.

Mr. Rowe repeated what he had said a few minutes before, which sounded truthful to Mr. Payne. Then he asked Arthur to tell his side of the story, which the latter did without the least hesitation.

"You say you threw an ink container at Mr. Rowe," Mr. Payne murmured absently, "and here it is on the floor just where it should be, if your tale is true.

"He threw that at me in the fight that followed my discovery of his theft," spoke up Mr. Rowe, "and it certainly gave me a bump on the head."

"Why did you come in here to use a telephone?" asked Mr. Payne of Arthur.

"My machine was out of gasoline, and I came in here to call a garage," replied Arthur, looking Mr. Payne straight in the eye.

"We will see if that statement is true," Mr. Payne said. "That might help a little to solve this mystery."

Arthur eagerly seconded the proposition. The men left the office. Arthur went over to his machine to prove his statement about the gasoline true, but the tank contained almost two gallons of gasoline!

A STORY

"Things look pretty suspicious on you," sternly remarked Mr. Payne to Arthur. "Guess I had better have the police investigate and see that justice is done.

Chapter VI.

Elinor Davis was an orphan. At least that was the conclusion Captain Davis had come to, when, after two years, no replies had been received from the many advertisements he had sent from time to time to different newspaper companies in different cities.

When Elinor was three years old, he had rescued her from a sinking ship in mid-ocean. All the information he had regarding her identity was that she said she was "free years old," and that her name was "Elinor"; also the little locket she wore, containing her picture, and with the initials E. W. inscribed on the beautiful case, which she had said her papa gave her for her "birfday."

After waiting two years Captain Davis adopted the child as his own; but before she grew to womanhood, the retired sea captain crossed a broader ocean than the Atlantic, leaving her alone in the world, with no friends, and little more money.

A rich family had taken her in, and given her a small, dingy room in their attic, and the privilege of eating her meals in the kitchen with the servants, in exchange for work too hard for her young hands.

When she reached the age of 18 she discontinued living with them, and after several days of searching for work, finally located a situation as clerk in a five-and-ten-cent store. Most of the $12 per week she received, of course, went for room and board, and a very poor quality, at that. Out of the small remainder she took a course in bookkeeping at night in the local high school.

After she completed the course she obtained a position with the Starke Publishing Company, where she had now been for almost two years.

On the night of the dispute about Mr. Rowe and Arthur Seymour she came home from work, ate her supper, and after supper took a drive with her girl friend, Enid Baker, and Enid's mother and father.

The place they desired to reach took them past the Starke Publishing Company, just a few minutes after Arthur entered the office, on discovering he was out of gasoline.

Elinor saw Arthur's car still parked in its usual place, and on the pretense of wanting her friends to see the place where she worked, asked Mr. Baker to slow down, which he did.

Then Elinor saw a man approach the car from the opposite direction, with something in a can, which he poured into the gasoline tank of the car. She was too familiar with Arthur's figure to think for a minute it was he. Something suggested foul play to her.

She spoke to her companion in a low tone. "I want all of you to watch that man pouring something in that machine. I'll explain later."

They did watch. The man, after emptying the can, started back in the direction from which he had come. Elinor said, "Now speed up and get back around the block as quickly as you can. If we stop, we will put him on his guard."

A few seconds later found them nearing the building again. This time, they saw the man they had seen before, minus the can. He sneaked cautiously toward the vacant lot on the east side of the building, and stood back in the shadow of the building, as though he had been ordered there by somebody already in the building. It reminded Elinor of newspaper accounts she had read of burglaries.

Then, she could distinguish the form of another man beside the first. That was enough. She asked Mr. Baker to drive to the nearest police sub-station. In less than 10-minutes, the car belonging to the Bakers, followed by the police patrol, was speedily nearing the Starke Publishing Company. Within a block of the building the autos stopped.

The leader of the police ordered two of the men to go down the alley back of the Starke Publishing Co. and cut through the vacant lot, where the two suspicious characters had been seen by Elinor and the Baker family, while the other cops, Elinor and the Bakers walked toward the office from different directions. Thus, which ever party these outlaws spied first, would chase them right into the arms of another party.

Just as Arthur was comprehending a night in jail, as Mr. Payne had called the police, he spied four cops coming up the street, which made his heart leap to his throat.

Mr. Payne supposed they had come in answer to his call, and at once began to tell them the story of the happenings there that evening, Mr. Rowe helping him out now and then. It was the latter who told triumphantly about the gasoline story.

In the meantime, the cops who had come down the alley, slipped up stealthily to where the men were standing, and handcuffed them before they had time to comprehend the situation. Being cowards, the police had no trouble whatever keeping them quiet, and in low whispers, they confessed the whole plot.

Mr. Rowe had hired them to guard the building, while he robbed the safe, intending to skip the country with all he could lay his hands on. He had been in the building before Arthur had finished his work, and the minute Arthur had closed the office door behind him, Mr. Rowe entered by the back door. He chose this time to make things look suspicious on Arthur, thinking the night watchman would see traces of burglary on his next round.

The two men, watching from the outside, had seen every movement Arthur made, and had noticed that he was out of gasoline. As soon as he entered the office, they decided to wait until the two men came to blows, then one of them, having a bicycle in the alley hastened to the nearest filling station for gasoline, knowing Arthur would tell his true reason for re-entering the office, and wishing to prove, falsely, that he had not told the truth.

Just as Mr. Rowe finished his gasoline tale, Elinor, the Baker family and more policemen came into view, from one direction; and the two tools Rowe had employed, with the police who had handcuffed them, from around the corner of the building.

Rowe's face turned white with fear and rage. One look at him now was enough to convince Mr. Payne that Rowe was the guilty one.

The chief of police took the names of the witnesses present, dismissed them; then the police patrol came along and Mr. Rowe and the two men who had confessed the plot were soon behind the bars in the city prison.

Mr. Payne apologized to Arthur for his mistake, and went his way. The Bakers decided to go back home, as it was now too late to go any place else. Arthur stepped closer to Mr. Baker.

"I thank you for what you did for me tonight," he said, "but I am going to ask one more favor of you. Let me take Elinor home."

"All right," laughed Mr. Baker, "providing the plan suits her."

The plan certainly did suit her, and before many minutes they were riding down the street which led to her boarding house. He asked her to tell the details of the part she had to play in the evening's affairs. As he listened, his heart went out to her. He only had a brotherly liking for Amy Harrison, but something new sprung up in his heart toward this girl.

Elinor's shabby little room seemed almost cheerful to her that night; and her future looked more promising than ever before.

Amy continued to ride to and from work with Arthur Seymour, but Elinor did not mind now, as she understood the nature of their friendship.

Increase in Water Consumption in 1925

Nearly 1,000,000,000 gallons more water were used by Columbus consumers in 1925 than in 1924, according to a reported being prepared by Superintendent Hoover of the city division of water. The report will also show that while the raw water received at the filtration plant was the hardest in years, the softened water pumped to Columbus users was the softest in years.

Taking 280,000 as the population served by this department, the average consumption of water was 93 gallons per person per day, the total consumption being 9,500,000,000 gallons.

A LITTLE STORY THAT'S TRUE

As Told by a City Fireman

Time—When Bargar was safety director and when saloons and barrel houses were in full bloom.

Cast of Characters:

Trilby—A cop on Central Market district.
Peg—A permanent "resident" of the workhouse, but who spent his vacation in the central Market district and its barrel houses.
Murphy—A ditto of Peg.
Jake—An inmate of No. 10 Engine House.

Scene 1—No. 10 Engine House.

Peg just beginning one of his "vacations," enters engine house.

Jake (feigning innocence) "Hello, Peg, where have you been? Haven't seen you for a long while?"

Peg (crying)—Oh, I'm an abused fellow. Trilby's got it in for me and runs me in when I don't do nothin'. I just laid down on a table in the market and went to sleep and he came along and pinched me and had me locked up in the works. Then what do you think, when I got there I heard some guy crying in the next cell, and I found out it was Murphy, who'd just went to sleep under a market table and Tribly pinched him, too. Poor Murphy, he's as innocent as a dove."

Jake—"Well, that's too bad, Peg. I wouldn't stand for that. Why don't you go over and have a private talk with Bargar and he'll have Trilby taken off that district."

Peg—"Oh, that wouldn't do no good, he wouldn't listen to me."

Jake—"Why, yes he would. Aint you an American citizen as much as anyone and got a right to your freedom?. Just go over there and front up to him and tell him a thing or two and he'll have Tribly fired from that district and put in some district out in the woods; then you won't be bothered any more."

Peg—"Well, I guess I'll try it."

A couple of days elapse and Jake awaits developments.

Scene 2—Peg enters Bargar's office with a bold front and starts broadcasting his grievance when all at once an upheaval takes place and Peg comes ot himself in the middle of the street and recovers from a badly damaged look of surprise and starts for No. 10 Engine House as fast as his peg will let him.

Scene 3—No. 10 Engine House.

Peg, with his bristles standing up straight and ears back—"SS—S—S—S—e—y, where's Jake?"

Jake appears—"Hello, Peg, what's the trouble?"

Peg—"You — — — ! ! You knew blankety blankety well what they'd do to me over there in the City Hall if I ——"

Jake shifts his gears to high and slides up the pole.

Chicago Ave. Church of Christ

Chicago Avenue Church of Christ will reopen their newly remodeled church Sunday, Jan. 17. Program in part is as follows:

9:30 a. m.—Orchestra and devotion followed by the discussion of Bible school lesson taken from Matthew 21:17-28.

10:15—Solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple," Lester Dunam; sermon, "Open the Gate.

7:30 p. m.—Special selection by choir and orchestra; solo, Mrs. Hugh Hooper; sermon, "Returning of Jerusalem." We read in the good book, when they returned unto the house of the Lord, they brought a thank offering. May we do likewise.

The King's Herald and Home Guard society of Glenwood M. E. church met last Friday for a spread at the church and in spite of the heavy snow storm the room was filled with 40 youngsters, all bringing such good things that mother had prepared for them. My, how they did eat. It was hard to tell if any had been home to lunch at noon. And, oh, the fun they had. A short business meeting was held around the table, after which all enjoyed "Poor Penny." Mrs. Jessie Hamilton and Mrs. B. C. Grim, and the leaders, Mrs. L. A. Cline, Mrs. Rosco Basil and Mrs. C. E. Sheron were the hostesses.

Mrs. Harold Wilgus, 126 Sheon Ave., was hostess to the Kamelmahian club Wednesday afternoon.

LOVE vs. WEALTH

A STORY

Written for the Record by Mrs. Marcella Carleton, 99 North Park Ave. (Hilltop) Columbus, Ohio.

The next Saturday after the events related in the last chapter Elinor went home with Amy to spend the week-end, much to Mrs. Harrison's disgust.

"I wish you would make friends with young people who come from good families, instead of orphans you know nothing about," she had remarked to Amy, on being informed of the expected guest.

"I try to use good judgment in the selection of my friends; and if I am not allowed to bring them here to visit me, and if they are not treated with courtesy, I'll seek other quarters myself," Amy had replied, angrily.

Amy made every effort to make the visit pleasant, and Elinor thoroughly enjoyed herself. Arthur Seymour called to take the girls a ride, but Amy, thinking probably the two would rather go alone, made an excuse, and spent her evening at home reading—or rather, trying to read. Mrs. Harrison had put on the record about Edward Wheeler again, talking incessantly about him all evening.

"Why don't you read that book he wrote?" she asked Amy. "It is better than the one you are reading."

"The title doesn't appeal to me," was Amy's reply. Truth to tell, she had heard her mother talk about him so much, she was tired of anything connected with him. She had never even opened the book.

"He will be here sometime next week and will feel very much hurt if he learns that you have't red his book," her mother remarked.

"His feelings will be hurt worse than that, if he gets too persistent with me," was Amy's reply.

Elinor and Arthur returned before 10 o'clock. Amy invited Arthur in, but he declined, as rumors regarding Mrs. Harrison's "stuck-up notions" had reached his ears, and he felt that his call would be unwelcome. So he went on home and the two girls soon after retired, anxious for a little private girlish chat.

"Did you and Mr. Seymour enjoy the evening?" Amy questioned, as soon as they were alone in Amy's room.

"Oh, yes, very much," Elinor answered. "We went to the Victoria theater. It is just a little suburban theater, but the program was fine. I wish you had gone along."

They kept up similar conversation to this until after 12 o'clock. This visit was the beginning of a lasting friendship between the two girls.

Sunday afternoon Mrs. Harrison made a call on some people with whom she had condescended to make friends. In the meantime, Arthur Seymour and his cousin, Harold Marlowe, who had arrived in town the evening before, were speeding down the road toward the Harrison home in Harold's new touring car. Knowing that only Mr. Harrison and the girls were home, they decided to go in.

The young men invited the girls to go riding, and told Mr. Harrison he could come, too, and act as "chaperon." They ate their evening meal in a pretty spot in the woods, not very far from the roadside, where they had parked the car. Amy had prepared the lunch as soon as the trip was mentioned. There were sandwiches, pickles, cheese, weiners and marshmallows to be roasted in the woods, pie, cakes, salads and fruit in abundance.

"My, my!" exclaimed Harold Marlowe. "This is better than all the restaurant grub in New York. You'll make some man a good wife, if you can cook like this"—this last to Amy, who was sitting next to him on the big log, which answered the purpose of dining chairs.

"Acts pretty much like he would like a be the man, doesn't he?" Arthur casingly remarked.

"Aw, shut up," spoke up Harold, "I'll alk about it myself, in privacy, when I get ready."

"Oh, you're ready now. You mean when she's ready," was Arthur's retort.

"You don't seem to be exactly heart whole yourself. Got the license yet?" questioned Mr. Marlowe.

"A dozen licenses could not help me any without the consent of the girl."

"Well, go slow, old top. You'll get there in time."

"You fellows cut the comedy and finish your supper," said Elinor.

"Yes, before I devour it all myself," put in Mr. Harrison.

"Let them talk, dad, and go hungry if they would rather argue than eat," Amy said to Mr. Harrison.

"As if I hadn't already had my share," laughed Arthur.

"He never eats much," remarked Harold. "For breakfast he never eats more than ten or twelve eggs, and about that many pancakes. Something should be done for his failing appetite."

"Aw, ring off,' growled Arthur, "I always notice a remarkable increase in our grocery bill when you make your week-end visits."

"Excuse me for changing the subject, but I think it is time to go home. It will soon be dark," Amy said.

"Yes, and these two young gallants might get moonstruck with two such pretty girls in the bunch—if one of them is my daughter," said Mr. Harrison.

The picnicers were soon spinning down the rough country road toward a pike leading into the city.

When they reached the Harrison home, it was quite dark. Mr. Harrison and Amy insisted that the boys come in and spend the evening; and after a great deal of persuasion, they consented to do so.

Mrs. Harrison had come home hours before, and was not a little provoked when the hired girl informed her where Mr. Harrison and Amy had gone, and who with.

"I really believe Ralph is trying to make a match between Amy and some plebian character, before Mr. Wheeler comes, just to spite me," complained Mrs. Harrison. "Well, he will have to hurry, as Edward will surely come this week."

Just then the front door opened, and Elinor, Amy, the two "plebian characters" and Mr. Harrison entered the living room, much to Mrs. Harrison's disgust. Then she retired to her own room, not caring to even speak to the young men.

In about two hours, she heard the machine start up the road, and a few minutes later Elinor and Amy came upstairs. Amy had just closed the door of their room, when she heard her mother's footsteps in the hall. Then the door opened again, and Mrs. Harrison stepped inside, closing it after her.

Amy was afraid her mother would say something to snub Elinor; and her fears were well grounded.

"Well, what new escapade will come next!" cried Mrs. Harrison. "While I make a social call on the only people within many miles of us that comes the least bit near my standard, you and your father go for an auto ride in a Ford with two young men not worthy of your acquaintance. Mr. Seymour, Arthur's father, used to be a night watchman for the same company for which your father was vice president; and for all you know, his cousin's father might have been a ditch digger." Her face was white with anger; and so was Amy's.

"I do not know anything about their parents, and I do not care to know. If the father is or has been a beggar, the son is not responsible, no more than I am responsible for certain traits in the members of our family. As far as Arthur is concerned, his father is a good honest man, and is liked by every one."

"You should be ashamed to talk that way to me, your own mother," wailed Mrs. Harrison.

"Mother!" Amy was in tears now. "Mother!" she repeated. "You have been a poor mother and a poor wife. You married for money, which has resulted in an unhappy home. And you want me to make the same kind of a wife, mother and home. I had rather die. And as I told you the other day: If I cannot bring my friends home without their being snubbed, I will live some place where I can say my life is my own."

Mrs. Harrison should have taken warning, but she was in no mood to give in to her daughter. So just as though she had not heard her daughter's last remark, she went on:

"It is bad enough for you to use such poor taste in the selection of your girl friends, but when you form the acquaintance of young men whom you know are objectionable to me, I think it is time that I put a stop to it."

Elinor knew that Mrs. Harrison did not like her, but decided to stay the remainder of her visit this time, and not to come back any more. When Mrs. Harrison made the remark about Amy's selection of girl friends, Elinor knew that that remark was directed to her. When Mrs. Harrison finished her sentence, Elinor said:

"Mrs. Harrison, I see my visit is unwelcome to you; and though I consider myself your equal in every way, I will not stay where I am not wanted."

Mrs. Harrison's temper reached its height at this remark, so she fired back at Elinor a reply which made a great change in her home that night.

"Amy knew when she invited you for this visit that we don't run an orphanage here." She got no further, for by this time, Elinor was running through the hall and down the stairs, with all her belongings, and in less than sixty seconds had reached the front gate.

Amy called to her from the window of her room, which was on the front end of the house.

"Elinor, wait a minute, I am coming, too."

STRUCK BY AUTO; DIES FROM INJURIES

Mrs. Elizabeth Mulligan Steps Into Path of Machine of Logan Wilson

Funeral services were held Wednesday for Mrs. Elizabeth Mulligan, 100 Dakota Ave., who was killed Monday night when she was struck by the auto of Logan Wilson, 37 Midland Ave., at Broad St. and Avondale Ave.

Mr. Wilson was driving east in Broad St. As he approached the intersection at Avondale Ave. Mrs. Mulligan stepped from the curb, he said. He swerved his auto in an attempt to avoid striking her, but, he said, the woman stepped farther into the street, apparently intending to enter the safety zone.

As she hurried forward the car struck her, knocking her to the street. Mr. Wilson, who said he was driving only 15 miles an hour, halted his machine immediately. The front wheels passed over the woman's body, and the rear wheels were upon her when the car was halted.

Mrs. Mulligan was rushed to Mt. Carmel hospital, but she was dead before the institution was reached. Coroner Murphy pronounced death due to a fractured skull, broken neck and internal injuries.

Mr. Wilson was taken to police headquarters, where he was questioned, but was released.

Mrs. Mulligan was on her way to the home of a dead friend when the fatal accident occurred. The accident happened only a few hours after she returned from New Lexington, where she had attended the funeral of another friend.

She is survived by her husband, John Mulligan, Toledo and Ohio Central conductor; one son, one daughter and a brother and a sister.

SECOND SERMON OF SPECIAL SERIES

Rev. Richard E. Shields will deliver the second special sermon on "Women of the Bible," at the morning service, 10:30, Jan. 24, "The Woman Who Deceived"—Who is she?

On last Sunday morning, the first of his series, the church was filled to capacity. Fifty-five of the congregation filled out slips guessing the character of the first sermon, "The Woman Who Courted Her Husband." Thirty-seven is reported by the church secretary as correct. The answer is Ruth.

At the vesper services which begins at 4:15, Miss Ethel Greiser will give an organ recital, the acquaintance sermon will be given by Rev. M. W. Simpson, director of adult education of the state of Ohio. A special series of stereopticon slides will be given by Mr. R. P. Rauch for the children, namely, "Givondi's Great Opportunity," "A Peep at Far Away Friends" and "Across the Sea and Just Beyond."

The children's mixed chorus under the direction of W. H. Jones will furnish the special music for this service.

A miscellaneous shower was given last Friday evening in honor of Mrs. Ray Hoyt (Irene Preest), a bride of December, by Miss Ruth Merriman and Mrs. Graham Prior at the home of the latter, 101 Eldon Ave., to which thirty-five guests were invited. Those present were: Ruth Young, Doris Barnes, Helen Kunzie, Loma Hall, Goldie Six, Norvella Corn, Ruth Kimes, Martha Myers, La Rue Slicker, Mildred Phalor, Betty Hull, Ruth Geren, Mrs. Ernest Purdum, Mrs. Berman Seeds, Mrs. Leo Omspoker, Mrs. Louis Burkett, Mrs. Carl Barnes, Mrs. Clarence Barnes, Mrs. Elzey Miles, Mrs. Curtis Taylor, Mrs. Fred Hutson, Mrs. Ellis Jones, Mrs. Sidney Preest, mother of the bride, Mrs. E. L. Phalor, Mrs. C. F. Prior and the hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Crowe, 2628 W. Broad St., announce the birth of a son at Mt. Carmel hospital, Monday night, Jan. 18.

Mrs. Edith Wright, 153 N. Harris Ave., has joined her husband at Orlando, Fla., where they will sojourn until spring.

The Fourth division of the Ladies Aid society of Glenwood M. E. church will meet at the home of Mrs. Evans, 147 Clarendon Ave., Tuesday, Jan. 26. Mrs. Graham Prior will be assisting hostess.

The choir of the Hilltop Church of Christ had its regular monthly business meeting and social time at the home of O. D. Steel, 289 N. Burgess Ave. Attendance at choir practice and church for the past three months has been excellent, due, largely, to the efforts of Mr. Reed, the director.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Karnes and family, 381 S. Warren Ave., spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. George Haynes at Milleideville, Ohio.

The church cat which makes its home in Glenwood church in care of E. C. Bright won first prize for common cats in the Persian cat show held last week at the Deshler hotel.

Council Proceedings

City council Monday night referred to Service Director Duffy a report for petition by board of education to vacate streets and alleys passing through the site of the new West High school on the Hilltop.

Ordered plans for paving McKinley from Darby street to Central avenue.

Filed a letter from Richard H. Ackland, West-side resident, suggesting that the jog be taken out of West Town street at Gift street.

Also approved zoning of territory west of Ryan avenue and at 746 Heyl avenue and allowed a filling station at northwest corner of Taylor avenue and Granville street.

EXTEND TAX PAYING TIME

With $3,326,643 in taxes collected for 1925, County Treasurer Anderson Wednesday extended time for payment to Jan. 30.

Hundreds of persons stood in line Wednesday, waiting their turn at the windows, under the impression that that was the last day to pay.

Taxpayers have been asked to mail checks or money orders to the treasurer instead of spending long hours in line waiting to pay in person.

W. Broad School News

MY EXPERIENCES IN HAWAII.

Someone has called Hawaii the cross roads of the Pacific because it is here that east meets west. Here the Chinese, Japanese, Koreans, Americans, Brasilians, Portuguese and Filipinos all in native dress may be seen.

It was among these nationalites in Hilo, Hawaii, that I started to school. My first teacher was a native Hawaiian.

Some of the queer foods used by the Hawaiians are rice and cury, poi, guava jelly on bread, shrimps and various foods. They even eat dogs when they have a pow-wow. I had a dog called Neil that was killed and eaten by the Hawaiians.

We rented our house from Mr. Arping, a Chinaman. In the lot adjoining our property there were many banana trees. We had to cut down many of them because of the mosquitoes. Ellsworth Maccabee, 6A.

The 1A class had the assembly Jan. 15. Hylan Hilliard took charge of the prayer. A silent reading project lesson in setting the table was given by Miss Birch.

The attendance banners were awarded as follows: Room 1, room 103 and room 200.

The following rooms received stars for improvement in banking: Rooms 1, 2, 102, 208, 208, 200, 202, 204, 208, 105.

These rooms had 100% in punctuality: Room 4, 2, 201, 202, 203, 105 and 107.

BIG PETITION

To Be Presented to City Council Next Monday Night to Have West Side Cars Rerouted Back on High St.

All Civic Organizations Supporting the Measure, and Urge All Who Can to Attend Council Meeting Next Monday Night

It has been several weeks since the West Side cars were taken off of High street by action of city council when they passed a resolution to that effect, which was all done in one meeting and without giving the people of the West Side an opportunity to be heard on the matter. The vote in council stood six to one, Mr. Lewis, councilman from the West Side, being the only one voting against it.

However, the widespread and almost unanimous sentiment all over the community has been crystallizing until now all West Side civic organizations, together with churches and other societies, are united in a determined effort to see that the West Side gets justice in this matter.

Petitions have been circulated and signed by thousands, which will be presented to council next Monday night at their meeting. And hundreds of citizens are expected to be present at that meeting when the matter will be presented to council, demanding that the West Side cars be put back on High street until a general rerouting of cars can be made and in which all sections of the city will be treated alike.

Call any of the following persons and they can tell you where you can go to sign a petition:

Rev. M. W. Simpson, 168 Whitethorne Ave. Ra. 1029-W.

C. O. Goss, 1048 W. Broad St. Citizen phone.

Marsh C. Green, 87 Brehl Ave. Randolph 0944-M.

The general feeling of our people is that the West Side has ben discriminated against, and has been made the goat in the whole affair. It has acted to a great inconvenience of our people, who are feeling the matter keenly.

Rev. M. W. Simpson, one of our citizens, who has been circulating numerous petitions, will present the matter to council and others interested will also join in the protestation.

It is urged that every West Side resident who possibly can, attend council meeting next Monday night and help with his or her presence to influence council to reconsider their resolution and order the cars over the old routes.

Council meets in the Carnegie library at the east end of State street at 7 o'clock next Monday night.

The following West Side and Hilltop civic organizations are back of the movement:

West Side Betterment Association.
West Side Board of Trade.
Hilltop Civic Association.
Hilltop Business Men's Association.
Southwest Advancement League.
Central-Sullivant Civic Association.

Following are a few expressions given us by different well known West Side and Hilltop residents on being asked as to their opinion of the present routing of cars:

A. F. Elliott—Present routes of West Side cars are a source of much inconvenience to West Side residents and should be put back on High street.

C. M. Marsh—As the cars are now routed it is a source of much inconvenience and thinks the West Side residents are being discriminated against. Should be returned to their former routes.

M. W. Seiler—West Side cars should be put back on their former routes, as the present routing is a source of inconvenience to residents of this section.

C. B. Pepple—West Side cars should be put back on High street until a general rerouting of all cars in the city can be put into effect.

O. E. Voss—Put West Side cars back on High street until a general rerouting of all cars is put into effect.

W. L. Millikin—Maintains all cars of the city should be rerouted, but until this is brought about West Side cars should be put back on High street.

Dr. I. B. Hamlin—The present routes of West Side cars is a source of much inconvenience and a discrimination against West Side residents.

Rev. E. E. McFarlane—Heartily in favor of putting West Side cars back on High street. West Side residents are worthy of some consideration.

M. J. Westlake, county commissioner—"I consider it is easier for an automobile or taxicab to go that extra square than for a woman to carry a child or heavy burden and walk that distance to get a street car. It looks to me like it is just depriving the street car patrons of their right in order to accommodate more automobiles on High street. I am absolutely opposed to the present way West Side street cars have been discriminated against and hope the West Side people will unite to make their protest felt against this method."

Denny Cross, representative to Ohio state legislature—I think it is ridiculous and only too glad to get an opportunity to sign a petition and do what I can to see the cars put back where they were.

F. L. Sulzberger—Put West Side cars back on High street until a general rerouting of all city cars can be put into effect, as I cannot see whereby it relieves congestion on High street by taking off West Side cars which run only two squares on High, and leaving on longer runs on High street.

Rev. J. N. Johnston—I consider the present routing very inconvenient for persons living on the West Side and the Hilltop.

Rev. W. C. Hickey—I think it is unfair and unjust to the people of the West Side.

At a meeting of the directors of the Central-Sullivant Civic association it was voted unanimously to co-operate with the other West Side civic bodies in the campaign to induce council to reconsider the rerouting of West Side cars.

Group No. 3 of the Ladies' Aid society of Hoge Memorial church met in the church Thursday, Jan. 14. Mrs. W. H. Riley is the leader of this group. Mrs. O. V. Metzgar was elected secretary. Ladies in this division decided to give a play to raise their pledge. Mrs. J. C. Close, Mrs. Daniel Jerman and Mrs. P. G. Gants were appointed on the committee to select the play.

City Manager Plan up

Councilman John W. Lewis will ask city council next Monday night to amend the city charter to provide for a city manager form of government. A two-thirds vote of council can amend the charter, or the form of government can be changed by circulating petitions.

In support of his request Mr. Lewis points to the fact that Cleveland has been operating very successfully under this plan of government, and that Cincinnati recently changed to the city manager plan.

Few Sight-Seeing Buses Used in Ohio

On Jan. 1, 1926, there were 2500 sight-seeing tourist and contract buses in operation in the United stated. Of this number only 35 were in operation in Ohio, according to a statement issued by the Ohio Motor Bus Association, based on a survey made by national authorities. The largest group of sight-seeing buses in operation in the national parks, while many are in service in such cities as Washington, Philadelphia, New York, Boston, Chicago and Los Angeles and in Florida.

Although there are only about 35 such buses in operation in Ohio, there are more than 300 regular bus lines with an average of five buses to a route. Buses are in operation in every couty in Ohio.

County commissioners last week were considering rebuilding of the old Olentangy River Boulevard from Fifth avenue to Sandusky street, a distance of one and one-half miles on the west side of Olentangy River.

A Chamber of Commerce Committee on thorofares, headed by General Edward Orton Jr., asked co-operation of the commissioners in restoring the road that was washed out by the 1913 flood.

County Surveyor Lattimer gave the commissioners tentative plans for the road which include four subways under railroads operated by the Big Four, Hocking Valley, and Pennsylvania Co. and the Concrete Material Co.

Commissioners Barthman and Atcherson favored the plans but they said they would confer with Commissioner Westlake before announcing their decision.

The new road would provide a new outlet for traffic in the west side of the city and has been agitated for several years.

Initials Cut in Tree Lasted Many Years

An American beech tree was cut down about one mile north of Morrisville, Pa. On splitting a section of this tree into firewood a remarkable work of nature was brought to light.

On one of the pieces of wood were plainly embossed the initials of "A. J. D., J. E. D., 1839," and on the other piece were letters and figures exactly responding to the embossed ones, says Nature Magazine. A careful examination shows that the tree must have been about 87 years old when the initials were cut. The embossed part was nearest to the bark.

It is supposed that the tree, in growing, gradually overgrew the part with the initials cut in it, when its tissue was pressed into the mold-like initials, forming genuinely embossed letters and numerals. Who has a better explanation? What a story of love romance! The sections of wood are owned by Henry Moon of Morrisville, Pa.

HEALTH HINTS

By DR. O. E. McFADON

NUTS AS A SUBSTITUTE FOR MEAT

The authorities are numerous and noted, and the evidences many and convincing, that meat is not necessary in the human diet. Dr. E. V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins, and Dr. J. H. Kellogg of Battle Creek are faithful adherents to, and prolific and authoritative writers upon this doctrine.

Much has been written about nuts as a substitute for meat. But these gentlemen, Professor Sherman of Columbia, and others maintain that meat is the substitute for nuts, rather than nuts for meat, for nuts were the chief staple of primitive man. And even now, with more than half the human race, meat is not included in the bill of fare.

Coincident with the advancement of "civilization" the nut supply became limited and modern man became a meat eater. The habit has become inherent until the shortness of supply has caused national apprehension as to the source of meat for the future. In the more "civilized" nations, the menu revolves around meat. Meat has been heralded as a convenient and palatable source of available protein. The prominence of meat in the dietary and menu has been taught, emphasized and expected for generations, until the thing we think of as a "national mind" has been created and the omission of meat from the dietary is instinctively looked upon as a sacrilige not to be tolerated. Animal protein, in the shape of meat, has become a god in the so-called "civilized" countries—but with what result?

Is it the meat eaters or the non-meat eaters as a rule, that, in after-life, have gout, arthritis and other rheumatic affections; apoplexy, hardened arteries and other serious heart troubles; diabetes and other kidney diseases, etc., that have come to be looked upon as old-age diseases that are "sure to come to all of us sooner or later?" We all know it to be the high-livers—the meat-eaters.

At every sanitarium, the first step is one of reform in gastronomy, which implies segregation from temptation, and such restrictions as means the retracement of steps that have led up to the trouble. And it more often transpires that indiscriminate meat-eating is the guilty malefactor.

A season at a sanitarium, with its restrictions and good counsel, proves a good object lesson to the patient and may so patch him up as to run him on for years, if he has will power (and wont-power) strong enough to overcome his table temptations at home. But, in a possible family of adults, who are as addicted and fixed in their habits as he was, and as susceptible, as most of us are, to temptation, which is sure to be stimulated by appetite and taste, what hope is there for him. Herein appears the responsibility of the housewife whose judgment is relied upon to choose the menu best suited to all needs. Politeness and courtesy are carried too far when we eat the tempting viands simply because they are before us.

Returning to the almost extinct nut supply and the rapidly vanishing meat supply and the consequent higher cost of both: It is well to know that two acres of pasture are necessary to produce one steer; that two walnut trees will produce as much protein food in the shape of nuts as are equal to one steer; that one acre of ground will produce 120 walnut trees, 90 feet apart. Therefore, the two acres of land, the constant use of which is required by one steer is equal to producing as much protein as 120 steers. So, taking a long look ahead (as Mr. Hoover is doing in the matter of rubber production) why not get about it and prpoduce walnut and other nut trees and thereby get a better quality of protein for future generations and at lower prices.

We need not confine ourselves to a vegeterian diet, but dairy products added gives us sufficient animal protein for variety. "A lacto-vegetarian diet (recommended by Dr. McCollum) is one of fruits, vegetables, nuts, seeds and milk." And Hindhede assures us that "upon that diet we may be immune from indigestion, kidney and liver diseases and gout."

LOVE vs. WEALTH

A STORY

Written for the Record by Mrs. Marcella Carleton, 65 North Park Ave. (Hilltop) Columbus, Ohio.

Before her mother could find words for speech, Amy had gathered what things she would need the worst, packed them in a small traveling bag, and was soon standing beside Elinor at the front gate. Then she thought of her father. She must see him before she went away. So she hurried into the house again, and found her father in a little room next to the dining room, which he called his study and where he went when he wanted to get away from his wife's "nagging." Also, he locked himself in this room when he felt like working on an invention he had started some time before. He had never told his wife about it, as he was afraid it would only lead to additional disappointment for her, in case he should fail in his undertaking. Amy was the only person who knew of it.

As soon as she entered the room he noticed that something was wrong. She went over to him, sat down on his knee, and threw both arms around his neck.

"Oh, daddy," she cried, "I'm sorry to have to do it, but I can't stand it any longer." And she told him about the events that has just occurred that evening.

"My poor little girl," he sighed. "It's too bad; too bad," he muttered absently. "I hate to see you go; but it may teach her a lesson if you stay away for a couple of weeks. Then I'll come after you and bring you home, and if she hasn't changed her mind by that time, I will take the law of this house into my own hands, and show her 'who's who.'"

He took two ten-dollar bills out of his pocketbook and handed them to her. "This will pay for your board and room for two weeks." He wrote a name on a slip of paper and gave it to Amy. "This woman is an old schoolmate of mine, and I have favored her and her family many times—not that I want pay for it," he added. "I want you to pay your board and room while there. But she doesn't care to keep roomers or boarders so it will be a favor to us, even if we do pay. I will come to see you now and then, so don't get homesick."

"Goodbye, dad, for a few days, then. I hope this will change things. Mother would be happier, as well as you and I, if she could see things differently."

She kissed him goodbye, and hurried out to meet Elinor, who was still waiting for her.

"Oh, Amy, I don't want you to do this on my account. I didn't blame you for what she said," Elinor said to Amy as they started down the road toward the car line which was about a quarter of mile from the Harrison home.

"Don't tell anyone, Elinor, but I'm just bluffing. Dad knows all about it. I'm going to room at a friend's house for two weeks, then dad is coming after me. We think the separation will make her change her mind about some things. Don't say a word about it at the office, except to Arthur."

"No, I won't, Amy," Elinor promised.

The two girls hurried on, and soon reached the car line. They waited a few minutes, then saw the car coming around the bend just a few rods from the stop. Then Amy chanced to look across the street, and saw Harold Marlowe's car turning the corner opposite the car stop. He had seen her first, and when she looked in his direction, he motioned for her. They motioned the motorman of the trolley car to go on, and crossed the street and stepped into Harold's machine.

"Where are you girls going?" he asked Amy. "Why didn't you say something a while ago, before I left the house? Then I could have come after you.

"I took a sudden notion to visit a friend in town for a couple of weeks," was Amy's half-truthful reply.

Harold looked at her wonderingly. This girl was an enigma to him, though a very agreeable one. He took Elinor to her boarding house first. The two girls bade each other an affectionate goodnight, and Harold and Amy went in search of Amy's new place of residence, the former thinking it funny Amy had never been there before, if this lady were an old friend.

They soon found the house, and Amy ascended the steps and rang the door bell. A kindly looking lady opened the door. Amy gave her the note her father had sent, asking her to take care of his daughter for a couple of weeks, partly explaining the reason.

"I'll be glad to, my dear," she said to Amy. "Your father has helped me out many times."

Amy handed her one of the bills her father had given her, which, however, she had only accepted as a loan.

"I should say not; I don't keep boarders here. Anybody that want's to visit me for a little while is welcome to without cost to them," she declared. Amy insisted, but it was of no use.

They talked a while about Mr. Harrison, and other subjects of interest to both of them. Then Amy, being tired and sleepy asked to be shown to her room. She was given the spare room, which was a very attractive room; but Amy wished she was back home in her own room. Biting her lip to keep the tears back, she bade Mrs. Blake good night, and the latter left the room muttering something about old Mrs. Harrison's "funny notions."

The sun was shining brightly when Amy awoke next morning. A good sleep had worked wonders, and she felt in excellent spirits this morning. She ate her breakfast, and being quite a distance from the office, decided to ride down on the street car.

When the car stopped in front of the Union station, she noticed a well-dressed man carrying a large traveling bag, board the car she was on. He sat down directly opposite Amy. It seemed that he had never been in Frankinton before, as he listened very closely to the names of the streets called by the conductor.

He was still on the car when Amy arose from her seat, as the car stopped at the street the Starke Publishing Company was located on. Something in this young man's personality, and the expression of his eyes, appealed to Amy, and she could not get him off her mind all morning, although she tried hard to do so.

"What is the matter with me?" she asked herself. "I'm not in the habit of taking a fancy to anyone the first time I meet them, especially if I'm not likely to ever see them again."

Luckily for her, the work allotted to her this morning was very light, or she might have made some grave errors. The hours wearily rolled by, as they usually do for people who work for the clock instead of their employer. Finally noon hour came. Amy cleared off her desk, and started toward the front door of the office.

Mr. Payne called to her.

"Just a moment, please, Amy." He now called her by her first name. "Would you like to lunch with me today? Come, now, do not try to think of an excuse."

Amy thought of Arthur's words to her a week before, concerning this man, and decided to follow his advice. Several times, lately, this husband and father had made unwelcome advances toward her, in the privacy of his office, while dictating letters to her. So she coolly declined his invitation.

"It is not necessary for me to invent an excuse, when I have several good, truthful reasons—not excuses. One is that I have several gentlemen friends who are not married who would take me to dinner if I wanted their company."

"Look out, little spit-fire," said Mr. Payne. "Be careful about how you talk to me. Remember you are only a stenographer, and I am your employer. Whether you continue with this firm or not depends on me.

"If keeping my position depends on anything other than my efficiency, I certainly would prefer to work elsewhere," Amy indignantly turned to leave the room. But he stopped her again.

"I beg your pardon, Miss Harrison," he said, "I am glad to know that you are different from some girls I have had under my employ. I promise that I will not offend you again. Sorry you have been detained; but you may stay out half an hour longer than usual if you wish. We have nothing urgent for this afternoon."

Amy decided to take advantage of this privilege. She ate her dinner at a restaurant near the office; and as the Starke Publishing Company was located in the outskirts of the business district, she had to walk several blocks to get to the department store where she usually made her purchases.

When she left the restaurant, she noticed that it was becoming cloudy, but she did not think it would rain very soon. So forgetting the clouds, she hurried on toward the center of the business district.

In an half hour's time she had completed her purchases, so she descended the stairs from the second floor of the store and hastened toward the street, only to discover as she passed through one of the front exits, that it was raining hard; and she was four blocks from the office and without an umbrella.

"I hate to spend all my money for umbrellas," she complained to herself. "Twice, lately, I have been caught in a similar plight, and each time, bought a new umbrella, when I already had two or three at home."

Street car service could not help much, as she would have to walk two blocks from this store to the car line, and risk a good soaking.

She had only walked a short distance when she felt a hand touch her arm; and looking up, she saw the face of the young man she had seen on the car that morning. What a strange coincident! And what a pleasant one!

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but I notice you have no umbrella, though it is raining pretty hard. May I escort you to your destination?"

He, too, had been thinking of the pretty young lady who sat opposite him on the car that morning, and was grateful to Fate for sending her to this particular spot, during a heavy rainstorm, and for sending him up the street in her direction with an umbrella. He asked her to lead the way, which she did—directly to the office, not toward the car line.

"I believe the Starke Publishing Company is located out this way, is it not?" he asked her.

"Why, yes. Are you going there?"

"That is what brought me to Franklinton," he replied.

"I happen to be their stenographer," she informed him.

"Is that right? Then I suppose you remember the letter you wrote to Mr. Edward Earl, about a week ago, do you not?"

"Yes, sir," she answered. "You see I haven't been with this firm long. The letter I wrote to Mr. Earl was dictated as a trial letter the day I was employed."

By this time, they were nearing the [illegible]

"Pardon me, Miss ——" He hesitated. She had not told him her name.

She had the word "Harrison" on the tip of her tongue, when voices from behind them caught their attention. It was Mr. Payne and Arthur Seymour, who had taken lunch together, in the same restaurant where Amy had dined. Mr. Payne felt ashamed of having accused Arthur of theft, and had since tried to make amends in every possible way.

Amy introduced her new acquaintance to Mr. Payne and Arthur. The latter could hardly keep from laughing outright, for though the rain had completely ceased several minutes before, Mr. Earl had not closed his umbrella, but continued to hold it very carefully over Amy.

Edward caught the look, and noticed that, at least, he was not alone with his absentmindedness. Amy, herself, he could see, was not yet aware of the fact that it had stopped raining. Then she happened to look toward Mr. Payne. That was too much for him. He burst into an uncontrolable fit of laughter.

"Let me look at your umbrella, Mr. Earl," he said, "My father used to be an umbrella repair man. Maybe I could fix your umbrella so it will come down easier."

"Oh, the umbrella's all right, Mr. Payne," laughed Mr. Earl. "What I need is some kind of an apparatus attached to it, which will indicate whether or not it is raining."

The Four people entered the office. Mr. Payne and Mr. Earl went to the former's private office; and Arthur and Amy to their desks.

Amy had some letters to transcribe, which she had taken in her notebook that morning. These were not quite finished when the door of Mr. Payne's office opened, and Amy was motioned to bring her notebook. Edward Earl was still in the office when she entered.

"Mr. Earl has some letters to write, and as you haven't much to do, I told him you would write them for him," Mr. Payne told her; then as he had some business matters to attend to, which would take him away from the office, these two young people were left alone in the office. The letters were soon dictated, and Amy arose from her seat to leave the room, but Mr. Earl intercepted her.

"You haven't told me your name yet," he reminded her.

Again her reply was prevented by the entrance of Mr. Payne, who had forgotten an important business paper.

"It is a pity he didn't use another time to use his forgetter," thought Mr. Earl to himself.

So Amy went back to her desk, and transcribed his letters. Still Mr. Payne had not left the office. Amy took the letters to Mr. Earl.

"Thank you very much," he said. "How much do I owe you?"

"You had better read them before you ask me that," was her answer.

The remainder of the afternoon for Amy was mostly spent killing time. Mr. Payne and Mr. Earl had gone out together—the latter with the book which he had written under his arm. Mr. Earl was to be the salesman of his own book, and while in Franklinton, he intended to canvas every book store in the city and mail circulars to other stores in different cities in the state of Ohio.

At last, it was five o'clock. Amy hastily cleared her desk, and donned her hat and coat. When she reached the sidewalk in front of the office, she noticed her father standing beside Arthur's machine. Amy had been quick, but Arthur had been quicker; and now she noticed that he was already in his machine. Mr. Harrison had been talking to him for several minutes when Amy came up.

Regarding the affair that had taken place at the Harrison home the night before, Mr. Harrison said nothing. He merely informed Arthur that his daughter was going to stay in the city with a friend for a few weeks. But Arthur had his suspicions, for Harold had told him that Amy acted as though she was going to see a perfect stranger; and knowing that Elinor intended to stay with Amy until Monday morning, Arthur naturally wondered why Amy had taken a notion to see this friend, when the time of Elinor's visit was not yet up. He rightly guessed that Mrs. Harrison was to blame.

Amy was very glad to see her father. It seemed a week since she had seen him last.

"I think this will teach your mother a lesson, Amy," her father remarked as they walked up the street. "She seems to be sorry for what occurred last night."

"Does she know where I am?" Amy inquired.

"No, I told her you said you were going to get a room in town some place. That's all the information she got from me."

They had reached the corner where Amy had got off the car that morning, on her way to the office. They crossed the street to the opposite corner, where the car stopped going north.

Mr. Harrison waited with Amy for the next car. When it came in sight, he bade her goodbye and promised to see her again soon.

That evening Harold made his promised call on her. She did not feel in a mood to be very entertaining; and Harold left rather early, thinking she might want to retire, as she looked tired and rather worried.

"Will you go to a theater with me tomorrow night?" he asked her as he stepped out the door.

"Not tomorrow night, but probably the night after," she told him.

Amy talked to Mrs. Blake a while, and then went to her room. She wished the two weeks were over. Already she was homesick. Despite the differences existing between them, she loved her mother dearly. But Amy's future happiness partly depended on her mother now. The girl believed in marrying for love; the mother for wealth and social position.

"I suppose that Mr. Wheeler will call while I am away. That ordeal is worth escaping," she said to herself.

She thought and pondered until her bewildered brain could think no longer. Then she fell into a deep, refreshing sleep.

CITY CHECKER TOURNAMENT

The checker tournament sponsored by the city recreation department last Friday night at Washington park shelter house drew a good crowd and much enthusiasm and interest in the playing was manifest, 175 being present and 65 participating in the games.

A feature of the tournament was the playing of I. J. Goldsmith, former state champion, who played 22 boards simultaneously. In his playing he lost two games, one to Gus Granel, 390 S. Twenty-second St., and one to Frank Joyce, 2131 Summit St., and two draw games, one with E. A. Carlson, 53 N. Park Ave., and one with M. Van Hoose, 302 Woodward Ave.

That those who contemplate entering the district tournaments may get pointers and practice before the district tournaments begin, another general tournament will be held at Washington Park shelter house Friday evening of this week, playing to start at 8 o'clock. A state champion will also be present and play in these games.

February 4 the district tournaments will start at the different shelter houses in the city. The playing is under the direction of the city recreation department and only amateur players are eligible, all professionals being barred. The rules of the National Checker Tournament Association will govern all playing.

A prize, probably a cup, will be given each district champion at the finish of the district tournaments.

All who are interested in the game are invited to take their board and join in the playing next Friday night.

STREET CAR PROTEST LOST

Council Refused Monday Night to Return West Side Cars to Former Routes.

About 100 West Side residents appeared before council Monday night to protest against the present routing of West Side cars, maintaining it is a great inconvenience and discrimination to residents of this section.

Councilman Lewis made a motion to put the cars back on their old routes and spoke on the subject, claiming the change had "been railroaded" through council several weeks ago.

Others who spoke in favor of the motion were Denny Cross, M. W. Simpson, D. G. Wilson, Mrs. Ora Wilson and Fred Sulsberger.

It was pretty much the opinion that everything was all "set" so far as council was concerned about the matter before the petition came up.

Mr. Nailor, former councilman, took it upon himself to attend the meeting and address council, commending them on the resolution they had already adopted taking the West Side cars off of High street.

Councilmen pointed out that other car lines did not run on High street and that council had done much in the past in a legislative way for this section of the city.

Just what they have done you can draw your own conclusions.

West High Seniors to Present Play

The seniors of West High school will present Christopher Morley's "Thursday Evening," a one-act play, as a feature of the program in an entertainment for the junior class, Feb. 19.

The cast includes: Robert Weller, Geraldine Elliott, Helen Parrett and Ruth Hessemauer.

WEST BROAD SCHOOL NEWS

Mrs. Walton's class has been publishing a monthly paper for two years. This paper consists of the daily news of Mrs. Walton's 6A class. The ones on the committee for January, 1926, are: Louise Byerly, Margaret Bier and Winifred Riggs.

Last Friday morning's program at West Broad Street school was in charge of Mrs. Clark's 4A's. Their subject was "What One Little Bird Can Do." The skylark led them to the study of the poets Shakespeare and Shelly, the artist Jules Breton, and the musician Franz Schubert. These themes were presented by Ruth Lewis, Betty Lou Earle, Betty Finke, Clayton Tullis and Patty Lou Gibson. The program closed with the singing of Schubert's "Hark, Hark, the Lark," led by Christine Layne.

The following rooms were 100 per cent in punctuality: Room 2, 2B; 4, kindergarten; 104, 2B; 200, individual; 208, 5B; 207, 4A; 208, 4B.

Westgate Chorus Sings at Somerset

Thirty or more members of West Gate chorus, led by their recently elected director, W. Haydn Jones, went to Somerset Tuesday evening to sing a concert at the one hundredth anniversary of Somerset Lodge of Masons.

The Chorus made their trip by bus Tuesday afternoon. Wayne Miller, pianist for the chorus, accompanied it in the several selections that were [illegible].

Somerset lodge observed its centennial with an afternoon and evening program, which was arranged by a committee headed by Dr. H. S. Spangler of Somerset, a past master of the lodge.

HIGHLAND 9A PLAY TONIGHT

The 9A class play of Highland Junior High school is to be presented tonight at the West Broad Street school auditorium at 7:30. The play to be given, "The Arrival of Kitty," is a most lively and amusing comedy, full of laughs from start to finish.

Robert Henery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Henery, 2090 Grace St., and Grace Cassidy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Cassidy, 440 S. Terrace St., have the leading rolls with an ably assisting cast in Staley Shanely, Dorothy Williams, Edmond Mollenchp, Alyce Alspach, Granville Donley, William Cosgray and Frances Gemeinhart, whose roles are not less interesting and entertaining.

The mysterious "Kitty" has many exciting exploits before Uncle William finally gets over his "hallucinations" and clears up the mystery, and poor Aunt Janes, after years of waiting, is finally rewarded with the dearest dream of her life—a husband.

All this together with a romantic episode or two to make it complete furnishes a good evening's entertainment in the "Arrival of Kitty."

Group 4 of the Ladies' Aid society of Hoge Memorial church met Jan. 14 in the church parlor. Mrs. A. C. Market is the leader of this group. Mrs Ray Cave was elected treasurer and Mrs. Samuel Pool was elected secretary. A package surprise by this group Feb. 4 at the regular Aid meeting.

The Eleventh Ward Republican club held its first 1926 preliminary meeting at the home of Mrs. Dora Johnson, 41 N. Terrace St., Thursday evening January 21.

In spite of the snow covered walks and the disagreeable night, the attendance was surprisingly large. Our ward committeeman, Russel P. Gregg, called the meeting to order and a temporary organization was effected. Mrs. Dora Johnson, our genial and courteous hostess was chosen temporary president, and Mrs. Bertha Hitchcock, temporary secretary. A most excellent spirit prevailed, which was a good omen of what the club can and will accomplish in the coming campaign.

Harmony, enthusiasm and co-operation will be our slogan. From what we know of the loyal, whole-hearted men and women of the Eleventh ward, we are confident that we will not be excelled by any other Republican club in the city. Our next meeting will be held at the home Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bidwell, 30 Eldon Ave., Friday evening, Feb. 26, at 8 o'clock, at which time the club will elect its permanent officers. The club adjourned feeling that our host and hostess and their charming daughter, Elizabeth, had made their home a delightful place to come.

Rev. W. E. Feeman,
Temporary Publicity Secretary.

Jack Merriman, of Seiller's Dry Goods store, will leave Sunday for St. Louis, where he will take a course in display work.

The Young Married People's Bible class of Hoge Memorial church will present the Columbian Quartet in vocal and instrumental music at the church next Friday evening. Three of the members of the quartet are blind. This will be the quartet's second appearance at Hoge Memorial.

The monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of Hoge Memorial church will be held Feb. 4, at 2 p. m. in the church-house. Mrs. W. G. Davis, Mrs. Emma Dean, Mrs. W. H. Deems, Mrs. Dellenbach and Mrs. Philip Cunningham will be the hostesses.

A Little Story That's True

A little company of four or five were gathered around a stove in a West Side store one of those cold days last week soaking in all the good free heat they could and talking about snow storms, blizzards and things, when the "prop" joined in and related this little story:

"It was before Sullivant avenue was paved and nearly all the Hilltop was farm land, with occasionally a ditch running through. A bunch of us youngsters went out Sullivant in a big bob sled. I was on the seat up front driving and was sandwiched between two young ladies, While the rest were huddled back of us in the bottom of the sled enjoying a good time. When about where Nashoba avenue now is, I concluded I could cut across through the fields and thus get to our destination a little better. A heavy snow was on the ground and it had drifted so much that it filled up all low places to a level. I had not driven far when all at once 'bing,' the horses rushed into a big ditch and were half buried in snow while the sled plunged in after them with the front end down and the rear up, throwing the whole bunch forward. I had braced myself to retain my seat. The folks all jumped to their feet as soon as they could. Then the horses gave a lunge up the other side of the ditch. The front end of the sled went up and the rear end down so quickly as to throw every last one of the bunch except us on the seat, out of the back end, heels over head into several feet of snow. Say, the squealing and scrambling and brushing that followed was enough to keep the crowd laughing for months afterward."

The Hilltop Circle of the Child Conservation League having completed their original three-year study course, have taken up the study since January of the first contribution of "The Children's Foundation," "The Child, His Nature and His Need." A copy of this volume has been placed in the Holmes Hilltop Library by the circle.

The volume has been placed there for use by anyone interested in consulting it for present day knowledge relating to the nature, well being and education of children. Its object is to appraise present day knowledge relating to the well being and education of children and to make this knowledge available for practical use everywhere.

The Hilltop circle opens its membership to any interested person wishing to join in this study for child betterment. Any of the present officers of the circle, Mrs. F. L. Bradfute, 292 S. Hague Ave.; Mrs. John Rings, 70 S. Burgess Ave.; Mrs. L. A. Warner, 234 N. Harris Ave., can give any information pertaining to new membership.

Seein' and Hearin' Things

—A couple of days since we sprang up on our toes in action for a quick leap at what sounded like approaching skid chains right behind us, and a backward glance while in action relieved our moment of anxiety—it was just a fair young damsel hustling along toting a pair of real, live galoshes opened up in full bloom.

—The scores of boys and girls seen on every available coasting place with their sleds makes a fellow think of those lines, "Turn backward, turn backward, O, time in thy flight, and make me a boy again just for tonight."

—Only three more shopping days till ground hog day.

—A real, hopeful sign that old King Winter's "caboose" will be in sight some sweet day, was a boy flying a kite last Saturday. Boys, bring out your marbles and kind o' help things along.

—Notwithstanding the high price of rubber it looks like a good many Columbus people are cultivating rubber necks trying to see the top of the A. I. U. building. They say that when it's finished it will take two men and a boy to look to the top of it—that is one man cast his eye upwards as high as he can, then the second begin where he leaves off, and the boy take the third relay up and reach the top with his vision.

—Well, council has taken our West Side cars off of High street. But cheer up, some day when the over-town lines get all those new cars that are coming, maybe the powers that be will let us ride in some of their old ones which they'll shoot over here. However, we should worry, they can't stop us from riding two ways on one ticket—standing up and sitting down.

—How many of you folks saw that live horse, trimmed with jingle-bells, gracefully drawing a real, honest-to-goodness sleigh in which sat a driver with the lines drawn tight and buddied up close by him, with lap robe all tucked in around her sat—well, oh boy, d'you remember? How'd that old song go? —let's see—

Riding home with Kate beside me,
Crossing o'er the ridge;
I reach o'er and slyly kissed her
Going through the bridge.
Then she asked 'How many bridges
There were on the way.'
And I answered, 'Count the kisses
Riding in the sleigh.'

"Hip, hurrah, hold your horses
Or they'll get away.
Ain't it joyous with your sweetheart
Riding in a sleigh.

"Coming home with Kate beside me,
This I will confess,
What I asked her makes no difference
For she answered 'yes.'
And some future day next winter,
I'll not state the day,
There will be a preacher with us
Riding in the sleigh."

A Father and Son banquet will be held in Glenwood church Friday evening, Feb. 5. An interesting program of song, speeches and fun has been arranged. Full announcement of program next week.

This evening at Glenwood M. E. church, R. H. Ambrose, a scientific lecturer-entertainer, will appear in "The Science Story." Among the many experiments which Mr. Ambrose conducts before his audience, are the welding of nails by electricity, permitting the current to pass through his body; holding two carbons in his hands to form an arc light; firing a cannon and sending a flag up the flagpole by use of rays from an ordinary flash light; controlling lights and power by radio, taking power out of the air. He doesn't rely on trickery, but makes application of little-known physical and electrical laws that lend themselves well to interesting demonstrations.

There will be no meeting Thursday, Feb. 4, of the Glenwood Ladies' Aid, but will meet Friday afternoon, Feb. 5, at the church. No pot luck lunch.

HEALTH HINTS

By DR. O. E. McFADON

THE FOOD PROBLEM

The food problem is sufficiently complex to involve one's personality. If food be wisely chosen and properly eaten, normal digestion should follow. But notice a few of the many "human agencies" that might interfere: First of all, an unhealthy condition of the stomach and other digestive organs up-to-date; one may be tired, excited, angry, or not hungry; there may be incompatible mixtures, worry, jealousy, envy, spite, laziness, poor cooking, drugs, condiments alcohol, etc., all of which are modifiers of results.

Nature is thought to be indulgent: but on the contrary she is most exacting. A single indiscretion may be forgotten by the guilty one, but the aggregate of that one's life cannot be what it might otherwise have been. The occasion may be a Thanksgiving or Christmas dinner, and may be thought to be "worth all it costs"—even in vitality; indeed it is more often erroneously thought to be an additional (rather than a substractional) asset, but nature (bank-like) has charged it up on the liability side. And how sad it is, that millions—yes, possibly a majority of all the people, settle into the easy, sensual way of thinking, if they think at all, that they should eat to the limit; that hunger (which ought to occur daily) should be considered a calamity; and that over-weight in adults is an evidence of health, and something to be proud of.

What a boon to humanity it would be, if every modern mother, in the fruition of her domestic science (facetiously called by some one "domestic silence"—and it might be so for she could do it unobtrusively), would so rear—feed and educate—her family, that they would have practical gastronomic habits, and "not depart from it." This is placing a great responsibility upon the mother, but the writer insists that in the house-wife lies the greatest possibility of the race, along this line—and it isn't an idle dream either.

Domestic economy is now a recognized department in most colleges and is taught in most graded schools. As in the case of prohibition, or slavery, it cannot be 100 per cent successful at once, but future generations will see the benefit in the added length, breadth and depth of their lives. The writer remembers how the ladies of the W. C. T. U. fought for the incorporation of temperance instruction in the school text books. That was an initial step that culminated, finally, in national prohibition. In like manner the only way to reform the people thoroughly in their food habits is to educate the rising generation and await results.

Dr. O. E. McFadon, osteopath, 106 W. 10th Ave. Un. 7904-W. Residence calls on the Hilltop Wednesday and Saturday mornings.

LOVE vs. WEALTH

A STORY

Written for the Record by Mrs. Marcella Carleton, 38 North Park Ave. (Hilltop) Columbus, Ohio.

Chapter VIII.

Mrs. Harrison was alone in the living room. Her husband had gone to town that afternoon, and had not returned. She wondered what was keeping him. The she thought of Amy.

"I suppose I was hard on her," she muttered to herself, "but it was for her own good. If she marries well, I do not expect to share her good fortune, and I don't want to. I am too proud to be the least bit dependent on a son-in-law; but I want her to have what I missed"—which proved the mother was not selfish. She wanted her daughter to be happy, but did not want her to choose the kind of happiness that appealed to her.

Presently, she heard Mr. Harrison's footstep on the front porch. She opened the front door.

"Where in the world have you been? I was beginning to think you had left home, too," she pouted.

"Come, now, wife," he tried to say good-naturedly. "You know I wouldn't do that."

For a wonder, that kind remark silenced her. They they went in the dining room where supper was waiting. Mr. Harrison moved his wife's chair back and seated her on it; then took his place at the opposite side of the table. It did not seem the same without Amy. They just made a pretense of eating, and left the dining room.

"I saw Amy this evening," Mr. Harrison remarked, when they were seated in the living room for the evening.

"You did?" she questioned, eagerly. "Where?"

"Outside the office where she works."

"Where is she staying?"

"She has secured a room in the North-End. They give her breakfast and dinner. She buys her lunch down town."

"Does she act as though she likes it?"

"Well, no, I cannot say she does. I suppose she will, though, when she gets used to it."

"I look for her home, any time. She will get enough of boarding houses before long."

"I do not know about that," Mr. Harrison told her. "She says she will never come home until you change your ideas about some things."

Further conversation on the subject was prevented by a ring of the door bell. Mr. Harrison answered, and the visitor handed him a card bearing the name:

"EDWARD E. WHEELER"

"Come in; glad to see you," exclaimed Mr. Harrison. Then Mr. Wheeler was presented to Mrs. Harrison.

"I am very glad to meet you, Edward," she gushed. "Ralph has allowed me the pleasure of reading all the letters you wrote him, and I feel like we are old friends. And your latest book is something wonderful."

Edward was used to such praise from candidates for mother-in-law, and thanked her in his usual polite manner.

They talked for an hour or more on different subjects, then Mrs. Harrison went into the kitchen and asked the hired girl to prepare a lunch for Mr. Wheeler; and she stayed in the kitchen to see that everything was prepared in the best manner.

While she was out of the room, Edward Wheeler and Mr. Harrison were talking about Edward's father, and other subjects interesting to both of them, when suddenly Edward's eyes rested on the picture of Mr. Harrison's daughter on the mantel over the fireplace.

He heard not a word of what Mr. Harrison was saying for about three minutes. Then he came back to earth long enough to walk over to the mantel, pick up the photograph, and ask Mr. Harrison who the original was.

"Why that is my daughter. You look like you had seen a ghost," Mr. Harrison remarked. "You don't happen to be acquainted with her?"

Then Edward told him about his chance meeting with her that day, and asked where she was.

"She's visiting a friend in town," Mr. Harrison replied, hesitatingly. "She will be gone a week or so, I guess," he added carelessly.

Then Mrs. Harrison re-entered the room, followed by the hired girl, who was carrying a tray with lunch for three.

Mrs. Harrison had not heard the conversation about Amy, but had decided that she could say something about her which might interest him. She was looking for Amy to come home before long, thinking she would soon get homesick; and hoped she would come while Edward was still in town.

"I wish our daughter were here, Mr. Wheeler," she said. "I know you would find each other's society enjoyable. She is fond of good literature, and is a good musician."

"The usual line of sales talk," thought the young man.

Mr. Harrison urged Edward to remain with them that night, and after much persuasion, he decided to do so. As he had an appointment down town at 8 o'clock, he arose early the next morning, partook of the elaborate breakfast Mrs. Harrison had ordered for him, and after a little conversation with Mrs. Harrison, hastened off in the direction of the car line, as it was almost time for the next car. He reached the stop just in time. A middle aged woman, who lived close to the Harrison's, was also waiting for the car, when Edward came running up; and being quite a talker, and rather inquisitive, she immediately started a conversation.

"Be you the young man Mr. Harrison has been looking for, for so many weeks?"

Without giving him a chance to reply, she continued:

"Yes, she's been awful anxious, on her datter's account. She wants her to marry some rich man with lots of money. That family fights like cats and dogs," she remarked in a confidential tone.

Then the car came around the bend, and they were soon speeding toward the city; but the mouth of Edward's new acquaintance was going twice as fast as the car.

"As I was sayin', those people fights like cats and dogs," she went on. "If 'taint one thing it's somethin' else. My neighbor told me yesterday evenin' that somebody told her that Amy—that's the girl—had left home 'cause her mother wants her to marry this rich man, and the girl won't have it that way. Says she wants to marry somethin' else besides money. I guess that every time any of Amy's friends comes to visit her, the old woman snubs them if they ain't society folks. I went to call, though, one day, and she kept her mouth shut. Guess she knowed it wasn't a good idee to snub me. I don't take it." Mrs. Brown put on an important look.

"Well, be you the young man?" she questioned, as Edward did not seem inclined to give her any information.

"I wouldn't advise you to believe everything you hear," was Edward's reply, but he did not answer her question. He wondered if it were true that Amy had left home on his account. He hoped not. Then Mrs. Brown went on:

"That girl, Amy, is a funny girl. She don't seem to care for any of the young fellows she goes with, but she just won't even go with a fellow that's rich. They say a young fellow that stayed with his dad at their summer home close to us last summer, was just crazy about Amy, but she wouldn't have nothin' to do with him, cause his dad was rich, and she don't want to 'ever be accused of marryin' for money."

Then the car stopped to let some of the crowd off. "Oh, this is my stop," said Mrs. Brown. "Glad I met ye, Mister; and I hope you don't get caught in Mrs. Harrison's trap. I've got a daughter 20 years old. Come up to see her some time."

"I am not expecting to be in the city long, so you will have to excuse me," was Edward's reply.

As he rode on, Edward wondered how much of the tale he had just heard was true.

"At any rate," he thought, "I must be careful to not let Miss Harrison know who I am, or my chances with her will be very poor. I will be just a comparatively poor man for a while. Luckily they know me by the name of Edward Earl at the office where she works, instead of Edward Earl Wheeler."

Edward had written several books in the East, and all his stories had been accepted by the publisher of a publishing company in Edward's "home town." This publisher had been an old friend of Edward's father, and Edward had often wondered if his stories would be as popular if his real name were not known to the publisher and to the public. Therefore, he had sent his last story to the Starke Publishing Company, using only his first and middle names.

Now he had canvassed all the bookstores in Franklinton, and had sold several hundred copies. All the important business he had to transact in Franklinton had been attended to in these few days. He could now devote all his time and attention to Amy. Of course, he would have to stretch out some of his business matters, so that he would have an excuse for spending so much time in the office of the Starke Publishing Company.

When he reached the office, none of the employes had arrived. Mr. Payne was in his office, cleaning out his desk.

"Good morning," he said to Edward. "How are you coming along with the sale of your book?"

"So good that I am asking you to print 2000 more. I have received orders through the mail, and have taken orders in Franklinton which total more than 1000, the number you printed for me."

Then the telephone bell rang, and Mr. Payne answered it, and as a result, he hastily put on his overcoat and hat, and left the office, leaving Edward by himself—for about two minutes.

Mr. Payne's car was only a block away, when Amy entered the office. It was only 20 minutes of eight; and Edward noticed most of the office force managed to get there just on the last stroke of eight o'clock. Here was his chance to get better acquainted.

"Good morning, Miss ——". You haven't told me your name yet."

"Harrison," she said.

"Your first name is Amy, isn't it? May I call you that?"

"I suppose you may," she answered. "Almost everyone else does."

"Do you know, Amy," he went on, "I wish it would rain again, and I could have the pleasure of escorting you to shelter, under an umbrella."

"Well, the next time, if it stops raining before you reach shelter, please don't forget to put your umbrella down."

"And please, if I do forget, don't forget to remind me," he retorted.

Amy colored slightly at this remark, for she knew that she had been as bad as he, that day when their acquaintance began.

"Would you like to go with me to the Hartman tonight" he asked her.

Amy remembered she had refused Harold, when he asked her to go to a play with him tonight; but, for some reason, she had not the slightest inclination to refuse this man. So she promised to go with him.

"Where do you live?" he asked her.

"I am staying with a friend in the North-End for a few weeks," and she gave him the address. "My parents live out of town."

Then I will call for you at 8 o'clock this evening, if that time is convenient for you.

"All right," she answered. "That suits me."

Then Elinor and one of the other girls entered the office, followed by Arthur Seymour.

"Good morning, Amy," Elinor said. "What brought you here so early, this morning? I usually get here before you do."

"I suppose it is Fate," teased Arthur. "Funny, Mr. Earl was so early, too."

"Miss Harrison arrived at the usual time," said Edward. "Guess you two were a little late. I'll account for being a little early, if you can explain being late.

"Give him until tomorrow morning to think of an alibi," suggested Amy.

"I do not need an alibi," Arthur replied. "According to my watch, I came in at my usual time," Arthur said.

"I suppose you set it back last night at about 10 o'clock, when it was almost time for Elinor's landlady to show you the nearest exit," put in the office boy, who had been "listening in."

"Say, I refuse to take that from a kid," Arthur cried. "Next thing, James, the janitor will expect me to tell him all about my present, past and future"—and he went to work at the adding machine, "to work off his anger," as Edward remarked in an aside to Amy.

CHAPTER IX

For several weeks, Arthur had been calling on Elinor twice a week; but at times, she treated him a little cold, thinking he might surmise how much she really liked him, if she did not do something to throw him off the track. She thought that perhaps Arthur felt indebted to her for helping him out that night when he came so near being arrested; and she wanted no such attentions from him, if only given as a matter of duty.

On Arthur's side, he thought his calls on her were unwelcome, and, though he liked her very much, he had almost decided to discontinue the friendship, if such a burden to her. But every time he went to see her, he thought he would come one more time, and that she might possibly learn to like him in time.

Arthur remembered that every time he used to chance to look toward Elinor in the office, she was looking at him, and would suddenly turn her head in another direction, and bite her lip with vexation, when she noticed that he had caught her looking in his direction so often. Now she completely ignored him in the office, and very rarely seemed glad to see him when he called on her. He wondered if there was someone else.

Misunderstanding each other, in the worst way, these two who loved one another dearly, drifted apart, to be brought together with some queer trick of Dan Cupid.

It was 7:30 p. m. Amy Harrison, in the pretty little bedroom which Mrs Blake had given her during her stay there, was taking more pains than usual with the details of her toilet. To herself, she half wondered, and half guessed why.

The door bell rang, and soon after Mrs. Blake called to her from the foot of the stairs.

"He's a little early," thought Amy. "Lucky that I started to dress as soon as I did."

She gave herself the "once over," in the long mirror standing on the floor in one corner of the room, and went downstairs. But to her surprise, the visitor was not Edward Earl. Harold Marlowe was waiting for her, instead.

Mrs. Blake had gone out immediately after calling Amy to come downstairs. When Amy entered the room Harold arose from his chair, and came forward to greet her.

"You are mixed up on your dates, aren't you?" Amy said to him.

"Not at all; but I was informed that I had better watch another acquaintance of yours, or he might succeed in cutting me out."

"Amy," he went on, "I like you very much, and it naturally makes me feel a little jealous when you refuse my company for a certain evening, and accept another's. I wish I knew the reason." He looked searchingly into her eyes.

NEW SEMESTER AT HIGHLAND

Increase in Enrollment in Both Junior High and Elementary School Over Last Term.

With very little friction and waste of time, the new semester's school work at Highland began on Monday. Short periods were run the first day, and at the end of the day, the necessary adjustments of classroom difficulties were made and by Tuesday, principal and teachers reported everything running with satisfying smoothness.

Due to over-crowded conditions at the school, several changes have been necessary. To make room for the incoming classes of 7B's numbering 153, it was necessary to send all ninth grade commercial students to Starling Junior High school at Central High and 10 ninth grade Spanish students to West High. In spite of this fact, the enrollment exceeds last semester's total, there being 720 in the Junior high school this semester, comparing with 674 last September. The elementary school has an enrollment of 280 and 228 last semester.

To make more room for this overflow a new portable has been built in the yard, and the manual arts shop has been established there. Thus, with the two portables, the double house and the main building all in use, necessary classroom space is now provided for.

One new teacher has been added to the teaching force this semester, Miss Helen Scott of Shandon, Ohio. Miss Scott will teach English.

LEAGUE OF OHIO SPORTSMEN MEET

Reorganize and Elect Officers—Chas. B. Cranston Named Secretary.

The League of Ohio Sportsmen in convention at the Chittenden last Tuesday, reorganized and started on the most ambitious program of their existence.

Charles B. Cranston, our own Hilltopper, seems to have a wide circle of friends over the state as he was elected secretary. I. S. Myers, of Akron was elected president, and B. F. Skidmore, a banker of Bellefontaine, was re-elected treasurer.

The league, which always co-operated with the fish and game department of the state has not only eschewed politics but has now resolved that the fish and game department should also be lifted out of partisan politics and put on a firm non-partisan basis with commissioners from such bodies as the league and the Isaac Walton League in an advisory capacity.

They are also for the establishment of an Aqua experiment station comparable to the Agricultural experiment station at Wooster, so that after a fish and game census of the state, scientific studies of the fish and the streams and bodies of water in Ohio may be made, insuring scientific propagation of fish and game over Ohio.

The first act of the new secretary was to send out a message over the state to feed the birds during the winter, not only that quail and pheasant may winter through, but that all birds may be well fed while the ground is covered with snow, insuring a goodly host of insect destroyers for the protection of farms and gardens. If you want to see the first robin in the spring put out crumbs and table sweepings for them now. Help the birds now and when your gardens are set out they will help you. The farmer will tell you the immeasurable value of the birds in Ohio to our food crops.

Not the least of the planks in the platform adopted was the resolution calling on the state to cease lowering the water and killing the fish thereby in Buckeye lake.

Social Notes

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Malenti, 44 S. Wheatland Ave., had as their guests Monday, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brugier, Milford Center, Ohio, and their daughters, Mrs. Seth Ingram, De Graff, Ohio, and Mrs. Raymond Norton, Algona, Iowa. Mrs. Morton is the organist at the M. E. church at Algona. Mrs. Brugier is in Grant hospital.

Beaver, 121 Highland Ave., was celebrated Saturday afternoon, Jan. 30, at 4:30 o'clock at the Episcopal parsonage in Worthington, Rev. Simpson officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Beaver will reside at 121 Highland Ave.

The Amity Embroidery club met at the home of Mrs. C. Morgan, 184 S. Terrace St. The afternoon was spent in contests and fancy work. The following members were present: Mrs. Brant, Mrs. Ditrick, Mrs. Graves, Mrs. Hammond, Mrs. Park, Mrs. Shields, Mrs. Rhoads, Mrs. Loomis and the hostess, Mrs. Morgan.

The following ladies were all-day guests at the hospitable home of Mrs. Edith Williamson and Miss Katherine Guthrie, 2074 Fairmont Ave., Jan. 28: Dr. Myra L. Chaffee, Mrs. H. N. Blair, Mrs. J. B. Warren, Mrs. Sarah Buscher, Mrs. H. A. Wyman, Mrs. J. W. Leonard and Mrs. M. M. Marshall. There was a little thrill of sweet surprise as the guests arrived, one not knowing they were to meet the other. Following a real feast of delicious eats the table was cleared and a huge "Christmas pie" was reserved for the occasion placed in the center, and each guest was given one end of a ribbon, the other end being imbedded in the pie. At the call, "all pull together," each jerked, and found in their hands a neat little package wrapped in tissue paper which she, untied, exhibited and read aloud the little heart-shaped love message it contained. Mrs. Williamson as toastmistress, addressed each personally, with kindly, cordial words of appreciation, so seasoned with rhyme and humor, that loud applause and a ready response followed. There was a "memory test" and other interesting features.

Hilltop Lecture Course

The next number of the Hilltop lecture course will be in Glenwood M. E. church Monday evening, Feb. 8, given by the Greenfield Orchestral Quartet, an unusual, talented, family organization. With first-rank artistry, the quartet presents classical and semi-classical ensemble selections, varying with popular numbers. Miss Edith Greenfield features with violin solos and Miss Mollie Greenfield with piano solos. The playing of these two sisters is genuinely phenomenal. Saxophones are employed in the instrumentation, but not as "jazz" instruments. The Greenfield brothers demonstrate that, as played by them, the saxophone is capable of beautiful harmonic effects.

Seein' and Hearin' Things

—Bet you can't tell who our biggest and most important citizens were the first of this week. We can—it was that bunch of Young Americans who strutted into a grade higher when they went in school last Monday.

—There's scarcely any one but who likes to see our boys enjoy themselves with their sleds these winter days, but we believe those boys "shacking" behind automobiles and trucks with their sleds are doing so at their own peril and should be stopped. We happened to see three boys and sleds scooting along behind a rapidly traveling auto last Saturday when all at once one sled skidded to one side and threw boy, sled and all into the side curbing with such force that we thought sure he was injured; then half a minute later another of the same bunch took a header into the ice and slush. It might be fun at times, but it's too dangerous and should be discouraged.

—The building of many residences has been and is still going on in several locations of the Hilltop, despite the regular old-time winter weather.

—We've often wondered what a dog thinks about when he runs out and races alongside a speeding automobile. Did you ever notice that some dogs will wait on the sidewalk till the machine is just opposite them, then race along the sidewalk as fast as they can for a square or so? Well, we suppose that's the contious kind. Then there's the kind that will almost seemingly rush in front of the wheels and take a fellow's breath for fear of hitting the dog. He's the "young and foolish" kind. Then there's the one who just barks as you pass—suppose he's sort of a "non-voter" kind who "clouds up but never rains."

—But speaking of dogs—how about cats? Did you ever notice how a cat will be going across the street and be nearly to the opposite curb when a machine comes along, then will whirl around and shoot back for the side of the street it started from? What makes it do that? Neither do we.

—A Ford coupe stretched to its capacity, around four in one seat (two couples), last Thursday night skidded around in front of Glenwood park and in its top heavy condition upset and gave the bunch inside a thrill they were not looking for. However, no one was reported as being injured.

Recomends Change in Water System

Waterworks Superintendent Hoover last Friday recommended that a new intake dam be construted in the Scioto river at the waterworks pumping station, a new shops building be built and that all softened water be recarbonated so it will not make deposits in pipes and meters.

Other recommendations were that additional water pumping equipment be bought, that a five-year program of feeder extensions be outlined and that river pollution be eliminated.

Recipes

SPINACH SALAD

Wash the salad and trim the stems from the leaves. Use about three pints. Mince onion fine and mix with the spinach. Just before it is time to serve it, moisten with heavy French dressing. Garnish with highly seasoned cream cheese balls.

CREAMED SPINACH

Wash, cook and mince the spinach the same as in the first recipe. Have ready a cream sauce made with plenty of butter and garnished with a chopped hard-boiled egg and a tablespoonful of well-washed capers. Turn the sauce over the spinach after it is moulded on a hot vegetable dish.

BUTTERED LETTUCE

Wash carefully four heads of lettuce that are too coarse for salad. Cook in slightly salted water ten minutes; drain and chop coarsely. Reheat, adding salt, pepper, two tablespoonfuls of butter, and a teaspoonful of sugar. Serve on a hot dish garnished with halved deviled eggs. The cooked lettuce is also good served with a white sauce made with, or without, meat stock, or cream sauce with diced fried bacon in it as a garnish.

DATE MUFFINS

One-third cup butter, ¼ cup sugar, 2 level teaspoons baking powder, 1 egg, ⅞ cup milk, 2 cups flour, ½ level tsp. salt, ¼ pound dates.

Cream the butter, add the sugar gradually and the dates chopped fine. Mix well together, then add the beaten egg. Sift the flour, salt and baking powder together twice and add to first mixture alternately with the milk. Bake in greased muffin pans 20 to 25 minutes in hot oven (400 degrees F.)

CEREAL MUFFINS

One cup cooked left-over cereal, 3 cups flour, 4 level tsp. baking powder, 1½ cups milk, ½ cup sugar, 1 level tsp. salt, 1 egg, well beaten, 2 tsp. melted butter partially cooled.

Add milk to cereal. Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt twice; combine with cereal and milk. Then add Egg and melted butter. Beat well. Bake 30 minutes in hot over (350 to 400 degree F.)

BACON MUFFINS

Two cups sifted flour, 2 level tsp. baking powder, ½ level tsp. salt, 1 tbsp. sugar, 2 tbsp. bacon drippings, 2 eggs, beaten thorough; 2 tbsp. crisp bacon, broken in bits; 1½ cups milk or water.

Sift flour, salt, baking powder and sugar together twice. Put in mixing bowl, add well beaten eggs, bacon drippings and liquid, then beat thoroughly before adding bacon. Bake in greased muffin pans 25 to 30 minutes at 400 degrees F.

SALSIFY (OYSTER PLANT)

Wash, scrape and drop the roots into three pints of cold water with a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of vinegar and two tablespoonfuls of flour to keep it from turning black. Cook for 30 minutes. When done, drain and mask with white sauce.

HEALTH HINTS

By DR. O. E. McFADON

ACID-FORMING FOODS

A Hilltop friend recently told me he had an acid stomach. I asked, "What do you eat?" He began with "Fried eggs for breakfast"! Acid-forming food, improperly cooked.

I have often in these columns given lists of acid-forming foods and warned against them. Also against fried foods which are "the world, the flesh and the devil."

My apology for again writing upon it is that this friend, who thought he was following my advice, had not yet found the way. I asked myself, "Who are getting it" and "Should I give more preachment on that subject?" I am venturing to venture, for his good and for yours, remembering that the breakin-in process was a tedious one in my own case.

Will the reader kindly read these names: Professor Sherman of Columbia; Professor Fisher of Yale; Dr. McCollum of Johns Hopkins, and Augene Lyman Fisk, M. D., of New York. I can quote no higher authorities on foods and dietetics. These scientists are practically agreed that the foods in the following list are the most Acid-Forming Foods.

Al breads,, cereals, crackers and cakes.
Rice and dried corn.
All breads, cereals, crackers, and Pike and haddock.
Eggs and oysters.
Sugar and cheese.
Cranberries and plums.

It is easy for us to think that the words sour and acid are synonymous but they are not. Go down the above list and the only food that tastes sour are cranberries and plums, but all other foods on the list are more acid forming than they are—even sugar.

The fact is the sourness of the fo is no reliable guide. We stop our reasoning at the taste, but the authorities mentioned, study the digestion, etc., and are able to tell us the final results. Their researches take them to the blood, and they decide for us that the foods mentioned are the most outstanding contributors to an acid condition (low alkalinity) of the blood

But many who read this have "acid stomach," and as they look over the above list, I imagine I hear them say "I must have many of these foods every day—some at every meal—what shall I do?" Be patient. To be personal, I've been through it all, and, further on, will tell you what to do.

The same authorities agree that the foods in the following list are anti acid—conducive to alkalinity—and are to be used more freely:

Dried peas and beans
Almonds and other nuts.
Raisins, dried currants, peaches apples, oranges, lemons, grape-fruit bananas.
Beets, carrots, potatoes, cauliflower and cabbage.

You look over the list and may condemn it at once, because you see lemons and grapefruit there, and can't understand how sugar would make them more acid still.

Pardon the diversion, but that reminds me of the Irishman who was told that his letter was too heavy—it required another stap. And he said: "Wouldn't that make it heavier still?"

Someone has said, "To live long, get an incurable disease, then take care of it." My case was worse than yours—a case of stomach ulcer, brought on by acid forming foods. I had my ups and downs and wrestled with these lists for years. I think I have the problem solved.

Do I refuse to eat the acid-forming food? No. Do I confine my eating to the anti-acid list? No. I eat any of the foods—properly cooked—from both lists. But, whereas, two-thirds of my food had been from the first list, I have formed the habit of living on vegetables and fruits (the second list) and of using the so-called "nourishing foods" (the acid-formers—the first list) cautiously. Instead of avoiding lemons and grape-fruit, I now eat freely of them every day, but would eat very little starch-food (bread or other cereals) with it.

This transformation cannot be accomplished in a day or a week, but it will more than likely take months. Persevere, and give Nature a chance, and she will give you a new stomach. I am thanking God for a stomach ulcer; otherwise I would have passed long ago, with apoplexy or some other form of heart failure brough on by too much nourishing, acid-forming foods, as some of my near relatives and W. J. Bryan did. Study these authoritative lists, and practice them. They are discussed in "Health Nuggets" which can be obtained at Hilltop stores.

LOVE vs. WEALTH

A STORY

Written for the Record by Mrs. Marcella Carleton, 88 North Park Ave. (Hilltop) Columbus, Ohio.

"Harold, I am going to be plain with you," Amy told him.

"That's just what I want," he replied.

"I'm not a heartless coquette, as you may think I am. I like you as a brother, and have been accepting your company, the few times we have been together, as I would a brother's; but if you are not satisfied with that, I don't feel that I am doing right in encouraging you otherwise."

"Are you trying to be a sister to Mr Earl, too?" he questioned.

Amy turned her eyes away from his, and hesitatingly replied:

"I—I am not well enough acquainted with him yet to be able to answer you."

"What if I refuse to be your brother?" he questioned her.

"If you would be ashamed of the relationship, that is your affair. It is quite immaterial to me," she replied, pretending to mistake his meaning.

"I certainly should not be ashamed," he said. "Quite the reverse; but I am not looking for a sister," and he took her hand in his. "What I want is a life pal and partner. You may think I am speaking too soon, considering our very short acquaintance; but I want you to understand me, and to know that I love you. I don't expect you to promise me anything but your friendship now. Give me that, and let me teach you to love me as I love you."

"Oh, Harold," she cried. "Please stop. I am so sorry you feel this way. I could give you my friendship, but not the kind you want."

"Amy," you are a fine girl. If you really feel that way about it, I respect you for telling me now, instead of encouraging me, only to cast me aside in the end. But I never will give you up as long as you remain unengaged. I want you to always remember this: if you ever need a friend, send for me."

"I thank you, Harold. I will remember that." Then she added: "But I wish you would forget me. Try to win the friendship of other girls. There are hundreds of them more suitable to your tastes, etc., than I am."

"You are mistaken there." Pulling out his watch he noticed the time, and as it was time for his rival to arrive he decided to go.

"You will go to a play with me tomorrow night, won't you? You know you promised," he said coaxingly.

"Yes, I will go, since I have told you I would, but I feel that it is unfair to you to encourage you further."

"No, dear. Excuse me for calling you that, but it comes so natural. I could never accuse you of trifling with me when you have fore-warned me so frankly."

He gave her hand a warm pressure, and bade her goodnight in very tender tones.

Edward Earl had just crossed the lawn, stepped up on the porch, and lifted his hand to ring the door bell. Then he noticed the two standing in the opposite end of the long living room. A pang of jealousy shot through his heart when he heard Harold call Amy "dear," but the words that followed somewhat alleviated the effect of this "pet name." He noticed Harold's expression when he bade Amy goodnight. Then, fearing he might be accused of being an eavesdropper, he rang the bell.

Amy came forward at once, invited him to come in, and rtoduced him to Harold. The introduction was accepted by both men in very formal and distant tones.

Then, Harold, knowing that three is sometimes a crowd, took his leave.

"Are you ready to go?" Edward asked Amy. "The next performance commences at eight-thirty. It is almost eight now."

"Will you please wait until I get my hat and coat?"

"Certainly. I shouldn't advise you to go without them. The air is getting a little chilly."

So she hastened off, and returned in a few minutes ready to go.

"If I may ask," Edward said, when they were on their way to the car line, two blocks from the house, "Who was the young man who called on you this evening?"

"You know Arthur Seymour at the office? That boy is his cousin."

"Is he a very good friend of yours?"

"Not exactly. Why?"

"Oh, I am just a little bit selfish, and do not like to share your companionship with Arthur Seymour's cousin, or anyone else."

"He seems to feel the same way," Amy informed him.

"Then I will have to race with him, I suppose," he said. "Who do you think will win?"

"I do not know yet. Neither of you may win," she answered him. Then she changed the subject with some remark about the weather, that unexhaustable subject.

It was quite late when the play was over, and Edward saw Amy safely to Mrs. Blake's house, and returned to his room at the hotel.

The next night she and Harold went to another play, of a different nature from the one she and Edward had seen the night before, which had been more of a comical nature then a sentimental one.

Harold stayed an hour or more with Amy after they returned home.

"Will you go machine riding with me tomorrow evening?" he asked her.

"No, not tomorrow night——"

He did not give her time to finish.

"I suppose Mr. Earl gets your company tomorrow night," he jealously remarked.

"You are mistaken. I expect to spend the evening with Mrs. Blake."

"How about the next night then?"

"No, you may only come once a week," she firmly replied.

"I wish a week were only two days long then," he said. "If I may ask, how many nights do you give Mr. Earl in a week?"

"The same as you—one night a week," thinking to herself: "not mentioning Sunday afternoon."

In the meantime, Edward had explained to Mr. Harrison his reason for using his last name, and asked him Harrison asked.

"I have gathered from your daughter's conversation that she wants nothing to do with a rich man, and I do not want her to know that I have money"—which was only part of the reason. He said not a word to Mr. Harrison about what he had been told by the woman on the street car that morning, several weeks ago.

By this time, he and Arthur Seymour had become good friends, as Arthur saw less of Elnior now than formerly, and had more time for other diversions. Also, the friendship of Elinor and Amy was now progressing rapidly. Mrs. Blake took a liking to the orphan girl, and cordially invited her to visit Amy as often as she liked, which Elinor did. She missed Arthur's company, but never attributed the reason for his absenting himself to the fact that she treated him too coldly. She thought he was very much relieved to think that she cared nothing for him, after all.

Being very conservative, she said nothing to Amy, however; and Amy often wondered what had happened. Once she ventured to ask Elinor, but received a reply that might mean anything.

In the meantime, Edward continued to visit the Harrison home. Mrs. Harrison was always very polite to him, and every time he called she wished more than ever that Amy were at home.

Mr. Harrison would not give her Amy's address, which provoked her very much.

"I have a right to know where my own daughter is," she said to him, when he refused to tell her the fourth time.

"You have a right to protect her interests, too. If you will promise to let her choose he own friends, and allow her to bring them home, without fearing your ill-treatment of them, I will give you her address.

The temptation was too much for Mrs. Harrison.

"All right; what is it?" she asked.

He told her the street and number; then added: "Now remember what I told you. Any of Amy's friends that come here must be treated courteously. The next time she leaves home, I will go with her."

So Mrs. Harrison wrote a letter of apology to Amy, asking her to come home, and promising not to interfere with Amy's affairs in the future to such an extent as she had in the past; and she meant what she wrote, as she felt that things would work out without her help if Amy would come home immediately.

The evening before, Edward had called; and Mrs. Harrison had noticed that quite frequently he glanced toward Amy's picture which stood on the mantel. As she had several extra pictures, Mrs. Harrison decided to give him one, and told him, as she handed it to him, that she hoped the original would be there the next time he called.

"When is your daughter coming home?" he inquired.

"Some time before this time of next week, I think."

Perhaps she would not want me to have one of her pictures," he said.

"You are mistaken, Edward," she remarked sweetly. "She would feel highly honored to know you want one."

"I wish I could believe that," thought Edward to himself; but he merely thanked her, and arose to take his leave.

Mr. Harrison had been out of the room a few minutes to answer a telephone call; and re-entered just as Edward was leaving.

"When will you be back, Edward?" he asked.

"I will try to come back once more before I go, but don't be disappointed if I do not come. I will see you at the depot before I go if I do not get back again." Mr. Harrison was a ticket agent at the Union station.

Truth to tell, Edward did not intend to come back if Amy should come home, as he was not yet ready to let her know who he really was.

"If I do," he thought, "she will marry Harold Marlowe, and forget my very existence."

He hoped she would not go back home yet, as that would cause him to see less of her, and give Harold Marlowe the advantage; that is, providing Mrs. Harrison would permit that young man to call. He finally decided to see Amy the next day, in order to learn what she was going to do, and to bring things to a crisis if she really intended to go back home; to tell her how much he loved her, and ask her to be his wife.

Chapter X.

It was Thursday morning in early November. Amy had just arrived at the office, and seated herself at her desk, when her father entered the building. He came over to her desk.

"Little girl, I am going to take you home tomorrow evening. Read this."

Amy read:

"My Dear Daughter:

"I cannot stand it to have you away from home any longer. The house seems desolate without you.

"If you will come home with your father, as soon as possible, I promise to do the right thing by you, to let you choose your own friends, unless their character is questionable—though I have too much confidence in your taste, to believe that you would mingle with that kind of people.

"Please come back home.

"Affectionately,
"Your Mother."

Amy could hardly refrain from crying. Though she liked Mrs. Blake very much, Amy had been seized with feelings of homesickness, which she could not overcome; and was only too glad to tell her father she would go.

"But why wait until tomorrow night?" she asked him.

"Your room at home has been redecorated, and it isn't straightened up yet."

So sunset found Amy spending the last evening of her "visit" in the city, with Mrs. Blake; that is, part of it.

The clock on the mantel had just struck eight, when the door bell rang, and Mr. Edward Earl was admitted by Mrs. Blake. Amy had to acknowledge to herself that she was glad to see him.

LOVE vs WEALTH

"It is a lovely evening, Amy. Would you like to go for a walk," he asked her, after a few commonplace remarks had been exchanged.

"I shouldn't mind," she answered, and ran upstairs to get her coat, as the evening air was rather cool.

"We will be back shortly, Mrs ... Parents are dreadful bores ... I must not keep him ... long," thought Mrs. Blake ... and wondered how she had lived even this long without love. More shallow than ever, seemed the thought of marrying for wealth and affluence instead of a home, and, yes, children. The little hand on his arm trembled as the suddenness of this new love almost overwhelmed her. Then she wondered how he felt, and shuddered inwardly to think that he might not return her affection.

All Civic Organizations West of River to Be Represented By Delegates

To Meet and Work Out Plan for Better Unified Action for Good of Whole Section.

There are now six civic organizations on the West Side and Hilltop—or west of the river. Each one of them is interested mainly in the welfare of its particular section. But up until the present there has not been much evidence of these organizations working on a larger plan for the welfare of the whole western part of the city.

Following are the associations on the West side and Hilltop, their meeting nights and officers:

Treasurer—R. J. Bloom, 1394 Sullivant Ave.

A plan is now taking shape whereby a getting together of these organizations can be accomplished and all work together for the good of our section of the city. This plan is that each of the six organizations appoint three delegates form its membership, making a total of 18, from the six organizations. These delegates are to meet at some central place designated and devise ways and means to the above end.

This, we believe, is a step in the right direction, and if successfully carried out, will no doubt be of a very great benefit both to citizens and business men of the West Side.

Each of the organizations can do an immense lot of good in their immediate field, then for general affairs under a unified plan, each organization being represented by its delegates.

Five of the six organizations have already passed resolutions favoring the above method, and it is expected that the sixth—the Southwest Advancement League, will act favorably on it at its regular meeting next Tuesday night. Following are the names of the delegates already appointed by their organizations.

West Side Betterment—C. O. Goss, H. K. Wirtz and John M. Lewis.

Central-Sullivant Civic Association—Dr. Workman, Mr Cunard and S. J. Westlake.

E Swartz, in the presence of a few close relatives and friends.

The rear trucks of a freight car coming east on the Springfield interurban line split a switch just east of the Big Four tracks last Saturday evening and the car was dragged for about 1000 feet before being stopped, running to the side of the road, breaking down a light pole and digging up the road.

Miss Goldie Tenney, 733½ N. High St., who was driving an automobile, it is said ran the machine into the car and was injured. She was taken to Mt. Carmel hospital.

GOOD MEETING OF BUSINESS MEN

Association to Affiliate with Other W. S. Organizations in Central Body.

The Hilltop Business Men's association held a rousing good meeting with a good attendance last Thursday in the Hillcrest church building and took up many matters of importance.

The association voted to affiliate with a central body of West Side civic and business organizations which is now being formed, and which will consist of representatives from practically all civic organizations on the West Side, and which will act as a sort of clearing house for West Side improvements.

The Hilltop association has in contemplation a surprise for the Hilltop community which the association hopes to announce in the near future.

"They are a harnened, rough set to look upon," he said, "but underneath they have hearts of pure gold, and would turn their pockets inside out to help a member of their crew who might happen to meet with misfortune."

Girls' Basketball at Shelter House

Two snappy games were the openers of the Girls' League at Glenwood shelter house last Wednesday evening. Two of the fastest teams, the Hilltop Six and C. W. R. C. met in the first round, playing an exciting game with no assurance until the final whistle what the outcome would be. The count was finished 13 to 10 in favor of the Hilltop Six.

Captain Mary Robert played best for the winners, making most of their points, although handicapped because of the absence of her regular passing partner at forward. The center combination for the Hilltop Six was also working very effectively. For the losers Arline Lehman was showing good at guard.

This game was followed by a contest between two comparatively new teams, Panthers and Glenwood Juniors, whose brand of basketball will show better after a few more games. The score at the finish was, Glenwood Juniors 18, Panthers 8. Edith Murry made most of the points for the winners.

C. W. R. C. vs. Panthers, and Hilltop Six vs. Glenwood Juniors, were the games Wednesday night.

Seein' and Hearin' Things

—Last Saturday night a colored man and woman on West Broad street, at the O. tats.C' oifinshrd shrdlu cmfwyp ish, or somethin', had attracted about 100 pa-sersby by broadcasting their solos, duets, etc., till some of "our finest" tuned in a lot of static on 'em and ordered "French's limousine" to roll 'em home down by the river.

—Someone thought the home of C. F. Blakely, 217 Cypress Ave., was on fire last Saturday night, so he "pulled the hook," and on they came, followed by autos, flivvers, etc. But turned around and went right back again.

—A large bunch of ice was gorged up in the Scioto river between the Sandusky street bridge and the mouth of the Olentangy for several days the past week or so.

We've sometimes heard the question asked: "What goes with all the pins?" But, gosh, what goes with all the tin cans?—Alleys of 'em, barrels of 'em, boxes, baskets, piles and sacks of 'em —5537 varieties. Well, they go somewhere, 'cause there's always a fresh supply coming on.

A JESTER OF OTHER DAYS

If an inquiring stranger in London at any time between 1827 and 1857, should have happened to ask who was then reputed to be the wittiest man in England, nine out of every ten who pretended to any familiarity with the literary society of the metropolis would have pointed out a dapper little fellow by the name of Douglas Jerrold, says John Fyvie in "Some Literary Eccentrics."

"Jerrold's sharp sayings, carelessly flung at high and low," says his son, "circulated about London that "hundreds of men who had never read a line he had written knew his name as connected with some flash of wit, some happy epithet, some biting jest."

His abundant wit was too often of a somewhat acrid flavor. Yet his friends did not often take amiss the pointed shafts which he was perpetually aiming at all around him. He had a way of looking at a person, when he dealt a repartee, which so plainly showed his own sense of the fun of the thing, and so evidently called for a similar appreciation on the part of the victim, that the joke was deprived of all personality or ill nature.

His reported jests do not altogether give that impression. "We row in the same boat, you know," said a humorous writer pleasantly to him by way of enlisting his sympathy in some literary project. "Yes," was the prompt and unconciliatory reply, "we row in the same boat, but with very different skulls!"—Forward.

The National Committee for the Prevention of Blindness concludes there is no such thing as nonhazardous industry, and describes in its report the hazards which various industries involve. Says the press bulletin issued by the committee, "There is hardly an industrial occupation in America which does not add each year to the steadily increasing number of the blind and near blind." From a national point of view the metal manufacturing industries are the source of the greatest number of serious eye injuries.

WILL CHANGE TEST METHOD

The state department of education has decided not to hold an examination in each county set this May for applicants for teacher training institutions, as has been the case. Instead, individuals will be examined as they enter the various schools.

There are two plans which institutions may follow. Under the first, all entrants to any institution recognized for the training of any type of teacher shall take the entrance examination approved by the state board of education. The second plan specifies that every matriculant in a teachers' college or normal school shall make an acceptable score on the entrance test.

OVEREATING AND DIGESTION.

In a normal meal, with normal digestion, there is a satisfactory balance between the food and its digestion, that gives no room for annoyance.

Digestion is a tax on nerve force. The difference between this nerve force necessary to digestion and the available nutrients in our food is the small margin of vitality to which we are entitled and which should be cumulative.

If a normal meal contain 4 parts and we eat 5 parts, the digestion is overworked. The vitality from the 5th part is necessary to digest the 5th part and that leaves us only 3 parts. Then why not stop eating at 3 parts and save the machinery? The taste settles it; we don't do it.

This wear and tear on the machinery causes more suffering from overeating than from hunger—and it is self-inflicted. Verily, there are worse things than hunger. In fact, daily hunger is necessary to our best good.

LOVE vs. WEALTH

A STORY

Written for the Record by Mrs. Marcella Carleton, 88 North Park Ave. (Hilltop) Columbus, Ohio.

He noticed her hand trembla, but did not know the cause. If he had, a pretty love scene would have occurred right then and there.

"Are you cold, Amy," he asked her, instead of "Do you really love me, darling?"

"Just a little nervous, I think," she replied.

"You aren't afraid of me, are you?"

"Not that I know of." Then she changed the subject with a remark about one of the houses they were passing.

"Isn't that a beautiful house? And what a pretty lawn. Everything is arranged so tastefully."

"I notice it is for sale," he remarked suggestively.

Another thrill! But she pretended not to understand his meaning.

"I cannot understand why the owner wishes to sell," she said.

They walked on several blocks farther, turned around and started back toward Mrs. Blake's home.

"I haven't told you that this is my last night in Franklinton," Amy said, presently. "My parents want me to come home."

Edward was not surprised. He had expected it for some time. Presently he made a reply to her remark.

"Don't you think life will seem a little dull in the country after being in the city so long?"

"Perhaps, in a way," she replied, "but I am anxious to see my father"—she hesitated, then added, "and my mother."

"It will soon be time for me to go back home, too," he told her. "I have sold all the books I can sell in this section; and have matters demanding my attention back home."

The hand holding his arm trembled again, and Amy made a strong effort to control her emotion.

"Maybe this is just a flirtation for him," she thought, "to be forgotten as soon as he boards the train for home."

Edward's thoughts were quite different, however. He noticed the tremble of her hand, and rightly guessed the cause.

"I hope Mrs. Blake excuses herself tonight, and leaves us alone," he thought.

Chapter XI.

Elinor Davis sat alone in her dimly lighted room reading, but every now and then she would pause to listen. It was time for Arthur. Would he never come? Elinor closed her book, and stared moodily at the fire burning in the coal grate—the only cheerful object in the room.

"How indifferent he is to me," she thought. "If my acquaintance is such a burden to him, I will tell him tonight to not come to see me again."

Further thought about the matter was interrupted by the ringing of the door bell, and in a few seconds, she heard a low knock at the door.

"Good evening Mr. Seymour; come in," she said.

"Why Mr. Seymour?" he questioned, gazing steadily into her eyes. "Listen, Elinor, what have I done to offend you? After coming all this distance to see you, you say 'Good evening, Mr. Seymour' in about the same tones a busy housewife uses when she greets an agent."

"I did not know such a trifle would offend you," she remarked.

"I do not believe you care whether it offends me or not. Elinor, I want you to tell me the truth. What have I done to cause you to be so indifferent?" He took both of her hands in his. She averted her eyes.

"Elinor, look at me," he exclaimed passionately. "Let me see your eyes."

She turned her face toward him, but looked at him for only an instant, fearing he would see what was hidden there, then fixed her eyes on the carpet. He lifted her chin, but she kept her eyes downcast.

"Elinor," he exclaimed joyfully, "Is it possible; can it really be? I know you care for me now, or you wouldn't avoid letting me look in your eyes. Don't be afraid, dear. I love you, and want you to be my wife. I have been intending to ask you for many months, but every time I called on you, you acted so cold and distant that I lost my nerve. This evening I determined to get my answer. Now I know you love me, but I want to hear you say so from your own little lips." He moved closer to her, put his arms around her. "Tell me, dearest, do you love me?"

"Yes," she whispered in a low tone.

"Enough to marry me?"

"Yes, Arthur."

He sat down in the easy chair by the fire, took her on his knee, kissing passionately forhead, cheek and lips; and she made no effort to resist.

Then he reached in his pocket, and pulled out a little box, containing a beautiful diamond ring, which he slipped on the third finger of her left hand.

"How lovely!" exclaimed Elinor. "When did you buy this?"

"About two months ago," he told her.

"And all that time, thought you were calling on me because you felt it your duty."

"Dear little girl, what made you think that?" he questioned.

"I guess we misunderstood each other, Arthur. Neither of us thought the other cared."

"Well, all doubt is removed now," he said, pressing the hand wearing the ring. "But there is still one more thing to be decided. When will we be married?" A sudden thought struck him, and again he drew her closer. "Suppose we give them a surprise at the office tomorrw," he suggested.

She looked at him searchingly, fearing she had mistaken his meaning. One glance convinced her that she had not.

"But you know we should have some time to make preparations. I haven't a single dress suitable for the occasion. Your mother will expect you home tonight, but would not be prepared for both of us.

"Both arguments over-ruled," he laughed. "I know where there is a clothing store that keeps open every evening till e o'clock, and it would be a pleasant surprise for my mother, as she has always wanted a daughter of her own, and I know she will be glad to welcome you into the family."

"But we couldn't get a license tonight," she insisted.

"We can go to the residence of the deputy clerk."

She could think of nothing else to interfere, so it was decided that tonight they should be united as husband and wife.

"Just pack what things you will need in the next few days, and we will get the others later. It will not be necessary to tell your landlady for a few days. While you are packing, I will make some new arrangements. I need a new suit, too; and will ride over to that clothing store to see what I can do."

He looked at his watch. It was seven-thirty.

"I will be back in about forty-five minutes. Try to be ready if you can."

He kissed her goodbye, and hastened away. Elinor packed a few dresses, other articles of wearing apparel, a few handkerchiefs, and her toilet articles. She put the little locket she had worn when Captain Davis rescued her, in her handbag. Then she changed her dress and shoes, donned her hat, coat and gloves, and was ready to go when Arthur came back.

"Everything is arranged," he said. "Mother wants us to be married at our home, and I promised that we would, if you are willing." Then he proceeded to unwrap one of the boxes he had brought in.

"I made a great breach in the rules of etiquette,' he 'told her, "but I wanted you to look as nice as any bride ever looked." He held up a beautiful white satin dress, trimmed with rich lace. Then he showed her a bridal wreath and veil, also a pretty pair of white slippers.

Elinor was mystified.

"I hope they fit me," she said. "They all look as though they would. How thoughtful of you to think of this."

"It is no more than you deserve. I wish I could have done better for you. Now if you are ready, we will drive over to the jewelry store and get a ring, then to the residence of the deputy clerk for our license."

"Don't forget to get a minister," laughed Elinor.

"Do danger of that. He is too imporatnt to be forgotten."

They were soon driving as speedily as the traffic laws allowed toward the jewelry store in the North-end.

"I suppose we should have a bridesmaid and best man," Arthur said.

"I wonder if Edward and Amy are together tonight," said Elinor.

"I suppose they are. My cousin, Harold, says Mr. Earl goes to see her about every other night."

"Well, if he isn't there tonight, maybe Harold is; but they may be at a movie or some place else."

"We can drive up to Mrs. Blake's home and see, without going very far out of our way," suggested Arthur.

Chapter XII.

It was fifteen minutes of nine o'clock when Amy and Edward reached Mrs. Blake's house. All around was darkness except for the light from the electric lamp on the liberary table.

Edward fervently hoped Mrs. Blake had retired or would soon retire, as he felt the time for discovering his fate was at hand.

Amy opened the front door, and they entered the room. They were alone. Amy seated herself in a rocking chair, but this did not exactly appeal to Edward, when there was a lovely divan, just the place for a tete-a-tete, in the same room. He took both of Amy's hands in his, pulled her up from the chair, and lead her to the divan. Then he seated himself beside her.

He put his arm around her, and she did not resist. He knew he must tell her his real name; let her know he had been deceiving her all the time; and he dreaded the result. Just as he was ready to say the first word, he heard footsteps and voices on the front porch, and wished that the owners were in Greenland or any place else but there. Amy, though trying not to acknowledge it, even to herself, was of the same opinion. Then the bell rang.

Amy opened the door, and was surprised to see Arthur and Elinor.

"Come in," Amy said. "What in the world brought you here this time of night?" she questioned suspiciously, looking from one to the other.

Arthur laughed.

"Can't you guess?"

Amy looked at Elinor's left hand to see if that would throw any light on the subject, and saw what she had guessed.

"Why, congratulations, both of you," she exclaimed. "When did this happen?"

"About two hours ago," Arthur informed her.

"When is the wedding to be?" questioned Edward. "Don't forget me when you send your invitations."

"That is what we are here for," Arthur said. "We want you two for bridesmaid and best man."

"You must be in a hurry," laughed Edward.

"We are," Arthur said, looking lovingly at Elinor.

"When is the knot to be tied?" asked Amy.

"Tonight."

"Tonight?" Amy and Edward questioned in chorus. Then Amy dropped into the nearest chair, laughing helplessly.

"Yes, tonight. We decided to give everybody but you a surprise," explained Elinor.

"As if we would be apt to expect such a thing. I think we were surprised more than anyone else," Amy said.

"You will have to hurry. We have to get our license yet, and also a wedding ring. The deputy clerk lives about six blocks from here, and the jewelry store we are headed for is within a square or two of the deputy clerk's residence. We'll see you in half an hour from now, about nine forty-five, or as soon as possible after that," Arthur told them; and they hurried away.

Amy excused herself to Edward, and hastened upstairs to tell Mrs. Blake about the wedding, so that she would know where Amy was, and would not be alarmed about her. Then she went to her room to change her dark dress for one of a lighter color.

LOVE vs WEALTH

In the meantime, Edward sat alone in the parlor staring dreamily at the floor, when his eyes fell on a bright, shiny object beside the library table. He picked it up. It was a locket bearing the initials, E. W. As he accidentally touched the spring, the back of the case flew open, revealing the face of a child about three years old. Suddenly he uttered a low exclamation. His mind went back to childhood.

In imagination he could see a ship, and a broad ocean of water. He could see his mother and father on the deck of the ship, with himself, then a lad of seven, standing beside them, watching the wild waves dashing to and fro. The governess had taken his little sister to the further end of the ship. All was quiet on board the vessel.

Soon the quiet was turned to consternation and panic. It was reported that the ship was sinking. His father started off in search of the governess and child, but could not pass the panic-stricken crowd waiting for their turn to be lowered to the life-boats. He called loudly, but no answer came.

Edward's mother and himself had almost been forced into one of the small boats, but his father refused to come, even after all the women and children had been started toward shore.

He remembered what his father had told him so many times about the awful hour: how he had found the governess, and learned that through her carelessness the child had been swept off the boat by a mighty wave.

His mind followed a series of events that led to his mother's death. She had died from grief, due to the sad fate of her child. Then his mind came back to the present. Yes, this was his sister's picture, but how did it come there? He had never been told that his sister wore the locket when they made their voyage across the Atlantic.

Amy completed her preparations, and hastened back to the parlor. As soon as she entered the room, she noticed the strange expression in Edward's eyes. He showed her the little locket and asked her if she had seen it before, explaining that he had found it on the floor beside the library table.

"No, I have never seen it before," she answered. "Maybe Elinor lost it. She was standing close by the table."

Edward's eyes lit up with pleasure. He must find out if it belonged to Elinor, and if so, how it had come into her possession.

Soon the prospective bride and bridegroom returned, but they did not enter the house this time, as it was almost ten o'clock. Edward and Amy climbed in the machine, and they were soon on their way to the Seymour home.

Edward decided not to speak to Elinor about the locket until after the ceremony, as she seemed nervous enough, without anything else unusual happening. He wondered if it were possible that this young lady could be his sister.

They stopped at a minister's house, on their way toward Elinor's new home, which added one more to their crowd. As they passed the Harrison home, Amy felt another pang of home sickness, but banished it quickly, knowing she would be there to call it home again in less than twenty-four hours.

They rode on, and presently came in sight of the home of Arthur's parents. Mrs. Seymour had met Elinor once before, and greeted her very affectionately, expressing her delight at Elinor's choice of a husband. She immediately showed Elinor to the spare bedroom, and helped her to dress for her bridal. She looked as lovely as any bride ever looked, who might have spent a great deal more time in the selection of a bridal attire.

Arthur went to his room, donned his new suit, and was ready to answer the questions which would soon make him a husband. Edward and Amy were seated in the large living room. Harold Marlowe and one of Arthur's boyhood chums were the only guests present, they accidentally having dropped in to see Arthur just after Mrs. Seymour finished the conversation over the telephone with her son earlier in the evening.

Harold had decided to give Amy up. He could see her decided preference for Edward. Still, he felt somewhat envious to see Edward acting as best man instead of himself.

Arthur and Elinor took their places before the minister, with Amy and Edward at their sides. The ceremony began. The small audience thrilled as the couple promised to stand by each other "in sickness or in health, for better or for worse, till death us do part"; and Edward wished it was his voice instead of Arthur's, and Amy's hand instead of Elinor's, when Arthur repeated:

"With this ring, I thee wed; with all my worldly goods, I thee endow," etc.

The ceremony was over.

Congratulations were given and accepted.

Mrs. Seymour, senior, had prepared as nice a wedding dinner as could be expected, with so little time for preparation. Soon after the feast, Harold and the young man with him excused themselves and went to the latter's home. Arthur and Elinor were alone in the living room. Amy and Mrs. Seymour were in the kitchen, and Edward and Mr. Seymour in the library.

Presently Edward joined Elinor and Arthur. He pulled the little locket out of his pocket.

"Did you lose this, Mrs. Seymour?" he asked.

"Why, yes. It is mine; but I hadn't missed it. Where did you find it?"

"In the parlor at Mrs. Blake's house. If I may ask, is it an old keepsake?"

"Yes, I wore it when I was a baby."

"I suppose it was a present from some dear friend."

"My father gave it to me for my third birthday. Of course I don't remember that particular birthday, but I have been told about it since."

"Who told you? Please don't think me too inquisitive. I have a reason for asking you these questions," he told her.

Elinor wondered at, but little guessed the reason.

"My foster father, Captain Davis," she answered.

Seein' and Hearin' Things

—Signs of spring not far off—hawks flying over head, boys flying kites and playing marbles, girls jumping ropes, coal pile about gone, etc.

—A couple of the lary attendants at the imbecile asylum were all pepped up with perplexity last Monday evening when some young damsel, either longing for other localities or tired of her neighbors, took her departure when no one was looking. She begged a street car ticket near by and boarded an east-bound street car.

—The family were gathered around the supper table in a nearby home the other evening when a little six-year-old said: "When daddy eats his ears move backwards and forwards."

—In one of our homes a few days ago the mother said she felt tired out so much lately, and it was remarked that she was all run down, whereupon the little seven-year-old youngster exclaimed, "Why don't you wind her up?"

—Well, we've about gotten over our Christmas financial affairs, and our taxes paid, reckon its about the proper caper to hunt around and see who'll stand us off the longest for our Easter funds.

Mrs. H. W. Large will entertain members of the Art Needle club at a 1 o'clock luncheon at her home 1571 Glenoble Road, Thursday, Feb. 25.

TO OBSERVE FIRST AID WEEK IN OHIO

Boy Scouts and Public Officials Asked to Aid in Observance of Week.

First Aid Week in Ohio will be observed March 14 to 20, it was announced early this week by the Ohio State Pharmaceutical association. It is planned to make the observance more general this year. Public officials will be asked to co-operate and Boy Scouts will be urged to stage demonstrations.

"Every home should have a medicine cabinet," the association says, "and it should be stocked with medicines and supplies needed in cases of emergency."

Window displays and special advertising will be used to emphasize the need of adequately equipped medicine chests and to stress the fact that the advice that a druggist gives in connection with the merchandise he sells is based on educational training and experience.

This will be the fifth annual observance of First Aid Week in Ohio.

OLD DIRECTORY OF COLUMBUS

Names and Adresses Taken From City Directory of 1852.

Through the courtesy of George Monett, 1245 Sullivant Ave., we have been given access to a copy of the Columbus City Directory published by B. Glover, in 1852. The streets in Columbus at that time had no numbers, according to the directory. Columbus at that time had a population of about 13,000.

According to Mr. Monett's book of memoires of early Columbus, the city at that time was bounded on the north by North Public Lane (near Naghten street); on the east by East Public Lane (now Parsons avenue); on the south by South Public Lane (now Livingston avenue); on the west by the Scioto river.

West of the river to Sandusky street was called Middletown; further west was Franklinton.

Chestnut street was North street (William Dennison, governor of Ohio, 1860 to 1862, lived on the southeast corner of High and North streets). Fulton street was South street, Main street was Friend street, Noble street was Gooseberry alley, Engler street was Strawberry alley, Chapel street was Sugar alley.

There was a tow path on the river front from Broad street to the canal locks located at Friend street and the canal. The Scioto river at Broad street (National road) was spanned by a huge wooden covered bridge. The old Fitch warehouse was located at the west end of the bridge. Canal boats were taken across the river by man power to the warehouse for loading and unloading freight.

Veteran's Insurance

J. J. Saslavsky, adjutant of the Ohio department of the American Legion, announced last week that World war veterans must reinstate their war risk insurance on or before July 2, or their policies will become invalid. Section 304 of the World War Veterans act of 1924 provides that reinstatement or conversion must be made before that date.

The American Legion, with its 500 posts throughout Ohio, is making preparations to assist ex-service men in their insurance problems. Service officers of every post are being supplied with the necessary blanks, and have all information regarding the conversion and reinstatement of the war-time policies.

HEALTH HINTS

By DR. O. E. McFADON

OXYGEN

Can you be thinking of going to Arizona to get more oxygen? You may have it here if you will take it. In the high altitudes you must breathe deeply and elsewhere you may, with little effort, if you will.

We are all given a breathing talent and we do that thing from birth till death, but while we use one talent because wemust, we might use and acquire several and be benefitted accordingly if we would.

It is wonderful what a slender supply of air keeps us going, and as wonderful how much more abundantly we might have life with just a little more effort and exercise of will.

We are all guilty of sins of omission and commission and in nothing do we treat our possibilities so lighly as in our shallow breathing.

The natives of the tropics are not noted for achievement. They could do more if it were really necessary, and fashionable. It is easy for us to think we do the best we can, but do we? Our possibilities are commensurate with our vitality and our nervous energy depends more upon our intake of oxygen than of food. Lured by our taste and appetite we overeat but we are not so attracted by the air. The drug addict gratifies his perverted appetite and makes great sacrifices in other ways. The food addict—and we are all more or less guilty—finds it easy to argue that he "eats to keep up his strength," when, beyond a certain point, it surely keeps down his strength to digest, assimilate and absorb his excess food.

We are not so attracted by the air and we, by our careless indifference, practically reject all above necessities.

Normal people are reasonably trifty. Some financial and social gain is sought and acquired each year, but we do not realise how such gains in vitality are multiplied by persistent, deeper breathing. As our ordinary, short breaths are to the deepest breaths we ever take, so is the short life we are choosing to live, to the long life we are entitled to if we habitually breathe deeply. We cannot regain what we have lost by carelessness, but we can add to the length, breadth and depth of our lives by habitual deeper breathing of good air.

Most of us believe in saving "for a rainy day." Thrift is a popular virtue and the more effort money costs, the more the tendency to save. But air is free, and being fre, is valued lightly. We cannot store air to advantage, but we can build physical strength with air and store the strength, and there is no saving that pays better than surplus energy. Vigor is of prime importance as a basis for learning, moneygetting and achievement generally. Then, why not cultivate a habit of always breathing in a little more air than we must have merely to exist, and thereby store up the energy that costs nothing, saves doctor's bills and prolong's and gladdens life?

Dr. McFadon's book, "Health Nuggests," is for sale in the Hilltop stores.

LOVE vs. WEALTH

A STORY

Written for the Record by Mrs. Marcella Carleton, 60 North Park Ave. (Hilltop) Columbus, Ohio.

"Did this Captain Davis rescue you from a sinking ship?"

"Why, yes. How did you guess?"

"I did not guess; I know," he answered. "I was on the ship that sank. My mother, father, and a three-year-old sister were with me. We were all taken safely to shore except my little sister."

Elinor was both very much surprised and very much pleased.

"Then you must be my brother," she exclaimed joyfully.

"Yes, I am your brother. When I picked up that locket this evening, the case flew open, and I recognized your picture, as I have one just like it, enlarged, at home," he explained.

"Are our parents living?" was her next question.

"No. Our mother died from grief, after that horrible incident on the ocean, and our father, about five years ago."

Elinor was disappointed.

"I am sorry," she said. "Still I have a brother."

"And don't forget you have a husband," laughed Arthur.

"But I don't understand," she said, turning to Edward. "Your name is Earl, and the last initial on my locket is 'W.'"

"I can explain that," he said, "but I do not feel like explaining it to others first, when I owe Amy an explanation. I will find her, and explain to the three of you at once."

Presently he returned with Amy.

"Amy," he said, "I want you to meet my sister," and he explained the matter to her just as he had done to Arthur and Elinor. Then he went on:

"Amy, I owe you an explanation, and as the same explanation concerns Elinor, and I did not like to tell others before you knew it, I am telling all of you at the same time. Elinor does not understand why the last initial on her locket is 'W,' if she is really my sister, so I will give you the reason."

"My middle name is Earl, not my last name. I have written books in the East, and never had any trouble selling them, as the public knew I came from a wealthy family, and due to that my books sold readily."

"I often wondered if my stories would have the same effect on people who did not know me, and finally decided to drop my last name, using only my first and middle; and come West. I submitted my first story under this name to The Starke Publishing Company."

Here he was interrupted by Elinor.

"That is enough. I think we all understand now. Come along, Arthur, let us find your mother."

She had noticed an expression of doubt and of slight displeasure in Amy's eyes, and thought that she and Edward should be left alone now, in order that things could be more easily cleared up.

Amy started away with them, but Edward called her back.

"Amy, my dear, are you angry with me?" he asked her.

"I cannot understand why you haven't told me about your name before this. Were you afraid I would talk about it to others?"

"No, indeed, little girl. I loved you, and wanted you to love me; and as there was no underhanded or dishonorable motive back of dropping my last name, I did not think it necessary to tell you just yet."

The explanation satisfied Amy. It did not occur to her to ask what his last name really was. All she knew was that he loved her and that she loved him.

He took her hand in his, and looked longingly into her eyes.

"May I call it mine?" he asked gently, giving her hand a warm pressure."

"Yes, Edward."

How happy he felt!

"You really love me? Oh, darling, how happy you have made me!" he exclaimed.

"I am happy, too," she said shyly.

He put his arm around her.

"When can I call you my own?" he questioned eagerly.

"We can set the date later," she replied.

Now was the time for the remainder of his confession.

"There is something else I want to tell you," he said. "You haven't asked what your name will be when we are married."

"I hadn't thought of that yet," she replied. "What is your name?"

"Wheeler."

An angry flush spread over Amy's face.

"Edward Wheeler!" she exclaimed, looking at him suspiciously. "Is this a frame-up on me between you and my mother?"

"No. It certainly is not. I fell in love with you the second time I saw you—that day when it rained, and I escorted you to the office. That was before I knew who you were."

"Imagine my surprise," he went on, "when I called to see your father, and saw your picture on the mantel. He noticed, and asked me if I knew you, informing me that you were his daughter. I determined, then, to tell you who I was the next time we should meet, but an unusual circumstance prevented."

He told her about his conversation with the woman he met on the street car.

"I knew I would have a poor chance of winning you, if you knew my name just then; but I told your father all about our acquaintance, as I knew he was really your friend."

Amy's love for her father was great, and Edward noticed that his last statement touched the right chord.

"Do you forgive me?" he asked.

"Under the circumstances, yes," she replied laughingly.

"What do you mean by the 'circumstances?'"

"I mean that——". She hesitated.

"You mean what?" he asked eagerly.

"I mean that love is too big and too dear to be interfered with by mere trifles."

We lower the curtain on the scene that followed.

Chapter XIII.

As it was almost midnight, Amy spent the remainder of the night at the Seymour house, but Edward returned to the city—Arthur taking him there in his machine.

The next morning, Arthur, Elinor and Amy arrived at the office at about 7:45. Edward Wheeler was the only person there, except the janitor when they entered the office. Edward wanted to be there to see the fun when the rest of the force arrived.

Mr. Payne was the first to come in.

"Good morning, girls and boys," he said, cheerfully. Then noticing an odd expression on their faces said:

"There seems to be something unusual in the air this morning. What is it?"

Edward took his sister's arm and led her toward Mr. Payne.

"Mr. Payne," he said, "I want you to meet my sister, Mrs. Arthur Seymour."

Mr. Payne was spellbound with astonishment.

"When did this all happen?" he questioned. "I supposed she would be Arthur's wife sooner or later; but what's this about her being your sister?"

Edward explained in a few words.

The others soon arrived, and were as much surprised as Mr. Payne had been. Everyone wished the newly married couple joy, and Mr. Payne announced that that afternoon should be a half-holiday.

The morning's work always ended at 12 o'clock. After all were started at their respective duties, Mr. Payne called Amy into the office.

"How would you girls like to fix up a spread, as a surprise to the newlyweds?"

He handed her $15 from his own pocket.

"Take this and buy some ice cream, cake, sandwiches, etc. Have them make the delivery as soon as possible. I will take two small office tables to that extra office room, and run up home in the machine for some tablecloths and dishes. You may take the money you have left after you buy the lunch, and buy a wedding present for our bride and groom. Be careful to not let them know what you are doing. Take your time, as there is nothing urgent in the stenographic line this morning."

Nobody suspected what Amy left the office for, as it was not an unusual thing for her to leave at all hours of the day on some errand for Mr. Payne.

She purchased the lunch at a delicatessen shop near the office and went into the center of the business district to buy the wedding present.

She selected a beautiful polychrome buffet set for Mr. Payne's gift, and a French ivory boudoir clock for her gift. Then she returned to the office, and told all the girls, on the sly, about the little surprise. The girls made up some money among themselves and purchased several articles of aluminum ware. At 11:15, Elinor and Arthur were ordered to look up some information about a book that had been published several years before; and they quite unsuspectingly went toward the door of the room where old records were kept.

As soon as they opened the door, one glance revealed why Mr. Payne had taken a sudden notion to have something looked up. Everyone enjoyed the lunch immensely, especially the two for whom it had been planned.

Edward had been told about it early that morning, and when the time for presenting gifts came, Edward was on hand with a beautiful set of sterling silver.

In an aside to Amy, Edward requested that she meet him in the statehouse yard at 2:30 that afternoon, which she promised to do.

Arthur and Elinor, with their load of wedding presents, started for home in their machine. Mr. Payne had given them a week's vacation, and they intended to take a short auto trip.

Amy hastened to Mrs. Blake's residence, packed her belongings, and after a half-hour's chat with Mrs. Blake, prepared to meet Edward at the promised time.

He arrived at their meeting place first, and was waiting for her. They left her traveling bag at a baggage counter, and visited a jewelry store, where Edward bought Amy a beautiful diamond engagement ring.

"May I come to see you tonight?" he asked her, while they were waiting for the taxi, which Edward had called to take her home.

"Yes, I suppose so," she replied.

In less than an hour, she reached home.

Mrs. Harrison, being a keen observer, notice the diamond the first thing.

"Why, child, what does this mean?" she asked. "Are you engaged?"

Amy nodded in the affirmative.

"Who to?"

"A young man I met at the office."

Mrs. Harrison was half angry, but concealed her impatience as best she could. How she wished Amy had met Edward Wheeler! As "a young man from the office" did not appeal to her, she did not take the trouble to ask his name.

She showed Amy to her room.

"What do you think of it?" she asked.

Amy threw her arms around her mother and kissed her.

"Oh, it is just lovely, mother," she exclaimed.

"I hope you decide to keep it, and not marry too soon," she said; and left the room without giving her daughter time to reply.

Amy's eyes twinkled mischeviously, as she thought of the surprise awaiting her mother that evening.

She changed her dress, and went down to her father's private study. He was there, and gladly unlocked the door to admit her.

"What is the name of this young man you are engaged to?" he asked.

"You'll know tonight, daddy. It is a secret until then."

He looked at her wonderingly, but said nothing.

"How are you getting along with your work?" she aked him.

"Promise not to tell?" he questioned.

"Certainly, I won't tell."

"I am about to make a fortune, I think. I have almost completed it, and am confident it will be a success."

"Oh, daddy," she exclaimed. "I am so glad, for your sake. You have been working so hard."

Chapted XIV.

It was evening. Amy, dressed in her best, was waiting the coming of the one she loved. Mr. Harrison had guessed who it was, and was almost as anxious as Amy to see the son of his boyhood friend again.

Presently, Amy heard a well known step on the porch, and went to the door. Edward stepped in, removed his hat, placed it on Amy's head, and kissed her, as no one was looking.

Mrs. Harrison was upstairs, not being particularly anxious to meet her intended son-in-law, although she had decided to come down some time before he went away, "in order to keep peace in the family."

The situation was amusing to Edward as well as to Amy. Mr. Harrison soon came in to congratulate them and wish them joy.

LOVE vs WEALTH

"But, for my sake, Edward," he said brokenly, "Be good to her. Goodness knows, she deserves it."

"Never fear about that part, dad," he said sportively. "No one knows that more than I do."

Amy went to the piano. He had never heard her play before, as Mr. Blake's parlor did not contain a piano; and was very much pleased with her music. The she played some songs, which they sang together.

Mrs. Harrison decided that she might as well have the trying ordeal awaiting her over with, and quietly descended the stairs and entered the parlor, with no one but Mr. Harrison aware of her presence. Edward's back was toward her, and she had not recognized him. Then they finished the song, and Amy turned around and saw her mother. Edward still faced the piano, looking over Amy's sheet music. When he turned around, Mrs. Harrison recognized him at once.

WEST BROAD ST. SCHOOL NOTES

Washington's Birthday Program —Film "Abraham Lincoln" to be Shown.

The lives of our great men, born in February, have been carefully studied during this month, and the characteristics most helpful to the children emphasized—kindness, truthfulness, love of country, honesty, respect for law—all those qualities that make good citizens, big or little.

Auditorium program on Feb. 12 was in honor of Lincoln; that on Feb. 19, for Washington was as follows:

Song—America ..... Children
Washington's Prayer for the United States ..... Sixth Grades
Salute to the Flag and Pledge of Allegiance ..... Teachers and Children
School Pledge ..... Children
Washington Poem ..... Fourth Grades
An Exercise by five third grade children.
Song—While the Flag is Floating O'er Us Boys' Glee Club and School Children, assisted by orchestra.

Miss Catherine Sperry's 1A received the picture for highest percent in banking.

At the last Parent-Teacher meeting a very appreciative audience heard Miss Edith Taliant relate some of her experiences in the little villages on the coast of Newfoundland. Miss Taliant's ability to interest her auditors is very great, and the stories she tells of hunger for education, books and pleasanter ways of living make our customs and possessions stand out in strong contrast.

Mr. Thomas Graham sang splendidly two Scotch songs, to the delight of the audience.

It is expected to show the film, "Abraham Lincoln," at 3 p. m. on Friday, Feb. 26, and again at 7:30 p. m. These picture shows will be under the care of the Parent-Teacher association.

Seein' and Hearin' Things

—Yes, sir, we're tired of cleaning snow off the walks this winter. However, 'twon't be long till we can get our annual mess of dandelion greens.

—A young lady about to board a Camp Chase car the other evening, slipped on the ice-coated street and came down as flat as a caterpillar's tummy just as an auto was approaching. Had the driver not been unusually cautious, a serious accident would surely have happened.

COLUMBUS 3RD IN BUILDING PERMITS

State Reports Show Decrease in Larger Cities From That of January, 1925.

Reports from 30 Ohio cities to the Ohio Builders' Exchanges show a decrease of about $2,000,000, or approximately 18 per cent for the corresponding period last year.

Columbus had a decrease of only $2000, Akron and Cleveland lost about $600,000, Lakewood and Cincinnati about $300,00, East Cleveland about $260,000 and Hamilton about $700,00, with smaller losses reported by Dayton and Springfield.

The 33 larger cities of the state last month had a total of $9,182,434, according to incomplete reports, and 31 cities reported $11,290,528 for the first month of 1925. These cities issued 2787 permits last month, and 3283 in January, 1925.

Columbus stood third in the list of leading cities in volume of permits issued last month, being outdone by Cleveland with $2,822,800, and Cincinnati with $1,268,700, while Columbus had $1,003, 000.

Tungsten Pendulum

Dr. T. Nagako, professor of physics in the Tokio Imperial University, is credited with inventing a new pendulum for use in determining gravity. The pendulum is said to be constructed solely of tungsten, mounted in a special way, and to be practically free from outside influences. Its inventor says the pendulum can witstand heat and magnetic impulses.

AIR MAIL SERVICE FOR COLUMBUS

Place Assigned on Night Route Between Cincinnati and Cleveland.

W. I. Glover, second assistant postmaster general, announced definitely last week that Columbus would be assured of night air mail service on the route between Cincinnai and Cleveland, where it will connect with the transcontinental line.

Postmaster General New has authorized the installation of the line providing cities along the route will support it.

Columbus will be the central point on the route which will connect Cincinnati, Dayton, Columbus, Akron and Cleveland by air.

Fred H. Tibbetts, Columbus postmaster has stated that bids for carrying on this service will be received shortly.

Assurance that Columbus will be a night air mail station comes after much effort on the part of a special committee of the chamber of commerce and the postmaster in petitioning Washington for such action. Norton field on East Broad street will be the stopping point for planes.

Owners Must Consent

County commissioners were advised last week by Prosecutor John R. King that they were without authority to grant the electric light company at Rome a franchise to erect telephone poles and lines along the public highways without consent of the owners of adjacent property to such an additional burden upon the property. The Rome concern was before the commissioners with a request for a right to extend its lines through a number of new additions in that neighborhood.

Germany continues to lead the nations in experiments with gliders. It is now concentrating on the development of a motorless plane which will take off and alight safely on land or water.

FIREMAN RAY IS BURNED ON HAND

Fireman Charles Ray of No. 10 Pump Company, Broad and Glenwood, suffered burns about the right hand when the fire department was called to the home of M. E. Stokley, 41 N. Princeton Ave., last Thursday morning.

Paper over a flue stop ignited and had fallen on a bed, setting fire to a mattress. Ray burned his hand when he picked up the flaming mattress and threw it out the window.

Valuable Book

The Hilltop Child Conservation League is to be congratulated upon the presentation of a copy of the book, "The Child, His Nature and His Needs" to the Holmes Hilltop Library. The book represents the finest scholarship available in the line of juvenile research and child psychology. It is entitled as "A Contribution of the Children's Foundation," which has financed the publication of the book so that all parents and organizations who could wish for expert advice for the rearing of their children might obtain the best at the least expense.. The book is prepared under the editorship of Prof. M. V. O'Shea, professor of education at the University of Wisconsin and the whole book reads in its contents like a catalogue of a great university. Dr. H. H. Goddard of O. S. U., is represented by a chapter on "Bridging the Gap Between Our Knowledge of Child Wellbeing and our Care of the Young," and other authorities too numerous to mention. Every Sunday school and day school teacher on the Hilltop would profit by reading this volume.

It is practical, sound, modern, up-to-the-minute in information and the most complete book on child training that has fallen into my hands for many a day.

The book is divided into three parts. Part one discusses the eight chapters "Present Status of Our Knowledge of Child Nature"; part two discusses seven chapters "Our Present Knowledge of Child Wellbeing" and the last third of the book in six chapters reviews "The Status of Our Knowledge of Education."

Such a book should be in constant circulation among parents, teachers and all interested in the best for our children. May God speed its circulation. Rev. Richard E. Shields, Chairman Library Board.

LOVE vs. WEALTH

A STORY

Written for the Record by Mrs. Marcella Carleton, 48 North Park Ave. (Hilltop) Columbus, Ohio.

"Why, Mr. Wheeler, I did not know you were here. I thought it was Amy's friend."

"You weren't mistaken, Mrs. Harrison. I am the friend she was expecting. We are friends for life," he said, putting his arm around Amy.

Mr. Harrison almost exploded with laughter, and Mrs. Harrison could not find words to express her feelings.

"I am pleased with your choice," she finally said to Amy.

Then she was given a brief outline about how it all happened, Edward only keeping back the part about finding his sister, as he had heard of Mrs. Harrison's ill-treatment of her, and wanted to teach her a lesson. Arthur and Elinor had been asked to come down to Harrisons that evening, and though Elinor declined at first, she finally consented to go.

Edward had only been there for an hour, when the doorbell rang, and Arthur and his wife were admitted, causing Mrs. Harrison to have a feeling of displeasure.

Edward led his sister to Mrs. Harrison.

"Mrs. Harrison," he said, "I want you to meet my sister"; and he told her about how they had been separated in childhood, and reunited just recently.

Mrs. Harrison was overcome with humiliation, and with a quivering voice and quite a few tears, made the first apology she had ever made to anyone. From that night forward, Mr. Harrison's life became more bearable. He learned to love his wife again.

On the night of Amy's wedding, Mrs. Harrison discovered that she had fallen in love with her husband. Her affection knew no bounds, when about a week later, Mr. Harrison informed her that he had made an invention which had been successful, and brought them a small fortune.

Chapter XV.

It is Christmas eve, and the stars of a December sky shine down on a lovely duplex, the principal foundation of which is love. Looking within, you can see two happy families gathered around their respective hearths—one family upstairs; the other, downstairs.

Edward Wheeler is telling the old Christmas story children love so well, and his wife, now 25 years old, smiles at the little faces of her four-year-old twin boys, upturned to listen to the story of the Christ child. Then her eyes rests on the tiny form in her lap—a three months' old girl.

It is nine o'clock. The story is finished. Two little boys hang their stockings over the fireplace, and go to bed to dream of the coming festivities. The baby is rocked to sleep and laid in her crib. Mother and father are alone. An arm with as tender a touch as ever, again steals around the mother's waist.

"My darling wife," her husband says. "Five years ago tonight we were made one. Have you ever regretted?"

She smiles lovingly into his eyes.

"No, no indeed. These five years have brought me more happiness than all the others before, put together."

"And I can say the same," is the reply.

Upstairs a similar scene is taking place. A little girl, the exact counterpart of her mother, is being put to bed, having made all her preparations for the coming morning.

A year ago, another child, a boy who was a year older than the girl, could hardly wait for the coming morning. But a year's time brings joy and sorrow to all, and before the last winter drew to a close, one member of this family circle had been taken from its dear ones to a life beyond.

Elinor and Arthur Seymour are thinking of this, as they prepare their youngest darling to bed. Then they hear footsteps coming up the stairs. It is Elinor's brother and his wife. Edward looks at Elinor's daughter.

"Now I remember how you looked when we were separated that time in early childhood. Your little girl looks exactly the same, and she is now the same age you were then."

"I hope our little girl always resembles her mother in actions as well as in looks," Arthur says, with a loving smile at his wife.

So we leave them this Christmas eve, wishing them future happiness, and strength to bear the opposite, when it comes.

(The End.)

Recipes

RICE CHICKEN LOAF

Line the sides and bottom of a long deep pan, well greased, with sale, paprikya, and a little minced parsley if desired. Run through the food chopper enough chicken to fill the center of pan two-thirds full. If you do not have enough chicken add cooked veal. Moisten with cream sauce and season. A little chopped celery or celerysault may be used, a few hard-cooked eggs, sliced will also add to this dish. Cover over with rice, and bake or steam for one hour. Carefully turn out onto a platter, and serve with a tomato sauce. If a beaten egg or two is added to the rice it will hold together better, when turned out.

MOLDED RICE

Rice prepared and served in molded form offers a broad opportunity for an attractive and healthful dish, as it can be served with a variety of sauces. A fig or date sauce is equally palatable for the purpose as is apricot sauce, or a lemon or orange sauce will also be found quite pleasing. Rice croquettes are also most satisfying when served with a cheese sauce. To make this add a cup of pimento, that has been passed through the food chopper, to a cup of cream sauce. To this add a fourth of a cup of tomato puree and season with salt.

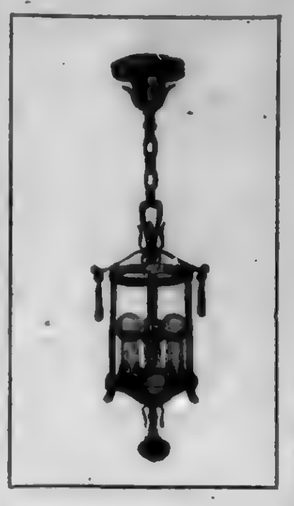
SAUSAGE AND FRIED APPLES

Fry the required amount of small sausages, and in some of the fat as many halved, cored and unpeeled apples as required, first dipping them in flour to which a little sugar has been added. Fry until soft and browned. Place on a hot serving dish with two small sausages on each half.

SWISS EGGS

To one tablespoonful of butter melted in a small skillet, add one-half cupful of cream or top milk; when simmering, slip four eggs in carefully, one at a time. Sprinkle with salt, pepper, and a dash of cayenne, and when nearly set, with two tablespoonfuls of grated cheese. When cooked as you like them, take up on rounds of hot, buttered toast, shake paprika on liberally, sprinkle with minced parsley and sweet pepper, and pour the cream around.

DEVONSHIRE EGGS



Boil 6 eggs, 20 minutes; remove the shells and cut in halves; mash yolks with a fork until light and smooth; then add ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons finely minced ham, enough cream to moisten. Put mixture back between whites of eggs and press together. Lay in shallow baking dish and pour over them 1 cup thick tomato sauce or tomato soup. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and bits of butter. Bake in hot oven.

OMELET WITH SPANISH SAUCE

There is no more delicious omelet than one served with Spanish sauce. Make a puffy omelet, and just before folding, add two or three tablespoonfuls of the Spanish sauce. Fold, slip on to a hot plate, pour more sauce around, garnish with parsley and toast points, and serve.

To make the sauce, chop two green peppers and one red sweet pepper, and one onion. Saute five minutes, stirring in wto tablespoonfuls butter; add one quart of canned tomatoes, one tablespoonful sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, a dash of cayenne, and a dash of pepper. Cook, stirring, until smooth; thicken slightly with one tablespoonful each of flour and butter blended together.

All winter coats to go in two groups. Values to $39.50, now $14.50. Values to $69.50, now $29.50—Seiller's.

"See Sites for Lights"

Dear Madame:

Are you entirely satisfied with the lighting equipment in your home? By that we mean—are the fixtures up-to-date in design and do they harmonize with their surroundings? Perhaps you have had some of your rooms redecorated. Do the old fixtures enhance the beauty of your new decorations or do they give the effect of being "out of place?"

You will surely be interested in the attractive new designs in lighting equipment that are now available. Some of the fixtures have beautiful glass shades, softly or gorgeously colored, and others with silk shades would lend an added charm to your room. And then there are the candle fixtures for the now popular Colonial type of interior furnishings.

We would like to help you with your home lighting. Wouldn't you like to have our man call, go over your lighting equipment with you and make recommendations for new fixtures at a price you would wish to pay? There is no obligation, for your good-will will repay any effort on our part. Telephone us at Ra. 0530-M if you wish to hear more about the lovely new fixtures you can obtain. Or stop in next time you pass the store.

Cordially yours,

In framing a program for the year, the Ohio Good Roads Federation has announced that rather than have the state discontinue highway building for several years, it would favor the restoration of the half mill state road levy, provided no other practicable method for the raising of funds is suggested.

The federation advocates provision by the state of ample funds for the completion of the state highway system, widening and resurfacing of the heavy traffic roads, replacement of narrow and dangerous bridges, elimination of grade crossings, and the building of parallel roads leading into the large cities where traffic is heaviest.

OH! YES YOU CAN

You can always tell a barber
By the way he parts his hair;
You can always tell a dentist
When you're in a dentist's chair.

And even a musician—
You can tell him by his touch.
You can always tell a printer,
But you cannot tell him much.

HOW THEY ANSWERED

Every week day the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin prints the answers that five people picked at random give to a question that is asked them. The question, "What type of boy do you like best for a companion?" suggested by a fourteen-year-old boy was answered by five boys whose ages ranged from 10 to 15 years.

One note is common to all the answers. Each of the five likes an unselfish, thoughtful boy the best. Take a brief portion from the five answers:

1. "I like a fellow who doesn't think he's any better than any of the other kids."

2. "To get it right, I mean a kid who whacks up with another fellow when the other kid don't have anything."

3. "You know the kind I mean; he's not all for himself."

4. "A fellow who doesn't want to have things his own way all the time."

5. "I guess the only way I can say it is—most of the fellows like him because he doesn't 'like himself'."

AN UNBEATABLE COMBINATION

Shortly after the close of the Civil war, a boy in Maine was wondering what he would do with his life. He decided to be a railroader. He started at the bottom and worked hard. Today he is one of the world's most noted civil engineers, says the Popular Science Monthly.

Some time ago a meeting was held in the Engineering Societies Building, New York city, for the purpose of giving this distinguished man the John Fritz Medal, the greatest recognition of scientific and industrial eminence given by American engineers.

When he appeared on the platform to receive this medal, he referred to he medals which he already wore by saying, "I must look like a Christmas tree." But when he was visited next day in his modest office, there was not a bit of ribbon in his lapel, and no medal on his breast. The only decoration that he wore was a pleasant smile probably the secret of his success.—Forward.

Highway workers in South Dakota have made the interesting discovery of an "ice mine" in the Black Hills. The men went to a cliff of naturally terraced limestone along the side of the road they were building, to obtain rock for a crusher. After digging several feet they encountered a formation which resembled a stone wall with the mortar replaced by ice. Apparently the dirt had been washed away by some subterranean flow of water which had since congealed.

New Cable Route

To meet the demand for a fast cable service between the United States and Germany, the Postal Telegraph Cable Co. has established direct connection between the two countries by way of Emden, London and New York, pending the laying of the German Atlantic cable. This route is used exclusively for cablegrams to and from Germany, thus avoiding the congestion incident to lines connecting Germany with Europe and points beyond.

London's Busiest Point

Hyde Park is now said to be London's busiest point as traffic tallies have recently been carefully made at the several traffic centers of the great metropolis. At Hyde Park on an average day more than 30,000 vehicles pass and by a succession of counts this point has been given the distinction of being the busiest of all.

TWO AUTOS RUN INTO LIVE WIRES

One Driver Knocked Unconscious—Electricity Stops One Car.

Two men were slightly injured last Sunday night when a Rail-Light trolley wire blew down at Yale Ave. and Town St.

The men are George S. Beatty, 234½ E. Whittier St., and J. G. Adams, 1500 Walsh Ave.

Beatty, who was a former city fireman, was driving in Town St., and his automobile was directly under the wire when it fell. The wire struck his car, and Beatty was knocked unconscious by the high voltage. He was taken to Grant hospital, where he was revived.

Adams was driving east in Town street, a few minutes after the wire fell, and his car came in contact with the wire, became magnatised and stopped, although the engine continued to run. Adams leaped from the car before receiving the full effect of the electricity and was able to go home.

PEPPY BASKETBALL AT SHELTER HOUSE

Two of the fastest games of the season were played in the Girls' League at Glenwood shelter house, Wednesday evening, Feb. 25. The Hilltop Six firmly established their lead by defeating their closest rivals, the C. W. A. C.'s. The game opened with a feeling on the part of each team that it was set to win, and added to this all players were ready to show in tip top form. The score at the end of the half was 10 to 2 in favor of the Hilltop Six. The low C. W. A. C.'s 2 shows that their opponent guards, Gladys Lensenmayer and Martha Lane, were holding up their end of the fray. The second half commenced with vim from the other direction. Miss Nataling scored three straight field goals for the C. W.'s and the score became 8 to 10. Hilltop Six came back just as strong with Mary Roberts throwing in three long shots. The game ended with a score of 21 to 16.

The second game of the evening was just as exciting, though played by less experienced teams. The Panthers took themselves out of last place, tying for third by defeating the Glenwood Juniors, 17 to 12. Previous to this the Panthers had taken three defeats, but last Wednesday they got the right forwarding combination, Elsie Taylor and Alice Adair, to working and held the Glenwood Puniors, who formerly defeated them by a small score.

The league standing is:

	W.	L.
Hilltop Six	4	0
C. W. A. C.	2	2
Glenwood Juniors	1	3
Panthers	1	3

Each team has 2 games yet to play.

Wednesday evening, 7:30, family prayer meeting at the church.

As a prelude to the evening service at Glenwood Methodist church, the "Nightingales," a men's quartet, will sing a group of gospel hymns. This quartet, which has sung before a number of the leading organizations of the city, has brought a real message in Sunday evening, found these studies lege of hearing them. Following this prelude, the pastor will speak on the subject, "He Is Betrayed."

The 40 young people who attended the special classes in Bible and Missions under the instruction of Mrs. C. F. Prior and Dr. G. F. Barber on last Sunday evening, found these studies together to be not only very interesting but also exceedingly valuable. The classes will be held each Sunday evening from 5 to 6 p. m. from now until Easter in the League room. Luncheon will be served at 6 o'clock. The sessions are opened to anyone, but the young people, especially those who were not present last Sunday evening, are urged to take advantage of this unusual opportunity.

ANNUAL BOY SCOUT SHOW

To Be Staged March 12 at Coliseum—Many New Features This Year.

March 12 is the date set for the fifth annual Boy Scout show to be held at the coliseum, in which 2500 uniformed Scouts will take part.

Competitive events will include the race of the chariots, wall scaling, the Indian method of building a fire by rubbing two sticks together, semaphore and wig-wag signaling and barrel tilting.

The other division of the show which is entirely new this year is the demonstration of camping activities to be put on under the direction of Field Executive A. W. Elliott. Troop 11 will construct a Dan Bearn bridge, Troop 21 will set up a trek cart camp, Troop 26 will erect a Redman's teepe and Troops 9 and 44 will build northwoods and an Adirondac leanto. Troop 12 will build a signal tower at one end of the floor and Troop 8 will form a human signal tower at the other end and they will exchange messages.

CITY WILL LET PAVING WORK

The first letting of paving contracts by the city for this year will be held March 28 in the office of the service department, according to an announcement by Service Director Duffy.

The letting will be for the paving and widening of Front street from Town street south to Livingston avenue; Kossuth street, from Lockbourne road to the east trominus; Twenty-third avenue and Gorman avenue, from Randolph to Chestnut street.

The work will cost approximately $100,000. Property owners will pay approximately $65,000. The reason for the large city share is explained by the fact that the streets to be improved have been paved and under such conditions the citys' portion is greater than when paving a new street. Contractors participating in the letting will be compelled to post a bond of [illegible]

RADIO CLASS AT Y. M. C. A.

Meets Tuesdays and Thursdays, Continuing for Seventeen Weeks.

To accommodate the request for another radio class to be conducted by the Y. M. C. A. schools, officials of that institution opened a new class Tuesday, March 2. This makes the fifth class in radio since last March, each class averaging 20 students, twice as many as have enrolled for any other unit course in the "Y" school.

Various reasons are given for desiring to take this popular course. Many students being engaged in one or more phases of radio work and wish to obtain a more complete knowledge, while others expect to enter the radio field as service men, salesmen and other departments.

B. G. Moore, promotion director for the "Y" schools, says the Columbus "Y" school is the only school in Ohio offering a practical radio service course, although there are several other schools giving radio telegraphy courses. This new class will continue for 17 weeks. Virgil P. Owens of the Erner & Hopkins Co. is instructor of the class.

Lofty radio towers have recently been erected by the British postoffice at Hillmorton for the purpose of flashing messages direct to Australia and India. A small electric elevator crawls 820 feet up the center of the main mast. It requires 12 minutes for it to ascend from the ground to the summit. These aerial masts are so far above the earth that the tops are often veiled by clouds. Standing on top of the mast, the observer sometimes sees only a floor of clouds pierced by the slender steel structure. The towers are not based directly on the earth, but rest on a ball, so that the girders of the towers sway gently to and fro in the wind. Great physical hardship was endured by the men who built these towers. The work was made extremely hazardous and difficult by rains and cold winds. The cost of one of these towers is $75,000, and altogether $300,000 has been spent on the equipment of this radio station.

Hoping to obtain serum for use against the bites of North American snakes, Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of reptiles of the New York Zoological Park, carried to Brazil a quart of venom, representing the production of 2000 snakes for several months, to be used in the manufacture of serum to combat snake poison. This process is much more developed in South America than in the United States. The venom is first injected in horses, for they produce protective serums. To be most effective the serum should be made from the venom of the same kind of snake against whose bite it is to be used. If the victim is given the serum within an hour after having been bitten by a snake, recovery within 24 hours is practically assured. More than 100 people die anually in the United States from snake bites. The supply of serum has always been insufficient.

TAX CUT ON CIGARS EFFECTIVE MAR. 29

Refund Claims of Less than $10 Will Not Be Considered by Revenue Department.

Instructions relative to the new rate of taxes on cigars, effective March 29 have been mailed to cigar manufacturers in the Columbus district by Newton M. Miller, collector of internal revenue for this district.

Tax rates on cigars have been reduced, under this new revenue law of 1926, passed last week, Miller states and provision is made for a rebate of the difference between the old tax and the new on all cigars held in stock March 29. The cigars must be in unbroken statutory stamped packages and the claim for refund must total more than $10, or it will not be heeded. Inventory must be taken on March 29.

The rates, per 1000, for the cigars will be as follows: For cigars manufactured to retail at not more than 5 cents, $2 instead of $4; more than five cents and not more than eight cents, $3 instead of $6; more than eight cents, not more than 15 cents, $5 instead of $9; more than 15 cents, not more than 20 cents, $10.50 instead of $12; more than 20 cents, $13.50 instead of $15.

With his rifle as his only aid, Major "Lockie" Burwash, of Toronto, a government explorer, has started alone on a two years' trip across northern Canada. He plans to go from the delta of the Mackenzie river along the shore of the Arctic ocean and finally to Chesterfield Inlet of Hudson Bay. He carries no supplies of any kind, but will rely on his ability as a hunter for both food and clothing. The object of his journey is to examine the conditions of the natives inhabiting northern Canada and to study varieties of wild life found there. He will also observe soil and mineral conditions. Major Burwash explored Baffin Bay Island in 1922. He is the only white man who has ever crossed the island.

A finished print ready for mounting only seven minutes after the exposure, is the record recently made by photographers in the army air service. An ordinary airplane camera and other equipment were used with a special paper that has been devised for quick results in aerial work. The entire job was done while the fliers were aloft, and the finished print was dropped on the front lawn of one who had been an interested spectator of the performance.

EXAMINATION TO BE ABANDONED

Teacher Training Institutions Need Not Conduct Tests for Graduates.

Steps inaugurating a "check-up" system for graduates of Ohio teacher training schools, and toward removing the necessity of such graduates passing an examination as a prerequisite to the granting of a provisional certificate were taken last week by the Ohio department of education.

In a letter to the presidents and deans of teacher-training institutions of the state Director Riegal said that all institutions that co-operate with the state department of education in establishing and maintaining standards of admission; that, after a student is admitted, make diagnostic tests to ascertain special weaknesses; and that have their graduates inspected frequently during their first year of teaching; will be relieved from conducting final examinations for graduates who are applicants for a state provisional elementary certificate.

The alternative was established because of objection that had been voiced by teacher-training schools throughout the state to the provisions of the General Code of Ohio, which make such an examination a necessity.

A revival was raging in a Virginia colored church. The fruits had been considerable. One obdurate soul, however, resisted the efforts of the elder. Called to account for his reluctance, he replied:

"Yo' see how it is, Elder. I'se got a problem. I don't see how I'se gwine git mah shirt on over mah wings when I gits to Glory."

"Dat ain't yo' problem," retorted the exhorter promptly. "Yo' problem is how is yo' gwine git you hat on ovah yo' horns."—Everybody's Magazine.

ALL INQUIRERS WELCOME

TOURING IN FLORIDA

We left Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 19, 1926, over the N. & W. Ry., through West Virginia and old Virginia to Petersburg, then over A. C. L. to Jacksonville, Fla., arriving at 11 p. m. Jan. 21, where we are making our headquarters.

It is a wonderful revelation to leave Ohio in zero weather and wake up in mid-summer with birds singing, flowers blooming, trees loaded with grapefruit, oranges and all species of citrus fruits. As we drive miles and miles through the groves and see this golden fruit is is a sight never to be forgotten. We toured in auto over the beautiful city of Lakeland and the highlands of this marvelous county of Polk which has an area of 3064 square miles and a population of 75,000; the richest county per capita wealth in America, $8198.

Polk county mines more than 45 per cent of the entire world's output of phosphate. In visiting these mines it is a great curiosity to observe the way in which this phosphate rock and bone formation is taken from the earth. They use the large size steam shovels in removing the surface of from 15 to 30 feet of sand and muck. Then the vein of phosphate rock is lifted by hydraulic pressure, using heavy machinery in producing the strong pressure. This crushed rock and bone is washed, graded with all heavy machinery and loaded on cars and shipped to many points where it is used as the principal agency of phosphoric acid in the manufacture of the various grades of fertilizer used on land.

It is claimed this bed of bone and rock was produced by the bones and shells of fish and animals deposited when the sea covered this land. They find this vein or bed to be from 20 to 30 feet in thickness and very rich in phosphates.

After visiting much of this country and the various towns and lakes, of which we have many, and 15 beautiful lakes in the corporate limits of Lakeland alone, we then made a trip over the beautiful asphalt road to Plant City, the great strawberry section, then to the busy city of Tampa, which is a great city, thes over the famous Gandy bridge which spans the Tampa Bay to St. Petersburg. This bridge is between 6 and 7 miles long. St. Petersburg, the "Sunshine City," is a marvel of beauty with its wide streets and fine buildings and beautiful beaches of white sand and shells.

We made another journey through Ilarlo, the "City of Oaks," festooned with the Spanish gray moss. This is the county seat of Polk county and a beautiful, thriving city. We continued a trip south to Lake Sterns, a distance of 86 miles, passing down the ridge section of Florida, through the towns of Avon Park, Edgewater and the beautiful town of Sebring founded but 10 years ago by Mr. Sebring, who founded Sebring, Ohio. The beautiful Lake Jackson lies here.

De Soto is another nice new town. Lake Sterns is beautifully located with nine beautiful lakes near and in this place. This town is at the extreme south end of the ridge section and in the center of the state between the east coast of the Atlantic and the west coast of the Gulf of Mexico and at the edge of the famous Everglades.

In this short time we have found this to be a wonderful state and there are thousands of acres yet in the wild, undeveloped state.

As we see it, the climate here will eventually make this the garden spot and playground of America.

POOR DIET CAUSES "HANG-ON" COLDS

Many Colds Also Due to Overheating of Homes and Offices.

Most colds in the head, especially those that "hang on," are due to imprudence of diet which throws digestive organs out of order, Dr. John Edwin Brown told members of the Columbus Tuberculosis society last week, in a talk at the tuberculosis dispensary.

Efficacy of vaccination to prevent colds has not yet been established. Dr. Brown asserted, saying there has been no success in the attempts to isolate the cold germ. He predicted, however, that some time in the future some one may be able to develop a successful vaccine against colds.

Dr. Brown said that overheated homes and offices in modern civilization are undoubtedly responsible for many colds. Modern styles in women's dress were not blamed by Dr. Brown. He advised, however, that the trunk of the body and bottoms of the feet be kept warm and dry.

"There is a connection between the bottoms of the feet and colds in the head," the speaker said and as a preventive against colds he advised heavier-soled shoes.

HEALTH HINTS

By DR. O. S. McFADON

Many years ago I enjoyed acquaintance with Rebecca Foresman. She was a writer of superior poetry for children. Her poems were especially good for children's songs.

I had lost all traces of Miss Foresman, but recently, in a magazine, I came across the following bit which was accredited to her. It seemed to me like a real meeting with an old friend.

HOW TO FORGET

If you were busy being kind,
Before you know it you would find
You'd soon forget to think 'twas true
That some one was unkind to you.

If you were busy being glad,
And cheering people who were sad,
Altho your heart might ache a bit,
You'd soon forget to notice it.

If you were busy being true
To what you know you ought to do;
You'd be so busy you'd forget
The blunders of the folks you met.

If you were busy doing right,
You'd find yourself too busy quite,
To criticise your neighbor long,
Because he's busy doing wrong.

This circumstance reminded me forcefully of Longfellow's "The Arrow and the Song," in which the song he breathed, though forgotten, was found later, "in the heart of a friend." I hope the reader will see a sermon in each stanza as I do and that it may benefit his moral and physical health as it is benefitting mine.

SALAD RECIPES

BEAN SALAD

Drain the liquir from one can of string beans and put them through food chopper with three hard-boiled eggs, one-fourth pound of cheese, about six sweet pickles, and one small can of pimento peppers. Add one small stalk of celery which has been cut into small pieces, or one teaspoonful of celery seed. Mix well with a boiled salad dressing and serve on lettuce leaves.

CABBAGE SALAD

Soak in cold water until crisp a medium sized head of cabbage. Cut in thin slices and add one large, tart apple and three or four stalks of celery which have been finely chopped. Season with salt and pepper and serve with a dressing made of two tablespoonfuls of thick cream and one tablespoonful of prepared mustard.

PEA SALAD

To one can of small peas from which the liquid has been drained, add one large onion, one sour pickle, two hard-boiled eggs and two or three fresh tomatoes (or one small can of tomatoes, well drained), which have all been finely chopped. Serve with the following dressing:

Dressing—Bring to boil one-half cupful of vinegar, one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of water, one-eighth teaspoonful of butter. Remove from stove and add slowly one well-beaten egg. Return to stove and cook until thick. Cool and mix well with salad.

FRUIT SALAD

Peel and cut into small pieces four apples and four oranges. Add one small can of crushed pineapple, one cupful of seedless or seeded raisins, one cupful of pecan meats and one rounded tablespoonful of sugar. Drain off the juice from this mixture and add to it sufficient water to make one pint of liquid. Bring the liquid to a boil and add one small package of gelatine which has been dissolved in a small quantity of water. Strain the liquid over the fruit mixture, chill and serve with whipped cream.

DE LUXE SALAD

Dissolve one box of gelatine in one quart of boiling water. Cool and add the juice of two lemons, two cupfuls of granulated sugar, one small can of pineapple and six sweet pickles, finely chopped. Mold in a shallow pan and cut into squares. Place each square on a lettuce leaf, cover with mayonnaise dressing, sprinkle with small quantity of grated cheese and add a dash of paprika. This recipe is sufficient for 12 portions.

CAMPS MUST HAVE HEALTH PERMITS

District Officers Notified to Inspect All Such Places by State Board.

District health officers have been notified by the state board of health to demand that all outdoor camps are in proper sanitary condition before they are permitted to open. Under a law which goes into effect this year for the first time, all types of summer camps must have an official permit from the local health authorities.

During the summer of 1925 a majority of country districts were visited by representatives of the state health department and the plan of camp supervision outlined. Due to the fact that the camps were in full swing, numerous defects were temporarily permitted in order to prevent the closing of the camps, disrupting the summer plans of its patrons.

This year, however, it is expected that no camp will be permitted to operate until it has received the permit showing that it has complied with every state and local regulation. The water supply must be approved and no exceptions will be made on this special feature of summer camps.

Ohio School Buses Double in One Year

Twenty-four hundred motor buses, serving 1025 schools, are hauling children over routes embracing 9580 miles every school day, according to report of a survey which was given out this week. It is stated that in the whole country nearly 27,000 buses are engaged in this form of service. Altogether 70,000 motor buses were in operation on January 1, last, compared with 53,000 a year ago. The increase in school buses in operation is placed at 100 per cent.

In the common carrier service in Ohio, there are 455 bus companies, with 1469 vehicles covering routes of 11,372 miles. In the intrastate common carrier service there are 434 companies with 1160 buses and 10,440 miles of route. Sixteen electric railway companies operate 409 motor buses over routes embracing 775 miles. Four companies are engaged in interstate service, with 18 vehicles and 149 miles of route. One steam railroad is operating two vehicles over a stretch of eight miles.

Motor buses are now operating in every county in Ohio and it, at an early date, it is announced by the Ohio to travel from the Indiana to the Penn-Motor Bus association, will be possible sylvania line, and from the lake to the Ohio river with the purchase of only one ticket. Schedules also are to be rearranged, it is said, by which waits at the various termini will be reduced to a minimum. Ohio, reports reveal, is one of the leading states in the union in motor bus transportation.

An Oregon man who found a redwood log partly buried in the sand declares that his discovery is "as good as a gold mine." From the log $3000 worth of lumber and thirty circular dining table tops, each valued at $75, has been obtained. It required two days' work with team and scraper to unearth the log, which was eight feet in diameter and 50 feet long. It was, according to its rings, 527 years old, and had lain in the same place many years, because no one had thought it worth the trouble to move it.

BUILDING PERMITS SHOW BIG SLUMP

February Record Is only Half That Established Last Year.

Building activities in Columbus in February showed a marked falling off compared to the same month a year ago, according to figures Monday by Secretary German of the city building department.

Only 385 permits with a total valuation of $1,193,800 were issued against 505 permits valued at $2,634,300 issued in February, 1925.

Permits for dwellings dropped from 212 to 170 and garages from 167 to 138.

Most of the falling off was due to bad weather conditions, German said.

TINY RHODE ISLAND

There is a charm about the smallest things. The smallest elephant in the circus draws a bigger crowd than the largest elephant. Humming birds are much more sought after than larger birds. Almost all boys and girls would like to own a Shetland pony. So is it strange that we are attracted to Rhode Island, the smallest state in the Union?

Rhode Island may be small, but it is the most thickly populated of the states. Clifton Johnson in "What to See in America" says that there are 500 people to the square mile in that state, while Nevada has less than one person per square mile.

The first successful cotton mill in this country was established at Pawtucket late in the eighteenth century, and today Pawtucket and the vicinity have some of the largest cotton mills in the world. In fact Rhode Island has an immense commercial importance and Providence, the capital, is second in size among the New England cities only to Boston. The good harbors of its coast line and the abundant water power which it affords makes it also a good center for trade. Rhode Island can manufacture articles, export them, and bring back to its own shores foreign goods in exchange.

The first settlement in Rhode Island was made in 1636 by Roger Williams. Mr. Williams was a famous preacher of what was considered at that time a very radical doctrine. He was banished from the colony at Salem, Massachusetts. It was in the dead of winter, and the ground was covered with snow. The Englishman went alone through the darkness to his Indian friend, Massasoit, under whose protection he stayed until spring. Then he went with five friends and started a settlement which was called Providence.

Newport, the second most famous city in Rhode Island, was first famous as a slave port. From it many ships went to Africa carrying goods to be traded for gold dust, ivory and African slaves. At the beginning of the Revolutionary war Newport was more important commercially than New York. But after the British had occupied the city for three years, its importance was lessened and its trade was weakened. But the city has a very beautiful and invigorating climate and beautiful scenery, so that after it again became prosperous, this time as a playground.—Queen's Garden.

Teacher: Now, Gertie, you may tell the class what it is that elephants have that no other animal has.

Gracie: Little elephants.

We argue most on subjects that we don't know much about.

Don't think you are the only fellow who has troubles. Read: this:
When Noah sailed the well-known blue,
He had his troubles, same as you;
For days and days he drove the ark
Before he found a place to park.

JUNIOR - SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL FOR HILLTOP ASSURED

Board of Education Authorizes Issuance of Bonds—Begin Work on Plans at Once.

Monday evening of this week the board of education authorized the issuance of bonds to build a new junior-senior high school on the Hilltop. Howard Dwight Smith, school architect, will begin work at once on the new plans. The building will be constructed for a capacity of 1500 pupils and will be located on the Powell site now owned by the board of education. This site is just south of Broad street and just west of Hague avenue and contains 10 acres.

The new school will be used for all junior and senior high school pupils living on the Hilltop. Conservative estimates show that by the time this school can be made available the number of elementary children in this rapidly growing section will be sufficient to fill the Highland, Burroughs and West Broad buildings. The conversion of the Highland building at that time into a school for elementary pupils only will make it possible to so change existing boundary lines as to reduce the distances to be traveled by many elementary pupils.

Some opposition has been apparent for quite a while to giving full consideration to the necessity for a new school for the Hilltop section as recommended by Superintendent Collicott more than a year ago. In the final vote Monday evening, however, all members of the board spoke and voted for the measure with the exception of member Mrs. George Arps, who has from the first discussion of the question opposed the plans for a Hilltop high school.

Hilltop citizens should give much of the credit for the securing of this school to member Cecil J. Randall of the board of education and to Principal H. H. Reighley of the Highland Junior High school. These men have consistently kept before the board of education the figures for the rapidly increasing enrollment in existing schools west of the state institutions and the necessity of immediately planning for future school needs.

Consistent with taking sufficient time for perfecting architectural and educational plans to the end that the new school may be the most complete building in the country and best adapted to the educational needs of this community, all Hilltop people hope contracts can be let as soon as possible. Judging from the experience in building the other high schools in the city the Hilltop building ought to be ready for occupancy by Sept. 1, 1928.

A. Fuestel, 559 S. Wheatland Ave., and 17 other residents of the street have requested council to have two street lights installed on the street. Residents claim it is dangerous since a sewer was recently installed. The request has been referred to Service Director Duffy.

The "spirit of the age" was blamed for increase in crime by Judge Warner Monday night in a speech before Westgate Lodge of Masons. Manslaughter, increasing 162 per cent from 1924 to 1925, showed the biggest jump, he said. One way to check crime, he said, is for people to regain the attitude that honest work brings its own reward.

The Young Married People's Bible class of Hoge Memorial church will have a pot luck dinner Thursday evening, after which the regular monthly business and social meeting will be held.

Rev. and Mrs. R. E. McFarlane of Hillcrest Baptist church, returned last Saturday from Birmingham, Mich., where Rev. McFarlane conducted a very successful evangelistic campaign for two weeks. While in the north they visited Mrs. McFarlane's mother at Clifford, Mich. They made the trip by auto.

Mrs. Attie Metzler of the Story Tellers' League and Mrs. L. A. Warner of the Hilltop Circle of Child Conservation League will be in charge of the story hour at Holmes Hilltop library, Saturday, March 13.

BUSINESS MEN'S ASS'N MEETS

Petitions Asking for Better Postal Facilities Being Circulated.

The Hilltop Business Men's Association met in regular monthly session last Thursday night and discussed many questions of interest to business men on the Hilltop.

In accordance with instructions received at the previous meeting, Fred Sulzberger reported on the progress of the postoffice committee, and under Mr. Sulzberger's guidance a number of petitions setting forth the needs of the Hilltop for better postal facilities, have been prepared and were distributed to members to secure signatures thereto. The signed petitions, together with a letter requesting better postal facilities will be mailed to Congressman Speaks. It is desired to have as many Hilltop residents as possible sign one of these petitions, and they may be found at different stores on the Hilltop.

The advertising committee was instructed to institute a number hunt in the near future, and this will probably be an event of the early part of April.

TRUSTEES OF H. T. LIBRARY

Confer with Heads of Different Hilltop Organizations at Dinner.

That the Holmes Hilltop Library has 9000 volumes and 34,000 books were issued last year was a phase of the Hilltop library brought out at a dinner meeting Monday night at Hoge Memorial church when pastors of the different churches, representatives of Hilltop schools and heads of P.-T. A. and civic and business organizations were guests of the trustees of the library.

The purpose of the meeting was a conference with the heads of these representative Hilltop organizations relative to the operation of the library and means of financing the same.

Many helpful points were brought out in the informal discussion. That the library is in constant use and that there is a great demand for it, was noted in the report of Mrs. Currier, librarian, that the average daily number of books issued in January was 158, and in February the number was 153. There are 3700 cards in circulation.

Mrs. Currier also reported that more and more adult citizens are patronizing the library and it is a great source of information for the school children for reference work.

STUDENTS AND BUSINESS MEN WILL CONFER

Boys Will Fill Out Questionnaires—Nearly 450 Seniors Will Be Interviewed.

Co-operation of the schools and Y. M. C. A. has been asked by the senior high school boys of Columbus, in solving the biggest problem they will have to face—"What am I going to do?"

J. Adam Puffer of Boston has been secured by the Hi-Y clubs of Columbus and is making talks to each of the senior high schools of the city, Grandview and Upper Arlington this week on the subject "The Right Attitude Toward Hard Work."

After Puffer's talks in the schools have been completed the senior boys are to be given an opportunity to fill out an analysis blank with which a business man may ably decide his needs. The business men to do this interviewing are being secured through the noon luncheon clubs and the men's Bible classes of the various churches.

Nearly 450 seniors will be interviewed, which will require a large number of men as it will be a personal interview process. The interviewers will go to the schools between March 15 and 18, as in past experience a large percentage of boys become lost when asked to go to the office of some man. The schools have asked the business men to come to the schools, take the boy from the study room, both having been informed of the time of the interview so as to prepare for it, the boy having made arrangements to get his school work at another time, and the business man have studied the questionnaire that is mailed to him a day or two before the interview.

The generals in the campaign in each of the high schools are: John Linn, North High; Yorke Wolfe, Central High; Arrville Cooperrider, East High; Hollo Barber, West High, and Fred Hoffman, South High.

BOY SCOUT SHOW FRIDAY EVENING

Program Contains Many Events and Novel Contests for Scouts.

The fifth annual Boy Scout show, which will be held in the coliseum at the state fair grounds Friday night, March 12, will be the most elaborate exhibition of its kind ever presented in the city. The show, although not originated in Columbus, was presented here for the first time five years ago, and made a decided hit with the admirers of the scouts and their work.

The show is not an exhibition of scout work alone, but novel contests not seen outside a scout show are included in the entertainment, filled with beautiful camp scenes and contests between boys as individuals and as troops.

The formal opening of the show has always left a great impression with the audience, when all the troops march in the arena and repeat the scout oath and pledge of allegiance to the flag.

Following the opening comes the signalling event, both semaphore and wig-wag. Then comes the barrel tilting contest, followed by fire-by-friction (the old Indian method), and the scaling of a 10-foot wall by troops of eight boys each. Then comes the chariot race.

The next to the closing event of the show is an exhibition of scout pioneering and camp pitching. A Dan Beard bridge, Indian teepe camp, human signal tower and North woods lean-to are features of the demonstration.

The last event of the show is the presentation of the cup to the winning troop and the awarding of the prizes and ribbons to the other troops.

INSPECTION OF ALL WEST SIDE SCOUT TROOPS

John W. Birle Is Made Eagle Scout—Results of Inspection.

The highest honors that can be bestowed upon a Boy Scout was conferred upon John Birle, 80 S. Ogden Ave., a member of Troop 21, Monday night at West Park Avenue M. E. church at the annual inspection of West Side and suburban troops, when he was made an Eagle Scout. This honor can come only to a scout after he has passed all the tests prescribed by the scout manual, and is an honor of which any Boy Scout may be justly proud.

Troop No. 11 of West Park church won first place in inspection, Troop 21, Hoge Memorial, second, and Troop 45, Highland Avenue school, won third place. Other troops competing were Troop 9, St. Aloysius church; Troop 18, Glenwood M. E.; Troop 32, Hilltop Lutheran church, the West Jefferson, Rome, Plain City and Grove City troops.

As a result of the inspection Toop 21 will compete in the signaling contest at the Scout show Friday night. Troop 9 will set up a North Woods camp and Troop 21 will demonstrate their camping outfit, using their motor truck and treke cart in setting up a model Boy Scout camp.

AMERICAN FOREST WEEK APRIL 18-24

President Coolidge Issues Proclamation Designating Week.

American Forest Week has been designated as including the week of April 18-24, by proclamation of President Coolidge.

Local forest week committees to plan observance of the period are being formed in every state under the direction of nearly 100 interested organizations under the leadership of Franc O. Lowden of Illinois.

The Canadian government has set aside the same weeks for the same purpose, and this, President Coolidge declares, "is an added reason why our citizens should give careful thought to a matter so important in both countries.

"The wise use of land," he continues, "is one of the main foundations of sound rational economy. It is the corner stone of national thrift. The waste or misuse of natural resources cuts away the ground work on which national prosperity is built."

FILES TEST SUIT AGAINST CITY

Benoy Seeks to Enjoin City From Using Gas Tax Funds.

A suit has been filed against the city of Columbus and Walter Otto, city auditor, to restrain them from spending money derived from gasoline and auto taxes for equipment for the city asphalt department.

The action was filed last Friday by W. E. Benoy, assistant to the attorney general, and is in the nature of a test case to determine whether such funds can be used for such purposes.

Columbus Architects Will Stage Exhibit

The Columbus chapter of the American Institute of Architects will hold its annual architectural exhibit at the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, March 22 to April 5.

It is expected the exhibition will include drawings, models and examples of architectural detail.

Previous exhibitions by the chapter have been held during the summer months, and it is expected the change in date will tend to arouse greater interest in the display.

THE CHOSEN FLOWERS

In a country garden once where many flowers grew,
Early in the morning while each blossom drank the dew
Some one raised the question as to which one was the best.
Hollyhocks were certain they were better than the rest.
Then Roses claimed that honor; and then the Poppies bright.
Other flowers praised themselves (which really wasn't right).
Only two were silent, feeling humble and forlorn.
Roses, Poppies, Hollyhocks, all laughed at these with scorn.
Mignonette and Pansies never made a single claim
To being first and foremost in Nature's Hall of Fame.
The rest all quarreled hotly; cross words were flying fast
When the garden's owner and a friend came walking past.
"Pick a bunch of flowers," said the owner to her guest,
"Look around and choose whichever flowers you think are best."
Up and down the paths they walked, at every blossom gazed.
All were beautiful, but two the lady picked and praised.
"The Hollyhocks are scentless; the Poppies wilt too soon;
Roses have too many thorns; (though much admired in June),
But Mignonette's sweet fragrance and Pansy's many hughes
Please me most. Of all the host these two alone I choose."

TRY SPROUTED OATS

There is nothing that does more to promote egg production and the general health of the fowls during the winter months than sprouted oats. This is such a cheap feed and oats are so easily sprouted that it is surprising that there should still be some breeders who do not regularly feed sprouted oats to their birds. A good sprouter should be considered a necessity on every poultry plant. They can be had in many forms and in any size to suit the largest as well as the smallest poultry raiser.

MANY PASS STATE EXAMINATIONS

Every One of Class of 349 Laborers in Charge Pass Test.

The results of the examination held in January for positions in the highway department by the state civil service commission were certified last Saturday, and show that while the number who received passing grades was much larger than usual, the percentage of failures also increased.

A class of 112 took the examination for superintendent, 73 passing and 39 failing; 163 took the examination for highway inspector, 103 passing and 60 failing. All members of the class of 349 who took the examination for laborer in charge passed the examination.

In district No. 6, of which Franklin county is a part, John F. Cleary, 528 West Town St., stood highest for highway inspector. For superintendents the three highest in their order, in district No. 6, were John F. Cleary, 528 W. Town St., Frank E. Westfall, 214 Dakota Ave., and Vance J. Hopkins, Delaware.

Certification of the entire eligible list will be made to the state highway department at once.

Announcement for Representative

John Berry, lawyer, residing at 216 S. Park Ave., and with offices in the Ruggery Building, Columbus, on the theory that the early bird catches the worm, throws his hat in the ring again for representative in the Ohio legislature subject to the rules of the Republican primaries for the nomination. The platform on which he ran the last time was lowering the cost in the municipal court. The measure which he advocated was a success and resulted in the legislature cutting the cost of the municipal court about one-third.

Mr. Berry feels there are other things that should be remedied in that court, also relief in the common pleas court from its congested condition. The municipal court is called the poor man's court, but it is not. The costs in it are now higher than in the common pleas court.

He also believes the jurisdiction of the municipal court should be uniform—the same all over the state—about $2500. Then small damage suits could be brought in that court, which would lessen the congested condition of the common pleas court. He believes Columbus should have a court of domestic relations, where all family troubles that come into court could be ironed out.

Mr. Berry is a member of the state bar association and is the son of an old soldier of the Civil war.. He is now an officer in the Sons of Veterans and an honorary member of the G. A. R. and a K. of P., and all his life has been a firm believer in labor organizations to protect the welfare of the laboring man. He has lived in Columbus about 25 years.

Doubt is the track that punctures success.

REFORESTATION FUTURE PROBLEM

Forests Cut off of 30,000,000 Acres of Land—40,000 Acres Replaced Each Year.

According to Dean M. E. Cooley, in an address before the American Engineering Council at Washington, recently, there are over 30,000,000 acres of land in this country from which the forests have been cut, and reforesting is going on at the rate of 40,000 acres a year. At this rate is will take 2000 years to reforest the lands that have been cut over.

Dean Cooley remarked further: "There are a few aspects of this which will appeal very forcibly. It is estimated the life of our coal beds, the most extensive in the world, is 2000 years, based doubtless on consumption But since 1900 the consumption of coal has increased constantly, and if 2000 years is the life of our coal beds it will be much less than that, due to our increase in population.

"In our lives the price of coal has gone up three or four times. Long before the coal supply is exhausted, the price will have gone to a point that will make it practically impossible to utilize it for heating our homes, and when the coal price has gone to a price we cannot afford to pay, then we shall be more dependent upon our water supplies, and yet these water supplies are being destroyed, because the forests, the tree growths on the water sheds have been destroyed, the earth and matter that can flow with our floods is carried into the streams.

"So then, forestry is an important phase looking into the future of this country, in the protection of our streams and our source of power upon which we shall become more and more dependent as the years go on."

HEALTH HINTS

By DR. O. R. McFADON

OUR RESPONSIBILITY TO POSTERITY

I have said much in these columns about the responsibility of parents. In that same vein—here's a family worth while: I am told of a man, now 85, who with his wife 78, are enjoying, and always have had, good health. They have eight sons, one of whom is now a member of congress. There are 54 grandchildren, and in that family of three generations, there has never been a death.

Without further knowledge of these people, let the reader go with me in imagination:

As a basic fact those two people enjoyed good health; their purposes, aims and faith were harmonious; their children were led into lives of usefulness and were educated according to their time and means; they were all reliable, middle-class people; those boys mated with wives of the same sort; and most likely those 54 grandchildren will "honor their fathers and mothers" and the justly proud grandfather and grandmother, whose well earned heaven has already commenced here on earth. What compound joy they must have, not only because of their 62 healthy descendants, but in the probability of the made-good-ness and worth-while-ness of unlimited posterity.

If those two good people—or either of them—had been weak in character; of questionable integrity; or had low ideals or bad health: they would, most likely not be living now, and they would not have a son in congress. And what about the 54 grandchildren? Following out the analogy: not so many strong healthy children would have been born, some would have been unhealthy and there would have been frequent deaths.

And how common and easy it is for many to say it was "God's will." That is the sort of doctrine that follows the line of least resistance. It is more soothing than "Thou shalt not kill."

Right now we are thinking of our ancestry and immediate families. The ancestry is past helping, but how about posterity? If the reader has a handicap, let him remember that if he does the best he can, his descendants will, most likely, honor him and his heaven will begin on earth. And, knowing, as we do that it is hell—not only to ourselves, but to posterity—to go the other way, why not——. But, being human, most of us deliberately miss the mark.

Thatcher Refuses to Enter Assessments

City officials were told last Friday by County Auditor Thatcher that he would not enter for June collection more than 3000 assessments on 104 improvements certified to him by the city.

Thatcher declares the city doesn't know the interest rate on bonds, which may not be issued until next year, that the assessments shouldn't become payable until December because of the fact that the city is charging interest to the end of the year as a part of the total cost.

It is better to aim at a star and hit a candle than not to aim at all.

On April 1, will begin the demolition of Keith's theater, Columbus, on which site will be erected the new office building of The Buckeye State Building and Loan Co.

The edifice will be 11 stories above the main business room, 40 feet in height, and will occupy the corner, 94 feet on Gay street and 187½ feet on Pearl.

The site of the Buckeye's new building is in the heart of the financial district and practically in the center of Columbus. The location on Gay street is practically the same distance east of High street as the present location is west of this main artery.

The exterior of the building will be of polished granite base, granolithic to top of truss floor and brick with granolithic trim for the 10-story office portion. A fine classic colonade across the front will be one of the striking architectural features. Each column will be five feet in diameter and 35 feet 8 inches high.

The Buckeye will use the entire basement, main floor, mezzanine and second story for its use.

The Buckeye has provided a unique convenience for its tenants—a subbasement under the entire building for automobile parking space. Entrance will be by a ramp from Lynn street. Each tenant may come into the building in his automobile and proceed directly to the elevator, thence to his office.

HOW THEY ANSWERED

Every week day the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin prints the answers that five people picked at random give to a question that is asked them. The question, "What type of boy do you like best for a companion?" suggested by a fourteen-year-old boy was answered by five boys whose ages ranged from 10 to 15 years.

One note is common to all the answers. Each of the five likes an unselfish, thoughtful boy the best. Take a brief portion from the five answers:

1. "I like a fellow who doesn't think he's any better than any of the other kids."

2. "To get it right, I mean a kid who whacks up with another fellow when the other kid don't have anything."

3. "You know the kind I mean; he's not all for himself."

4. "A fellow who doesn't want to have things his own way all the time."

5. "I guess the only way I can say it is—most of the fellows like him because he doesn't 'like himself'."

STRANGE CONTRASTS

"I have been privileged this spring to visit two cities, Yangchow and Nanhachow, both much less foreignised than Nanking," writes a teacher of the Ming Deh Girls' School, Nanking, Kiangsu, China, to the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions. "But even in such places, one meets the strange contrasts which follow in the event of closer contact bewteen the Chinese and the outside world.

"A tinkling telephone irritating an old Buddhist image in an ancient temple; a procession of shiny, black buses passing innumerable passenger wheelborrows on the road to Yangchow; a western-style, soft felt hot on top of a long queue, are a few of such contrasts. You may be interested to know that bicycles, tooth brushes and wrist watches are three of the most popular commodities in China today."

D. O. SITES ELECTRIC
"See Sites for Lights"
2389 WEST BROAD ST.

Dear Madame:

Lighting fixtures, like everything else, become old-fashioned, both in design and in service. Are yours old-fashioned?

Aside from the beauty of design in a fixture, and its adaptability to surroundings, there is another feature to consider: Does it provide adequate light—without gloom or glare—so that there is no strain on the eyes, and consequently, on the dispositions of your family? In too many cases, irritability and apparent uneveness of temper can be traced to eyestrain. Just make an experiment yourself. Try serving the evening meal by a dingy light or by an improperly shaded light and watch your family's reactions to the discomforts of poor lighting. Then equip your dining room with a modern, scientific lighting fixture that is suspended over the table at just the right height and that causes neither gloom nor glare but provides a soothing, soft illumination!

Let us consult with you on the lighting of your home. There is no obligation for you to buy. We feel that your good-will is more than worth any efforts on our part. Why not let our man call on you when he is in your neighborhood and go over your lighting situation with you. He will be glad to suggest fixtures to suit your needs and to tell you how you can obtain decorative and scientifically-designed fixtures for a very reasonable price. Our telephone number is Ra. 0550. Or stop in next time you pass our store.

Cordially yours,

Value of Retail Dollar

The retail dollar at the beginning of 1926 had shrunk to the smallest purchasing power of any time since Feb. 1921. The value of the dollar at store and market was 58.3 cents compared with 100 cents in July, 1904. Living costs, as measured by the national industrial conference board, have been advancing rather sharply in recent months. During 1925 they increased 3 per cent.

Exceptional Picture at the Dreamland

Starting Saturday and running all next week, Ted Pekras has secured for the Dreamland a fine picture, "The Johnstown Flood" a fine, vivorous melodrama, based on the disaster of 1889, which horrified the entire world through the bursting of the Johnstown dam which flooded the whole valley in Pennsylvania, causing tremendous loss of life and destruction of property.

George O'Brien has the leading role and makes an excellent hero. The Johnstown Flood is a great picture and offers fine entertainment for both young and old.

There will also be a good comedy with Ralph Graves.

The El Dorado club of the Y. W. C. A. was delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Nellie Plyle, 859 Whittier St., Monday evening, with Mrs. Loretta Israel as assisting hostess. The club held their annual election of officers at this time. After the business meeting a miscellaneous shower was in order for Dorothy Coleterman, a bride elect. After wishing her the happiest wedded life the evening was spent in playing games and telling stories of St. Patrick. Soon the word "eats" was passed along. "Lo" a St. Patrick lunch was in store for those who kissed the Blarney stone. Not a one refused. The new officers for the ensuing year are as follows: President, Mrs. Nellie Plyle; vice president, Miss Ruth Burdette; secretary, Miss Sylvia Linch; associate secretary, Miss Merdie Grimm; treasurer, Miss Edith Harper. Council members, Mrs. Evelyn Swain, Mrs. Loretta Trapp, Mrs. Cora Sheron. Other guests were Mrs. Ethel Juell, Mrs. Juanitte Peffler, Mrs. Dele Deer, Mrs. Deloris Shaffer, Mrs. Harriet Miller, Miss Irene Engelkelp and Miss Dorothy Colterman and the hostess. The next meeting of the club will be with Mrs. Dele Deer of Southwood Ave.

The Eleventh Ward Republican club held its regular monthly meeting Feb. 26 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Bidwell. The meeting was largely attended, taxing the capacity of the house. Owing to the rapidly growing attendance and interest, it was decided to secure a suitable place for subsequent meeting of the club. Such a place has been secured in one of the rooms of Hillcrest Baptist church, where the next meeting will be held on the evening of March 26 at 8 o'clock. At this meeting a West Side quartet will sing and Judge Miller, presiding judge of the municipal court, will bring the club a stirring message.

Hilltop Six Wins Championshop

Coming through with a clean slate Hilltop Six carried off the honors of the Glenwood Girls' league. They played six games and were winners in all with decisive scores. This makes them eligible to participate in a tournament for City Class B title, for which three teams will contest.

Practically the entire team is made up of high school girls. The members of the championship team are Mary Roberts, captain; Mildred Smothers, Lucille Schumacher, Florence Mathews, Gladys Lensenmayer, Martha Lane, and Jean McCall.

Members of Glenwood Beta Lambda class will meet Tuesday afternoon, March 23, at the home of Mrs. Josephine C. Shanely, 98 Eldon Ave. Assistant hostesses will be Mrs. Vina Swigart, Mrs. Dr. Sharp, Mrs. L. M. Seiller, Mrs. George Rings, Mrs. Ralph Ranier, Mrs. Earle Sloan and Mrs. Shatzer.

OPENING OF H. T. FURNITURE CO.

Many people visited the Hilltop Furniture Co. during their opening days last Friday and Saturday, were enthusiastic over the line of goods displayed in the store, and extended to Messrs. Heimbrecht, Bennefield and Hoffman, the proprietor of the store, a hearty welcome to our community.

This store fills a long felt need in this community and one the residents of the Hilltop will appreciate when in need of anything in their line.

Together with the residents of this community the Record welcomes this new store and wishes them unlimited success.

Sites Electric Makes Improvement in Store

The D. O. Sites Electric Co. has just completed remodeling their storeroom at 2385 West Broad street by removing a portion of the partion which extended across the rear of the room, giving them more room for display of goods. Together with this improvement, the rearrangement and hanging of new fixtures for display purposes and redecoration the store presents an attractive and inviting appearance.

Council Proceedings of Hilltop Interest

City council Monday night approved improvement of Eureka Ave., Fernciff to Eakin. They also adopted resolutions for the improvement of Louden Ave., Oakley to S. Park; Wilshire Rd., Sullivant to Dartmoor; Park Ave., Fernciff to Eakin; Terrace St., alley south of Sullivant to Eakin, and Nashoba Ave., Floral to Doren.

HOGE MEMORIAL DINNER MEETING

As a culmination to a membership campaign for Hoge Memorial Presbyterian church in which 15 neighborhood meetings were held, covering practically every street on the Hilltop, a dinner gathering was held at the church last Friday evening for prospective members and workers during the campaign.

Rev. Richard E. Shields, acting as toastmaster, explained the purpose of the meeting and extended to prospective members an invitation to unite with the church. The program of the evening consisted of prayers, songs and an address of welcome by Dr. R. P. Rauch. Good fellowship was prevalent and all enjoyed the meeting to the fullest extent.

The dinner was served by the wives of the church officials.

John G. Birle, 80 S. Ogden Ave., was recently made an Eagle Scout. He is a member of Troop 21 with headquarters at Hoge Memorial church, and is assistant to Scoutmaster R. C. Kadel. He is employed at the D. O. Sites Electric Co.

WEST CHURCH LEAGUE CHAT

Director of Recreation at Glenwood Shelter House Reviews Work of Teams.

By W. H. WAITE

The West Church Basketball league came to a close Tuesday, March 16, with West Park M. E. taking the honors in the senior division with a good margin, Hoge Memorial carrying the second-place honors. Gift Street M. E., Hillcrest Baptist and Holy Family are very evenly matched and it would take a series of games between them to decide who has the best right to third place, according to the playing ability of each team.

St. John's Lutheran got away to a late start, not having very good teamwork at first, but later they made it warm for their opponents.

St. John's Episcopal, while next to the cellar, can by no means be made light of, for theirs was a team that fought every minute and usually lost most of their games by a very few points.

Friends team win the brown derby, but it can be said for them that their spirit never faltered and they were trying at all times and we hope for them to show better class next year. If some of the other teams had shown the same spirit there might have been a change in the standing.

West Park M. E. also took top honors in the intermediate section. They were very hard pressed by Memorial Baptist, who were expected to bring the bacon home, but the West Parkers showed superior fight which the Memorial boys could not overcome.

Holy Family had a good team, but failed to connect at the crucial moment.

Hoge Memorial had a snappy team, but their position in the standing shows that they did not play that snappy ball at all times.

St. Aloysius got away to a late start, but when they were going they made it tough for everyone.

West Broad Street Presbyterians had a better team than the standing shows and if they would play together they would win more games.

Gift St. M. E. was the class of the junior division, only losing one game, and that by the forfeit route by having a player over the age limit.

West Park sneaked into second place by winning the forfeit from Gift St. M. E.

Holy Family and Hillcrest are tied for third place, while Friends hold the cellar job. If Friends had a little more weight with the ability they have, well, that would make another story.

West Park M. E. have the distinction of being the only church in the city to put two teams in the City Church finals.

I consider that the West Church league was a success this year, but why not have more teams next year? This league is not formed for a few, but for the whole West Side. Now let's get together and put the West Side on the map in Columbus as turning out real athletic teams.

There are better players then West if the boys would decide on the team and stick year after year, for when teams learn to play together and then some player says "I am going to play with so and so this year," it makes two teams to reorganize. I have heard a lot of people express the desire to see West Park Seniors beaten. Well, my opinion is, as long as the players jump around from team to team each year, West Park will always be the leaders because they have the same boys year after year.

There are better players than West Park have, but a group of great stars not playing together can easily be beaten by a fourth-rate club that plays together.

This is one means of making the West Church league bigger and better. It is somewhat up to the Sunday schools to make it interesting enough for the boys to keep them coming, for some of them will not attend regularly unless urged to do so. Now let's get together and co-operate on these things and watch the West Church league grow into a real organization of good fellowship and friendly rivalry.

DOES COLUMBUS BELIEVE IN CHURCHES?

You perhaps have heard the statement made that the church is a back number and does not amount to much these days, but if you will stop to read a few figures and think over the matter you will undoubtedly come to the conclusion that the churches of Columbus are the most progressive organization in the city.

To prove this statement Rev. R. E. Shields quotes the following:

"In the last ten years Columbus has build 75 churches.

"The cost of these churches amounted to between six and seven million dollars.

"These churches range in price from a few thousand dollars up to $500,000.

"Many of the churches run seven days a week instead of one one day a week as was formerly the case."

In this same length of time the Presbyterians of Columbus have build and remodeled 12 churches at a cost of almost a million dollars.

And we might add the Hilltop has done its share in this constructive work.

HEALTH HINTS

By DR. O. E. McFADON

THE JUVENILE COURT

I read recently of a juvenile court which had tried the crime cases of several children in the same family. One of them had grown up deformed, with bad teeth and bones and an emaciated body. A physician ascribed the cause of the crimes to "Calcium (lime) deficiency in their diet." The digestion of those children had been overworked with fried foods and other such "least resistance" cookery much too strong for even older stomachs. They saw little—if any—of green vegetables milk or fruit, which would have yielded the bone material they so much needed.

This suggests that the original causes of any crime or achievement are not to be found wholly in the immediate events, or the week or month before, but may date back to birth or ancestory.

If the ancestory of those criminal children had been such people as the family we considered last week, a juvenile court would not have been necessary for them. And here we have that constant reminder of the far reaching responsibility of us all. What kind of a heritage are we building—every day of our lives—for our posterity?

In some cities some provision is made, by private contribution, for the furnishing of milk to undernourished children. Some day the states will undertake this. To reach their parents and lift them out of their habits of batter cakes and fried potatoes for breakfast is a hopeless dream. There is hope, however, that the rising generation may be reached through the Home Economics as now taught in most schools, the effects of which will be as constructive in building character as the go-as-you-please methods have been destructive in the past.

The "Infant Damnation" doctrine that we are wholly bad when born, is taking its place with such anomalies as witchcraft, and we may reasonably hope that with each generation, the average of personal conscience and sense of responsiblity may steadily rise for the general betterment of mankind.

A new step in aeronautics is marked by the introduction of the combination airplane and helicopter called the autogiro. The new plane possesses great lifting power, and is capable of a reducer ground speed which it is hoped may be the means of preventing many landing accidents. In its first test the machine rose a thousand feet almost vertically, and then descended gently at a forward speed of only 20 miles an hour. This new machine is still in the process of development as successful. It is claimed that in case of an engine failure, the sustaining blades of the autogiro will sustain it in the air and enable it to alight at a very low speed.

As a result of his researches in the Fixed Nitrogen Research Laboratory of the Department of Agriculture, Dr. Frederick G. Cottrell has evolved a low-cost process for the production of nitrates. German processes, even after they came to American possession during the war, have never been clearly understood.

The art of printing is not limited, it would seem, to the printing of paper. The usefulness of the printing press has now extended to the production of floor rugs. Many bronze and copper rolls are in service to print carpets, blankets and even silk materials.

Cuba's sugar crop for 1925-1926 is the largest in the history of the sugar industry on the island. The total production is expected to be 5,151,486 tons altogether. The production of this enormous crop again places Cuba in the first place among the sugar-producing countries of the world.

The census bureau's record of the output of needles, pins, hooks and eyes, and snap fasteners is $22,000,000, for the year 1923. Forty-nine establishments and 7074 people were engaged in the work of production. Wages amounted to to $6,703,079. These figures are higher than in 1921.

Travelers on English railroads in 1850 were well fortified with good advice before starting on a trip. Some of these sage bits included a caution not to sit in an unusual place or position, to avoid seats on the roof, and a warning that passengers in second class carriages having no doors should avoid sticking their feet out.

You'll do better at Seillers after all.

TO THE BEREAVED

A word picture from memory's gallery. How vividly I recall that bright spring morning three days before Easter, 1910.

I was out in the front yard, trowel in hand, breaking the crust of the hard soil, that was holding the white, gold and purple crocuses down to earth, while the warm rays of the sun was bidding them spring up in their beauty and gladden the hearts of passers-by.

A trim mother robin hopped across the lawn and cautiously approached the freshly turned soil in search of food for her nestlings. In a budding maple nearby a redbird was singing rapturously to her mate that was flitting here and there among the branches seeking some sheltered nook where in safety they might rear their young.

On the honeysuckle clamoring over the porch and beneath some lingering dead leaves, bits of green could be seen. All nature was bursting into new life and beauty. What a wonderful world—how we should love the God of Nature. Hearing footsteps, I turned and faced a messenger boy, who handed me a telegram. Hurriedly and with trembling fingers I tore it open and read this short, startling sentence: "Ella is dead, come at once. Mrs Wharton."

The sunshine, the gladness, was suddenly blotted out and a storm of grief shook my frame. Ella Wharton, my college chum, my bosom companion, my understanding friend—dead?. Surely it could not be.

But there was no time to give away to tears. I must take the noon train. After a sleepless night I reached the stricken home in the early morning. Sandy, Ella's Scotch collie that always came bounding to meet me at the gate with a loud welcome, did not appear and on nearing the house I saw him lying close up by the door, his head down. When I spoke to him he got up, came close to me and looked up with a mournful wonderment in his almost human-like eyes, as much as to say, "there is something wrong that I can't understand." He was the picture of distress. I spoke soothingly to him, then pressed the button of the door bell, above which hung a wreath of Ella's favorite roses, tied with chiffon. The maid opened the door, took my wraps, and in a half whisper informed me that Ella's mother prostrate with grief, was in the care of a nurse in an upstairs room. She then opened a door into the silent chamber, where in a casket inbedded in flowers, lay the beautiful clay tenement in which my friend had dwelt, but from which she had been released.

Some neighbors that had stayed in the home through the night, told me that a sudden attack of heart trouble proved fatal before the doctor arrived. How lovely, how restful, how life-like she looked. Caressingly I placed my hand on the white marble-like brow, and tenderly stroked the waves of silky brown hair, fondly whispering her name over and over, but there was no response. The soulful, expressive blue eyes that had looked so often so lovingly into mine, was fast closed. The hands that had ministered so tenderly, so untiringly to the aged mother and to needy ones all about her, had performed their last kind deed and was resting by her side. The feet that had walked in wisdom's ways, followed close in the footsteps of Him who went about doing good, had been swift to run on errands of mercy for the Master she served, had taken the last step, crossed the great divide, entered the home-land, the house of many mansions, the place Jesus had prepared for her. No more would she feel the limitations, the disappointments, the heartaches incident to this earth life. Indeed, "Blessed, happy, are the dead that die in the Lord."

Dear bereaved ones, as we approach the glad Easter day, may we dry our tears, and turn our minds and hearts in love and adoration, to the risen, living, compassionate Christ who said to the heart-broken Martha, and to the bereaved ones of every age, "I am the resurrection and the life. He that believeth on me though he were dead, yet shall he live, and he whosoever that liveth and believeth on Me shall never die."

Over our heads and into our lives
Shadows will sometimes fall.
But then sunshine is never wholly dead
And heaven is shadowless over head,
And God is over all.

M. M. Marshall.

Dirigible balloons will have a great future in the Arctic region, says Captain Amundsen, the Arctic explorer. Airplanes, however, will be of little use. Weather conditions near the pole, he says, are favorable to the dirigible, because there are no sudden tornado-like storms. In the summer of 1926 Captain Amundsen expects to use the dirigible to cross the polar region from Spitzenberg to Alaska. He believes that the trip can be made in 60 hours.

NEW EQUIPMENT AT THE RIVOLI

Hilltop movie patrons are now enjoying the best there is to be had in the way of a clear and steady picture at the Rivoli. Manager George Pekras has just installed two new "Motiograph" projecting machines, together with a new generator. This equipment is the very latest thing in projecting machines and gives an effect to the picture that cannot be had in any other equipment. The machines are practically noiseless in operation and each one is equipped with an automatic adjusting lense which keeps it in perfect focus resulting in a clear sharp picture at all times. Added to this is a new and large screen which has just been installed, making the equipment for projecting pictures equal to any in the city.

Not content with giving patrons of the Rivoli the best to be had in the way of equipment, Manager Pekras has had the lobby of the Rivoli entirely redecorated in the latest designs, making the entrance to this theater equal to the entrance to of any neighborhood house in the city, and one Hilltop people can be proud of.

McGUFFEY SOCIETY TO HOLD BANQUET

Will Celebrate Eighth Anniversary of Founding of Columbus McGuffey Society.

The eighth anniversary of the founding the McGuffey Society of Columbus will be celebrated with a banquet at the State School for the Deaf next Tuesday evening.

The banquet will have a two-fold purpose, one to observe the anniversary of the founding of the society in honor of William H. McGuffey, educator, who a half century ago gave to Ohio the McGuffey readers; the other to raise its annual pledge of $100 for the Home for the Aged Deaf at Westerville. Last year the banquet was attended by 300 persons, and this year it is hoped to increase the number.

Federal Examination Planned for Clerks

According to James R. Geren, secretary of the local branch of the civil service commission, the first general clerical examination to be held in the federal civil service commission in two years, will be held in the near future. Applications for the examination, which will be open to both men and women between the ages of 18 and 70, will be received at the postoffice building until April 7.

Spelling, penmanship, clerical tests and arithmetic will be included in the examination. The usual entrance salary for clerical workers under the civil Service commission ranges from $1140 to $1500. Successful competitors will be appointed to vacancies in the Columbus district in all branches of the federal service except the postoffice and railway mail service.

You'll do better at Seillers after all.

Donation From Cat Show to Baby Camp

The first donation to the Columbus Baby Camp, on Sullivant avenue, was received last Saturday when a check for $106.15 was entered on the books.

The check represents the profits from the eighth annual cat show conducted by the Ohio State Persian club. The show was held at the Deshler hotel Jan. 16, 17 and 18.

Falls While Roller Skating Breaks Leg

Harriet, the 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pancake, North Powell Ave., while roller skating near her home last Thursday, suffered a fractured right leg below the knee when her skate became loose and tripped her, causing her to roll nearly to center of the street.

A professional singer was in an automobile accident the other day. A newspaper, after recording the accident, added, "We are happy to state that she was able to appear the following evening in four pieces."—Good Hardware.

Poor Vision One Cause of Automobile Crashes

It is claimed that 85 per cent of automobile accidents are preventable. One of the factors entering into this is said to be poor vision, and consequently persons who wear glasses and keep them in good condition save eyestrain.

A set of rules compiled by F. L. Sulsberger, O. D., advises washing glasses every morning in lukewarm water, using an old soft toothbrush, plenty of soap and a little ammonia. The glasses should be dried with a soft cloth (not silk) free from starch, holding glasses by the lens one is drying and not by the other lens or center of the frame. Have an optometrist or optician examine the glasses each two months for readjustment and loose lenses.

THE WHYS AND WHEREFORES OF TUNDRAS

Little is known of the Arctic tundras. When they are mentioned most people say hurriedly to themselves, "Oh, they are places where reindeer feed," and pass on quickly to something else, for most of us are loath to discuss things which we do not understand, or at best know very little about.

In reality the tundra is a vast plain where grasses and an almost unbelievable variety of flowers grow. It looks quite like an ordinary moor or open plain dotted with bright flowers here and there. But when you try to walk across a tundra you feel as if you were walking upon a sponge, and indeed your are.

In "The Cruise of the Corwin," John Muir explains about the tundra. The tundra is a close sponge of mosses about a foot thick. Lichens grow on top of the mosses, as well as a sparse growth of grasses, sedges, and flowering grasses. The moss rests upon solid ice, and the ice is formed on lava. Ridges of this lava rise in place above the moss. Upon these ridges plants can grow which require dry sod in which to fasten their roots. There are also hollows where grasses, sedges, larkspurs, alders and willows grow. The alders attain a height of from eight to ten feet and, in a land of mosses and low flowers, seem like trees.

But flowers and moss are not the only things to be seen upon the tundra. There are song birds, and if you happen to visit them during the nesting season you will be surprised at the scene of industry. There are snipes, curlews, sand-pipers, snog sparrows, titmice, loons, ducks and geese. The tundra is an ideal place for these birds, for they have the wide, open moors in which to build their houses and where they can find berries for food all through the summer, spring and fall. In the winter they can live on the buds of the alders and willows.

On these tundras of the north there are also to be found ptarmigan, strange birds which are unusual in their appearance and habits. These birds fly about with a great whirring of wings and loud cackling cry. In the winter their plumage is pure white to match the snow, and their feathers grow clear down to the tips of their toes. They give the appearance of being very warmly clad in a woolly, white suit.—Forward.

A woman entered a police station, reported the loss of a check book, and offered a reward for its return.

"Why go to all that trouble?" said the sergeant. "The bank will give you another."

The woman brightened. "That's what I told my husband," she exclaimed, "and, besides, the checks won't be any good to anyone else. I signed them all."

THE TAXI OF 1027

To most of us the taxicab seems a pretty modern idea, but, like many other "new"things, we find that the taximeter is not so modern after all. In the history of China taxicabs are mentioned as early as the Tsin dynasty and from that time down to the middle of fourteenth century there are frequent allusions to such vehicles, which were known as "the measure-mile drum chariots."

In records of the year 1027, and again in 1107, there are full particulars given as to the construction of the measure-mile chariots, the number of wheels, their position, the number of cogs on each wheel, and so forth. From these nine hundred-year-old specifications there has been constructed a vehicle which accurately measures the ground over which it proceeds. As in the ancient Chinese vehicles, there is a drum and a bell, and at the end of each li, or Chinese mile, which is less than one-third of an English mile, the drum is automatically struck, while at every tenth li the bell rings. These ancient taxicabs were built to be drawn by coolies.

Civilization does not exist in great institutions but in men who create great institutions.

ENCOURAGING, ISN'T IT

The year 1816 was called "the year without a summer" or "eighteen-hundred-and-frose-to-death," and scientists are predicting that 1926 will be "nineteen-hundred-and-freeze-to-death.' Their predictions are based on the fact that there are now a great number of sun spots, which by making an excessive spot area, will lessen solar radiations and thus cause a cold summer season. In 1816 there was snow in April, a cold, wet May, and in June more ice and snow.

RECITAL WELL RECEIVED

On the evening of March 9, Prof. Walter L. King, 54 N. Burgess Ave., offered a musicale at West Broad St. school auditorium in which he presented a number of his advanced piano pupils to a large audience. He was assisted by the C. C. Chorus of Crown Chapter, O. E. S., and Mr. Winfield Scott, jr.

The C. C. Chorus, consisting of 22 voices, rendered four choral numbers, with four solos by Mrs. Anna Hough and Mrs. Marie Wright Killian, which were especially well received and well suited to the general theme of the program.

Mr. Scott's two violin selections added a very pleasing variation to the program. He was accompanied by Miss Betty Cannon, a pupil of Mr. King, who won the piano chair in the city All-Junior High School Orchestra.

A humorous and highly entertaining feature of the program was a reading given by Dorothy Hammerstein, a pupil, followed by a pianologue.

Concluding the program, a rendition of the "Second Hungarian Rhapsody" was given by Mr. King and George Mueller, pupil. This most difficult and beautiful selection was delivered with a rare mastery of technique and skill.

39,485 ENROLLED IN CITY SCHOOLS

Gain of 748 Over 1925—Junior High Schools Show Largest Increase.

A total of 39,485 pupils are now enrolled in the schools, including pupils in kindergarten, part-time schools, opportunity and special schools, elementary, junior high and senior high schools.

HIGHLAND AVE. SCHOOL NOTES

Friday, March 19, the civics classes at Highland Junior High school, under the direction of A. W. Elliott, met together for a joint meeting in the portable. At this meeting E. S. Burdell, a local business man, addressed the class, his subject being "Immigration." Mr. Burdell, who is scout commissioner for Franklin county, has traveled extensively and has studied widely, so his talk was most interesting and instructive. During the past summer he traveled in Europe, where he became very much interested in problems relating to scout work, and also the immigration question. He recently returned from Mexico.

Friday, March 12, the regular afternoon and evening numbers on the screen at the Rivoli were in the nature of a benefit performance for the Highland P.-T. A. At the evening show specialty numbers by Highland pupils were presented. There was an old-fashioned polka in which Gertrude Alltop, Marjorie Simmons, Betty Cannon and Jean Randall danced. There also were dances by Martha Millikin and May Belle Andrews. The proceeds were quite gratifying to the P.-T. A. and they wish to thank Mr. Pekras for his generosity.

4-YEAR-OLD BOY RUNS INTO AUTO

Mack Ebling, aged 4 years, 360 S. Harris Ave., was taken to Mt. Carmel hospital last Thursday night, with a possible fracture of the skull, received when he was struck by the automobile of Albert J. Coleman of 204 S. Hague Ave.

The Ebling boy was playing in front of his home with several other boys, police said, and ran out into the side of the automobile.

John W. Haunts, for a number of years a grocer at the corner of Broad street and Hague avenue, has established a rating and collecting agency on the Hilltop, with offices at 2429 W. Broad St. Mr. Haunts is well qualified for this work and will undoubtedly make a success of his new venture.

SPRING FESTIVAL CONCERT APRIL 15

Columbus Symphony Orchestra to be Supported by Other Musical Organizations.

Music lovers of Columbus will be delighted to know that the Spring Festival concert of the Columbus Symphony Orchestra, supported by the Musical Art society, Elks' Glee club and the Grand Opera club singing compositions written by Samuel Richards Gaines, will be held at Memorial hall on Thursday evening, April 15.

Samuel Richards Gaines will be guest conductor of the festival. It is his first return to Columbus to appear in public concert since he accompanied Ollie Speaks two years ago. While Columbus has been and is the home of many distinguished musicians, there have been few composers, and Mr. Gaines is one of those who now enjoys a national reputation in song and choral composition.

The Columbus Symphony orchestra, under the leadership of Earl Hopkins, has given Columbus two splendid concerts and this third one will be the climax. Under his leadership more than 80 musicians have practiced every week for more than two years without remuneration either in concert or practice, playing only for the love of music and for the experience and the love of ensemble work.

Columbus is, indeed, fortunate in having a symphony orchestra which ranks high in its class, yet without being a tremendous financial burden on the city.

Seein' and Hearin' Things

—The first "washing on the line" was displayed by some folks parking in Glenwood camp the other day. 'Twont be long till that place will have the appearance of a Chinese laundry to passers-by.

—A sight that excites one's sympathy is to see a half grown cat hanging onto the cross arm of a telephone pole to which place it had climbed to get away from a dog, and pitifully meowing and looking for some way to get down. It's peculiar that a cat can easily climb a tree, but has a difficult time getting down.

—Wonder if there has been a section of the city where more homes have been built in any one year than in the section south of Sullivant avenue, between the Baby Camp and Harris avenue? We believe not. In spite of the long, hard winter just passed, scores of houses have been built since last fall and everywhere one looks in that location can be seen new homes going up.

—We were told by a Hocking Valley trainman that recently while the train he was on was held up at Fifth avenue for 45 minutes one morning about 2 o'clock, 260 automobiles passed that place—140 going in one direction and 120 in the opposite direction. Pretty busy place for that time of night.

—A few days ago a West Side working man, after taking his bath, proceeded to don a suit of clean "heavies" that had just been returned by the washwoman, but was dismayed to learn that they had shrunken to about three sizes less than his anatomy. Having no other "heavies" immediately available, he started to take refuge in a suit of last summer's "lightics," but forgot that when he kissed 'em goodbye last fall they had developed a series of good sized punctures. Using his wits, however, he just doubled up on two pairs of punctured "lightics" and said they'd do as "the holes wouldn't hit."

—A well known woman in our community went over town the other day, accompanied by her eight-year-old grand-daughter. When she came home in the evening she was telling her husband about the trip and mentioned the fact that she saw Mr. So-and-so and spoke to him. Whereupon the young miss exclaimed, "I'll say she spoke to him! She stood with her foot on the running board of his car for half an hour!"

HILLCREST CHOIR SOCIAL EVENING

Members Entertain Singers Who Assisted in Recent Eisteddfod.

Members of the choir of the Hillcrest Baptist church and their families, having as their guests singers who participated with them at the recent eisteddfod, sat down Monday night to a menu of various kinds of sandwiches, pickles, coffee, cake and ice cream. The weather not being favorable, kept several of the invited guests away, but it was an enjoyable evening.

Mrs. Humphreys and Mrs. Benton sang that lovely duet, "O Lord We Adore Thee," by Evans. Their voices blend beautifully together. "The Hilltop Trio," consisting of Ethel Greiser, piano; Edith Robbins, violin, and Eugene Schneider, cello, rendered several selections in perfect harmony. A ladies' trio from the Gift Street M. E. choir, Miss Robinson, first soprano; Mrs. Clippinger, second soprano, and Mrs. Fox, alto, sang the "Big Brown Bear." This was a humorous number and was well received. Mrs. Marguerite Carter Moore was the accompanist for all vocal numbers, and is always an artist on either the piano or organ.

Harry Wilson was toastmaster and in his jovial way always makes a hit. But the climax of the evening's entertainment was the "take off" or parody on the eisteddfod, Mr. Knox acting as conductor, divided and assembled three choirs with the following directors: E. K. Halliday, Jack Wymer and Mrs. Clippenger. All the formalities of an eisteddfod were gone through—it was a case of laughter from beginning to end.

W. J. Thomson was selected as adjudicator and his impersonation of an adjudicator was actually real and kept the choirs in a continuous uproar—he was so just in his criticisms that there is no anticipation of anyone being dissatisfied—and his phrase of all choirs blending like a well-known coffee, certainly blended all hearts to think he knew his profession. The main prize was divided between Mr. Halliday and Jack Wymer, leaders, and Mrs. Clippenger received the prize for the most graceful director. The prizes were rabbits with and without wings.

ECHOES FROM THE LAZARUS 75-YEAR PARTY

A quotation from the souvenir: "To be 75 years young, is sometimes far more cheerful and hopeful, than to be 40 years old."—O. W. Holmes.

A quotation from Governor Donahey's certificate of congratulations, presented by him, to each guest—"The State of Ohio congratulates itself on having in its capital city such a distinguished party."

It was all so wonderful—so democratic, so unique, so different. Fourteen hundred guests, each more than 75 years of age, from all walks of life, white haired, faces marked with lines of ambition, toil, joys and sorrows, but smiling and happy. The heads of the Lazarus firm and their wives (with hand bouquets) graciously welcomed each guest. The assisting hosts, Mayor Thomas and Judge DeWitt and others, stood in line giving out words of cheer.

At the first tap of the drum the feet of some Civil war veterans began to move and their eyes to flash. Fired with enthusiasm, one of them attempted to dance a jig, but there was not room.

There was a fine musical program with old time songs, by the Jubilee quartet, dainty generous refreshments, flowers for each one, reminiscences, etc.

Many of the employes mingled with the crowds watching for opportunities to contribute to the comfort of the guests. It was a lovely sight to see young women, daughters and granddaughters, tenderly caring for some almost invalid loved one. We saw one of our local ministers with a helpless parishioner, feeding him with a spoon and holding the cup of coffee to his lips.

It was a real joy to witness so many unusual acts of thoughtful kindness and to feel the spirit of love and respect—almost reverence—that prevailed.

As the party was breaking up a bouquet carried by one of the Lazarus' wives, was presented to Mrs. M. C. Dougherty of South Ogden Ave., who brought it for her Sunday school class to see and then gave it to a shut-in.

Lazarus & Co. deserve commendation and the evening time of life would begoiden for the aged if such tender, thoughtful kindness as was manifest on this occasion could be their daily lot.

M. M. Marshall.

HEALTH HINTS

By DR. O. E. McFADON

WHICH IS THE BETTER QUESTION?

"Can I take care of this?" is a question we all ask ourselves daily, and possibly several times in a single meal, as articles of food appeal to us.

And why shouldn't we? If we are to have proper regard for our faithful digestive apparatus, why not protect it by giving it as much consideration as is symbolized by that question? I am asking the reader if he does this. Are you, dear reader, sufficiently thoughtful of your own physical well-being that you, at least mentally, ask yourself, "Can I take care of this?"

The mistake that we make is, that we imagine that question and its implied answer to be sufficient. It is a good question and we are conscientious in asking it, believing it to cover the ground of our danger of over-eating.

But who is answering that question? Is the answer to it the result of our best judgment? I don't think so. I feel safe in saying that it seldom is our unbiased judgment that gives us permission to eat the attractive food. Even the initial foods of a meal we sometimes eat to gratify a perverted taste, or because it is kindly proffered. And the more tempting food which follows finds easy decision that we can "take care of this," and our best judgment has very little to do with it. Hence, overeating.

We—all of us—do not realize to what extent our sense of taste misleads and victimizes us. It is always present to overcome our weak wills, if possible, and decide for us that we can "take care of this."

Shall we condemn the question then? No. It is still a good question to ask, for it points in the right direction. But, if for reasons already given, we so easily waive our best judgment, which inevitably leads to overeating, then here is a better question to ask ourself, namely "How little can I get along with?" or, "Can I do without this?"

To make a hobby of this question until it has been pushed and practiced into a habit may cause hunger at times, but natural hunger, be it remembered, is an experience, so salutary that it should be sought occasionally, rather than be thought of as a calamity. If overeating has been habitual for a considerable time, then the hunger that comes from normal or under-eating is to be expected as incidental in a reforming process.

There is no gastronomic experience so inevitable as the conflict right here between will power and taste, and with most of us, the taste is too often given the right of way. That makes overeating.

Taste must be made subservient and when it is so, the cultivated flavors which we so overvalue, will give place to a true appreciation of the natural taste of natural food, which will lead to genuine enjoyment if we, by our caution, give nature half a chance. See to it that your taste is not leading you astray. "How little can I get along with" is a better, safer question than "Can I take care of this?"

Easter Candies, Cards and Novelties at Weber's.

LARUE'S GIFT NIGHTS POPULAR

Few entertainers have been able to equal George LaRue's record with his gift night at the Rivoli theater. He has been entertaining the Rivoli patrons each Tuesday night for more than a year and his popularity is still growing with Hilltop folks, as attested by the crowded houses each Tuesday evening, when he puts on his weekly gift night, distributing valuable merchandise to Rivoli patrons.

LaRue is the possessor of a natural talen for entertaining and spent many years as a successful vaudeville artist, playing in all the larger cities of the country. While all patrons of the Rivoli are anxious to participate in the prizes, there are many who attend the Rivoli on Tuesday nights to hear LaRue's line of entertainment that goes with the distribution of gifts.

His popularity was shown with the Rivoli patrons a week ago when the house was packed to overflowing on the worst night of the winter.

Strangers in Paris no longer need to inquire of the policemen how to get about, for there are now animated maps, painted on glass and illuminated by electric bulbs. A list of the principal points of interest in the city is given, and a push button is opposite each. Push the button opposite the name of the place you wish to visit, and the route will be illuminated. The map gives directions for reaching more than fifty places, as well as schedules of the transportation lines to each.

This Theatre

Has just intalled two new "Motiograph" projecting machines, together with a new generator. This equipment is the very latest thing in projecting machines and gives an effect to the picture that cannot be had in any other equipment.

These machines are practically noiseless in operation and each one is equipped with an automatically adjusted lamp which keeps perfect light, resulting in a clear sharp pictures at all times.

Added to this is a larger screen which has just been installed, making the equipment for projecting pictures equal to any in the city.

MONEY NEEDED AT DEATH

Debts, taxes, funeral expenses and contingent liabilities require cash at death, and hardship is often entailed on members of the family while awaiting administratorship.

Delay can be avoided and needless worry saved by the forethought of having funds in the names of two or more interested parties.

This can be done at THE BUCKEYE upon request when our 5% interest-from-date Certificates of Deposit are issued, or 5% Joint Accounts opened. Signature cards for our files are required to be signed by the parties concerned. The money is then payable to either or any of the survivors.

MEASLES CASES REACH RECORD

All records were broken in the number of measles cases reported to the city board of health, Saturday, Dr. J. A. Beer, city health commissioner, declared. The number of cases reported so far this month has reached 1350, and the number of deaths from this cause for the month is nine. The total number of deaths resulting from measles since the first of the year is 12. Eighty-three cases were reported to the health department Saturday morning.

DECRAASE IN INCOME TAX

A report sent in to Washington last week by Newton M. Miller, collector of internal revenue for the Columbus district, shows the income tax returns for this district netted about $2,000,000 for the year 1925. This is a decrease of 10 per cent over previous years, although it is not as much as was expected after the new revenue act lowered the tax rate and increased exemptions on personal returns. The comparatively high showing is due to the fact that the majority of the small returns were paid in full.

Missing Persons

The American Red Cross, 216 Connor buildings, Rich and High streets, is trying to locate the following persons: Horton Robinson, Curtis Berry, George Henry Fromm, George Beeler, William H. Clerk Examinations

A vacancy in the position of file clerk in the Columbus office of the United States Veterans' bureau, together with one as junior telephone operator at Fort Hayes, will be filled by competitive civil service examination. Application to enter the examination must be in before April 14, according to James R. Geren, secretary of the federal civil service board for Columbus district.

The position of file clerk pays $1140 a year to start, and duties involve filing papers and indexing. The junior telephone operator position requires at least one year's experience.

We wish to thank the neighbors and friends who so kindly assisted us during the illness and death of Earl B. Ward. Also for the sympathy expressed in beautiful floral offerings; to Rev. Johnston and Rev. Lowe; to Mr. Slye, and also the Masons who officiated at the home.
Mrs. Earl B. Ward and Sons, George and Robert.

LOSES SIGHT OF HIS RIGHT EYES

Gordon Black Struck When Bullet From Exploding Cartridge.

Gordon Black, 10 years old, lost the sight of his right eye Sunday when a 22-calibre cartridge exploded in a bonfire and buried the brass shell into eye. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Black, 495 S. Wheatland Ave.

The boy said he was walking past the bonfire in an alley in the rear of his home, where waste paper was burning when something exploded and he couldn't see any more.

He was taken to the office of Dr. John H. Czatt, 2537 Sullivant Ave., and then to Mercy hospital, where an X-ray picture was taken.

The eye was removed Monday morning and it is believed this will save the other eye.

TO UNVEIL WORLD WAR MEMORIALS

To be Housed in New Wing to State Archaeological and Historical Museum.

Ohio's official memorial to her veterans of the World war will be dedicated at Columbus on Tuesday, April 6, the ninth anniversary of America's entry into the war. As a result of an appropriation of nearly $250,000 by the state legislature, the World War Memorial Wing to the state Archaeological and Historical Museum at Ohio State university has been under construction for the past two years. In this structure the state's official collection of World war relics will be housed, and the heroic monument to "The Victorious Soldier" which graces the north approach to the building, will serve as a herald to those who pass that this is the state's only memorial to her veterans of 1917 and 1918. Within the rotunda of the building are four bronze panels depicting the four major phases of a soldier's life during the late war. The doughboy monument and the four memorial panels will be unveiled at the dedication ceremonies.

Governor Donahey, Congressman Burton, Major General Hough and Rev. W. F. O'Connor will speak at the dedication exercises. Mrs. Hugh Clark of Steubenville will unveil the doughboy statute, while four Ohio nurses who saw service overseas, will unveil the bronze panels.

A military review is also a feature of the dedication exercises to which the public is invited.

ART EXHIBIT AT HIGHLAND

In Connection With P.-T. A. Meeting at School Monday Evening.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Hilltop and Highland Ave. Junior High school makes the following interesting announcement.

On Monday evening, April 12, the association will meet for their regular meeting in the music room of the school. The business meeting and program arranged for this meeting is of unusual interest.

Prof. E. N. Littleton will make a talk on the subject of moving pictures. Those who know Mr. Littleton and his splendid ability as a speaker, and with a subject so broadly discussed, both educationally and morally, will look forward to hearing him with much pleasure.

A short play has also been arranged, and will be presented in the music room of the school building. In addition a most extraordinary announcement is made that the meeting will be followed by an art exhibition to be held in the main hall on the second floor and will be in charge of T. W. Birmingham. The pupils of the art department have finished about 3000 pictures so far this year and of this number about 200 will be on exhibition. Every father and mother having children in the school should attend this exhibition and see what character of work is being done in the art department.

The school orchestra and Boys' Glee Club, under Mr. Birmingham's direction, will play and sing, and Mr. Everett Stauch, well known baritone, will appear and sing two numbers. In all, it is hoped to make this the most interesting and instructive meeting the P.-T. A. has held this year.

NOW ASSOCIATED WITH SULZBERGER

F. L. Sulzberger, Hilltop jeweler, announces that C. F. Maisenbacher, a watchmaker of a great deal of experience in repairing and making fine adjustments on watches, is now in charge of his watch repair department.

Mr. Maisenbacher was with the Illinois Watch Co. of Springfield, Ill., for 16 years, and while with this company he held a very responsible position. He also was formerly employed in this city by J. F. Matheson, on High street, and while with him was watch inspector for the Hocking Valley and N. and W. railroads.

Mr. Sulzberger is indeed fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Meisenbacher to take charge of his watch repair department.

Of Interest to the People of the Hilltop and Vicinity

Vol. 9 — The Hilltop, Columbus, Ohio, April 8, 1926. — No. 49

HALF MILLION IN DEPOSITS

Hilltop Building and Loan Has Made Phenomenal Growth in Four Years.

A Hilltop institution for Hilltop people, is true in every sense of the word when applied to the Hilltop Building and Loan association. It is officered by Hilltop business men and finances Hilltop homes. No wonder it has made a phenomenal growth in the four years of its existence.

Last week this association passed the enviable mark of more than half a million dollars in deposits, a goal which has not been equalled by any other building and loan in the city in so short a time.

And still the officers of the association and Harley D. Culp, the secretary, are not satisfied and have set as a mark "One million by January 1, 1927," and we will wager they will get it.

In illustrating this wonderful growth Mr. Culp pointed out that during the first three months of the present year, the association has made a gain of $105,000, against a gain of $157,000 for the whole year of 1925.

The million by January 1, 1927, will put the association in a class with many building and loan associations in the city who have been operating for 35 to 40 years, and accomplishing in four years what it took many years for them to do.

Churches Crowded at Easter Services

Special Services, Reception of Members and Communion Observance.

Easter Sunday was a day of gladness for church-going people of the Hilltop who took advantage of the most beautiful Sunday we have had for months, and attended one or more church services during the day, nearly every Hilltop church reporting capacity audiences both morning and evening.

And the churches did their part in preparing special programs for the day, consisting of special sermons, cantatas and pageants.

Most of the churches observed communion, received new members and had baptismal services at some time during the day. It is estimated that several hundred people united with Hilltop churches last Sunday.

Two West Side churches were among the four leading churches of the city receiving the greatest number of new members into their congregations last Sunday. West Park Avenue M. E. was first in the city with 89 new members, Indianola M. E. was second with 86, St. John's Evangelical was third with 79, and Hoge Memorial Presbyterian fourth with 75.

Eleventh Ward Republican Club

The Eleventh Ward Republican club held its regular meeting, as announced, Friday evening, March 26.

Several matters of importance to the club were discussed and disposed of, among them the time and place of meeting.

It was decided to hold subsequent meetings on the last Monday evening of each month, and the place of meeting the lower east room of the Hillcrest Baptist church at Broad and Eldon Ave.

Republican voters of the Eleventh ward will please make note of these changes.

At the next meeting a full list of officers will be chosen by ballot, as required by the club rules.

The choir leader gave some excellent music and the message of Judge Miller was instructive and inspiring and greatly enjoyed by all present.

HIGHLAND AVE. P.-T. A. MEETING

Highland Avenue Parent-Teacher association will hold its regular meeting next Monday evening at 7 o'clock in the main building of Highland Avenue school. A most instructive and entertaining program has been arranged and it is earnestly hoped that every mother and father on the Hilltop will be present to show their appreciation of what is being done in the departments of the school.

You will enjoy the play to be given by the children; you will enjoy hearing Mr. Littleton speak on the subject of moving pictures, you will enjoy the display of the pictures made by your children, showing what unusual talent many of them possess, and that all have made splendid strides in this department of the school.

Mr. Everett Staunch, baritone, will sing, with Miss Mary Baker at the piano. The orchestra will play during the evening, and the boys' chorus will sing. In all it will be an evening of variety and entertainment you cannot afford to miss. Encourage your children and your neighbor's children by being present.

HELP FINANCE THE LIBRARY

It has been said by many people and at numerous times, that one of the most valuable assets to the Hilltop, and one which reaches all classes of people, is the Holmes Hilltop Library.

While the library is free to the public, yet it takes money to operate it, and not being endowed in any way, this money is obtained by free will subscriptions. Within the next three weeks canvassers will call on you for your subscription. When they appear at your door, invite them in, give them your subscription, or make arrangements for the payments of the same, and thank them for calling.

You will be repaid by the good you may get out of the library, or if you are not a user of these books, by the good others will get from them.

Will you do your share?

HUFF ADDRESSES BUSINESS MEN

A Meeting Full of Enthusiasm—Members Optimistic for Future of Organization.

B. M. Huff, president of the Mt. Vernon Avenue Business Men's Association, was the speaker at the dinner meeting of the Hilltop Business Men's Association last Thursday evening.

Mr. Huff's remarks were to the point and well received. To give the members of the local association an idea of the things they will have to encounter in an organization of this kind, he gave a brief history of the Mt. Vernon Avenue association, which started a few years ago with only seven members and now has a membership of 70 business men of that section.

Mr. Huff, in his address, said in part, to the Hilltop men:

"You would indeed be blind to your own interests, if you did not unite the business people of the Hilltop in an organization, the purpose of which is to keep pace with the onward march of business, and let the buying public, and the people in general know that you are playing your part in this advancement. Let them know that you can supply their needs, and stand ready to do so.

"The aim and purpose of this organization should be to build and increase good will for each of its members, in a bigger and better way than the individual can afford to build it. All your activities are centered toward this end. Good will is the greatest asset of any business, all your advertising, all your service to your customers, is to create an atmosphere of good will. If you have this you know good business will follow in its wake.

"You on the Hilltop are a link in the chain of modern business, to use a popular phrase, it is up to you. Your trade territory will be just as big as you make it, and your influence will reach just as far as your efforts and co-operation justify it in reaching."

Previous to the dinner meeting, the association members were addressed by H. U. Schneider, of the Ohio State Journal, who gave them a talk on publicity and its methods of operation.

B. M. Hirsch, a member of the Mt. Vernon Avenue association, was also a guest at the meeting and gave a very interesting talk.

Fred L. Sulzberger acted as toastmaster and after a few preliminary remarks, characteristic of Fred, he called on several members of the local association for short talks, among them being W. L. Millikin, Dr. H. Whitehead, O. E. Voss, R. O. Harrison, H. D. Culp and E. W. Dolby. What it took to put pep and enthusiasm into the meeting these man had and dispensed it.

The meeting was then turned over to the president of the association, and after transacting association business, was adjourned.

Every member felt that he had received much good from the meeting, and is optimistic of the future welfare of the association.

Mrs. Wade Louks, 949 S. Burgess Ave., who was operated upon for appendicitis last Friday at Mt. Carmel hospital, is reported as recovering nicely.

Central-Sullivant Civic Association

At the meeting of the Central-Sullivant Civic Association Tuesday night the matter of the Central High school cafeteria serving noonday luncheon to the public, outside of the school pupils, was discussed and a protest will be made against this action.

It is said that because of serving to pupils alone not meeting expenses, the school has served to outsiders also, and that the latter come in before the pupils get a chance to be served and crowd them out, making them late for their classes. It is also said that considerable disorderly conduct has taken place among the outside people, over which the teachers have no authority.

The association also wish to notify the residents on Thomas avenue that a committee form this organization, after visiting Engineer Simpson, secured authority whereby people living along that street may tap into the sanitary sewer there by paying for the expense of doing so.

A birthday surprise party was given for Mr. Curtis Graves, Sunday evening at his home, 2041 Sullivant Ave. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Judson Wink, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. GIRL SCOUT WEEK OPENS APRIL 19th

Members of all Columbus Girl Scout troops will make a "pilgrimage" to the chapel of the Holy Spirit for a religious service, April 19, in celebration of the opening of National Girl Scout Week and to honor Troop 1, which meets at the chapel and was the first Scout troop in Columbus. Miss Ada Carver of Ohio State university is captain of Troop 1.

Other Scout activities to follow include a tree planting ceremony April 21, preparaiton of an evening meal for her family on April 23 by every Girl Scout and hikes on April 24. Miss Lou se Price, New York national secretary for the camp department of Girl Scouts, will be in Columbus Thursday to confer with the local camp committees.

OPEN LONGEST COURT TERM

Last Monday was the opening of the April term of the common pleas court, the longest term of the court year, and will be in session until the middle of September. During this term Judge Charles Warner will occupy the criminal court, Judges Sowers, Duncan and Kinkead, the jury rooms; Judge Rogers, the pleadings court, and Judge Scarlett the chancery court.

There were 122 cases to come before the grand jury, among them five first degree murder cases, 22 burglary cases, 19 cases of forgery and 16 for automobile stealing.

You'll do better at Seiller's after all.

More Copper Used

Throughout the United States the use of copper and brass for water service lines is increasing on a large scale. Installations vary in length depending upon the distance between the main, curb and meter in the cellar.

PAINT THE ICE BOX EVERY YEAR

Are there little beads of glistening moisture on the outside of your icebox? Even in the well-made refrigerator it is almost impossible to prevent "sweating". It is quite impossible to prevent a difference in temperature between the outside casing and that of the room. Consequently any moisture held in the room atmosphere is bound to condense on the outside of the box.

If the refrigerator is kept well finished with varnish or shellac, this moisture is prevented from seeping into the box, causing the panels to warp, seams to open, wood to rot. This condition offers germs an opportunity to develop and causes ice to melt more rapidly.

Shop at Seiller's and Save.

Highway workers in South Dakota have made the interesting discovery of an "ice mine" in the Black Hills. The men went to a cliff of naturally terraced limestone along the side of the road they were building, to obtain rock for a crusher. After digging several feet they encountered a formation which resembled a stone wall with the mortar replaced by ice. Apparently the dirt had been washed away by some subterranean flow of water which had since congealed.

TO OBSERVE BETTER HOMES WEEK APR. 25

Nation-Wide Campaign in Home Improvement—Columbus to Participate.

Columbus civic and community organizations are to be asked to observe Better Homes Week April 25 to May 1.

The local campaign will be held at the same time the national observance of the week by Better Homes in America, of which Herbert Hoover, director of commerce is secretary.

Aims of the organization are purely educational and do not involve any connection with any private concerns or products, as none of the workers receive compensation for their efforts.

Preliminary plans for the local observance of the week were discussed at a committee meeting last week at the headquarters of the City Federation of Women's clubs. The Columbus Real Estate Board, city board of health, Columbus public schools and home economics department of Ohio State university were among the organizations represented at the meeting.

Due to the short time between now and the date for Better Homes Week, it was decided that this year's observance will be confined mostly to work of an educational nature, in the way of addresses, motion picture exhibitions and possibly a few exhibits of a non-commercial nature.

Mrs. G. E. Dunn, 2662 Summit St., is in charge of the local committee. The committee expects to call upon church clubs, community associations, settlement houses, luncheon clubs and other groups for observance of the week. Clergymen will be asked to make home their sermon topic on the preceding Sunday. The Chamber of Commerce will be asked to make better homes the subject of its Forum meetings.

Improvement of home conditions, especially among the poorer classes of people, is the pricipal aim of the committee.

Members point out that nation's welfare centers around the home, and that the proportion of contented, enlightened home-owners should be made as large as possible. At the same time, they say, the purpose is not to displace other movements concerning the home, but simply to get additional information for the benefit of people who need better homes.

Consideration of inferior planning, furnishing, sanitation, fire hazards, financing, architecture, planning and gardening is included in the plan, in addition to sociological factors, such as thrifft, self-respect, wholesome living, social stability and character development.

SPEAKING BRIEFLY

A serious case af alphabbetical elephantiasis, says The Living Age, was reported in the Daily Telegraph:

"At the recent dental exhibition attention was drawn to a tremendously long word used to describe a germicide. Long as it was, it is easily beaten by one that appears in the program of the London Medical Exhibition, opened at Westminster yesterday. It is as follows: 'Dimethylaminobensoyldimethylethylcarbinol.' The substance is to be used as a spinal anaesthetic."

You'll do better at Seiller's after all.

Always on the Job

HEALTH HINTS

By DR. O. E. McFADON

There are parts of the world where the natives wear little more clothes than they were born with. In those localities, colds and tuberculosis of the lungs are seldom if ever heard of. This is because the skin has not been forced by "civilization" from its natural prerogative of protecting the body. We think we wear clothing for protection from the elements, and we do; but when the styles change, we go with the styles, whether the protection be more or less.

Men wear sleeves to protect them from cold, and their arms needs the protection because they are not accustomed to exposure. Women wear almost nothing on their arms and are not uncomfortable because their arms have become inured to it.

A man wears a collar a half-inch narrower than usual and feels the exposure; he leaves off his collar for a time and takes cold because of it. If it were the fashion, he would persist until he could not so take cold.

Likewise exposure of the ankles, at first creates discomfort which soon passes. The ladies say they are more comfortable. The satisfaction of being in the fashion conduces to the feeling of comfort, but it isn't everything—the skin adapts itself to conditions.

If the fashions in clothing should lead to still less clothing, the skin will be found able to regulate its protection to suit the needs of the body.

It is only when exposed to extreme heat or cold that the face requires protection. Other skin surfaces would be equally independent, if not coddled and covered. When extremely warm, clothing interferes with evaporation, and from a health point of view is detrimental. In cold, the skin naturally contracts and prevents the escape of heat. If too much coddled, the protective prerogative of the skin is not exercised and the effect is debilitating, and therefore its resistance to disease is weakened. There are as good reasons why the functions of the skin should be cultivated as of the muscles, teeth, lungs or other organs.

There is no outstanding evidence of a lowering of health average on account of the limited apparel of women; and their increased self-respect and independence are but a forward step in their emancipation. We recovered from the shock of women riding astride and congratulate them, and why shouldn't the ventilation of their ankles and calves also have our approbation? There is the vanishing Oriental custom of the covered face of woman, on the one hand, and the tropical abandon, referred to elsewhere, on the other—neither of which we tolerate. We are more civilized, enlightened and self respecting than either.

An important question is: How long will the world follow the dictum of a few selfish sports and pace-setters in Paris, who arbitrarily say what shall be worn? Or, will the time come, in our ever increasing independance, when any person will dare to first consult his own comfort in clothing as in other matters?

HILLTOP KIDDIES GUESTS AT RIVOLI

Will Be Given Another Free Show April 17, Featuring Mary Pickford.

Hilltop kiddies crowded the Rivoli theater to overflowing Saturday morning when they were guests of the management when the film "Down on the Farm," was shown for their especial entertainment.

Every seat in the house was filled and many were seated on the floor—but they enjoyed it nevertheless.

And manager Pekras was so well pleased with the conduct of the kiddies that he has decided to give them another free show on Saturday, April 17, at 10:30 when he will present Mary Pickford in "Love Light."

Why "Grape" in Grapefruit

Grapefruit is a native of Asia, coming from the southeastern part of that country. So far as anyone has been able to definitely ascribe any origin to its name as the English speaking countries know it, it is because the fruit often grows in clusters, something like grapes do. The Spanish colonist carried the grapefruit into the West Indies and then into Florida and California.

You'll do better at Seiller's after all.

Tax Listing Date

April 11 is the date set for listing personal property, as announced by County Auditor Thatcher. All property in hands of personal property taxpayers on that day must be placed in the tax returns.

THEY WILL BE THERE

They are teaching these little children to sing our gospel hymns and it is fun watching them, says the representative of the World's Sunday School Association in Argentina, Uruguay and vicinity, concerning a Sunday school in Montevideo. "They commence by teaching the children the chorus. Before singing a song or chorus they get some boy or girl to stand up and repeat the lines from memory. One little chap got started on 'When the roll is called up yonder.' You will remember that in the chorus this line is repeated three times. After starting, he did not seem able to stop until the teacher stopped him and asked him what was going to happen when the roll was called up yonder, and then the little fellow looked up as if surprised that anyone should need to ask such a question, and answered, 'Why, I'll be there.' Many of these boys and girls will be there, because America has sent them the Sunday school."—Forward.

BEHIND THE TIMES

Sometimes there is more reason than the practical American understands for the lack of mechanical advantages in the East. "What are you keeping these machines in the shed for, when all those farmers we have seen are out doing the work by hand?" a visitor asked an industrial missionary in India. "One tractor would do the business in a fraction of the time."

"Perfectly true," said the missionary, "but when one man and a tractor were doing the work, what would the other ten men be doing? As it is now, there is employment at a small wage for a dozen; with the machine there would be employment at a large wage for one, while the rest starved. With three million people living on the edge of starvation all the time, you can't experiment as you can in more prosperous countries. In time, working out from the agricultural schools, we'll get to the point where we can use machinery more, and new industries will follow, just as they have in Europe and America. Meanwhile it's better Christianity to be behind the times."—Forward.

HOW HE PROVED HIS POINT

When Sir Christopher Wren was building the town hall of Windsor, a fidgety member of the corporation insisted that the roof required more support. Sir Christopher assured him that the danger was imaginary. The critic knew better. The alarm spread, and the great architect was worried into adding more columns.

Years passed, and in later times, when architect and patrons were dead, cleaning operations in the roof revealed the fact that the supposed additional supports did not touch the roof by two inches, although this was not perceptible to the gazers below.

By this ingenious expedient did Wren pacify his critics, while vindicating to future generations his own architectural skill.

THINK THINGS THROUGH

Some fellows have minds like blotters. Everything that they hear or see soaks into their minds, but what remains is backwards and blurred. They never think through. The boy Lincoln used to hear the older people talk in his father's home, and he would not go to sleep at night until he had tried to understand everything that he had heard. That is one reason why Lincoln could make things so plain to others: he straightened them out in his own mind first.

Recipes

RAISBURY TARTS

Filling—½ cup raisins, cut fine; ½ cup currants; 4 figs, cut fine; 4 tablespoons orange juice; 1 cup sugar; 2 teaspoons flour; ½ cup English Walnuts, cut fine; 2 tablespoons flour.

Put raisins, currants, figs and water in double boiler and cook 20 minutes. Then add orange juice. Mix flour and sugar together, add to the mixture, mix well and cook 20 minutes longer. Take from fire and stir in nuts. This is enough for 25 tarts. This filling will keep a month in a refrigerator.

Pastry—2 cups flour, ⅔ cup shortening, 1 teaspoon salt, ice water.

Cut shortening into flour with a knife and use enough ice water to make a paste which clears the bowl. Roll and cut in 3-inch squares. Put 2 teaspoons of filling in center of each square, moisten edges with ice water, fold over make a 3-cornered tart. Press in top with a knife; brush with milk. edges closely together, make 3 slits Bake in quick oven about 20 minutes. Makes about 25 tarts.

MALTED CHOCOLATE

Add two or three heaping teaspoonsful of malted chocolate to a glass of milk and shake in a shaker or in a milk bottle. Malted chocolate contains milk and may be made a hot drink by dissolving two or three spoonsful in hot water. Put the malted chocolate in the cup first and blend carefully, then add the boiling water. More milk, either fresh or powdered, may be added, if desired. Whipped cream will add to the richness of the drink, but is not necessary. Malted chocolate should never be boiled as boiling destroys its digestive properties. For infants or very young children use only one teaspoonful of the chocolate.

FUDGE CAKE

Three-fourths cupful butter, two cupsful sugar, four eggs, one cupful milk, two one-half cupsful pastry flour, two teaspoonsful baking powder, one teaspoonful vanilla, three squares unsweetened chocolate, one cupful chopped raisins.

Cream the butter and add one cup of sugar, continue creaming; beat the egg yolks with the rest of the sugar, add the vanilla and combine the two mixtures. Melt the chocolate over hot water and add to the egg alternately with the milk. Chop the raisins and

CLAM POULET

One small can minced clams, 1 cupful milk, 2 tablespoonsful butter, 3 tablespoonsful flour, 1 teaspoonful salt, one-eighth teaspoonful pepper, one-fourth teaspoonful paprika, speck cayenne pepper, 3 sweet pickled gherkins, 1 hard-boiled egg, 2 canned pimentos, 6 slices toast.

Melt the butter in the top of the chafing dish, add the flour and seasonings, and stir together. Then add gradually the liquor drained from the clams and the milk and stir constantly until smooth and thick. Add the clams and pickles, eggs and pimentos, all finely diced. Heat until very hot and serve on slices of buttered toast.

SCRAMBLED POTATOES AND EGGS

Dice left-over potatoes and saute in a little butter, fat or oil. Push them to one side of the pan and scramble an egg or two, combining them with the potatoes at the last minute.

POACHED EGGS SPANISH

Heat in earthen dish slowly and melt in one tablespoon of butter. Add half teaspoon salt, a little pepper and a small onion, minced fine. Minced parsley and sweet herbs are also an agreeable addition. Let the ingredients become heated through. Then drop in the eggs, one at a time. Let them brown a little; then turn and brown on the other side.

FINNAN HADDIE SCOTCH STYLE

Take a fresh haddie, remove the skin by holding over a clear fire for a few minutes. Place in an enamel baking pan. Cover with milk. When milk boils in the oven take up fish. Make a sauce of the milk that the fish was cooked in by melting a tablespoon of butter and one of flour, adding sufficient milk to make a cream sauce. Add two chopped hard-boiled eggs.

A NEW ARITHMETIC

"I am not much of a mathematician," said the cigarette, "but I can add to a man's nervous troubles; I can subtract from his physical energy; I can multiply his aches and pains; I can divide his mental powers; I can take interest from his work and discount his chances for success."—Parent-Teacher Bulletin, Los Angeles.

Terms Explained

When you enter a place of worship you first pass through the porch, and may then proceed to an aisle, or possibly take a seat in the nave, or near the chancel. Porch, aisle, chancel and nave are all queer words. Some have been built up just anyhow; others are derived from the Latin and twisted wierdly in the process.

"Porch," for instance is the word-child, just recognizable, of the Latin "Porta," a gate. Why "ch" pushed "ta" out of it, one cannot say.

"Aisle—the schoolboy who called this word a "wicked speller" was quite right—is what our Saxon forbears made of "ala," a wing. An aisle, of course, is a "wing" of a church.

"Chancel" is really the "chanceled" or shut-off part of a church, and its word-patent is "cancelli," meaning the "latice work." The connection—or excuse for the word "chanel"—lies in the fact that carved screens or lattice work, generally divided the east end of a church from the other parts.

"Nave" is from the Latin "Navis," a ship. A church in a religious sense is an ark. So—"Nave."

The American Legion, organization of ex-service men and women of the World war, is in the midst of a membership drive in which it hopes to enroll every eligible man and woman as a member. The dates of the drive are from April 3 to April 10 inclusive.

Thorough organization for this drive has been worked out so that the drive may be as near one hundred percent as possible. Posters are on display in store windows and street cars, reminding one that the drive is on and appealing to every ex-service man and woman to do their duty and become a member of this organization.

The city has been divided into sections by wards, with a team of "Go Getters" for each ward, to make a canvass of each home and business house in its section, so that no eligible person will be missed.

The "Go Getters" for the Hilltop are: C. H. Latham, 292 N. Warren Ave.; Paul Koons, 128 N. Warren Ave.; J. N. Jones, 35 N. Oakley Ave.; H. P. Garrett, 341 S. Burgess Ave.; John V. Fraas, 62 S. Harris Ave.; C. B. Turner, 102 Midland Ave.; T. J. Meehan, 2676 Sullivant Ave.; A. N. Watson, 435 S. Richardson Ave.; Claude Hawden, 444 S. Ogden Ave., and Robert Schumacher, 246 S. Terrace St.

For the convenience of members and prospective members, F. L. Steinberger's jewelry store at 2391 W. Broad St. has been designated as Hilltop headquarters, where applications cards may be had or members may pay their dues into any of the posts of the city.

There are seven posts in Columbus as follows: Franklin Post No. 1, Columbus Post No. 2, Norton Post No. 141, Scott Post No. 182, Frank Moore-Carey Evans Post No. 187, Navy Post and Bloe Post.

AUTO COLLISION NEARLY SERIOUS

Rev. E. L. Elford and Ezra Haldy Suffer Injuries When Machine is struck.

Rev. Edgar L. Elford, pastor of Highland Avenue Friends church, and Ezra Haldy, 48 Eldon Ave., narrowly escaped fatal injuries Tuesday afternoon when the car in which they were riding collided at Broad street and Highland avenue with that of Norbert Dague, 1042 Bellows Ave.

Rev. Elford was painfully injured, sustaining two fractured ribs and a possible fracture of the right arm. Mr. Haldy suffered a long cut on the top of his head. The two men were removed to Mt. Carmel hospital, where their injuries were dressed, and were taken to their homes later in the evening. Dague was uninjured.

Rev. Elford and Mr. Haldy were in Mr. Haldy's machine and in attempting to turn south off Broad street on Highland avenue, when they were struck by Dague's machine going east. It is said Dague was traveling at a very high rate of speed.

The impact of the collision threw the Haldy machine between a telephone pole and a water plug, against the office of Dr. R. J. Sharp, one spring of the machine smashing through the wall of the building and knocking off a portion of the baseboard and plaster.

HILLTOP BOYS AND GIRLS IN CONTEST

Sponsored by Ohio Council of Churches—Scholarships and Money as Prizes.

Young people of the local churches who will compete in the "Prince of Peace" declamation contest sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches this spring, are at work memorizing the selections which they will present in the competition this month.

So far, 11 boys and girls of Hoge Memorial Presbyterian church have enrolled in the contest. The final date for enrollment is next Sunday, April 18th.

The winner in each local church that has five or more contestants will receive a bronze medal and will be entitled to compete with similar winners from other churches of the county in a silver medal contest. All silver medal winners from this congressional district will then meet in a district contest, with a gold medal as the award.

Finally the district champions of the entire state will participate in the state contest in Columbus, June 23, with three cash prizes of $500, $300 and $200, accompanied by free-tuition college scholarships for four years, two years and one year, respectively.

The local church contests will be held by April 25. Each contestant will deliver a selection on world peace, taken from a book of 20 such articles by some of the country's outstanding authorities in this field and published by the Ohio Council of Churches.

The contest is open to Ohio residents who on April 25 are 14 years old or over, but not yet 19, and who are not and have not been enrolled as college students.

Much Interest in Revival Meetings

Revival meetings at Burgess Avenue U. B. church are continuing with much interest and large attendance. Rev. Andrew Straley, the 18-year-old evangelist, is preaching sermons remarkable for their keen wit and evangelistic fervor. Clyde Kelly is doing splendid work at the piano and adds much to the enthusiasm of the singing. He has a fine voice and his solo work is excellent. Meetings are held each night except Saturday. Rev. Straley will preach morning and evening on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Deems and son Ralph, 26 Binns Blvd., and Rev. R. E. Shields, pastor of Hoge Memorial church are in Birmingham, Ala., this week attending the sessions of the International Council of Religious Education. Mr. Deems is attending the meetings as a representative of Hoge Memorial Sunday school. While in Birmingham the Deems family are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Robinson and family, former Hilltop residents. En route home Mr. Shields will visit with his sisters in Charlotte, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Close, 248 N. Burgess Ave., left Monday morning for Miama, Fla., where they expect to remain for two months. They are making the trip on account of Mr. Close's health.

The young married ladies of Burgess Avenue U. B. church have organized their class and the following members were elected officers: Mrs. Mary Moore, president; Mrs. Recob, vice president; Mrs. Leona Rusch, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Ruth Mayor, chairman of social committee.

Mrs. Clara Schoonover, 485 South Powell avenue, was slightly stunned last Friday while sitting in her machine, which was parked at Frankfort street and City Park avenue. Mrs. Schoonover's machine was struck by another machine, pushing it acrr s the street. Mrs. Schoonover was able to go to her home.

HOLMES HILLTOP LIBRARY WEEK

The outlook for a successful Holmes Hilltop Library Week brightened immensely at the workers' meeting at Glenwood church last Monday evening. There was an exhibition of community interest and pride which would assure the success of any movement.

The captains in charge of the canvass by streets were present for final instructions and will proceed at once to the organization of each street for the home solicitation.

Dr. Howard Whitehead, the general chairman of the campaign, presided at the meeting. Mrs. O. J. Linville outlined the plans and reported that her street was already organized and had set the goal for the street at $100. Mr. M. W. Seiller, captain of the business section team, reported the work already begun and assured the workers that the business section would sustain the fine record of last year.

Mrs. C. B. Ross, president of the City Federation of Women's clubs, was introduced by the secretary of the board, Mrs. Woodruff, and paid a fine tribute to the Hilltop for its devotion to this great community interest. She assured the workers that by sustaining the Holmes Hilltop Library they were hastening the day when Columbus, like other up-to-date cities, would adopt a system of branch libraries to provide for the large sections of the city which are now without library facilities.

WEST BROAD ST. SCHOOL NOTES

The P.-T. A. program for Friday evening at West Broad Street school has been prepared by boys of the fifth and sixth grades, and consists of the following:

Songs by the Boys' Glee Club.
Piano solo—Henry Shults.
Vocal solo—Charles Minshall.
Address—Mr. Arthur R. Harper, president of the Columbus Audubon society.

Every father is asked to be present at this meeting with his boy.

The boys and girls were delighted with "Dinty" last Thursday afternoon.

The kindergarten teachers, Miss Davies and Mrs. Craig, entertained Miss Samuel, supervisor of kindergartens, and the teachers in that department Wednesday afternoon. This is a monthly affair, at which time methods and plans for carrying on the work are discussed. After the meeting, dainty refreshments were served. About 25 were present.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB TO GIVE OPERETTA

The Girls' Glee club of Highland Avenue Jr. High school will present the operetta, "In India," at John Burroughs school Friday, April 23, at 8 o'clock.

The scene of the operetta occurs in the central square of the Indian village. Fishui, on the banks of the Ganges, and the incidents of the plot are woven around the selection of a dancing girl for the temple on the festival day of "Ahu," god of the flowers.

The characters are: Murah, the beautiful one, Genevieve Hartman; Simla, the village pet, Nellie Doughty; How-Now, the village scold, Ethel Hagerman; Veerah, a beggar, Betty Cannon; Hear-No-Evil, Corinne Cowell; See-No-Evil, Florence Heiney; Speak-No-Evil, Helen Mayo.

Chorus: Gertrude Alford, Margaret Aschinger, Irma Bartgis, Ora Carter, Helen Hayes, Gracie Kiner, Eileen Langstaff, Madge Markins, Frances Marsh, Dorothy Roeck, Carmen Wilcox, Martha Waymer, Mary Cartmell, Louise Compton, Olive Grimm, Priscilla Held, Juanita, Meeker, Jessie Pirsenchaum, Thelma Sanborn, Madeline Thompson, Virginia Miller, Elizabeth George, Betty Gusler, Donna Harmon, Mabel Johnson, Jane Markeson, Jean Randall and Mary Shears.

The subject of "Peace" was discussed, followed by a general discussion on law enforcement. The hostess served dainty refreshments and all enjoyed the social hour. The parts of the play were read and given out, which will be presented at Central High school, by the three divisions, Y. P. B., L. T. L. and the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Dr. and Mrs. R. P. Rauch and children returned Sunday evening from Van Wert, Ohio, where they were visiting Mrs. Rauch's father, who recently underwent an operation.

BASKETBALL SEASON ENDS

Four Good Games at Glenwood Shelter House Last Thursday Night.

Final basketball games of the season were played at Glenwood shelter house last Thursday evening, and those who saw the games were well satisfied, for each game was a thriller from start to finish.

The officials of the league wish at this time to extend their thanks to the people of the West-side for their cooperation in these games, although the final check on tickets has not been completed it looks as if the boys will have a banquet.

The first game of the evening saw the Champion Gift Street M. E. Junior team down the Junior All-Stars by the count of 18 to 12. The all-around playing of Benner for Gift Street was the feature of the game. Tracy, Ballard and Barrett played well for the All-Stars.

In the second contest the Intermediate All-Stars were victors over the Champion West Park M. E. Intermediates, 21 to 17. Green and Wolfe led the way for the Stars, while Nichlaus and Trabue showed best for West Park.

The third game was a thriller, put on by the Hilltop "6" girls, class B champions of the city, and the Jays, who were runners up in their league. The Hilltop "6" were the victors by a 17 to 10 count.

Miss Roberts was the star of his game, gathering 13 of her team's points. Miss Green was the high scorer for the Jays, gathering 6 of her team's points.

Emerson Davis, sport writer for the Dispatch, presented the Hilltop "6" with a cup given by the City Recreation department.

Each girl of both teams was presented with a pound box of chocolates by the West Church League in appreciation of the part they played in the benefit games.

The last game was a thriller from start to finish, between Office Training School and the Senior All-Stars. The game went to the All-Stars in the last minute of play by a score of 22 to 19. The O. T. S. boys showed superior pass work but were unable to get the baskets. Chet Brady played best for the Training school and Murray, Harold and Cahill were leading lights for the All-Stars.

Social Notes

The men of the Married People's People's Bible class of Hoge Memorial church were hosts to the lady members of the class at the regular monthly meeting last Friday night. A social time prevailed after the business of the class was taken care of. One novel feature of the social hour was the use of the stereopticon machine in projecting pictures of the lady members of the class on the screen, most of the pictures being of rather ancient date, and showing the fair sex in long forgotten costumes.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Buell, 2384 Apple St., announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Dolores, to Mr. Floyd Stecker Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Hill, 115 N. Warren Ave. The marriage will take place in the near future.

Tuesday evening at the Hilltop School of Music the following pupils will be presented in the April recital: Judith Ann Garrison, Carl Hughes, Robert Marsh, Walter Miller, Howard Zimmer, Glenn Hitchcock, Irene Stewart, Clayton Tullis, Mary Jane Sheron, Edna Swickard, Eloise Ritchey, Esther Beifi, Gertrude Corrigan, Frances Sewell and Susan Barrell. The public is invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wehrle, 69 S. Wheatland Ave., gave a party Saturday evening in honor of their third wedding anniversary. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Nickels, Mr. and Mrs. Russel Friend, Miss Neil Ammorman, Mr. Paul Thompson, Miss Mildred Shepard, Mr. William Warner, Miss Lillian Stanton, Mr. William Hunt, Miss Edith Bagford, Mr. Charles Barlow, Miss Margaret Noice, Mr. Walter Schultz, Miss Margaret Magenberger, Miss Frances Schultz, Miss Bertha Renner and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wehrle and daughter Eleanor. A light lunch was served, which all enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Wehrle received many useful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Lucas entertained members of the Richelieu club at their home, 17 S. Eureka Ave., Saturday evening. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Roebuck, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Neiswander, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Wall, Miss Ida Paxton, Miss Helen Fairchild, Mr. Harold Helman and Mr. A. H. Kinkead. Miss Helen Fairchild, 1152 East Livingston Ave., will be hostess at the next meeting of the club.

Successful P.-T. A. Meet and Art Exhibit

Probably the largest crowd ever assembled at a parent-teacher association meeting was that of last Tuesday evening at Highland Avenue school. From 7 until 10 o'clock the halls were filled, and certainly the residents of the Hilltop proved their appreciation of the work being done in the schools attended by their children. Prof. E. N. Littleton talked on moving pictures. It was a fine address and thoroughly enjoyed by the large crowd present.

The exhibition of the art work of the pupils was indeed a beautiful sight, and one looking at it could scarcely realize that it was the work of boys and girls ranging in age from 12 to 15 years. Compliments and words of praise were heard everywhere. The work consisted of pencil sketching, water colors, oils, and painting on silk and lamp shades.

The singing of Mr. Everett Staunch brought forth much praise. He was accompanied by Miss Mary Baker.

The entire corps of teachers were present and added much to the pleasure of the guests by their courteous treatment.

Tuesday evening Dr. R. P. Rauch of the Bureau of Juvenile Research, spoke before patrons of the centralized school at West Jefferson on the subject, "Habits." He will address the Business and Professional Women's club at Xenia, Thursday evening.

KILLED IN FALL IN A. I. U. Bldg.

Rudyard K. Tucker Loses Footing in Temporary Elevator; Falls 15 Stories

Funeral services for Rudyard K. Tucker, 18, carpenter's apprentice, 1720 Walsh Ave., who fell 15 stories to his death last Friday in the American Insurance Union building, where he was employed, were held Monday at the residence. He fell from the thirty-fifth to the twentieth floor.

Tucker was employed by Knollman & Spidel, fire proofing contractors, Washington, and had left West High school, where he was a junior, five months ago to work.

His skull and wrist were fractured when he lost his footing in a temporary elevator, and he died while being lowered from the twentieth floor to the ground floor.

His father, Charles J. Tucker, ironworker, was working on the forty-first floor of the building when he was notified of the accident, 10 minutes later.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Tucker; five sisters, Lola, Margaret, Kathryn, Ruth and Betty Jean Tucker, and two brothers, Walter and Charles. Burial was made in Memorial Park cemetery.

HEART ATTACK PROVES FATAL

To Mary B. Postle, Resident of Camp Chase for a Number of Years.

Mrs. Mary B. Postle, aged 75 years, Camp Chase, died at her residence at 2 a. m. Tuesday, following an attack of heart trouble. She was the widow of Theodore D. Postle and mother of Councilman Fred W. Postle, for many years a resident of the Hilltop.

Mrs. Postle was born in South Viship, Franklin county, for five years. After her marriage in 1875 she and her husband moved to a farm near Alton, where they resided until 1907, when they came to Columbus.

She is survived by another son, Dr. Carl D. Postle, 454 W. Seventh Ave.; a daughter, Mrs. Helen Harbage of London; two brothers, two sisters and 10 grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. T. H. Campbell, pastor of the North Broadway M. E. church, Thursday afternoon from the residence.

Last Sunday Dr. T. S. Fox and Dr. Fred Sulzburger opened their spring offensive against the finny tribe in No Man's Land of Buckeye Lake. They report their warfare very successful, capturing quite a number of prisoners with no casualties on the part of the invaders. It is reasonable to suppose that from now on we will have nice warm weather.

The young married ladies of Burgess Avenue U. B. church will hold their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Olive Collins, 2204 Sullivant Ave., Friday, April 16, at 8 o'clock. All members are requested to attend.

The Amity Embroidery club met at the home of Mrs. O. G. Brant, 86 Chicago Ave. The club was entertained by Miss Audrey Shields, who is a pupil of Miss Marie Bombrosky, teacher of expression. The following members were present: Mrs. Bright, Mrs. Hammond, Mrs. Graves, Mrs. Loomis, Mrs. Park, Mrs. Shields and the hostess, Mrs. Brant.

Call for West Side Baseball Players

Any church, business club, independent, fraternal or any other organization wishing to enter a baseball or recreation ball team are asked to get in touch with Charles Seddon or Bill Waite of the Recreation Department as soon as possible.

A business men's recreation ball league, an independent league, church leagues and as many more leagues as there is a demand for will be formed and composed only of West Side people.

The city has recently purchased the old West Side A. C. grounds at Central and McKinley avenues and will have four ball diamonds layed out as soon as the weather permits, as well as a playground. The diamonds will probably be used five nights a week for recreation ball. Four diamonds will take care of eight teams each night. Just think of it, five nights, forty teams. Have these diamonds filled every night by West Side teams. The balance of the time will be devoted to regular baseball.

This is an opportunity long waited for, so let's get busy and have these teams organized into leagues and have a real summer of sport.

CLASS B TITLE WON BY HILLTOP TEAM

Hilltop Six, Girls' Basketball Team, Brings Silver Cup to Glenwood Shelter House.

The silver cup, symbol of the championship for the girls' class B basketball league, is again in possession of a Hilltop team. The Hilltop Six, by winning the West League title and then defeating Indianola Church of Christ, champions of the North League, and St. Marys, champions of the South League, were responsible for the recapture of the cup for the Hilltop.

In 1924 the Glenwood Jays won the cup, in 1925 it was taken by a team from the North League, and was brought home again this year.

Throughout the entire season the Hilltop Six has played a fast brand of basketball, losing no regular game in its entire schedule. The team especially excelled in three points: passing, especially through center, the envy of all other players; then their defense was responsible for saving many games even in the final minutes of play, but best of all was their forwarding with Captain Mary Roberts dodging in and out, making baskets any moment from any angle.

Free Show for Kiddies

Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock the Rivoli Theater will give the children of the Hilltop another treat in the form of a free show. The star of the picture at this treat is the children's favorite, Mary Pickford in "Love Light." The show will start at 10:30 and every child on the Hilltop is invited.

Bible Class Increases Its Enrollment 200%

An interesting experiment in Sunday School work was recently started at Hillcrest Baptist church and has succeeded beyond all expectations.

This move was the result of a belief on the part of its originators, that young married people for the most part were not at ease in adult Bible classes composed of middle-aged people.

In an effort to ascertain whether or not the restraint and lack of interest would disappear under different conditions the Bible Class for Young Married People was organized about three months ago, the class being open to all married people of 30 or under, the age limit being waived in the case of husband and wife of an eligible person, who is over the limit.

The class is taught by Dr. Raymond J. Miller. The assistant instructor is I. H. DeRolph. As noted in an advertisement in the record, the enrollment has increased 200 per cent over the charter membership list.

The officers of the class are: H. B. Hawthorne, president; Ed Merrit, vice president; Mrs. L. W. Goodwin, secretary; Mrs. Wayne Miller, treasurer.

Group No. 2 of the Ladies' Aid society of Hoge Memorial church will meet Friday, April 16, at the home of Mrs. W. H. Deems, 53 Westmoor Ave. The meeting will be at 1:30 o'clock. As this will be an important meeting all members of this group are asked to be present. Mrs. A. C. Markert is chairman of this group.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Cady and daughter Betty Jean, 36 N. Warren Ave., are moving this week to Richmond, Ind., where Mr. Cady will be manager of the Wben store.

HEALTH HINTS

By DR. O. R. McFADON

TOO MUCH NUTRITIOUS FOOD.

In this busy world we cannot live entirely separate and apart from others. The fact that "there are others" makes constant compromising necessary. For instance, as we meet others on the street we almost unconsciously vary from our course and those we meet do likewise. If all the people we meet were blind, we would then have double duty and could realize how this stweerving from the straight course is mutual.

We have our ideas of nutrition and eating and imagine we are very circumspect in favor of our health, but in ordinary social life—even in the family—we find ourselves varying from the ideal because of others. We eat what is set before us to oblige the cook; we eat more of some foods than we should because our taste suggests it, or because of its attractiveness. If we lived alone and planned our meals when not hungry, the element of caution and safety would more surely be in evidence.

One of the outstanding fallacies which is almost universal in the choosing of foods on the basis of nutrition. The fact of a proper balance of protein, fats, starch and sugar is not sufficient. The element of minerals and vitamines are now being urged, but it will take years of insistence and precept in food selection to ingrain it into the consciousness and habits of the people, so that it becomes a part of their faith and practice. Whatever may be thought or said of hobbies, it is nevertheless a fact that the hobby method is most useful in developing life habits.

The facts of protein, fats and carbohydrates and their proper relation are good and reliable knowledge that should be retained, but see where they lead us to if unmodified. With the nutritive elements uppermost in the housewife's mind, she takes pride in furnishing her family an improper balance of such staples as bread, meat, eggs, etc., which, because of its abundance, is paving the way in early life, for a lot of old-age diseases later on.

The nutrients are no less reliable and valuable, now that the minerals and vitamines are being stressed, but, like a new child in the family, they deserve our special attention till they arrive at a point of safety (in our minds) when they can be trusted as a partner.

To this end, why not make a hobby, for a time, of choosing our foods with reference to their mineral and vitamin content.

Without differentiating, the more important minerals and vitamines are found in the following foods: Milk and other dairy products, greens and all leafy vegetables; oranges, lemons, grapefruit and most other fruits; green and dried peas and beans and most root vegetables; lean meats but not in lard; tomatoes; whole grain flours, but not white flour nor white sugar. Sweet fruits are especially good because of the natural sugar contained. Plenty of dates and figs and raisins will cure a craving for candy. A liking for whole wheat bread can be cultivated.

No day should pass without eating freely of leafy vegetables, such as raw cabbage, lettuce, celery, spinach. Nuts are good, but must be well digested and should be eaten in place of, rather than in addition to meat. Peanut butter is good food and safer than most other nuts because of having been finely ground.

In a general way go lightly on bread, meat, eggs, cheese, etc., and "fill up" on fruits and vegetables.

$22,500 for Signature

Button Gwinnett, a name unknown to many, and yet important because it was one of those scrawled at the foot of the Declaration of Independence, is very valuable today as an autograph. In fact, the value placed on his signature is $22,500, due to the fact that only 40 of his signatures are known to exist. The autograph which recently brought this sum was sold ten years ago for $4600.

You'll do better at Seiller's after all.

A new kind of motor truck has been introduced in Germany. It combines principles of the snowplow, street sweeper and fire extinguisher. The shovel is carried on a frame placed in front and it may be adjusted to various heights and angles, while water for cleaning the pavement and walks is forced out through vents from a large supply tank. Hose connections are also provided, so that the truck may be used in fighting fires.

CITY WILL BUY PLEASURE BOAT

To Be Used on Scioto River Above O'Shaughnessy Dam.

Boating on the Scioto river above O'Shaughnessy dam will be available to pleasure seekers this summer.

Mayor Thomas was in Sandusky this week to select a boat to be placed on the river at this point. The craft will be larger than the one now operated at the Griggs dam, and will be a present of the Columbus Boxing Commission.

The boat will run between the dam and Bellpoint, a distance of eight miles. A dock for the boat is now under construction.

Government figures show that the United States now produces more Portland cement than all the rest of the world combined. The rapid growth of the industry is seen in the increase of shipments. In 1914, shipments totaled 46,437,966 barrels, while the estimated shipments for 1924 were 145,742,000 barrels. Almost 25 per cent of this amount was consumed in paving and road building. The demand for cement for road purposes has increased more than 400 per cent in eight years.

At the dedication of the newly built Presbyterian Church at Barranquilla, Colombia, a church bell for the first time calls Protestants to worship in Barranquilla. Services were held in the chapel of the Girls' School, but now the attactive new church with seating accommodations for six hundred will become the religious center of the work of the mission. The Presbyterians represent the only Protestant denomination working in Colombia.

Aromatic red cedar has been mixed with plaster into a patented composition, and is used especially for clothes closets, to repel moths and other insects. The preparation may be applied over a surface which is already plastered and needs only to be mixed with clean water to be ready for use. The plaster produces a smooth finish which is said to be proof against dust and at the same time as effective against moths as a cedar chest.

CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

About 100 persons attended the twenty-first anniversary celebration of the founding of the Friends Rescue home on North Hague avenue last Thursday. Rev. Charles Hayworth of Salem, Ohio, made the principal address.

Miss Evangeline Reama, secretary of field workers at the home, in her talk said that the public dance hall is the place where the largest percentage of the girls who have been at the Friends Rescue home recently met the men who led them astray.

There are 23 girls in the home at present. Of the 23 who were there last year, 21 were Franklin county girls. In all, 1288 girls have been cared for at the home.

There are still 175,000 men in the United States today engaged as blacksmiths, and the total yearly output of horseshoes is approximately 1,250,000 hundred-pound kegs. The industry has been known for 2500 years, and in spite of the introduction of modern methods into almost any other industry, the methods of the blacksmith have not changed greatly.

Japan's Prosperity

Judging from its foreign trade, Japan is enjoying a period of unprecedented prosperity, according to Francis H. Sisson, the New York banker. Her exports in 1925 were nearly $1,400,000,000, while her imports were a little in excess of that amount. The United States is her best customer, taking goods valued at more than $400,000,000 in that period.

Rabbits, so long considered a pest in New Zealand, because they destroyed growing crops, have now become very valuable. Their fur, properly dyed, has proved a highly desirable substitute for more expensive varieties. As many as 18,500,000 rabbit skins, valued at $4,000,000 were exported from New Zealand to the United States and England in 1925.

After experimenting with no less than 200 kinds of cheese it has been determined that it requires at least four years to obtain the delicate flavor of the finest Italian cheeses. The cheese depends entirely on the method of curing for its flavor. Before being locked up in a vault, each cheese has a pedigree made out, which is filed until the time for the cheese to be sold. A chart is also kept on which exact location of the cheese in the vault is carefully noted.

Great daring and skill are required to place microphones on lofty steeples so that the music of chimes may be broadcast. Radio men had to climb on narrow girders and over pinnacles of stone to connect the instruments to the station WJZ in New York city so that melodies from the 53-bell carillon of the Park Avenue Baptist church in New York city might be broadcast. Another difficulty is in finding the place best suited to catch the tones without drowning out the smaller bells.

Investment of funds really means putting money where it will be safe, on which interest will be promptly and regularly paid.

Putting money in untried, unproven ventures is simply gambling.

Freeman-Neff Co. Opens Subdivision

Opening of Joan Heights Addition in the Hilltop section by the Freeman-Neff Co. marks the first development step made by this organization in the rapidly growing Hilltop section of Columbus.

Joan Heights is the western portion of the old Haldy farm and lies between Wilson road and Hague avenue. There are 150 lots with a minimum frontage of 50 feet. The lots are offered from $450 to $575. Improvements will be petitioned immediately and will be completed within the year.

E. M. Romosier, 115 Eldon Ave., is representing the company on the Hilltop.

Fordite From Refuse

The term fordite comes up repeatedly in taking salvage at the Ford factories. What are you going to do with this old straw? The answer is fordite. What are you saving these scraps of iron for? Fordite. These bits of old filthy leather, what good are they? Fordite. This box of rubber scrap composed of ends of old tires, washers and what-not? Fordite. But what is fordite?

Fordite is a product of all these scraps mentioned. It is turned into steering wheels. Before Fordite was used steering wheels were made of wood, an expensive commodity. Experiments were made with scraps of rubber. To these were added straw and rope and various other things ordinarily considered rubbish. In time the product known as Fordite was evolved—a perfect substitute for wood, as strong and as lasting. Its manufacture has become one of the minor industries of the Ford organization.

Just received a new lot of $9.95 silk dresses—Seiller's.

A severe flood in Athens, in which more than a hundred people perished, uncovered in one street 38 ancient tombs. These tombs revealed mummies, vases and numerous gold ornaments and pieces of old jewelry.

It is said that no branch of the textile industry has a more promising future than the artificial silk trade. Rayon, which is the official name for such silk, was invented about 40 years ago, by a Frenchman, who discovered that the nitrocellulose obtained by treating cotton linters with nitric acid could be made into a lustrous fiber by pressing it through small dies into a coagulating solution. The manufacture of rayon was not successful until 1910, and did not become important until 1912. Since that time the demand has been increasing, and has been a big factor in the revival of the textile industry in this country. America leads in the production of rayon and gives promise of being to the artificial silk world what Japan is to the natural silk market.

The annual influx of tourists to Nice was the reason for the introduction of rolling homes. These houses are like house boats, and have all modern conveniences; a kitchen, living room, two bedrooms and a bath, and when in use the houses are propped up and securely anchored any place along the road which takes the tenants' fancy.

Cromwell Vain

Cromwell was said to have been vain of the moles on his face. He frequently mentioned the fact to his friends and set aside any suggestion that they could be removed. Byron was vain to the extent of shaving his brow to make it look higher, and Napoleon had a peculiarity, in that, it is said, he liked to cheat at cards, presumably to show he could outwit his gambling opponents.

Today American manufacturers are making most of the toys sold in American markets. A generation ago domestic manufacturers supplied only about half of the toys required to fill the orders, and in 1913, 88 per cent of the dolls and 94 per cent of the toys were imported from Germany. In 1918 the Japanese entered the field of toy-making, but the high tariff discourages the importing of toys, and now the domestic manufacturer is meeting the demands.

Remember that some day you may have to eat your words about somebody; it may help you to make them "good eating."

It is estimated that American manufacturers spend more than $35,000,000 annually on research work, according to a recent report prepared by the United States Chamber of Commerce. The investment is said to save $500,000,000 yearly in conducting industries. Many large trade associations spend large sums to find out how to improve their business.

A Scot applied for a position as patrolman on the London police force. Here is a question they put to him in Scotland Yard. "Suppose, MacFarland, you saw a crowd congregated at a certain point on your beat, how would you disperse it, quickly and with the least trouble?"

"I would pass the hat," answered MacFarland promptly.—Normal Instructor and Primary Plans.

A few days after a farmer had placed his two children in a school, a book agent called on him and said, "Now that your children go to school, you ought to buy them an encyclopedia."

"Buy them an encyclopedia? I will not," was his reply. "Let them walk as I did."

The cards are never "stacked" against the man who never knows when he is beaten.

Canadian Telephones

In the matter of telephone development Canada is following closely upon the heels of the United States. In the United States there is one telephone for about every seven persons, while in Canada there is one for every nine persons, there being more than 1,000,000 phones installed there to date. The United States, with five per cent of the world's area and six per cent of the world's population, has 61 per cent of the world's telephones.

To guide night traffic by air, two inland lighthouses have been established in France. One of these is at Paris and the other is at Dijon. Lamps of 1,000,000,000 candle power have been installed at Dijon. Placed in the tower of an old fortress which stands on the summit of a hill, these lamps are capable of throwing rays more than 200 miles on clear nights. The lamps are fixed on two revolving platforms and can be adjusted to give either two or four beams of light. In the lower part of the structure reserve motors and transformers have been placed.

The weather bureau saves shippers and manufacturers thousands of dollars annually by giving timely warning of approaching storms or cold. Recently a large concern using 27,000,000 gallons of lake water a day, was notified to shut down in time to prevent serious damage to its equipment because of a sudden fall in the lake level. Company officials were warned that changes in weather conditions would cause the lake to fall a foot or more between noon and evening of the same day.

In a sanitarium garden at Interlaken, Switzerland, there is a flower bed clock. Over the dial of a real timepiece, flowers have been built. Against the dark background, the numbers of the hours are plainly visible. There is a tiny second hand, too, divided into four sections, each indicating a quarter of a minute. The clock is placed where it may be consulted by patients and doctors, and tilted so that it may also be seen by passersby.

Pen Population Increase

According to figures given out by Warden P. E. Thomas of the Ohio penitentiary, the population of this institution has increased 362 in the last 10 months. The population last Saturday was 2881.

Conditions remain crowded, and some of the prisoners are sleeping in the basement of the penitentiary hospital. Last month alone 28 men arrived to serve 10-year sentences.

BASKETBALL TEAM GUESTS OF SENIORS

At West High School Thursday Evening—Program and Social Hour.

The senior class of West High school entertained the basketball squad with a party Thursday evening, April 8, at the school.

Dancing began at 8:15 and continued for an hour, when the guests and hosts assembled in the auditorium.

After the welcome address of Harold Mason, senior president, a short program was given. The Senior Girls' Glee club sang several selections; Emerson and Howard Deberry made a hit with their violin and piano specialties; Thelma Ansel and Bob Weller gave a vocal duet, accompanied by Lillian Born, and Charles Florio won much praise by his dancing.

Tiny basketballs were presented by Rita Gee and Edythe Gatten to the squad and coach, who gave a short resume of the season. "Bill" Kline, '26 captain, and John Florio, newly elected captain, expressed their opinions on the team's playing and its probable success.

A Panatrope, loaned by the Cooper Music Co., was used instead of an orchestra.

Delightful refreshments were served in the domestic science room, after which dancing continued until 11:30.

Mrs. C. E. Sheron, 67 S. Eureka Ave., was hostess to the El Dorado club of the Y. W. C. A. Monday evening. WILL ELIMINATE DANGEROUS TURN

Town Street to be Widened 20 Feet from Town to Sandusky Street.

A resolution introduced in the West Side Board of Trade at their March meeting to have city council take steps to eliminate the dangerous corner at Gift and Town streets was immediately acted upon by O. E. Davis, chairman, who took the matter before the city engineer, when a survey was made taking out that "kink" at Gift street. The plan is to widen Town street about 20 feet more from Gift to Sandusky, and remove the buildings on the west side of Gift street just north of Town so as to permit the new intersection to line up with the present curbing as it is east of Gift street. There not being many buildings on the north side of Town street between Gift and Sandusky streets, the cost of the improvement would not be so great.

The matter was taken up before council but will not be put through until 1927.

A single redwood tree furnished sufficient wood to construct a rustic arch as a tourist shelter in Vancouver B. C. The structure is modeled after a Grecian temple. The pillars are lengths of the trunk and the bark has been left on to increase the natural effect.

LIBRARY WEEK APRIL 26 TO 30

Canvassers Wil Start Out Next Monday Morning to Solicit Funds for Library.

Next week is "Library Week" on the Hilltop.

The general canvass committee with Dr. E. Whitehead as chairman, has arranged for a captain for each street on the Hilltop who will have charge of the solicitation of their particular street.

Several meetings of the committee have been held and the outlook for a successful canvass is very encouraging to the committee members.

Dr. George F. Barber, a trustee of Holmes Hilltop Library and member of the canvass committee, addressed the South Central and Southeast District Ohio Library Association in convention in Columbus last week and states that it really is amazing the amount of attention the Holmes Hilltop library is drawing from other sections of the city and the city officials as well. Mrs. Currier, librarian, also attended these meetings.

When the canvassers come at your door meet them with a smile and a subscription to an institution every resident of the Hilltop is welcome to use and one we are all extremely proud of having.

Can the library trustees depend upon your support?

BIBLE SCHOOL AT Y. M. C. A.

On Wednesday evening, May 5, a recital will be given by Miss Ethel Clark, a graduate of a New York organ school.

RECOVERS AUTO FROM SCHOOL LAD

When Nate Wasserstrom, 1015 West Broad St., recognized a familiar squeak of a fender as a roadster passed him at Rich and Sandusky streets, Saturday evening, he gave chase and after a half hour of pursuit in another car, captured Allen Radford, 163 N. Princeton Ave., who told police he was merely learning to drive.

Radford told Detective Folk and Berry that he had recently secured employment as a truck driver for an ice company, and that he was inexperienced. He had no intention of stealing the car, he said, but wished to improve his driving ability.

STUDENTS MAKE AND SELL QUILT

Pupils of Skidmore School Raise Money for Playground Equipment and Talking Machine.

To raise funds with which to purchase playground equipment and a portable talking machine, pupils of Skidmore school recently combined their efforts in making a large quilt, which sold for $70.

Every pupil, both boys and girls, was given a section of the bed-covering to make. When finished, the individual pieces were sewed together and offered for sale.

Cohens and Kellys at Dreamland Next Week

Eyes and throats, hands and hearts are called into play by "The Cohens and Kellys," which opens at the Dreamland theater Saturday and runs through next week.

Eyes with which to cry; throats with which to laugh; hands to clench and hearts to beat over the love affairs of a charming young couple. Such are the results produced by this interesting, happy picture of the affairs of a Jewish and an Irish family.

Everything doesn't go smoothly, however, and suspense grows up to the end. Many surprising turns of events occur that are led up to with skill and facility.

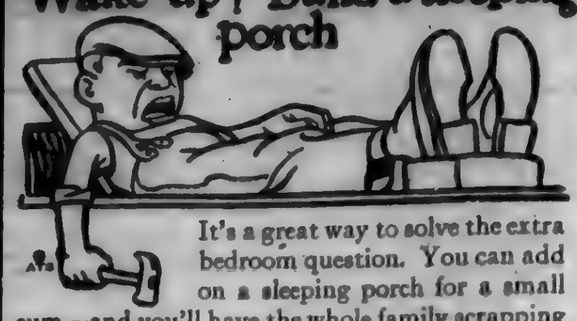
Charlie Murray is perfectly cast as a policeman, and Kat Price as his wife. The two give many rollicking moments to the picture. Opposite them are George Sidney and Vera Gordon, who have become famous for dramatic roles and prove an effective pair of workers in "The Cohens and Kellys."

The picture is one you will enjoy with laughs and tears, and is conceded the funniest picture of the year.

COMPILING ROSTER OF OHIO VETERANS

Names of 263,000 of Both Sexes Will Be Placed in Set of 27 Volumes.

The Ohio adjutant general's office has started compiling a roster of the 263,000 Ohio men and women who served in the World war, Adjutant General Frank D. Henderson announced recently, legislation for which was authorized by the legislature in 1919.



The roster will trace each individual's connection in the war, show in what battles he fought, whether wounded or killed, give the date of his discharge and all other information bearing on his service. There will be 27 volumes of this information.

One thousand copies of the first volume have been discarded because of inaccuracies later found to exist in the records used, General Henderson said. Three thousand copies of each volume will be printed.

By DR. O. E. McFADON

WHY HAVE SPRING FEVER?

What is the cause? and what is the cure? Are we unfortunate in having to winter in such a climate as ours? Are you content with thinking that, as a matter of course you will have a season of languor and lassitude? And are you still in the class of chronic medicine takers who are victims of the "Now Take Spring Tonic" ads? Did you decide years ago that two bottles of your favorite medicine were necessary every spring to put you in condition? And are you keeping up that pace?

There was at time when a weekly paper, a biennial Hand Book and Almanac were an important part of the decorations of "The Chimney Corner" in many homes, and the patent medicine people knew what they were about when they advertised their products in them. After a winter of comparative inactivity and heavy eating the shrewd "medicine man" could describe the feelings of these good people at long range, and because he could do that he made easy sales of medicine through the neighborhood general store which he supplied with his "take one" almanacs.

The things that he knew about their cases were that they were good livers; that their food was of the heavy nourish sort; and that their habitual exercise was not commensurate with their eating. Therefore, poisons which should have been eliminated, were, little by little, stored up in their bodies, and of course he could describe their feelings.

Many people have a superficial notion that the bowels and kidneys are the great eliminators of poison. But, as a matter of fact, they do only about one-third of it. The skin would take care of another third, and the lungs the remaining third, if they were allowed to do it.

Everybody knows that perspiration is poisonous, but many do not realise that we are all perspiring all the time, day and night, winter and summer. That is what soils our clothing. Imagine the effect then of eating more and perspiring less, as we do in winter. There is only one conclusion: that much of the poison from the food (the only source) accumulates and is stored in the body.

And we all know that every outgoing breath is loaded with poison, as compared with the air before we breathe it. This suggests the necessity for deep breathing to eliminate more poison.

The salutary effect of exercise is not so much in muscle building as in the elimination of poison by the deep breathing which exercise requires.

Exercise is to be commended at all times by people in general health; but not necessarily strenuous exercise. Gymnasium stunts may atone for overeating and so is better taken than not, but eating less and exercising less are better because by so doing one is not unnecessarily wearing out his digestive machinery.

An unprejudiced look into the winter life of the farmer, and others who are less active in winter than in summer, will not only suggest, but will demand that he and they eat less, when working less; and so avoid "spring fever," and in after years, such ailments as constipation, auto-intoxication (self-poisoning), hardened arteries, high blood pressure, apoplexy, gout, rheumatism, etc., all of which are the results of stored up poison in the tissues.

Dr. McFadon's Health Nuggets is on sale in the Hilltop stores.

Thirty-five miles of guard rails have been completed by the state highway department within the year, and plans for the next 10 months include the building of at least 50 miles more, located in all portions of the state.

Guard rails are being erected at points of great danger by the department division engineers on all sharp curves, bridge approaches, and at places where there are deep ditches or the road is above the surrounding land. Several miles of the new wire mesh type are being erected in Franklin county.

STATE-WIDE ESSAY CONTEST

Approximately 50,000 school children in Ohio will compete in the state-wide essay contest being promoted through the schools of the state by the Sesqui-Centennial Commission of Ohio. Two children from each county in the state will be given a free trip to the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition at Philadelphia this year at the expense of the state. One pupil from the elementary grades will be chosen and one from the high schools. The elementary pupils will write an essay on the subject of "What the Declaration of Independence Means to Me," while the high school pupils will have for their subject "How Has the Declaration of Independence Influenced the World."

Pamphlets describing the rules of the contest have been sent to all schools of morning by the state director of this s the state. It was announced last week by the state director of this contest that all but 16 of the counties' were already organized for the contest and that all of the cities except a few small ones were getting behind this movement in an exceptionally effective way.

The first copy of an essay already written reached the statehouse last Saturday and from the tone of the first essay it appears that "Kings" are in for a good drubbing by the school children of the state.

Mrs. Charles Bryan, her son, Mr. Lawrence Bryan, and Miss Rose Polsley, 125 S. Richards Ave., returned last week from a few days' motoring trip to Huntington, W. Va., where Mr. Bryan, who is psychologist with the state bureau of juvenile research, delivered addresses at Marshall college,

The custom of numbering the years in the present manner did not, of course, begin immediately upon the birth of Christ. His birth and life made so little immediate impression upon the world in general that the Greeks continued to count the years from the time of the first Olympian games and the Romans from the mythical date when their city was founded.

These dates represented their ideas as to what constituted the most memorable events in their history. As the centuries passed the world's ideas changed and in 527 A. D. Dionysius Exiguus, who compiled the first regular ecclesiastical code for the western church, conceived the idea of dating time with reference to the birth of Christ.

date from which our chronology is reckoned, or the year 4 B. C.

It seems rather inconsistant to say that Christ was born in the fourth year B. C., but chronologists quite generally agree that such was the case. The present year pretends to be 1926: it ought to be 1930.—Chas. D. Seward in the Atlantic.

In this connection an error was made. Herod died in the 70th year of his age and in the very year in which Jesus of Nazereth was born and this has been discovered to have occurred four years earlier than the

MUNY GOLF COURSE OPENED SATURDAY

Rearranged Nine-Hole Course Is One of the Best in the Country.

The re-arranged municipal golf course on Dublin avenue was opened last Saturday for the first time this season, when more than 100 golfers took advantage of the opportunity to play the game.

The course is one of nine holes and besides being rearranged is declared by Director Raymond to be one of the best courses in the country.

"Under the present arrangement there will be no croquet playing on the municipal course," Director Raymond declared. "It is far sportier than the course last year and will, in my opinion, improve the game of all who played on the muny course, since we have had one in this city."

Several months have been spent in taking out trees, building new tees and greens, raking and cleaning up the entire course and the development of new fairways, all improvements over the old course.

By June 1 every green with the exception of three will be of Bent grass. The other three Bent grass greens will be trapped and ready for play in the late summer, Director Raymond declares. A nursery will be built for the growing of Bent grass.

The clubhouse has been repainted and decorated. The women's and men's locker rooms have been redecorated. Caretakers under the supervision of Director Raymond are preparing a spacious parking grounds on the south side of Dublin avenue, just across from the clubhouse.

MANY ACCIDENTS DURING MARCH

An average of 642 industrial accidents occurred every working day in Ohio during March, according to Thomas P. Kearns, superintendent of the safety division of the State Industrial Commission.

Each day's accidents caused an average of 28,242 lost, according to the superintendent. The average daily number is the same as February but is better than January.

Kearns says there is a lack of sufficient safeguards.

HEALTH HINTS

COMBINATIONS IN FOODS

Today I ate a lunch of raw cabbage, milk, cottage cheese, baked potato and applesauce. Two hours later I felt that digestion had hardly commenced. Naturally I hunt for the offending food. Each item seems innocent enough and the quantities were right. The fault then must be in unwise combination.

Cabbage, milk and cottage cheese will each agree with all the others, and the potato agrees with all but fruit. Likewise the sauce is friendly to all but the potato. Herein I have broken one of my own rules, not to mix starches and fruit, and I am suffering for the indiscretion. And so we get experimental knowledge, which, after all, is the best, if we get it.

The baked potato and the sauce are each innocent enough, as foods, but together, they make a new unit to be reckoned with—starch and fruit.

I knew all this long ago, and yet, human like, I ventured to mix them and with unpleasant results. I know about the fire, but I ventured, and am burned, only to have it ground more deeply into my consciousness that starch foods (bread, potatoes, rice, beans, etc.) and fruits "will get along better together if they are kept separated." (Dooley).

If the reader cares to experimen with sweet fruits and starch food, suggest that it be done cautiously, but it must be remembered that sweetened fruits are not sweet fruits. The sweet fruits are such as do not need sugar to satisfy the taste, such as raisins figs, dates, and some orchard fruits.

It seems anamolous that the more sugar you add to lemonade or canned acid fruits, the more acid or acid-forming it becomes in its results in the body, but such is the case. We become addicted to unnatural sweets (sugar), and the best cure for the addiction is to freely substitute the natural sweets. Then after a time, the craving for sugar-sweetened foods will pass away. Children's tastes can be managed in this way. Let them eat freely of dates, raisins, etc., and they will not care for candy, and the growth of their bones and teeth will thereby be promoted.

PLAYGROUND TESTS

One hundred and seventy-eight cities have entered 311 playgrounds and athletic fields in the national playground beautification contest announced by the Playground and Recreation Association of America. Forty-one states and Canada are represented by the cities competing for the $4650 in cash prizes and nursery stock to be awarded by the Harmon foundation.

New York is the most populous competitor, and Antreille and Coward, S. C., are the smallest, each boasting 100 persons. However, the metropolis will not compete directly against the villages, as all entering cities are divided into three population groups.

A small fragment of the Bible, dated from the time of Emperor Constantine, A. D. 324-337, was recently found in a collection of parchments. The fragment is probably a part of one of the fifty handwritten Bibles which Constantine had distributed throughout the Greek colonies.

Prohibition sentiment is growing in Germany. In one week four hundred and sixty thousand Germans signed their names in favor of local option, and the list was presented to the Reichstag.

New Stamps to Be Used

Notification that a new two-cent stamp will be used in celebration of the Sesqui-Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia, was received by post officials Monday. The stamp, which will be placed on sale in Washington, Boston and Philadelphia on May 10, will be the same size as the present special delivery stamp, and will be the same shade of red as the ordinary two-cent stamp. A shipment of the stamps will be received in Columbus as soon after May 10 as production permits, the notification said.

The Glenwood Ladies' Aid, first division, will meet in the church parlor Tuesday, May 4, at 2 o'clock. Members living on Richardson avenue will be hostesses.

A total of more than $3,000,000 will be received for the eleven months of Michigan's 2-cent gasoline tax which went into operation last February 1. The eight months' receipts from Minnesota's tax effected May 1 will aggregate $3,750,000, it is estimated.

There are about 21 provinces in China. They have an area of about 436 square miles and a population of about 331,188,000. Because of mountains, rivers, and dry regions some parts are more densely populated than others. Shantung, for example, has 628 people to the square mile. One of the causes for China's large population is the fact that her location in reference to the equator gives her one of the best climates of any large nation on earth.

EARLY ZONING ORDINANCE

Springfield, Mass., claims to have one of the oldest zoning ordinances in the United States, perhaps in the world. At a town meeting held in February, 1640, more than 280 years ago, the citizens of the town ordered that no barns should be set up in a certain highway, and that, if anyone transgressed this order, it would be permissible for the selectmen to order the building torn down.

Fifty years later the selectmen laid out several highways of almost unprecedented width, some of 20 rods' width, or 330 feet; some of 10 rods' width, or 165 feet; and others 6 rods wide.

HISTORY ON A STRING

Most persons are familiar with representations of the hieroglyphics of the ancient Egyptians. By means of the engraved marks found on the monuments and other records the old Egyptians could represent certain ideas suggested by objects and even sounds. This signifying of sounds by means of symbols formed nearly a true alphabet.

In Mexico the Aztecs had a crude system of picture writing by which visible objects could be accurately described, but beyond that it could not go, for it could not describe abstract ideas.

Possibly the crudest invention of this sort was the mysterious science of the quipu, which was taught to the Peruvian princes by their wise men. While both systems before mentioned seemed primitive, this is even more so, and yet it served a purpose.

This quipu was a piece of rope usually about two feet in length, composed of many colored strings twisted together. To this main cord were fastened numbers of strings of different colors tied into knots, thus forming a fringe. These knots gave the device its name, for the word quipu signifies "a knot." The colors represented sensible objects. For example, white might stand for silver, and yellow for gold. Occasionally they suggested ideas abstractly. White might signify peace and red, war.

The chief use of the quipu was for arithmetical purposes. The knots took the place of ciphers and could be combined to represent numbers to any amount desired. The colors of the string explained the subject to which the numbers referred, and in this way the Peruvians devised a complete system of enumeration. The Spanish explorers testified to the rapidity with which this curious system worked.

FACTORY IMPROVEMENTS

The modern American factory is far different from the dingy brick structures that one still sees in parts of Europe. It seems to be built chiefly of glass; its ventilation is scrupulously regulated; its floors and walls are swept and washed, and every precaution is taken against dust which might play havoc with machinery and delicate tools, as well as with the health of employees. We are practically forcing such factories on Europe, because Europe is learning that she cannot compete with us successfully unless she adopts our methods.

Nearly half a million telephone directories are published every year for the single city of Philadelphia. Forty people spend all their working time preparing the next issue of the telephone directory. Getting it ready for the printer is an all-the-year job because the directory is a 1200 page book, containing 400,000 names, adresses, and telephone numbers. After the issue is ready to print, next to accuracy, speed is the most important factor. Eighteen days after the "copy" goes to the printer, forty-five thousand books are on their way to subscribers.

America was discovered first by the Chinese, according to Scie Tou Fa, a Chinese official in Paris. The first explorers in South America and Mexico, he says, were struck by the resemblance of the architecture there with that of the Far East. A statue of Buddha was found in Mexico.

Recipes

BAKED SALSIFY

One bunch salsify, 3 tablespoons butter, ½ cup milk, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 2 eggs.

Wash and scrape salsify. Cut in slices and drop into acidulated water to prevent discolortion. Drain and put into boiling water to cover containing 2 tablespoons lemon juice. When half cooked add salt. Cook until tender, about 30 minutes, and rub through a strainer. Add butter, salt, paprika, milk and yolks of eggs well beaten. Heat well and fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a well-buttered baking dish and bake surrounded by hot water for 40 minutes. Serve at once.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

Although it is a little early in the season, the strawberry shortcake is once more making its appearance among us. Individual shortcakes have been in favor for some time and are particularly so since family dinners are smaller than they used to be. The recipe given here is for three or four persons and is a quick shortcake which does not take any care in mixing. Take 1 cup of flour, 1 tablespoon of lard and butter together, 2 level teaspoons of baking powder, and a pinch of salt. Add enough milk to drop on a buttered pan and bake. This recipe will turn out all right even when stirred instead of cut with a knife or worked with the fingers.

HAMBURGER PIE

Run a pound of top round steak, cut with a rim of fat, twice through the meat chopper. Add to it two grated onions, pepper, salt and a teaspoonful of sugar. Chop through it with a knife a tablespoonful of butter and add four tablespoonsful of cream. Spread the meat lightly in the pie crust-lined pie plate, cover the top with very thinly sliced potatoes, then a thin layer of apple sauce. Put on the top crust and bake until the crust is done, about 30 minutes.

BAKED RHUBARB

Twelve prunes, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup sugar, 3 cups rhubarb cut in inch lengths.

Wash prunes and let stand three hours in cold water to cover. Remove stones and cut fruit in small pieces. Wash and cut rhubarb. Put rhubarb, prunes and water into a covered baking dish and cook in a moderate oven about 30 minutes. Add sugar and cook about 30 minutes longer or until rhubarb is tender. Remove cover about 10 minutes before taking out.

RHUBARB AND ORANGE MARMALADE

Two cups finely cut rhubarb, 3 oranges, 3 cups granulated sugar.

Remove the outer stringy skin of the rhubarb and cut in small pieces. Cut oranges in half, remove seeds and squeeze out juice. Put skins into a sauce pan, cover with cold water and bring to the boiling point. Simmer 15 minutes and drain. Scrape as much of the white part from the skins as possible and cut the yellow rind in strips. Combine rhubarb, orange juice —which is not strained—rind and sugar. Put into smooth sauce pan and bring slowly to the boiling point. Skim as necessary and cook until a spoonful of the mixture thickens when tested on a cold saucer. Pour into sterilized jelly glasses and cover with parafine when cold.

DATE PUDDING

Many people are extremely fond of date and nut pudding, and although the recipe is in circulation it is sometimes hard to put your finger on it when you want to stir one up in a hurry.

One cup of chopped nuts, 1 cup of chopped dates, 2 eggs, ½ cup of sugar, 1 heaping teaspoon of baking powder. Bake 25 minutes in a slow oven and serve with hard or foaming sauce.

APPLE SHERBERT IS TASTY

Take the juice from a quart of apples which have been boiled in a pint of water until tender and press through a sieve. When it is cold add the juice of an orange, a lemon and a quarter pound of sugar and a quart of water. Beat well and freeze. When yet soft, add the white of an egg well beaten and freeze.

RECREATION GROUNDS

The Playground and Recreation Association of America has had 19 years of successful experience in promoting public recreation. When its work began, 41 cities reported organized public play, but now there are 711.

ESTABLISHED FACT THAT BEAUTY PAYS DIVIDENDS

A picturesque hotel in a little town would be a boon, instead of the usual box-like structure, but you may guess that a picturesque hotel would cost $85,000 more than the box-like structure. Why is beauty so expensive; and why does ugliness save money—if it does?

That query is inserted advisedly, says F. H. Collier, writing in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. What if the picturesque hotel attracted wide attention; and the attention attracted passing guests motoring through, who spread its fame among others, and presently the hotel required a new wing for their accommodation and then another wing?

And if its location fortunately was a happy one among trees, where it added to its charms a fountain and an old English garden and a swimming pool, presently the picturesque hotel would blossom out as a "resort."

Of course its chef as well as its manager must be a person of good taste and resource. In the end, properly managed, beauty pays.

Linn county is getting ready to eradicate its cattle and thereby insure good, safe, clean milk and pure beef.—From an editorial in a Cedar Rapids paper.

Super X rays, a hundred times more penetrating than the ordinary X rays, were discovered by Dr. Millikan, of the California Institute of Technology, a recent winner of the Nobel prize for physics. So far, Dr. Millikan has not proposed a name for them, but some of his colleagues have suggested calling them "Millikan rays" in his honor. He merely calls them "penetrating rays." This title, "penetrating rays," is well merited because, according to their discoverer, they will pass through six feet of solid lead before they are extinguished, whereas the ordinary X ray is stopped by only half an inch of solid lead.

The seismograph, an instrument used to record earthquakes, is also a weather forecaster, and its records may be used to foretell storms, says Robert D. Sayles, of the Harvard Museum. This is possible, he says, because the reduced air pressure that comes in advance of a storm causes the earth's crust to rise slightly. This rise is recorded by the seismograph, and the direction it takes shows the direction from which the storm is approaching. Dr. Sayles says that the variations of air pressure and the deficiency in rainfall are often the causes of earthquakes. The low air pressure moves along slowly until it comes upon a weak place in the earth's crust. Here the crust gives way and the earthquake occurs.

The old lighthouse keeper has had his day. In a single year, recently, 74 stations were changed from the manoperated to the automatic status, the number of the keepers being reduced by 32. There are still many stations, however, where the keepers remain, and at some of the important stations they will always be a necessity. Many of the lighthouses are now run automatically like gas meters. In others the kerosene lights, lighted by hand, have been replaced by electric lights with one-second flashes. In England the "radio lighthouse" has been widely developed. The transmitter emits a broad beam of wireless energy which is caused to sweep around the horizon in a circular path, making one complete rotation every two minutes. The action is, in fact, very similar to that of the revolving lamp in the old lighthouse, except that a stream of wireless waves takes the place of the usual light rays.

Bank Gains

Columbus bank clearings for the first four months of 1926 showed a gain of $31,027,200, compared with the same period a year ago, this being an unusually large increase. The total for the four months is $282,979,000, against $251,951,800 for the same time last year. The gain in April amounted to more than $10,000,000.

Burglar Strikes Girl With Clay Statue

Miss Alma Grant of North Lewisburg, Ohio, was attacked last Saturday morning and suffered a deep scalp wound as a result of being struck over the head with a small clay statue, as she lay in bed at the home of her sister, Mrs. Fay Poole, 605 Oakley Ave.

The assailant, a negro burgler, entered the home by picking a front door lock. Nothing was taken from the house.

Rev. R. E. Shields, pastor of Hoge Memorial church, returned last Thursday from a two weeks trip in the south and east. While away Mr. Shields visited two sisters in North Carolina, attended the International Council of Religious Education in session at Birmingham, Ala., and visited relatives in New York. He occupied his pulpit last Sunday.

The regular meeting of the Glenwood J. B. B. class will meet Tuesday, May 11, at the home of Mrs. Ison, 86 S. Terrace Street, with Mrs. Fairchild, Mrs. Grove, Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Hitchcock as assisting hostesses. The annual election of officers will be held. It is desired that all members attend.

Business Men's Meeting

A very important meeting of the Hilltop Business Men's Association will be held this (Thursday) evening in the office of the Rodgers Realty Co. over Cussins & Hartsough's store.

Besides much important business to be transacted, Councilman Lewis will be present to address the meet. After the business and speaking is disposed of cider and doughnuts will be served.

HILLTOP JUNIOR RIFLE CORPS

Members Make Good Scores in Match with St. John, N. B., Team.

A Junior Rifle Corps unit under the National Rifle Association, has been organized on the Hilltop among the Boy Scouts of Troop 45, Highland Ave. school, and Troop 21, Hoge Memorial church. The corps meets at the Columbus Business Men's Rifle club, with E. N. Littleton, instructor, and John Birle as assistant. It has engaged in practice regularly since last fall and for the past month has been engaged in Winner Seal matches with units from other sections of the country. Last week the match was with the St. Andrews Cadets of St. John, N .B., Canada, at which the local unit made the following scores:

	Troop	Score
John Wolfe	45	100
Clifford Markeson	45	99
James Matheny	45	99
Henry Martin	45	90
Charles Thurston	45	98
Total		495

This score of 495 out of a possible 500 is considered very good for a team with the amount of experience this one has had. In these matches ten boys shoot, but only the high five count. The other five scores last week were as follows:

	Troop	Score
Elmer Smith	21	98
Milton Banning	21	95
Staley Shanely	21	92
Frank Howard	45	92
Robert Wolfe	45	88

A junior rifle corps has a maximum of 20 boys enrolled. This unit was filled as soon as organized, and is constantly deluged with applications from other boys who want to join, but for whom there is no room. Most of the boys in this unit expect to attend the Scout camp during the summer and should be a real asset to the camp rifle team.

The boys pass from rank to rank as they become more proficient, the order of ranks being as follows: Pro-marksman, marksman, sharpshooter, expert rifleman and distinguished rifleman. The last two named are very difficult to reach. The Hilltop unit now has nine sharpshooters; two of these, Henry Martin and John Wolfe, have passed some of these steps on the way to expert rifleman.

Rifle shooting is becoming an important American sport and is valuable in teaching by demonstration the importance of clean living and good physical condition. One in poor physical condition does not have the steadiness of nerve to make a good score with the rifle. Proper and careful handling of the rifle are taught and it is the boast of the national organization that no boy in any of their units has ever been injured during any supervised practice or match.

DISCONTINUE MEAT INSPECTION JUNE 1

Resignation of Two Inspections Leaves Funs for Another Month's Work.

Last Thursday afternoon the city board of health voted to discontinue meat inspection June 1, instead of May 1, the continuation for another month being made possible by the resignation of two inspectors, effective May 1.

The board practically ignored the resolution passed by the city council, Monday night, April 26, asking that full meat inspection be continued through the year. The board pledged support of Mayor James J. Thomas in operating the health department within the appropriation made for 1926.

SCHOOLS HELP CITIZENS' CAMPS

Scholarships to Be Given Graduates of Military Training Camps.

Announcement was made last Friday at Ft. Hayes that colleges and other schools in the Fifth Corps Area will grant scholarships this year to graduates of Citizens' Military Training camps.

High schools of the corps area, including Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia, a year ago authorized a one-fourth unit credit toward graduation to students completing each of the four courses at the camps, and Fifth Corps officials have since been seeking recognition by the colleges.

Fifteen colleges in the Fifth Corps Area will give scholarships.

HEALTH HINTS

By DR. G. E. McFADON

Doctors are cobblers—and necessarily so. We need them to patch us up as we need the shoe man to rejuvenate our shoes until they are hopelessly past his power to restore. As some people are "harder on shoes" than others and oftener need the cobbler, so some wear out their bodies faster than others and need more help from their doctors.

We do not expect the shoe man to give us a warrant that the shoes will never need more repairing, if the daily wear and tear is to go on, but some people expect of the doctors, permanent cures when there is no such thing.

We would feel almost insulted if the shoe man would charge us not to burn or otherwise injure our shoes, for that comes along with ordinary conservation prompted by common sense. But how is it with the doctor? Is he the keeper of our bodies any more than the shoe man is of our shoes? Presumably, yes. The proper care of shoes is simple and is supposed to be interest, but the care of the body is not so simple. Its intricacies which baffle even the scientists, are little known by most people. And herein lies an opportunity, and therefore a duty, that the doctor educate his people as far as possible.

When our "civilization" catches up with Chinese methods the doctors will collect for keeping people well and forfeit when they are sick, as is said to be the custom in China. Health-education would then be as compulsory as general education is now, and the relation of doctor to patient similar to that of pastor to people.

This sounds like taking the responsibility off the shoulders of the people. But not so. School learning is a basis and at "commencement" time we are supposed to commence to walk alone. Anyone who will allow his education to stop when school stops is not educated.

The fact that most of us had but little hygenic training, together with the likelihood of getting little or none from our doctor, makes it doubly necessary that each individual be a watchful student of his own health.

After one has been restored to health and shown the right path, he is most unwise and recreant to his duty to himself, if he lapses back into the ways that were once his undoing, for the same causes, if repeated, will bring on the same troubles, and more surely and quickly than before. Here is where human nature has to be dealt with. Tastes have been perverted; friends "kill us with kindness"; the will to resist is weak, etc., and it is much easier to go the down grade with the false notion that the downfall, which must come sooner or later, is "God's will," than to imagine any degree of personal responsibility in the matter. Old age diseases are thus accepted as a matter of course and therefore expected, when, really there is no such thing in Nature's program. Death from old age diseases are artificial and the questions of how much is homicidal (mistaken kindness) and how much is suicidal are never answered.

WEATHER TESTS ARE TO BE MADE

Public Asked to Co-operate With Weather Bureau in Gathering Data.

The U. S. Weather Bureau has set aside the month of May as "international month" for testing the atmospheric conditions in the upper strata of air.

In line with that plan, Weatherman Alexander last Friday broadcast an appeal for help from Columbus and Central Ohioans to assist in gathering the data, particular emphasis being placed on tests to be made from May 7 to May 15.

During that period at a station in Indiana, balloons and kites will be sent aloft and adrift to measure certain conditions.

If one comes down in your back yard, lot or farm read the directions attached carefully.

The kites and balloons will be marked for mailing back to the home station in Indiana.

The instruments will have recorded the conditions, floating along. The result will be of invaluable aid to the weathermen throughout the country.

An appeal for the donation of about $200 to the City Recreation Department to purchase American flags and flagpoles for city playgrounds was issued Friday by Recreation Director Raymond. It is pointed out that none of the playgrounds has flags or flagstaffs. The department is without funds to buy them, he said.

A MEMORIAL TRIBUTE

TO THE BEAUTIFUL AND USEFUL LIFE OF MRS. M. M. MARSHALL.

(By Mrs. Flonda Dyer, 146 Crestview Road)

Saturday afternoon, April 17, 1926, at her home, 95 Midland Ave., Columbus, Ohio, our beloved neighbor, friend and white ribbon comrade, Mrs. M. M. Marshall, after an illness of less than two weeks, passed peacefully to the happy homeland at 80 years of age. Her sense of humor, cheery disposition, keen interest in folks, her close touch with the burning vital questions of the day made her oft repeated statement, "I never intend to get old," come true. Few people have enjoyed life more than did Mrs. Marshall. She was an active member of the Glenwood M. E. church, the Hilltop Woman's Christian Temperance Union, the Home and Foreign Missionary societies and the McCoy Relief Corps. Her death closed a life of particular beauty, usefulness, devotion and courage. She was a woman of broad vision, tactful and persistent and vigorous worker in all things and activities for human betterment. Her loss is shared with her brother, Alexander Martindill, near relatives, her neighbors and a host of warm personal friends. To know Mrs Marshall was to love her. Her home was a haven of rest and joy, the welcome latch string was always out. We will never forget her warm hand clasp and friendly greeting. As we stood by her casket looking into that sweet face for the last time and realized that her going out meant the closing of that home so dear to us, a feeling of loneliness indescribable gripped our hearts as we silently took our departure from the presence of that sacred shrine.

The first great sorrow that came over the threshold of that home was the death of her companion, William E. Marshall, three years ago on Christmas day. A year later her beloved son, Ross, was suddenly stricken and died while she was in St. Petersburgh, Fla. This was a crushing blow—it left her so alone in the world. But her faith in God sustained her and she was enabled to put her sorrow in the background and with a renewed determination she strove to comfort and bring joy to others. She knew God's word was true, "Give and it shall be given unto you."

Easter Sunday was the last time she was away from her home, attending services with some friends at Central M. E. church. A few days previous she had written such a tender, loving tribute to the bereaved and had it published in the columns of this paper. We, who had the privilege of reading it, pictured her in her yard feasting her soul of beauty on bursting buds, trowel in hand, breaking the crust of mother earth to hasten the blooming of her flowers that seemed a part of her life. She loved them and was seldom seen without a rose, her favorite flower, pinned on coat or dress. She was never happier than when carrying flowers from her garden to the shut-in, sick in hospital and to the aged and the infirm. I met her one cold winter day on High street waiting for a car, with her arms full of literature. She was going to the county home to read to the poor unfortunates confined there. Unmindful of self this angel of mercy was ever busy bringing sunshine into other lives.

Mrs. Marshall was born on a farm near Gallipolis, Gallia county, Ohio. Later, for a time, her home was on the banks of the Ohio river. She said "those rugged hills kissed by the morning sun in the springtime were a veritable paradise to me. No where else have I ever heard the birds sing so joyously and I reveled in the beauty and fragrance of the wild flowers as they spoke to me of the God of Nature, the God of Beauty, the God of Love and of a great beyond where flowers neither wither or fade."

Mrs. Marshall resided in Columbus for more than 33 years. There was no phase of Christian work nor cause for the uplift of humanity that she has not sponsored. A tither of her money and a great Sunday school worker for years and taught a Bible class. She loved children and young people and was deeply interested in their welfare, was a teacher in the public schools before her marriage. One young man whom she helped through Wilmore college, is now a minister of the gospel, largely due, he says, to "Mother Marshall," as he called her. Years ago she was engaged in city mission work. She went into place where her life was in danger, in those days, to rescue girls. She said she never felt afraid as she seemed to feel every step of way the presence of an unseen guide and protector.

Mrs. Marshall had the distinction of being the first woman honorary member of the G. A. R. It all happened in the long ago, when Lincoln give his second call for volunteers. Mrs. Marshall, then America Frances Martindill—"Meckie" for short—was among that little band of Sunday school members who held a picnic on the banks of the Ohio. At the close of a program given by the young people, a recruiting officer made an impassionate plea for volunteers. As the young men of soldier age had gone, there was no response. He turned to a group of young girls, saying, "Isn't there one of you girls who cares enough for your country to go and fight for it?" Immediately one young girl ran to the table where the officer stood and pounding her fist on it, startled her friends with the announcement: "I'll go gladly, I've longed to go ever since Fort Sumpter was fired upon," and she gave him her name. Other girls followed. The officer again faced the audience, saying, surely there is one man that will go as a substitute for each of the patriotic girls. He challended them all. While the officer had been talking, young William Gatewood had ridden up and dismounted from his horse. He was returning home from a visit from his officer-father who was camped not far distant. He had watched with admiration those young girls enlist. He took the challenge. "I'll go as a substitute for that first young lady." So the name of William Gatewood was substituted for that of Meckie Martindill. William served four years, was made first lieutenant, and at the close of the war was honorably discharged. Years after they met. He had gone back to his home town to preside over a campfire meeting of the George Crooks Post, of which he was commander. She, now Mrs. William B. Marshall, was in the same town to assist in a revival service. Lieutenant Gatewood told his story that night to his comrades and ended with, "What I did in that war and what I am to you, I owe to the loyalty and enthusiasm of that young girl." Mrs. Marshall was invited to address the campfire meeting, which she did. The men were unanimous in their decision that the military honors were due her and she was admitted to honorary membership in the G. A. R. and given a badge and certificate. Although worn with age, they were among her most prized possessions. Mrs. Marshall's grandfather was in the Revolutionary war and being the wife of a Civil war veteran, she was naturally interested in soldiers.

By no organization was Mrs. Marshall more beloved and revered than by her co-workers and comrades of the W. C. T. U., who were always thrilled and inspired in meeting and convention when she, with burning enthusiasm, told of the crusade days of 1874 when she, then only a young woman of 27 years, stepped into the front line trenches in the fight against the liquor traffic. She believed that a quitter never wins and a winner never quits, so she stood on the firing line until the day of her death, rejoicing over victories won, but realizing that the fight was not ended. She was ever sounding the battle cry for new recruits. Would it not be a pleasing tribute as a memorial to Mrs. Marshall, if 80 women would join the W. C. T. U. and help to "carry on" until the whole wide world is dry.

Mrs. Marshall was a life member of the Women's Foreign Missionary society, also a life member of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Ohio.

She was director of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Department of the Ohio W. C. T. U. during the World war. She wrote hundreds of letters to the boys, thousands of comfort bags and New Testaments were given out under her direction, she held religious services at the barracks ever Sunday afternoon. Many boys, through her loving appeals, signed the temperance pledge and consecrated their lives to God. She received letters from many of them from the various camps and foreign parts, expressing their appreciation of her services and kindly interest in them. She has prayed at the bedside of many sick and dying soldier boys.

A supreme test of faith came to Mrs Marshall during that awful flood of 1913. Mrs Marshall was reported among those who had been drowned and his body had been rescued, placed in the morgue and identified by friends, and her pastor came in to sympathize with her, but she maintained that Mr. Marshall was living and safe somewhere for she had been assured of this from Heaven through prayer. Mr. Marshall's store on Hayden avenue was swept away. He was marooned in the second story of a dwelling in the same street when delivering a basket of groceries, where two days later he was rescued by his son Ross.

Mrs. Marshall was a gifted w[illegible]r—"Flowers Immortal," "A Christmas Dream" and "A Promise Verified" are among the gems she has written. They have been much appreciated by her friends.

Her funeral services at Glenwood M. E. church were simple but very impressive. Her pastor, Dr. George Barber, read the fourteenth chapter of St. John and the Forty-sixth Psalm—the latter she had read to her on Wednesday just beforee lapsing into unconsciousness. She held onto that verse, "Be still and know that I am God." Dr. Barber paid tribute to her loyal devotion to her Savior and to the church. Mrs. Viola D. Romans, vice president of the Ohio W. C. T. U., and member of the general assembly; Mrs. Sumner Cottingham, president of the Franklin County W. C. T. U., and Mrs. Flonda Dyer spoke with much feeling of the beautiful character and work of their beloved comrade. Miss Blanche Rings read "Crossing the Bay," by Tennyson. The Hilltop W. C. T. U. quartet sang so sweetly two of her favorite hymns. Led by Mrs. Smith, president of the Hilltop Union, her white ribbon comrades gathered about the casket, covering it with carnations, our state flour. This closed the service.

THEY ARE NOT DEAD

They are not gone who pass
Beyond the clasp of hand,
Out from the strong embrace;
They are but come so close
We need not grope with hands,
Nor look to see, nor try
To catch the sound of feet;
They have put off their shoes
To softly walk by day
Within our thought, to tread
At night our dream-led paths of sleep.

They are not lost who find
The sunset gate, the goal
Of all the weary years.
Not lost are they who reach
The summit of their climb,
The peak above the clouds
And storms. They are not lost
Who find the light of sun
And stars and God.

They are not dead who live
In hearts they leave behind.
In those whom they have blessed
They live a life again,
And shall live through the years—
Eternal life, and grow
Each day more beautiful,
As Time declares their good,
Forgets the rest, and proves
Their immortality.

Took No Chances

The street car was crowded, and an old gentleman with a kindly twinkle in his eye took five-year-old Tommy on his lap. "This will be better than standing, won't it my boy?" he suggested.

"Yes," said Tommy, rather reluctantly, for he had enjoyed lurching about in the car.

"But you want to be careful that I don't pick your pocket," the old man said in a whisper.

"Can't," Tom retorted, his voice somewhat muffled, "As soon as I saw you lookin' at me I put my penny in my mouth."—Pathfinder.

Henry VIII Courtships

John Barrymore, whose "Henry VIII" is one of his best parts, said at a dinner in New York:

"In making a study of Henry VIII's career, I have discovered a rather astonishing fact. The man never once popped the question."

"But he married a great many times," a college professor objected.

"He always married his wives first," said Mr. Barrymore, "and axed them afterwards."—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

Recipes

At this season of the year rhubarb is especially palatable and is a good spring tonic. Besides being served by itself it may be combined with other fruits, such as strawberries, pineapple and stewed apples.

RHUBARB JAM

Prepare the rhubarb the same as for stewing, only, instead of the water, add the juice of six oranges to three pints of the prepared rhubarb, double the amount of sugar, making two heaping cupsful. Cook down until the right consistency. Try on a cold plate. If inclined to jell, it is done.

FROZEN RHUBARB

Prepare the same as for sauce, adding double the amount of sugar. When cooked and cold, freeze. Serve with ice cream, or in sherbet glasses, with whipped cream on top.

MODERN RHUBARB PIE

Prepare rhubarb enough to fill the pie plate to be used heaping full. Line the pie plate with short pie crust. When the rhubarb has been scalded and drained fill the crust with it and add a heaping cupful of sugar. Dissolve a tablespoonful of cornstarch in a quarter cupful of water and sprinkle it over the fruit. Put on the top crust with vents in the center and finish the edge with the floured tines of a fork. Place a small jarjer cornucopia made of writing paper in one of the vents to keep the juice from running out by carrying off the steam. Bake as usual. Frequently the pie is made with top crust latticed.

CANNED RHUBARB

Wash, trim and cut in short lengths the rhubarb that is to be canned. Fill sterilized jars full, then set them with water until all bubbles are gone, then put on rubbers, fit covers and seal the covers on in the usual way. Wipe, label and store in a cool, dry place When it comes time to open the jars drain, scald as directed, and the rhubarb will be ready to use just as when it is fresh.

RHUBARB PUDDING

One pound (one bunch) rhubarb, 1 cup bread crumbs, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 egg.

Pare rhubarb if necessary and cut into inch lengths. Cook three minutes in 2 cups of boiling water to which ½ teaspoon soda has been added. Drain and rinse in cold water. Put into a smooth sauce pan, add 2 or 3 tablespoons boiling water, cover and cook over a low fire until tender. Add sugar and butter and cook a minute longer. Remove from fire and stir in egg well beaten. Coat the bottom of a well buttered, deep pie dish with bread crumbs, add rhubarb mixture and cover with remaining crumbs. Cover with buttered paper and bake 30 minutes in a slow oven. Remove paper and brown top. Serve warm or cold.

A HOME UNDER WATER

Did you ever hear of a fish's nest? Somehow we have come to think of nests as belonging particularly to birds, but what is to hinder a fish from having a nest, too, if he has the ability to build it?

The stickleback, according to F. Martin Duncan, in "How Animals Work," is a most able little nest builder. As he lives in a stream or a good-sized pond, he does not look about in the air for a place to build his home. Instead, he explores the bottom of the pond and picks out a desirable site. Very likely another Mr. Stickleback has already fixed upon that spot for his home, but he will have to fight hard to keep it. The two males attack each other, not "tooth and nail," but mouth and spines, for each has three or more sharp spines on his back.

The stickleback that comes out victorious, of course, has the privilege of beginning his nest. But if it is a good spot for a home, there will be many other claimants to fight off.

The first move in building a stickleback nest is to make a foundation. This is easily done by Mr. Stickleback who simply rolls his body in a depression in the sandy soil. Then, like a bird, he has to collect materials to build his nest. Vegetable fibers with small stems and the little roots of water weeds are especially desirable. These are placed in the hollow prepared for them and fastened in position by a secretion from the stickleback's skin. The walls and roof are made of the same materials as the floor and a little opening is left to serve as a door into the nest.

The male stickleback not only does all the nest-building but also guards the eggs and baby fish when they are hatched. The females seem to go off and enjoy themselves, but if the male is taken away by accident, the other sticklebacks rush in and tear his nest to pieces and devour his babies. Nothing but a wreck is left of his home.

After the little fish are about a week old and three or four millimeters in size, Mr. Stickleback pulls his little house to pieces and turns the children out to shift for themselves.

Dame Alice Owen's School at Islington was founded upon a strange incident. While she was walking in the suburb of London, one afternoon, Dame Alice's hat was ruthlessly pierced by the arrow of an archer, who was practicing near by. So thankful was she because of her deliverence from a horrible death that she decided then to erect a monument upon that spot, and dedicate it to "the great mercy of the Almighty." Upon that place now stands the school.

AN ACCOMODATING JUDGE

William Comer, of Tippecanoe, who marched with Sherman to the sea, was arrested for violation of the migratory bird act by Game Warden J. S. Bowen and tried in the Federal Court at Hammond, Ind. He confessed with some heat that he shot a snipe, saying:

"I wouldn't lie about it, Judge. I shot the old snipe thinking it was a hawk that had been stealing my chickens."

Judge Samuel Slick, on his plea of guilty, fined Comer $10 and costs and remitted the costs.

"I haven't got $10," said the old soldier.

"Remit the fine," said the judge to the clerk.

"I haven't the fare back to Tippecanoe," said Comer.

"Mr. Marshal," said the court, "see that Mr. Comer gets home safely. Call the next case."—Chicago News.

A French-Canadian had lost his dog, so he sent the following advertisement to a newspaper in the town where he was staying at the time:

WANT W. BROAD STREET REPAVED

Committee from Business Men's Association Will Confer With State Officials.

Among the projects looking to the betterment of the Hilltop, discussed at the monthly meeting of the Hilltop Business Men's Association last Thursday evening were the paving of West Broad street from the foot of the hill west to Hague avenue, immediate improvement of Westgate park for recreational purposes, and efforts to secure street car service west of Hague avenue.

The civic committee of the association was instructed to confer with state officials regarding the paving of West Broad street, in an effort to get the state to approve the improvement and stand its share of the paving cost along state-owned property.

Councilman Lewis was present at the meeting and gave a detailed discussion of the proposed new street car franchise now pending before city council, and discussed the probabilities of street car extension on the Hilltop.

Every effort possible will be made to have Westgate park improved immediately so that recreational facilities will be available at the park this summer.

CLAY BIRD SHOOT AT HILLTOP CLUB

Some Good Scores Despite Stiff Breeze—"Web" Jones High Man, O. C. Voss Second.

A fine attendance was recorded at the regular Tuesday evening "shoot" of the Hilltop Gun club. A stiff breeze made the targets irregular, but some excellent scores were made in spite of it. "Web" Jones was high with 72 out of 75; O. C. Voss was second with 47 out of 50, and C. Jessup, a visitor, broke 24 out of 25. Straights were scarce, "Web" Jones getting the only two count. Smith, Voss, Groff, Eierman and Jessup worked hard for a straight, but the count showed their best to be 24 out of 25.

Shooting was brought to an abrupt close at the beginning of the ninth squad on account of the trap breaking. This was quite a disappointment to a numbers of shooters who came late and were unable to shoot. However, the trap will be ready for next week's program at the usual time, 5 o'clock.

Following is a list of the shooters participating and their scores:

	Shot At	Broke
"Web" Jones	75	72
"Bert Smith	75	70
Thompson	75	69
Girard	75	66
Walz	75	67
Rhoads	75	54
Voss	50	47
Groff	50	43
Deem	50	42
Eierman	50	41
Herron	50	41
Fillmore	50	36
Edler	50	36
Morgan	50	33
Jessup	25	24

CHAUTAUQUA HAS MANY FEATURES

Hilltop Dates July 9 to 15 Inclusive—No Sunday Program This Year.

Featuring a spectacular Russian group known as the Moscow Artists Ensemble; two outstanding plays, the comedy "Applesauce" and Channing Pollock's great drama, "The Fool"; a scenic production, "Echoes of the Alps," and many notable lecturers, entertainers and musical artists, the Redpath chautauqua is to be held on the Hilltop July 9 to 15, inclusive.

A progressive departure this year will be the elimination of the regular chautauqua program on Sunday. The chautauqua tent will be available on that day for a special union service or any other program that the local committee may care to arrange.

Among the lecturers to be heard this season are D. Thomas Curtin, former secretary to Lord Northcliffe, who referred to him as "the ace of all war correspondents." Described as "the Mark Sullivan of Europe" and "the William Jennings Bryan of current events," Mr. Curtin gives a crisp, accurate and dramatic picture of world history in the making, and epitomizes brilliantly the trend of the times.

Charles H. Plattenburg, former newspaper man, will discuss "the Old Town in a New World"; John H. Dickason will picture "Young America at Bat," Sam Grathwell's theme will be "Getting by Your Hoodoo"; Anne Campbell of the Detroit News, known as "the poet of the home," will entertain with her verses, and Harrison Crofford of Memphis will present a striking dramatic program.

The distinction of opening this season's program goes to Harold Lewis and his Symphony Players. They will be a big daily event of chautauqua week. Howard Wade Kimsey, one of America's most noted song leaders, will appear early in the week as director of singing and as bass soloist, with Lora Orth Kimsey at the piano.

In addition to an historical costumed pageant based on the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, the Junior Chautauqua will enjoy a special feature in the program of Al Baker, magician, assisted by "Dummy Dennis" in a skillful demonstration of ventriloquism.

HIT BY TRAIN— DIES INSTANTLY

Nahum Jones Taking Morning Walk When Accident Happens.

Nahum Jones, 116 Chicago Ave., was instantly killed by a Pennsylvania Passenger train last Thursday morning while walking along the tracks.

According to W. A. Mowery, 1657 McKinley Ave., who witnessed the accident, "The man was walking west between the tracks and as the train whistled he seemed to leap in front of it deliberately."

Jones was a retired chain worker and was formerly employed at the Hayden-Corbett Chain Co. plant. He was out for his usual walk Thursday morning when the accident happened.

Funeral services were held under the auspices of the Masonic lodge of Hilliards. Interment was made at the Baptist cemetery four miles north of West Jefferson.

Scouts to Be Guests at Grocers' Picnic

Columbus retail grocers have decided this year to invite Boy Scouts to participate in their big picnic, and take this opportunity to extend the invitation. The outing will be held at Olentangy park, Wednesday, June 16, and Walter Stotz, chairman of the arrangements committee, has invited the first 15 troops of scouts who respond to attend the picnic.

The size of the outing is such that the entire body of city scouts cannot be asked, so the invitation is limited to fifteen troops. These troops will enter a contest of the usual scout athletics in which some very fine prizes will be awarded.

Troops desiring to attend may get in touch with Mr. Stotz at 1447 E. Main St., or Everett Williams, secretary of the Columbus Retail Grocers' association, 825½ W. Broad St.

WEST HIGH TEAM DEFEATS SOUTH

Seventh-Inning Rally Causes Downfall of Former School Champions.

In a free hitting contest, West High school defeated South High, 9 to 7, Tuesday afternoon at Sunshine park. A big seventh inning rally by West was the most important factor of the winners registering a victory over last season's champions.

West rallied in the seventh at the expense of Meadows, South's pitcher. Five West runners crossed the plate before Meadows was sent to the bench, Hubert finished on the mound.

Five safeties, including a double by Balard, a walk, and a hit batsman, was the record of West in the seventh. South tried hard, but was able to put across only a trio of scores.

The new launch, "The Mayor Thomas," which will be dedicated by the mayor, will be started on its first journey immediately following the dedication ceremonies. The Franklin Post band will be the first aboard. They will ride to Bellpoint, six miles up the river, and return, playing during the ride.

Rev. Arthur H. Limouse, pastor of Northminster Presbyterian church, will pronounce the invocation.

The Girls' Physical Education Demonstration was given in the Highland school playground Wednesday evening in the following program:

"Reap the Flax," folk dance, 7A's.
Game, "At Ball," 7B.
Benita Caprice, costume dance.

Over 225 girls appeared in this demonstration.

EXCELSIOR ALUMNAE

Alumni members of the honorary society at Highland Junior High school, the Excelsior Society, entertained the new members of this society with a most enjoyable banquet Wednesday evening at Hoge Memorial Presbyterian church. A delicious dinner followed the usual business meeting, during which toasts and songs were given. Frank Himebrook acted as toastmaster and Charles Shanely led the singing. The retiring president, Helen King, welcomed the new members, and a representative from each class responded.

Addresses were also given by Dr. G. F. Barber and H. H. Keighley, principal of the school. Both addresses stressed the importance of the motto of the Excelsior Society—Onward and upward—in our daily lives. Mr. Littleton, vice principal, also gave a most inspiring talk.

The new members recently elected to this society are: Donna Harmon, Margaret Miller, Ruth Leach, Mary Ham, Ardis Lee, Howard Kent and Eugene Ebright.

PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATON

The Highland P.-T. A. had its regular monthly meeting Monday evening in the portable building with a good crowd in attendance. Several items of considerable business importance were discussed after which the program for the evening was taken up.

The first number was a play by boys and girls of the first grade, under the supervision of Miss Alice Garaghty. Robins, bluebirds, crows, orioles and sparrows flocked to the call of dainty Spring in this little number. They all made a very pleasing introduction to the interesting talk on Nature given by Prof. J. C. Hambleton of Mound Street school.

After this talk, the P.-T. A. quartet, composed of Mrs. Heid, Mrs. Benton, Miss Baker and Miss Trump, sang very pleasingly.

GYM CIRCUS.

The boys of the physical education class thrilled a large crowd with a varied program last Friday evening.

Indian club swinging and work on the parallel bars and buck were some of the features. Fifty-five boys built a series of pyramids that extended the entire length of the gym floor. Not a single mistake could be seen in this difficult stunt. The tumbling and diving was well done by some of the ninth grade boys, assisted by the clowns.

Considering the fact that the boys had been working in a gymnasium but a short time, the entire program was a tribute to the ability of the boys of Highland Junior High school.

People in eastern Europe wear red colored clothes not because they lack taste or have a childish fancy, but because of a belief in the magic power of red, says the director of the Brooklyn Museum. Red is supposed to be a color for excluding and expelling demons, and as such is used in magic rites, still performed in many parts of eastern and central Europe.

Engineers in New Zealand are seeking to reclaim the gold deposited in the bed of the Kawarau River by shutting off the flow of the stream at its source. A dam is to be constructed across the opening so that miners can explore the river bed. It is estimated that the opening can be closed for two or three months during the winter, thus allowing the workers ample time for exploration.

The actual cost, including labor, was slightly less than $2 per load. From 1921 to and including 1925, the city has distributed 46,336 loads of cinders at a cost of $92,677.36, or slightly over $2 per load.

OHIO HIGHWAY REPAIR BILL BIG

Eternal Vigilance the Price of Maintaining Good Highways.

Of the $25,000,000 to be spent this year on Ohio's state highways, approximately $9,000,000 will be expended for maintenance and repairs, including resurfacing and widening, which brings forcibly to the minds of the highway engineers that there is no such thing as a permanent road.

Eternal vigilence is the price of a good highway, road engineers have found, and no matter what the type, constant attention and repeated repairs are necessary. Continued freezing and thawing during the past winter have placed an extraordinary strain on the highway pavements, according to State Highway Director Schlesinger, and much work will be required before many of the highways will be in first-class condition for summer travel.

Of the $14,000,000 to be spent on new construction this year, part of the money will come from the state, part from the federal government and part from the counties.

WANT COUNCIL TO RESCIND ACTION

Prohibiting Parking on Bridges and Viaducts Within City Limits.

Opposition has developed among merchants in the Union station, South High street and St. Clair avenue districts to legislation passed two weeks ago by council prohibiting parking of automobiles on bridges and viaducts within the city limits.

Merchants of these districts have asked council to rescind this legislation claiming merchants will be unable to park their cars in front of their places of business if the ordinance is enforced.

Before 1883 each city in America had its own time. This time was determined by the passage of the sun across the local meridan. Consequently, the traveler going from one town to another had continually to change his watch to local time.

HEALTH HINTS

By DR. O. R. McFADON

(Quoted from "Correct Eating.")

Sir W. Arbuthnot Lane, Bart., C.B., N.S., F.R.C.S., is consulting surgeon in Guy's hospital, London, England.

In the January, 1926, "Correct Eating," John Hewins Kern, Ph.D., quotes Dr. Lane as follows:

"Cancer is caused by chronic constipation, and we cannot hope to conquer this horrible plague until we get back to natural foods.

"Of course, not all cancers are due to incorrect eating; there are chemical cancers which are caused by arsenic, aniline, soot and tar, and there are cancers produced by Roentgen rays. But most of the cancer which horrifies world today is due to self-created poisons, chiefly bowel poisons, which cause auto-intoxication. About 90 per cent of all cancer cases can be traced to chornic poisoning, to the absorption of certain poisons which has gone on over a long number of years. This chronic poisoning may be due either to poisons received from without, to chemical poisons, or to chronic stagnation of the bowels.

"It is my contention that if we can persuade people to return to the healthier habits and the simpler foods of our pre-civilized days, cancer can be very materially reduced, if not completely eliminated, in two generations.

"The person who wants to steer clear of cancer should avoid egg substitutes, tinned, bottled and dried fruits, white bread and sterilized milk. These products are the result of preservative and refining processes and they have been deprived of the health-giving substances which are essential to good health. And it goes without saying that we should avoid embalmed meats.

"If you want to prevent cancer the best place to start is at your dining table. See to it that your menu provides an abundance of nutriment and sufficient roughage for the large intestines to work upon. You can go a great ways toward cheating cancer by eating whole meal bread, vegetables, fruits, eggs and meat which is absolutely fresh.

"It is the duty of the physician of today to teach people how to live, and the best way to do that is to assure them that if they eat right they will be well and happy. We suffer and die because of defects in the body's assimilation scheme, and we shall always be weaklings in the path of death's juggernaut unless we correct our eating habits.

"The intestines cannot work as it should unless it has something to work upon; unless our diet includes a quantity of roughage or indigestable material. Unfortunately the whole tendency in all civilized countries is to eliminate roughage. We prefer foods which are said to be digestible, which are pleasant to the eye and agreeable to the taste; we are supplied with tinned and so-called scientific foods."

BIRD HIGHWAYS

Traffic congestion, choice of routes, and travel conditions are problems which meet the throngs of migrating birds that gather in France for their annual flight to Africa. It is shown that they have two great atmospheric highways which the pursue by preference, one leading over the Pyrenees by the principle passes into Spain, and thence t othe Strait of Gibraltar, and the other skirting the Alps.

As the season advances the birds may be seen converging from western, central, and southern France toward the Pyrenean passes. Sometimes the same species, such as the chaffinch, divides into two parties, which some observers claim may be distinguished by the character of their songs. One party takes the Spanish route and the other the route through Italy. Each species has its favorite way, depending on the supply of the kinds of food it prefers. The bullfinch follows the ranges of low hills; the blackbird keeps to the vineyards, and some birds follow the water courses and the shore lines.

Dr. A. C. Myers, dentist. X-ray. New location 2375½ W. Broad Street. Ra. 0996.

The turkey, the national "Thanksgiving bird," is fast disappearing from the United States. The great southwestern producing regions, the main source of supply, show a decrease of twenty-three per cent in 1925. A disease known as "blackhead" is the chief cause of the turkey mortality. The underlying reasons, however, is the fact that the turkeys, which the Pilgrims found here in large numbers, have not accustomed themselves to domesticity. In their wild state the turkeys warded off disease by eating nettles and certain herbs to which nature guided them, but now they must depend upon man, who lacks such knowledge. A solution to the problem is being sought by trying the so-called chachalaca turkey, a ntive of Mexico.

THE MASTODEN'S DENTIST

A miner in South America was searching for gold along the coast. One day he found in a mud bank a fossil that proved to be part of a mastodon's lower jaw, with two teeth still in place.

The bone was in such a decayed condition that the miner was about to throw it away when his eye fell on a crack in the top and side of one of the teeth. The cavity thus formed was filled with a foreign substance to which the miner applied his knife. He found, to his astonishment, that the substance was pure gold.

How had that mastodon acquired a gold filling? The gold, contained in broken-down quarts, had been washed into the cavity by the action of water, deposited there, and the fine grains united to form a nugget. The old bone simply happened to be lying in the track of the silt. The piece of gold thus formed weighed about eight grams.

Louisiana and Texas contain some of the richest sulphur deposits in the world. Only twenty-five years ago the United States imported all its crude sulphur from Sicily and Spain. Today it produces 2,000,000 tons annually, enough for all its domestic needs and a balance of 500,000 tons for export. This change was wrought through the discovery of the sulphur deposits in Louisiana and Texas. Sulphur is mined with hot water, and 4,000,000 gallons are used daily in Freeport, Texas. The hot water is forced into the subterranean deposits of sulphur, meets and melts them, and the liquified substance is then easily pumped to the surface.

The practice of freezing fish to keep them fresh for the market at their journey's end is being adopted. It has been found that when they are thawed they are just as lively as before, and show no signs of injury. The fish are put in a tub into which oxygen is forced, and after being kept three days just above freezing point they are frozen. The blocks of ice are then removed from the tube and wrapped up and put in cold storage. It was noticed for a long time that fish in Siberian waters that were frozen in winter came out all right in spring, and this gave the idea of a number of experiments, which resulted in the present system.

Mural paintings on the exterior of buildings, so widely popular in Italy, have at last been made possible in the United States. All previous attempts have been proved futile when the cement cracked after several months of exposure, or when the colors faded. But Paul Honore, a Detroit artist, in successfully painting the new courthouse at Midland, Michigan, proved this art not an impossibility in this country. His success lies in the use of "finely ground glass mixed in magnesite cement and then transformmed into a paste by addition of liquid magnesium chloride." Mr. Honore accredits his idea to the fact that old paintings lighted only by sunlight admitted through glass windows have kept their colors through many centuries.

A French-Canadian had lost his dog, so he sent the following advertisement to a newspaper in the town where he was staying at the time:

"I lost my dog about two week. His color about black. His tail cut short to my body. If find her, keep him. I belong to it."—Tit-Bits.

BAKED ASPARAGUS

Parboil a bunch of asparagus after washing and trimming. When it begins to be tender, drain and lay on a well-buttered baking dish. Dust with pepper and salt, dot thickly with butter, and sprinkle with grated cheese. Place in the oven and cook until the cheese is melted and slightly brown.

ASPARAGUS PUREE

Trim the heads from a bunch of asparagus and set aside in cold water. Trim the stalks and cut them in small pieces, putting them in a saucepan with a minced onion, a half cupful of finely chopped celery, a bay leaf, a bunch of sweet herbs, a half pint of milk and a pint of water. Boil gently until tender, then rub through a puree sieve. Melt two and a half tablespoonsful of flour, cook gently, stirring until it thickens. Stir in gradually the puree, then add two beaten egg yolks. Meantime, drop the tips into boiling water and boil for ten minutes, then drain and drop onto the puree. Season to taste.

ASPARAGUS IN RAMEKINS

Wash, trim, bundle and boil a bunch of asparagus until tender. Drain, cool slightly, then cut up in small pieces. Add butter, pepper, salt, a few dry crumbs, and a beaten egg. Fill lightly buttered ramekins with the mixture, dusting with grated cheese and adding a tablespoonful of cream to each ramekin. Bake fifteen minutes in a medium oven.

ASPARAGUS AND OYSTERS

Prepare and boil a bundle of asparagus in the usual way, only do not cook until soft. When done, arrange on a buttered platter, dust with pepper and salt, dot with butter. Have a dozen oysters ready, drain, dip in beaten egg and very fine crumbs, arrange on the asparagus, dust with grated cheese and sprinkle with a tablespoonful of cream. Place in the oven until the oysters are done and the cheese lightly browned, eight to ten minutes.

A TURTLE'S NEST.

Along the southern coast and among the keys of Florida one may occasionally detect little mounds of sand on the beach, almost a sure indication of the nest of the green turtle. This creature first digs a pit in the soft sands by means of its flippers from fifteen to 20 inches deep and a few feet above high-water mark. In this hole the mother turtle buries herself for two days. When she emerges she has left behind a nest of eggs, which vary in number from eighty to as many as two hundred. She then fills in the hole and leaves the hatching to be accomplished by the heat of the sun. An interesting fact about these eggs is that the shells are quite soft. he period of incubation is about 60 days.

As soon as the young turtles break out of their prison they make for the water immediately. Unforunately they have many enemies. Rats, birds, and crabs steal the eggs, while as soon as the baby turtles reach the water they may be devoured by large fish. Indeed, if all the eggs laid by turtles were hatched, and the turtles attained an average size, these creatures would be almost as plentiful as cod
